Change in Price of Official Gazette Publications.

The price of the Official Gazette has been advanced, beginning March 1, 1927, to $10.00 a year, which will not include the Annual Index.

The Index hereafter will be published in two parts—one on patents, price $1.00, and the other on trade-marks, price 50 cents.

Disclaimer.

1,572,041.—John F. Rogers, Cleveland Heights, Ohio. Gas Producer. Patent dated February 9, 1926. Disclaimer filed March 21, 1927, by the assignee, The Wellman-Seaver-Morgan Company.

Hereby enters this disclaimer to those portions of the claims attached to said specification which are in the following words, to wit:

"22. In a gas producer, a producer body, an ash pan at the bottom thereof, said producer body and pan being relatively rotatable, and the pan having a central portion through which a blast is adapted to be delivered, the pan and body being supported substantially coaxially but wholly independently of each other.

"24. In a gas producer, a producer body, an ash pan beneath the same, the ash pan and producer body being relatively rotatable, and the pan having a hollow central portion through which a blast may be delivered, a blast delivery hood in the lower part of the producer body, and supporting means extending from the hood into the central part of the pan."

ADVERSE DECISIONS IN INTERFERENCE.

In interferences involving the indicated claims of the following patents final decisions have been rendered that the respective patentees were not the first inventors with respect to the claims listed:

Pat. 1,491,991, Lacy and Karlson, Beverage mixer and heater, decided January 4, 1927, claim 12.

Pat. 1,529,631, W. H. Lieber, Hydraulic machine, decided February 26, 1927, claims 1, 12, and 13.

Pat. 1,575,558, Einstein, Nenninger, and Archea, Centerless grinding machine, decided February 14, 1927, claim 2.

Pat. 1,598,901, H. F. Waite, Automatic regulator and regulating process for X-ray systems, decided February 26, 1927, claim 3.

NOTICE—CHANGES IN PATENT OFFICE FEES—EFFECTIVE APRIL 14, 1927.

The act of Congress approved February 14, 1927, amends section 4934, Revised Statutes, so as to provide (except in design cases) a fee on filing each original application for a patent of $20 and of $1 for each claim in excess of twenty, and on issuing each original patent, of $20 and of $1 for each claim in excess of twenty.

The new rates are effective in connection with all applications filed on or after April 14, 1927, and all final fees paid on or after that date.

In every case which contains more than twenty claims, the payment after April 18, 1927, of a final fee of $20, or less than $20 plus $1 for each claim in excess of twenty, will not save the case from forfeiture.

DECISIONS IN PATENT AND TRADE-MARK CASES.

Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

MONTEVALLO MINING COMPANY v. LITTLE GEM COAL COMPANY AND BLAKE COAL COMPANY.

No. 1,890. Decided February 7, 1927.

TRADE-MARKS—CANCELLATION—MONTEVALLO, GEOGRAPHICAL.

It appearing that Montevallo is the name of a town situated in the Cahaba Valley in Alabama, that this town existed long prior to the discovery of deposits of coal in the Cahaba Valley, and that both parties' companies are mining coal from the same seam located in Montevallo Basin in the vicinity of Montevallo, Held that the mark Montevallo is purely geographical.

APPEAL from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. Hugh S. Hill for Montevallo Mining Co.

Mr. Harry H. Semmes and Mr. Wm. D. Arant for Little Gem Coal Co. et al.

Before MARTIN, Chief Justice, and ROBB and VAN ORSDEL, Associate Justices.

VAN ORSDEL, J.:

This is a trade-mark cancellation proceeding brought by Little Gem Coal Company and its distributing agent Blake Coal Company seeking the cancellation of the trade-mark "Montevallo," registered by appellant, Montevallo Mining Company, for use on coal.

It appears that situated in the Cahaba Valley in Alabama is the town of Montevallo. This town existed long prior to the discovery of deposits of coal in the Cahaba Valley.

It further appears that appellant and appellees companies are both engaged in the coal mining industry, extracting coal from the same seam, located in what is known as the Montevallo Basin in the vicinity of the town of Montevallo.

The mark is purely geographical and is not subject, under the Trade-Mark Act, to registration by either company.

The decision of the Commissioner of Patents, cancelling the registration of the mark by appellant company, is right and accordingly affirmed.

Marking of Patented Articles.

[H. R. 7563.]

An act to amend section 4900 of the United States Revised Statutes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 4900 of the Revised Statutes of the United States shall be amended to read as follows:

"It shall be the duty of all patentees and their assigns and legal representatives, and of all persons making or vending any patented article for or under them, to give sufficient notice to the public that the same is patented; either by fixing thereon the word 'patent,' together with the number of the patent, or when, from the character of the article, this can not be done, by fixing to it, or to the package wherein one or more of them is inclosed, a label containing the like notice: Provided, however, That with respect to any patent issued prior to April 1, 1927, it shall be sufficient to give such notice in the form following, viz: 'Patented,' together with the day and year the patent was granted; and in any suit for infringement by the party failing so to mark, no damages shall be recovered by the plaintiff, except on proof that the defendant was duly notified of the infringement and continued, after such notice, to make, use, or vend the article so patented."

Approved, February 7, 1927.

Changes in Filing Fees.

[PUBLIC—No. 621—69TH CONGRESS.]

[H. R. 15537.]

An act to amend section 476 and section 4934 of the Revised Statutes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 476 of the Revised Statutes be amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 476. There shall be in the Patent Office a Commissioner of Patents, one First Assistant Commissioner, one Assistant Commissioner, and six Examiners in Chief, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The First Assistant Commissioner and the Assistant Commissioner shall perform such duties pertaining to his office of Commissioner as may be assigned to them, respectively, from time to time by the Commissioner of Patents. All other officers, clerks, and employees authorized by law for the Office shall be appointed by the Secretary of Commerce upon the nomination of the Commissioner of Patents, in accordance with existing law."

SEC. 2. That section 4934 of the Revised Statutes be amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 4934. The following shall be the rates for patent fees:

"On filing each original application for a patent, except in design cases, $20, and $1 for each claim in excess of twenty.

"On issuing each original patent, except in design cases, $20, and $1 for each claim in excess of twenty.

"In design cases: For three years and six months, $10; for seven years, $15; for fourteen years, $30.

"On every application for the reissue of a patent, $30.

"On filing each disclaimer, $10.

"On an appeal for the first time from the Primary Examiners to the Examiners in Chief, $10.

"On every appeal from the Examiners in Chief to the Commissioner, $20.

"For uncertified printed copies of specifications and drawings of patents, 10 cents per copy: Provided, That the Commissioner of Patents may supply public libraries of the United States with such copies as published, for $50 per annum: Provided further, That the Commissioner of Patents may exchange copies of United States patents for those of foreign countries.

"For copies of records made by the Patent Office, excluding printed copies, 10 cents per hundred words.

"For each certificate, 25 cents.

"For recording every assignment, agreement, power of attorney, or other paper of three hundred words or under, $1; of over three hundred and under one thousand words, $2; and for each additional thousand words or fraction thereof, $1; for each additional patent or application included or involved in one writing, where more than one is so included or involved, 25 cents additional.

"For copies of drawings, the reasonable cost of making them."

SEC. 3 That the provisions of section 2 hereof shall take effect two months after the approval of this act.

Approved, February 14, 1927.

Appeal Before Accounting in Patent Infringement Suits.

An act to amend section 129 of the Judicial Code, allowing an appeal in a patent suit from a decree which is final except for the ordering of an accounting.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That when in any suit in equity for the infringement of Letters Patent for inventions, a decree is rendered which is final except for the ordering of an accounting, an appeal may be taken from such decree to the circuit court of appeals: Provided, That such appeal be taken within thirty days from the entry of such decree or from the date of this act; and the proceedings upon the accounting in the court below shall not be stayed unless so ordered by that court during the pendency of such appeal.

Approved, February 28, 1927.

Changes in Times for Amendments and Other Actions and in Procedure on Appeal in the Patent Office and in the Courts.

[PUBLIC—No. 690—69TH CONGRESS.]

[S. 4812.]

An act amending the statutes of the United States as to procedure in the Patent Office and in the courts with regard to the granting of Letters Patent for inventions and with regard to interfering patents.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 4894 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out the words "one year" wherever they appear and substituting therefor the words "six months."

SEC. 2. That section 4897 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out the words "two years" wherever they appear and substituting therefor the words "one year," and by striking out the words "And upon the hearing of renewed applications preferred under this section, abandonment shall be considered as a question of fact."

SEC. 3. That section 482 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 482. The Examiners in Chief shall be persons of competent legal knowledge and scientific ability. The Commissioner of Patents, the First Assistant Commissioner, the Assistant Commissioner, and the Examiners in Chief shall constitute a Board of Appeals, whose duty it shall be, on written petition of the appellant, to review and determine upon the validity of the adverse decisions of Examiners upon applications for patents and for reissues of patents and in interference cases. Each appeal shall be heard by at least three members of the Board of Appeals, the members hearing such appeal to be designated by the Commissioner. The Board of Appeals shall have sole power to grant rehearings."

SEC. 4. That section 4904 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out from the last sentence thereof the words "or of the Board of Examiners in Chief, as the case may be."

SEC. 5. That section 4909 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out the words "Board of Examiners in Chief" and substituting therefor the words "Board of Appeals."

SEC. 6. That section 4910 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be, and the same is hereby, repealed.

SEC. 7. That section 9 of the act of February 9, 1893, entitled "An act to establish a court of appeals for the District of Columbia, and for other purposes" (Twenty-seventh Statutes at Large, page 434), be, and the same is hereby, repealed.

SEC. 8. That section 4911 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 4911. If any applicant is dissatisfied with the decision of the Board of Appeals, he may appeal to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, in which case he waives his right to proceed under section 4915 of the Revised Statutes. If any party to an interference is dissatisfied with the decision of the Board of Appeals, he may appeal to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, provided that such appeal shall be dismissed if any adverse party to such interference shall, within twenty days after the appellant shall have filed notice of appeal according to section 4912 of the Revised Statutes, file notice with the Commissioner of Patents that he elects to have all further proceedings conducted as provided in section 4915 of the Revised Statutes. Thereupon the appellant shall have thirty days thereafter within which to file a bill in equity under said section 4915, in default of which the decisions appealed from shall govern the further proceedings in the case. If the appellant shall file such bill within said thirty days and shall file due proof thereof with the Commissioner of Patents, the issue of a patent to the party awarded priority by said Board of Appeals shall be withheld pending the final determination of said proceeding under said section 4915."

SEC. 9. That section 4912 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out the words "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia" and substituting therefor the words "Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia."

SEC. 10. That section 4913 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out the words "And at the request of any party interested, or of the court, the Commissioner and the Examiners may be examined under oath in explanation of the principles of the thing for which a patent is demanded."

SEC. 11. That section 4915 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 4915. Whenever a patent on application is refused by the Commissioner of Patents, the applicant, unless appeal has been taken from the decision of the Board of Appeals to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, and such appeal is pending or has been decided, in which case no action may be brought under this section, may have remedy by bill in equity, if filed within six months after such refusal; and the court having cognizance thereof, on notice to adverse parties and other due proceedings had, may adjudge that such applicant is entitled, according to law, to receive a patent for his invention, as specified in his claim, or for any part thereof, as the facts in the case may appear. And such adjudication, if it be in favor of the right of the applicant, shall authorize the Commissioner to issue such patent on the applicant filing in the Patent Office a copy of the adjudication and otherwise complying with the requirements of law. In all cases where there is no opposing party a copy of the bill shall be served on the Commissioner; and all the expenses of the proceedings shall be paid by the applicant, whether the final decision is in his favor or not. In all suits brought hereunder where there are adverse parties the record in the Patent Office shall be admitted in whole or in part, on motion of either party, subject to such terms and conditions as to costs, expenses, and the further cross-examination of the witnesses as the court may impose, without prejudice, however, to the right of the parties to take further testimony. The testimony and exhibits, or parts thereof, of the record in the Patent Office when admitted shall have the same force and effect as if originally taken and produced in the suit.

SEC. 12. That section 4918 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended to change the phrase "may adjudge and declare either of the patents void in whole or in part" to read as follows: "may adjudge and declare either or both of the patents void in whole or in part, upon any ground."

SEC. 13. That section 4934 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be amended by striking out the following words: "On an appeal for the first time from the Primary Examiners to the Examiners in Chief, $10. On every appeal from the Examiners in Chief to the Commissioner, $20," and substituting therefor the words "on an appeal for the first time from the Primary Examiners to the Board of Appeals, $15. On every appeal from the Examiner of Interferences to the Board of Appeals, $25."

SEC. 14. That where the day, or the last day, fixed by statute for taking any action or paying any fee in the United States Patent Office falls on Sunday, or on a holiday within the District of Columbia, the action may be taken, or the fee paid, on the next succeeding secular or business day.

SEC. 15. That this act shall take effect two months after its approval; but it shall not affect appeals then pending and heard before the Examiners in Chief or pending before the Commissioner of Patents or in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, and that in all cases in which the time for appeal from a decision of the Examiners in Chief or of the Commissioner of Patents or for amendment or renewal of application had not expired at the time this act takes effect, appeals and other proceedings may be taken under the statutes in force at the time of approval of this act as if such statutes had not been amended or repealed.

Approved, March 2, 1927.

Jurisdiction of Supreme Court of the District of Columbia Enlarged in Suits Under Sections 4915 and 4918, R. S.

[PUBLIC—NO. 767—69TH CONGRESS.]

[H. R. 6252.]

An act amending section 52 of the Judicial Code.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 52 of the Judicial Code be, and the same is hereby, amended by adding thereto the following:

"And upon the filing of a bill in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia wherein remedy is sought under section 4915 or section 4918 of the Revised Statutes, without seeking other remedy, if it shall appear that there is an adverse party residing in a foreign country, or adverse parties residing in a plurality of districts not embraced within the same State, the court shall have jurisdiction thereof and writs shall, unless the adverse party or parties voluntarily make appearance, be issued against all of the adverse parties with the force and effect and in the manner set forth in this section; provided that writs issued against parties residing in foreign countries pursuant to this section may be served by publication or otherwise as the court shall direct."

Approved, March 3, 1927.

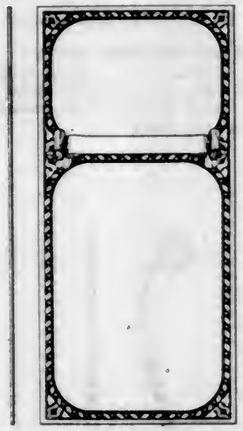
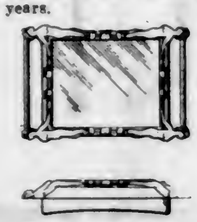
72,353. LIGHTING-FIXTURE STRAP. LE ROY A. CRUMLEY, New York, N. Y., assignor to Harry M. Feltenstein, New York, N. Y., doing business as M. Eisenberg & Son. Filed Jan. 29, 1927. Serial No. 20,536. Term of patent 3½ years.



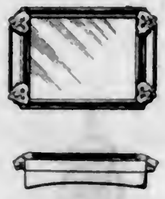
The ornamental design for a lighting fixture strap substantially as shown.

72,354. LIGHTING-FIXTURE BACKPLATE. LE ROY A. CRUMLEY, New York, N. Y., assignor to Harry M. Feltenstein, New York, N. Y., doing business as M. Eisenberg & Son. Filed Jan. 29, 1927. Serial No. 20,537. Term of patent 7 years.



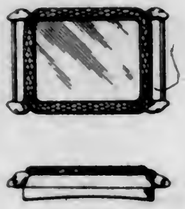
The ornamental design for a lighting fixture backplate, substantially as shown.

72,355. SHIRT BOARD. LADISLAUS DE DOORY, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 6, 1926. Serial No. 16,419. Term of patent 3½ years.



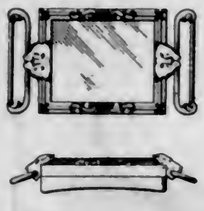
The ornamental design for a shirt board, substantially as shown.

72,356. WATCHCASE. JULIUS DINHOFER, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 19,792. Term of patent 14 years.



The ornamental design for a watchcase, as shown.

72,357. WATCHCASE. JULIUS DINHOFER, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 19,793. Term of patent 14 years.

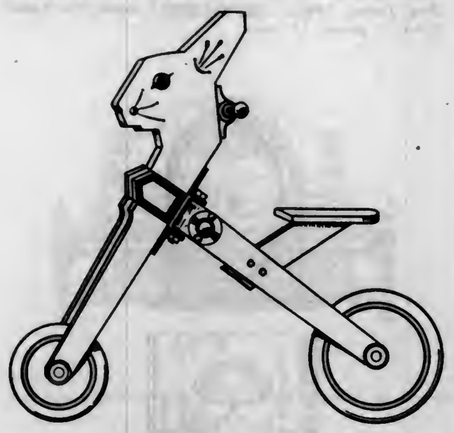


The ornamental design for a watchcase, as shown.

72,358. WATCHCASE. JULIUS DINHOFER, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 19,794. Term of patent 14 years.

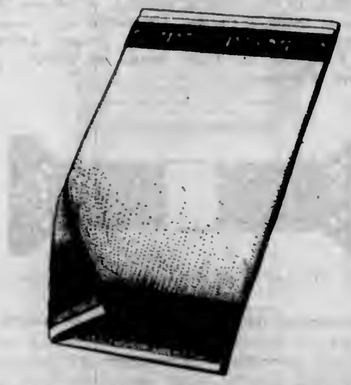
The ornamental design for a watchcase, as shown.

72,359. WATCHCASE. JULIUS DINHOFER, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 19,795. Term of patent 14 years.



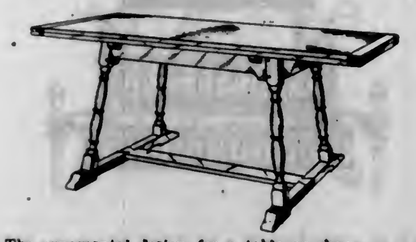
The ornamental design for a watchcase, as shown.

72,360. WATCHCASE. JULIUS DINHOFER, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 26, 1926. Serial No. 19,849. Term of patent 14 years.



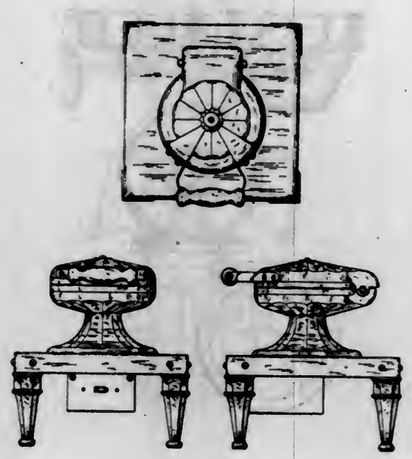
The ornamental design for a watchcase, as shown.

72,361. CHILD'S VEHICLE. HARRY W. DYER, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 23, 1926. Serial No. 16,631. Term of patent 7 years.



The ornamental design for a child's vehicle as shown.

72,362. TOWEL. ELIZABETH SHIPPEN GREEN ELLIOTT, New York, N. Y., assignor to W. H. & A. E. Margerison & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., a firm composed of William H. Margerison and Albert E. Margerison. Filed Jan. 15, 1927. Serial No. 20,393. Term of patent 3½ years.

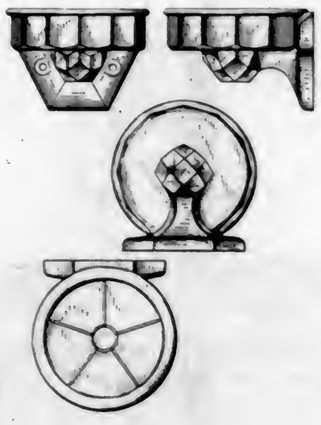


The ornamental design for a towel, as shown.

72,363. TABLE. RALPH C. ERSKINE, Stamford, Conn., assignor to Erskine-Danforth Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 2, 1925. Serial No. 15,619. Term of patent 7 years.

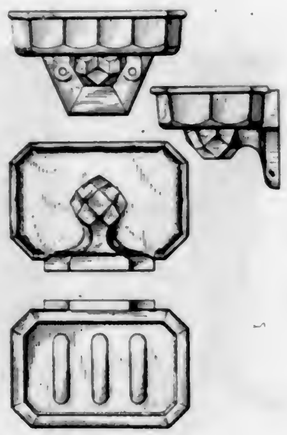
The ornamental design for a table as shown.

72,364. WAFFLE IRON. CARL J. FAY, Mansfield, Ohio, assignor to Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 6, 1927. Serial No. 20,298. Term of patent 7 years.



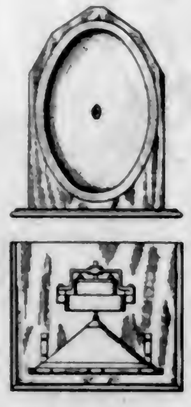
The ornamental design for a waffle iron, substantially as shown.

72,365. STOCKING. ROBERT F. FRIEDRICH, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Weber & Friedrich, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Jan. 18, 1927. Serial No. 20,420. Term of patent 14 years.



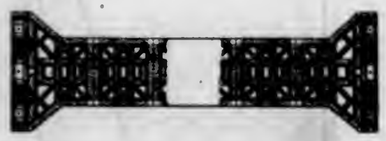
The ornamental design for a stocking, substantially as shown.

72,366. BATHROOM FIXTURE. STANLEY A. FROLKING, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Brilliant Glass Products, Inc., Brilliant, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 20,490. Term of patent 7 years.



The ornamental design for a bathroom fixture substantially as shown.

72,367. BATHROOM FIXTURE. STANLEY A. FROLKING, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Brilliant Glass Products, Inc., Brilliant, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 20,491. Term of patent 7 years.

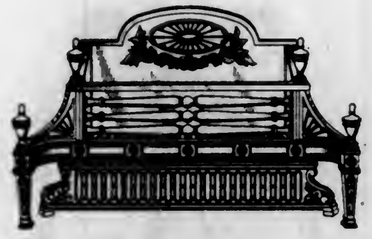


The ornamental design for a bathroom fixture substantially as shown.

72,368. CONE-TYPE LOUD SPEAKER. WILLIAM H. GERNS, East Orange, N. J., assignor to Brandes Laboratories, Inc., Newark, N. N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 23, 1926. Serial No. 18,813. Term of patent 14 years.

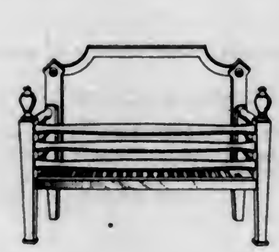
The ornamental design for a cone type loud speaker as shown.

72,369. BRACELET. OSCAR KLINKE, Attleboro, Mass., assignor to Smith & Crosby, a Copartnership composed of Alfred D. Crosby and George H. Crosby, Attleboro, Mass. Filed Dec. 11, 1926. Serial No. 20,029. Term of patent 7 years.



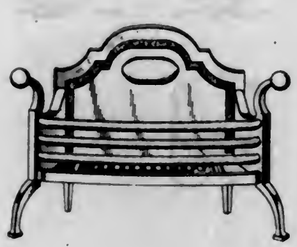
The ornamental design for a bracelet as shown and described.

72,370. FIREPLACE GRATE. HARRY V. LANCASTER, Louisville, Ky., assignor to Chattanooga Implement & Mfg. Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed Feb. 4, 1927. Serial No. 20,612. Term of patent 7 years.



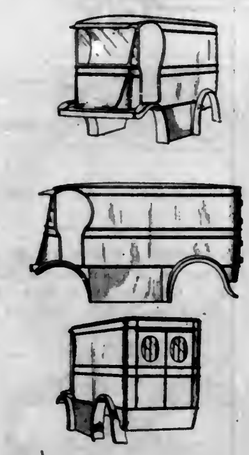
The ornamental design for a fireplace grate, as shown.

72,371. FIREPLACE GRATE. HARRY V. LANCASTER, Louisville, Ky., assignor to Chattanooga Implement & Mfg. Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed Feb, 4, 1927. Serial No. 20,613. Term of patent 7 years.



The ornamental design for a fireplace grate, as shown.

72,372. FIREPLACE GRATE. HARRY V. LANCASTER, Louisville, Ky., assignor to Chattanooga Implement & Mfg. Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed Feb. 4, 1927. Serial No. 20,614. Term of patent 7 years.



The ornamental design for a fireplace grate, as shown.

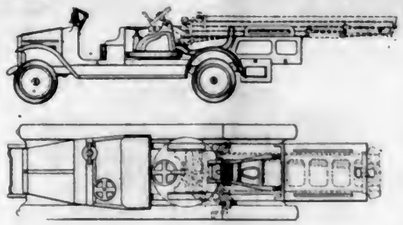
72,373. FIREPLACE GRATE. HARRY V. LANCASTER, Louisville, Ky., assignor to Chattanooga Implement & Mfg. Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed Feb. 9, 1927. Serial No. 20,657. Term of patent 7 years.

The ornamental design for a fireplace grate, as shown.

72,374. AUTOMOBILE BODY. JONAS EMIL LARSON, Hammond, Ind., assignor to Champion Auto Equipment Company, Hammond, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Jan. 29, 1927. Serial No. 20,543. Term of patent 14 years.

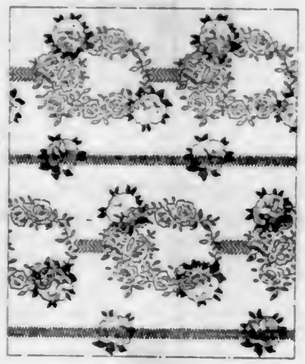
The ornamental design for an automobile body as shown.

72,375. ELECTRIC-LIGHTING WALL FIXTURE. MORRIS LEVITAN, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 12, 1926. Serial No. 18,700. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for an electric-lighting wall fixture, as shown.

72,376. ARM FOR ELECTRIC-LIGHT FIXTURE. CHARLES W. LOGAN, Kenmore, N. Y., assignor to Markel Electric Products, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 4, 1926. Serial No. 19,930. Term of patent 3½ years.

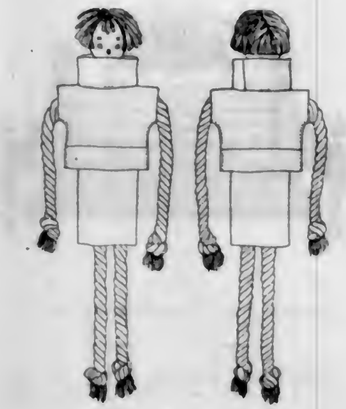


The ornamental design for an arm for an electric-light fixture, as shown.

72,377. TOY TRUCK. FRED A. LUNDAHL, Moline, Ill. Filed Oct. 8, 1925. Serial No. 15,065. Term of patent 14 years.

The ornamental design for toy truck as shown.

72,378. PRINTED FABRIC. JOSEPH HENRY MACK, Passaic, N. J., assignor to M. Lowenstein & Sons, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 12, 1927. Serial No. 20,338. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a printed fabric as shown.

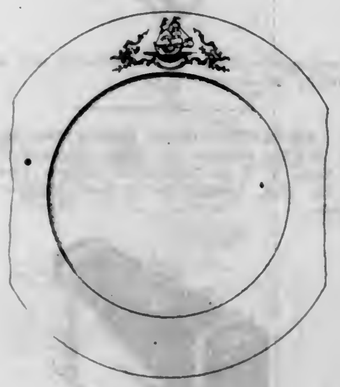
72,379. THERMOMETER. RICHARD E. MANN, New Brighton, N. Y. Filed Jan. 22, 1927. Serial No. 20,468. Term of patent 7 years.

The ornamental design for a thermometer as shown.

72,380. DOLL. ELISE MANNEL, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Dec. 27, 1926. Serial No. 20,157. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a doll, substantially as shown.

72,381. TOY BALLOON. JAMES F. MULHOLLAND, Columbus, Ohio. Filed Dec. 9, 1926. Serial No. 19,986. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a toy balloon, as shown.

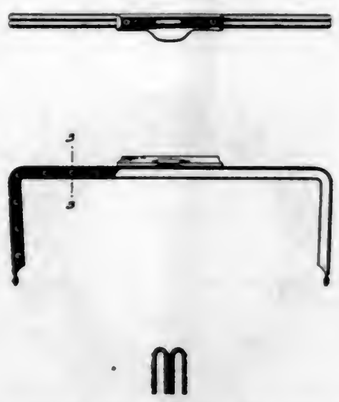
72,382. AUTOMOBILE TIRE. PHILIP H. OBER, Mansfield, Ohio, assignor to The Mansfield Tire & Rubber Co., Mansfield, Ohio. Filed June 15, 1926. Serial No. 18,060. Term of patent 7 years.

The ornamental design for an automobile tire, as shown.

72,383. PLATE OR SIMILAR ARTICLE. MAX J. PALM, Jr., Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Nov. 10, 1926. Serial No. 19,658. Term of patent 3½ years.

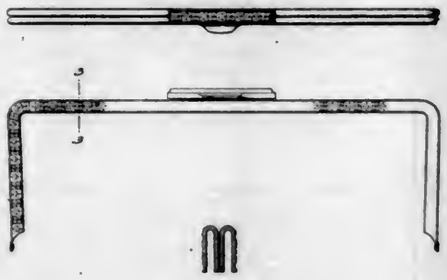
The ornamental design for a plate or similar article, as shown and described.

72,384. PLATE OR SIMILAR ARTICLE. MAX J. PALM, Jr., Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Nov. 17, 1926. Serial No. 19,749. Term of patent 3½ years.



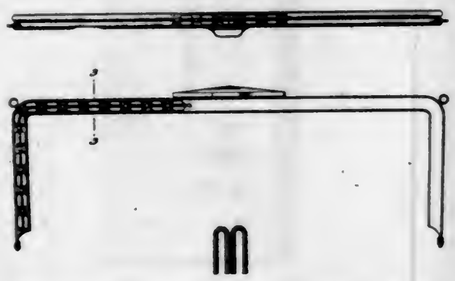
The ornamental design for a plate or similar article, as shown.

72,385. BOTTLE. ROBERT H. PATTERSON, Atlanta, Ga. Filed Dec. 8, 1926. Serial No. 19,972. Term of patent 14 years.



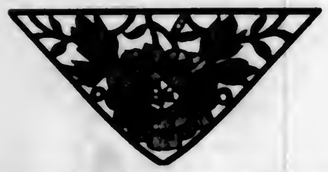
The ornamental design for a bottle, as shown.

72,386. HAND-BAG FRAME. EDWARD POETER, Irvington, N. J., assignor to E. Poeter & Company, Irvington, N. J. Filed Dec. 30, 1926. Serial No. 20,232. Term of patent 3½ years.



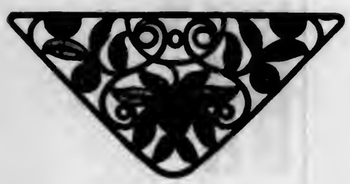
The ornamental design for a hand bag frame as shown.

72,387. HAND-BAG FRAME. EDWARD POETER, Irvington, N. J., assignor to E. Poeter & Company, Irvington, N. J. Filed Dec. 30, 1926. Serial No. No. 20,233. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a hand bag frame as shown.

72,388. HAND-BAG FRAME. EDWARD POETER, Irvington, N. J., assignor to E. Poeter & Company, Irvington, N. J. Filed Dec. 30, 1926. Serial No. 20,234. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a hand bag frame as shown.

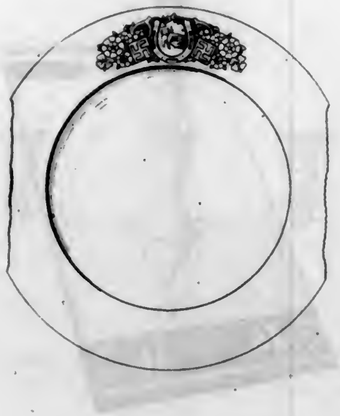
72,389. EMBROIDERED LACE MEDALLION. MORRIS SAVITZKY, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 14, 1927. Serial No. 20,378. Term of patent 7 years.

The ornamental design for embroidered lace medallion substantially as shown.

72,390. EMBROIDERED LACE MEDALLION. MORRIS SAVITZKY, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 14, 1927. Serial No. 20,379. Term of patent 7 years.

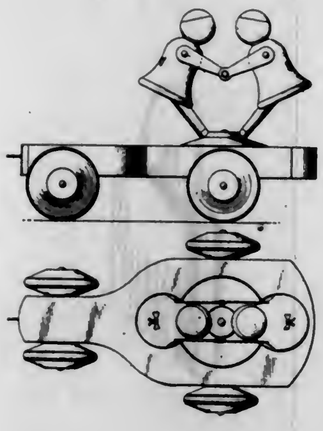
The ornamental design for embroidered lace medallion substantially as shown.

72,391. EMBROIDERED LACE MEDALLION. MORRIS SAVITZKY, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 14, 1927. Serial No. 20,380. Term of patent 7 years.



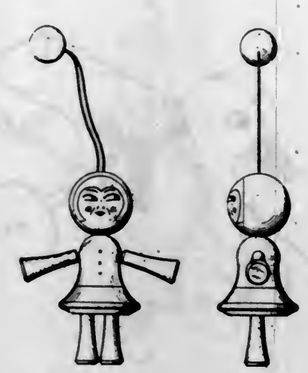
The ornamental design for embroidered lace medallion substantially as shown.

72,392. SUITCASE. OSSIP JOSEPH WALINSKY, Sea Gate, N. Y., assignor to White Luggage Co. Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 22, 1926. Serial No. 17,389. Term of patent 14 years.



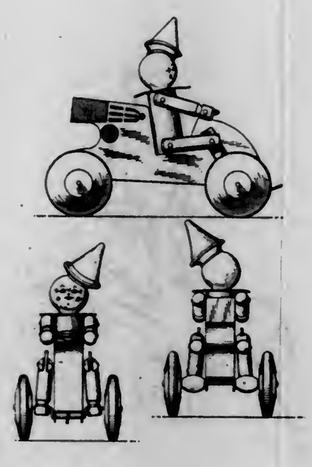
The ornamental design for a suitcase as shown.

72,393. PLATE OR SIMILAR ARTICLE. LUDWIG WALZ, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The Palm Brothers Decalcomania Company, Norwood, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 17, 1926. Serial No. 19,746. Term of patent 3½ years.



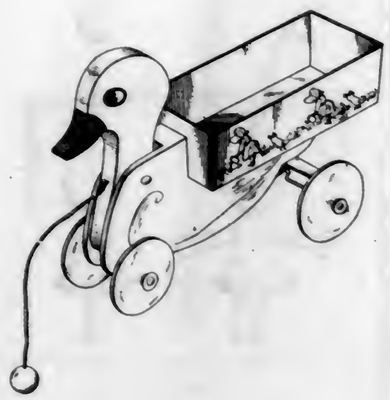
The ornamental design for a plate or similar article as shown and described.

72,394. TOY. CLARE A. WETZELL, Sterling, Ill. Filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 19,686. Term of patent 3½ years.



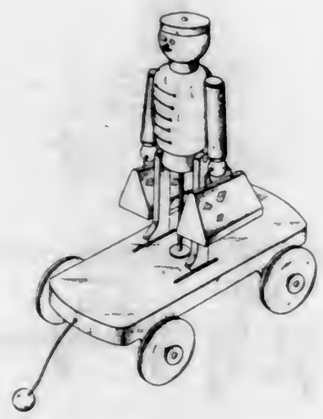
The ornamental design for a toy as shown.

72,395. TOY. CLARE A. WETZELL, Sterling, Ill. Filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 19,687. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a toy as shown.

72,396. TOY. CLARE A. WETZELL, Sterling, Ill. Filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 19,688. Term of patent 3½ years.



The ornamental design for a toy, as shown.

72,397. TOY. CLARE A. WETZELL, Sterling, Ill. Filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 19,689. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a toy as shown.

72,398. TOY. CLARE A. WETZELL, Sterling, Ill. Filed Nov. 12, 1926. Serial No. 19,690. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a toy as shown.

72,399. TOWEL. EDWARD A. WILSON, Jackson Heights, N. Y., assignor to W. H. & A. E. Margerison & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., a firm composed of William H. Margerison and Albert E. Margerison. Filed Jan. 15, 1927. Serial No. 20,395. Term of patent 3½ years.

The ornamental design for a towel, as shown.

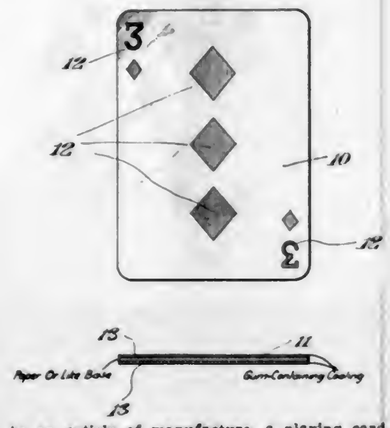
72,400. VANITY CASE. FRANK M. WOJCIECHOWSKI, North Attleboro, Mass. Filed Jan. 29, 1927. Serial No. 20,530. Term of patent 7 years.

The ornamental design for a vanity case, as shown.

72,401. LIGHTING FIXTURE. HERMAN H. WOLTER, Meriden, Conn., assignor to The Miller Company, Meriden, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 20,504. Term of patent 3½ years.

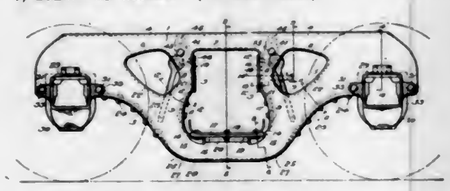
The ornamental design for a lighting fixture, as shown.

72,402. LIGHTING FIXTURE. HERMAN H. WOLTER, Meriden, Conn., assignor to The Miller Company, Meriden, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 20,506. Term of patent 3½ years.



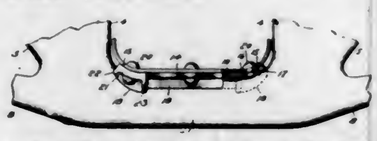
The ornamental design for a lighting fixture, as shown.

PATENTS



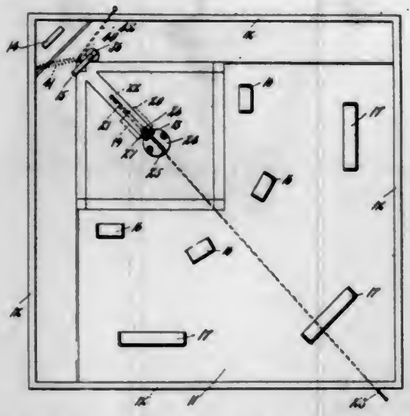
GRANTED APRIL 5, 1927.

1,623,035. PLAYING CARD. SAMUEL BAER, New York, N. Y. Filed July 3, 1924. Serial No. 723,957. 16 Claims. (Cl. 273—152.)



1. As an article of manufacture, a playing card comprising a paper or like base, and a coating for the same comprising a cellulose derivative and a gum.

1,623,036. TRUCK SIDE FRAME. GUSTAF A. ANDERSON, Baltimore, Md., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Symington Company, a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Oct. 17, 1922, Serial No. 595,099. Renewed Feb. 7, 1927. 45 Claims. (Cl. 105—205.)



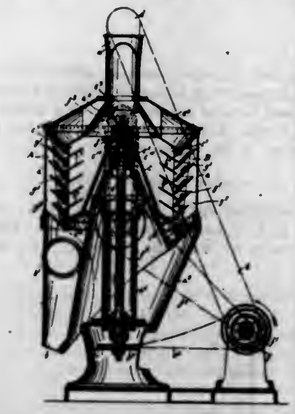
1. A car truck side frame involving a continuous sheet metal blank shaped to form spaced inner and outer side walls, each of said walls having inwardly projecting flanges forming bearing portions adapted to partially enclose portions of the journal box.

1,623,037. CAR-TRUCK SIDE FRAME. GUSTAF A. ANDERSON, Baltimore, Md., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Symington Company, a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Mar. 19, 1923. Serial No. 626,108. 57 Claims. (Cl. 105—205.)

1. A car truck side frame involving a sheet metal outer wall and a sheet metal inner wall spaced with relation thereto, each of said walls being formed with a bolster opening flanked by truck column portions of said walls, the said truck column portions of each wall being integrally connected at their lower ends by a portion of the corresponding wall, and said bolster openings at the respective junctions of their truck column portions with said connecting portions being in the form of a compound curve.

1,623,038. BASEBALL GAME APPARATUS. EDWIN V. BABBITT, Fairhaven, Mass. Filed Jan. 22, 1924. Serial No. 687,725. 18 Claims. (Cl. 273—89.)

1. In a baseball game apparatus, a mechanical pitcher piece adapted to be manipulated so as to throw a ball through the air, a mechanical batsman piece operable to strike at the ball so thrown, and a catcher piece having an opening through which the ball may pass and being so pivoted that it may be turned by a ball striking the piece at one side of such opening.



1,623,039. SAILOR TOY. EDWIN V. BABBITT, Fairhaven, Mass. Filed June 8, 1926. Serial No. 114,484. 7 Claims. (Cl. 46—45.)

1. A toy comprising a platform, running gear wholly supporting the platform and including a crank axle and traction wheels fixed thereto, a support rising from the platform, a body pivoted to said support with provision for lateral swinging motion, movable legs depending from the body, and connections between the axle crank, the body, and the legs, adapted to swing the body laterally and the legs fore and aft.

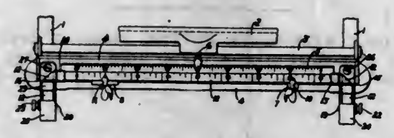
1,623,040. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR GRADING SOLID MATERIALS. GEORGE RALPH BAKER and WILLIAM EDWARD PRESCOTT, London, and CHARLES WILFRED GILDERDALE, New Earswick, England, assignors to Rowntree and Company Limited, York, England. Filed Jan. 31, 1924, Serial No. 689,737, and in Great Britain Feb. 26, 1923. 16 Claims. (Cl. 209—139.)



1. The method of grading particles of solid material by the use of a whirling current of air carrying said particles in suspension, which comprises maintaining said current continuously flowing radially inward from without said whirl, and simultaneously positively whirling said current so as to give to the particles in suspension a centrifugal force acting in a direction opposed to said inward flow of said current.

1,623,041. VALVE GEAR IN INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. MARIUS JEAN-BAPTISTE BARBAROU, Paris, France. Filed Oct. 5, 1926, Serial No. 139,637, and in France Feb. 3, 1926. 7 Claims. (Cl. 123—55.)

5. In an internal combustion engine with radially arranged cylinders: a valve controlling cam mounted loose on the crank-shaft of the engine, an eccentric rotating with said crankshaft, a strap cooperating with said eccentric, means for operatively connecting said strap with said cam and whereby the latter is given a relative rotary motion with respect to said crankshaft, guiding plungers secured to said straps, bearings for said plungers and wherein the latter are adapted to move in a piston-like manner, a source of fluid, a delivery piping for said fluid, two hollow supports for each of said bearings and respectively connected with said source of fluid and with said delivery piping, each bearing being adapted to slide upon the respective supports in a direction at right angle with the direction of the alternating motion of the plunger within said bearing and means whereby the interior of each bearing is alternately connected with the interior of the corresponding two supports and said fluid is circulated from said source to said delivery piping.

1,623,042. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. BENJAMIN F. BARKER, El Paso, Tex., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 14, 1922. Serial No. 543,633. 2 Claims. (Cl. 197—194.)

1. A line-centering equipment for a typewriting machine having a traveling carriage and margin-stops to determine normal positions of said carriage for line-commencement and line-ending, including a stationary scale attached to the frame of the machine and having single letter-space gradations numerically indicated in descending order, a double letter-space scale having gradations numerically indicated in ascending order, said double letter-space scale comprising a tape extending in a single reach across said stationary scale, the graduated portion of said tape at least twice the length of the graduated portion of said stationary scale, said tape shiftable from end to end to align any gradation thereon with any gradation of said stationary scale, take-up spools for winding up opposite ends of said tape, brackets on the frame of the machine, said spools mounted on said brackets, and finger-pieces to alternately rotate said spools and draw the scale-bearing portion of said tape tautly back and forth across said single letter-space scale to align a gradation on said tape indicative of normal line-commencement with a single-space gradation on said stationary scale indicative of normal line-ending, said carriage having a pointer to designate the gradation on said tape determining the letter-space for commencing typing of the line to be centered.

1,623,043. VALVE-OPERATING MECHANISM. EVERETT BROWN, Hardy, Ky. Filed Oct. 16, 1925. Serial No. 62,792. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—90.)

The combination with a valve stem of an internal combustion engine, a cam disposed beneath said stem, of a push rod interposed between the cam and the stem, said push rod comprising a slidably mounted sleeve, a rod slidably mounted within the sleeve, a reduced portion carried by the rod thereby forming a shoulder within the sleeve, a coiled spring surrounding the reduced portion of the sleeve, said coiled spring being interposed between the shoulder and the sleeve, the end convolutions of the coiled spring being disposed in annular channels of the push rod and sleeve, one end convolution contractably engaging in the annular groove of the push rod, the other end convolution expansively engaging in the annular groove of the sleeve, a bolt adjustably threaded into the upper end of the rod and engaging the valve stem and a lock nut carried by said bolt.

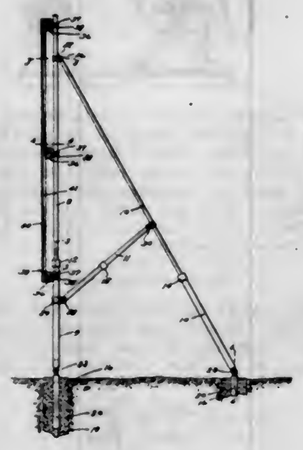
1,623,044. WIRE-CABLE CUTTER. JOHN E. BUTCHER and HOWARD B. HARRIS, Garber, Okla. Filed Apr. 29, 1926. Serial No. 105,422. 2 Claims. (Cl. 164—47.)

1. In a cutting device, the combination with an arcuate support having a rail portion and a jack adjustable longitudinally thereon, a cutter member engageable by said jack, and a two-part body portion removably mounted on the rail portion of said support, having a longitudinal slot to slidably receive said cutter member and a second slot extending from an edge of said body portion and terminating transversely through the first-mentioned slot to receive a length of cable therein.

1,623,045. PIPE VISE. HERBERT G. BUTT, Winthrop, Mass. Filed Sept. 16, 1925. Serial No. 56,630. 4 Claims. (Cl. 81—23.)

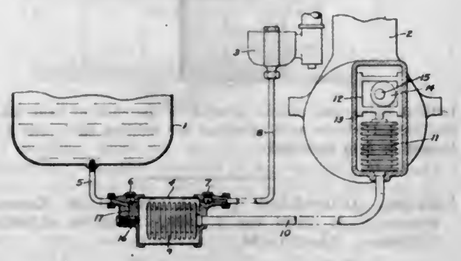


1. A pipe vise comprising a frame including a base and inner and outer spaced-apart standards projecting outward from the base, the outer standard constituting a fixed jaw; a movable jaw connected with the base and adapted to cooperate with the fixed jaw; and jaw-operating mechanism including a hand lever fulcrumed on the inner standard, and pressure-imparting means operable by a movement of the lever to press the movable jaw toward the fixed jaw; and coupling means connecting said standards to prevent injurious flexure of the base when the movable jaw is under pressure, said coupling means including a member carried by one of the standards and provided with an abutment, and a member carried by the other standard and provided with a complemental abutment which is pressed against the first-mentioned abutment by strain on the frame tending to flex the base.

1,623,046. RADIUS-ROD ATTACHMENT. GEORGE F. COLBY, Oklahoma City, Okla., assignor to American Specialty Co., Oklahoma City, Okla., a Corporation. Filed May 14, 1925. Serial No. 30,204. 3 Claims. (Cl. 267—66.)

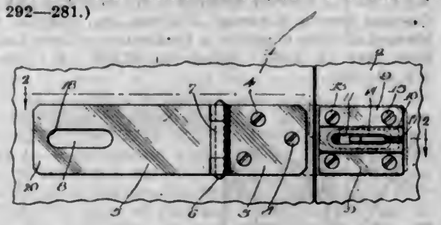
1. A radius rod attaching means comprising a socket plate with a ball-receiving socket, a resilient rockable support for the ball in said socket, depending means on the socket engaged with said support and means for preventing displacement of the radius rod.

1,623,047. ADJUSTABLE FRAME FOR POSTER BOARDS. L. D. COOK, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Nov. 10, 1924. Serial No. 748,989. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—125.)



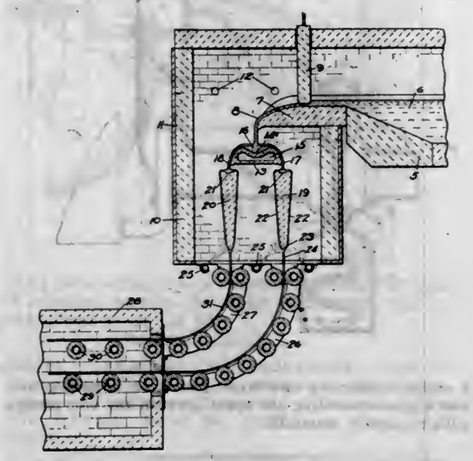
An adjustable frame for a poster board including a plurality of uprights and braces, struts connecting the uprights and braces and secured thereto for vertical adjustment, each upright, brace and strut comprising telescopically connected members, clamps connecting the members of each upright, brace and strut in different longitudinal adjustment, and anchors to which the lower members of the uprights and braces are hingedly secured for forward or backward tilting movement.

1,623,048. PROCESS OF FINISHING COLD-ROLLED STEEL. JUSTIN D. CROSBY, Pawtucket, R. I., assignor to J. D. Crosby Co., Pawtucket, R. I., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 4, 1922. Serial No. 558,532. 1 Claim. (Cl. 29—18.)



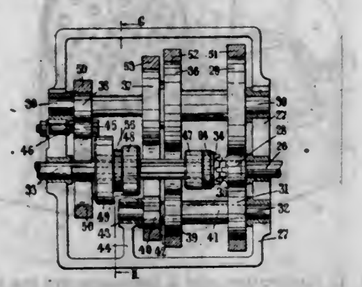
The method of imparting a high lustre or polish to steel strips which consists in reducing the steel to the requisite thickness and giving it a preparatory treatment of cleaning, drying and cold rolling with oiled rollers and thereafter annealing and then passing this clean and annealed strip with a light pass between dry, highly polished steel rollers which slightly reduce its thickness and impart a high lustre or polish.

1,623,049. FUEL-SUPPLY SYSTEM. FARNUM F. DORSEY, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to North East Electric Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 9, 1922, Serial No. 542,343. Renewed Sept. 25, 1926. 1 Claim. (Cl. 158—364.)



In a fuel-supply system, the combination, with an engine, a fuel-tank remote from the engine, and a fuel-feeding device adjacent the engine and higher than the fuel-tank, of a pump-chamber located adjacent and lower than the fuel-tank and communicating therewith; an elastically expansible impeller in the pump-chamber; an elastically expansible impeller adjacent the engine; means, actuated directly from the mechanism of the engine, for expanding and compressing the latter impeller; a fluid-conduit connecting the two impellers, and constituting, therewith, a hermetically sealed chamber; substantially incompressible liquid filling said chamber; a fuel-conduit extending from the pump-chamber to the fuel-feeding device; and valves controlling the flow of fuel through said conduit.

1,623,050. PADLOCK HASP DEVICE. PETER FRANTZ, Sterling, Ill., assignor to Frantz Manufacturing Company, Sterling, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 11, 1924. Serial No. 755,163. 9 Claims. (Cl. 292—281.)

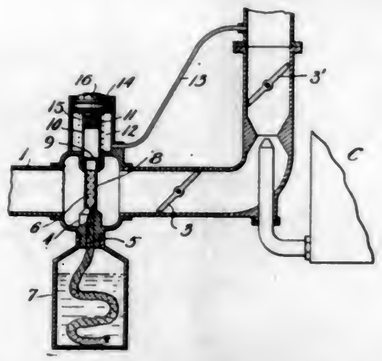


1. In a padlock and hasp device for doors or other closures, the combination of a swinging hasp, a movable latch member for engaging the hasp, having a portion forming a catch to hold the hasp in latching position, slidable back and forth in the opening of the hasp to latch and unlatch the door or other closure, the latch member thereby having an operative position and an inoperative position, said latch having an opening therein, and a padlock for insertion in said opening to hold the hasp in position to prevent the door or other closure from opening, when it is desired to lock the door in closed position, whereby the device is operative to latch the door or other closure in closed position when the padlock is not used.

1,623,051. MULTIPLE-SHEET-FLOWING APPARATUS. FRANK FRASER, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Libbey-Owens Sheet Glass Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed May 16, 1925. Serial No. 30,690. 18 Claims. (Cl. 49—17.)

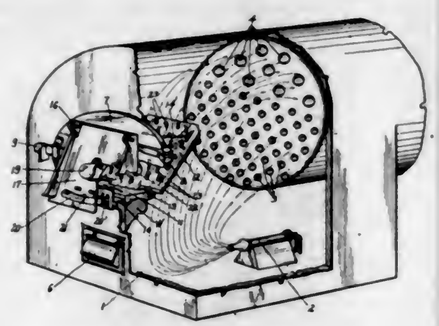
1. In sheet glass apparatus, means to create a downwardly moving flow of molten glass, and means to separate the flow to produce a plurality of sheets of glass.

1,623,052. MEANS FOR THE TRANSMISSION OF POWER. CHARLES GEORGE GARRARD, London, England. Filed Aug. 12, 1924. Serial No. 731,565. 22 Claims. (Cl. 74—26.)



1. A means for transmission of power comprising a driving roller, a driven roller, an idler roller and a binding ring for exerting pressure on said rollers and transmitting rotary power from the driving roller to the driven roller, said binding ring being of less diameter than the sum of the diameters of the rollers it surrounds.

1,623,053. ART OF CONTROLLING COMBUSTION IN INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. FRANK A. HOWARD and JAMES R. WRIGHT, Elizabeth, N. J., assignors to Standard Development Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 30, 1922. Serial No. 609,913. 13 Claims. (Cl. 123—127.)



1. The combination with an air intake and manifold and carburetor of an internal combustion engine, of a wick tube and wick cage projecting into the air intake, a wick in said tube and cage, a container for liquid detachably connected to the lower end of the wick tube, a sleeve slidable over the wick cage and closed at its upper end to form a piston, an outer sleeve slidable over the inner sleeve and having a piston on its upper end, a spring supporting said latter piston, an adjusting nut, and a pipe connecting the space between the two pistons with the intake manifold.

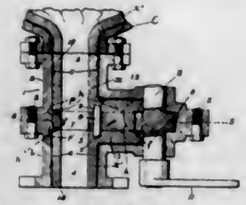
1,623,054. DRAFT CONTROL FOR LOCOMOTIVES. ALBERT JOHNSON, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-fourth to L. V. Hughes and H. E. Hughes, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed July 28, 1926. Serial No. 125,345. 2 Claims. (Cl. 110—75.)

1. In combination with a locomotive fire box and boiler having boiler tubes opening into said fire box, an oil burner in said fire box below said boiler and discharging into said fire box, means for admitting air into said fire box for combustion with the products from said oil burner, a door into said fire box above said oil burner level, and an adjustable baffle member within said fire box inwardly from said door, said baffle member being positioned in an inclined manner from within the fire box, opposite said door, upwardly and inwardly toward the upper boiler tubes for the purpose of directing the products of combustion from said oil burner and said air admitting means into said upper boiler tubes.



1,623,055. SCREEN COUPLING. EDWARD E. JOHNSON, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Dec. 31, 1923. Serial No. 683,604. 9 Claims. (Cl. 166—8.)

1. In combination with a tubular well screen having a plurality of longitudinal reinforcing rods a terminal having a ring like portion provided with a plurality of longitudinal holes adapted to receive the ends of said rods, openings thru the exterior surface of said ring like portions communicating with and terminating at said longitudinal holes, and means secured to the ends of said rods and lodged within said openings for holding said rods attached to said terminal.

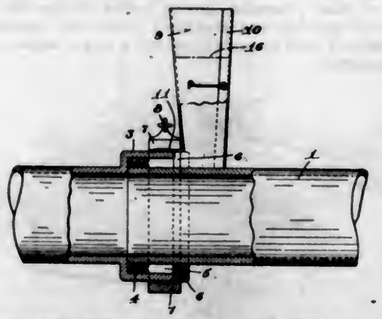
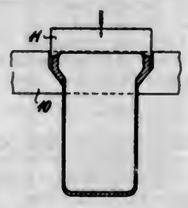
1,623,056. ACID-PROOF VALVE. JOHN J. W. KENAN, Orange, N. J. Filed Aug. 2, 1923. Serial No. 655,332. 2 Claims. (Cl. 251—84.)



1. A valve comprising a body formed of two complemental sections having aligned passages and opposed sockets; a pivot pin held within said sockets; a gate journaled upon said pin and provided with a port adapted to be brought into and out of registry with said aligned passages to control the flow of fluid therethrough; casing means for holding said sections against relative movement without permitting fluid to come into contact with said casing-means; and means for oscillating said gate.

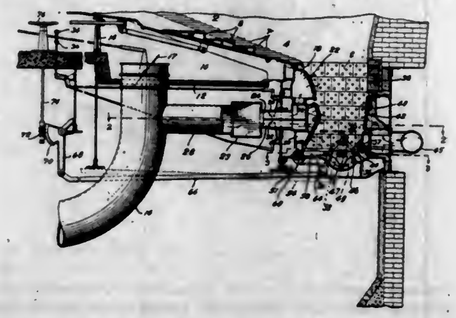
1,623,057. BATCH FEEDING TO GLASS TANKS. CHARLES BROWN KINGSLEY, Clairton, Pa., assignor to Mississippi Glass Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed May 14, 1925. Serial No. 30,148. 6 Claims. (Cl. 49—54.)



1. In combination with a glass melting tank means for the continuous feeding of mix to the tank and means for impelling the new mix into the body of molten glass already in the tank.

1,623,058. PIPE-JOINT FILLING SPOUT. LEMUEL E. KOLLOCK, Boston, Mass. Filed Dec. 15, 1925. Serial No. 75,583. 1 Claim. (Cl. 22—117.)

A sectional spout for use in filling pipe joints, comprising two separable sections of substantially the same contour and of a size adapted to interlock when in engagement, one of said sections having an arcuate lip adapted to snugly fit on the bell end of one pipe, the other section having one of its bottom edges formed arcuate for snug fitting upon the adjacent pipe, and fastening means on each side of each of said sections to hold said sections in firm interlocking engagement and permitting, when released, complete separation of said two sections.



1,623,059. METHOD OF MANUFACTURING SEAMLESS WROUGHT-IRON ANNEALING BOXES. THEODOR LAMMINB, Cologne-Mulheim, Germany. Filed Oct. 25, 1924. Serial No. 745,886, and in Germany Nov. 2, 1923. 3 Claims. (Cl. 29—148.2.)

1. The method of manufacturing a seamless wrought-iron annealing box with an outwardly offset thickened and reinforced mouth portion of greater internal and external diameter than the body thereof, consisting in axially pressing a portion of a blank sheet of metal through a die so as to form a cup-shaped body and so as to leave a predetermined marginal portion of the blank undrawn, drawing out the drawn cup-shaped body by progressive stages so as to elongate while reducing in diameter and wall thickness such cup-shaped body, thereby leaving unimpaired about the mouth of the finished cup-shaped body a marginal portion of greater internal and external diameter than the body and of the original wall thickness of the sheet, and then by inward lateral compression diametrically contracting said marginal portion, without reduction of its wall thickness, from the diameter at which it is left at the cessation of the body-forming operation to a smaller diameter in which it remains of greater internal and external diameter than the drawn body.

1,623,060. AUTOMATIC STOKER. EDWIN LUNDGREN, Frederick, Md., assignor to Combustion Engineering Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 27, 1922. Serial No. 577,824. 4 Claims. (Cl. 110—44.)

1. A furnace having, in combination, an underfeed grate section, an overfeed grate section, at the rear of the underfeed grate section, an ash pit at the rear of the overfeed grate section, a clinker crushing roll located adjacent the lower end of the rear wall of the ash pit, and a dump grate arranged in a substantially horizontal plane and extending between the clinker crushing roll and the forward wall of the ash pit.

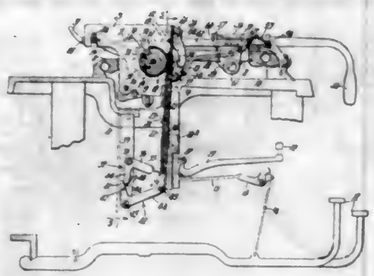
1,623,061. TREATING HYDROCARBONS. OTIS G. MESSENGER, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor to Standard Development Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 6, 1921. Serial No. 435,512. 4 Claims. (Cl. 260—166.)

1. A process of making low boiling chlorhydrocarbons, which comprises vaporizing a gas oil, passing the vapors at low pressure through a cracking zone maintained at approximately 750° F., and introducing chlorine into the oil vapors in said cracking zone, the chlorine feed being gauged in view of the products sought.

1,623,062. HAYRAKE. WALTER F. MOTTIER, El Campo, Tex. Filed Oct. 2, 1923. Serial No. 666,055. 11 Claims. (Cl. 56—391.)



1. The combination with a self dump hay rake having a frame, ground wheels, a rake head, and means for locking the rake head to rotate with the wheels, of means for controlling the action of the locking means comprising a member having connection thereto and movably mounted on the rake head, means under the control of the operator for effecting an initial movement of said member whereby the locking connection is established between the rake head and the wheels, a securing device mounted on the rake head for positively securing said locking means in said locking position until the rake head has turned with the wheels through a predetermined distance.

1,623,063. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. GERALD H. MURPHY, Flushing, N. Y., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 5, 1924. Serial No. 754,065. 13 Claims. (Cl. 197—151.)

1. The combination, in a typewriting machine, of a revoluble platen, a frame, arranged in front of the platen, to reciprocate a stencil-card tangentially to the platen, a ribbon normally inoperative below the printing line, and mechanism controlled by said frame to be operated by the movement thereof to position for typing a line on the top of the frame, for elevating the ribbon to the printing line.

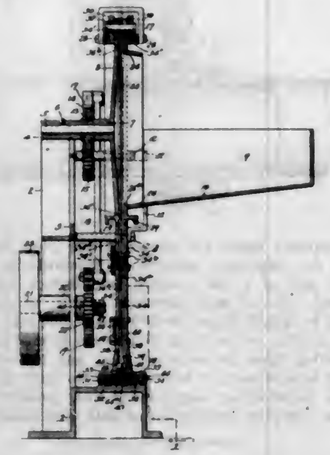
1,623,064. COUPLING AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. JAMES W. NAPIER, McKeesport, Pa. Filed June 10, 1925. Serial No. 36,122. 10 Claims. (Cl. 29—156.)

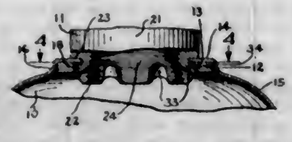
1. The method of manufacturing a steel pipe coupling which comprises forming steel bar material of relative high sulphur content into a cylinder, flash welding the opposing ends of the said material, and threading the interior surface of the welded cylinder.

10. A cylindrical welded steel pipe-coupling blank ready for interior threading containing not substantially less than .065% of sulphur.



1,623,065. CABINET AMPLIFIER. HENRY B. NEWHALL, Plainfield, and HENRY W. PLEISTER, Westfield, N. J.; said Pleister assignor to said Newhall. Filed July 9, 1924. Serial No. 725,072. 7 Claims. (Cl. 179—179.)

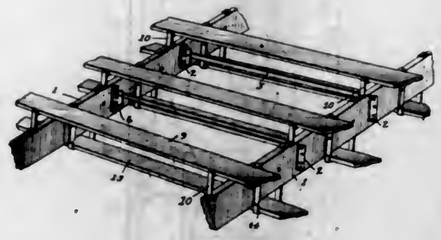
6. In combination, a cabinet having a wall having a door opening therein spaced from the edges thereof, and a sound distributor fitting in said opening to form a door and hinged to one side edge of said opening and provided with a sound receiving opening in its rear face and a large sound outlet chamber opening through its front face; said distributor being adapted to carry a sound box mounted on said distributor and discharging sound into said rear opening; said distributor having relatively small front to rear dimensions.



1,623,066. ARTICLE-FEEDING MECHANISM. ELOF NORDSTROM, East Orange, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Aluminum Seal Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 25, 1924. Serial No. 745,862. 17 Claims. (Cl. 226—88.1.)

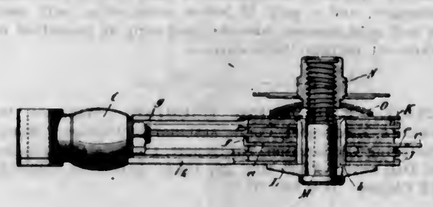
1. In a cap-feeding machine, the combination with a hopper, of a chute connected thereto, said chute being provided with spaced track bars adapted to engage the outer walls of caps arranged in either of two opposite presentations, means movable across the outlet end of said chute for receiving and arranging said caps according to their presentation, and means cooperating with said cap-receiving and arranging means for rearranging the caps of both presentations into a single series of like presentation.

3. In a machine of the character described, the combination with a hopper provided with an inclined bottom wall and an oscillatory end wall, of a circular flange spaced from said end wall and oscillatable therewith a chute for conveying articles from said hopper, oppositely disposed track bars within said chute, one of said track bars having an extension extending between said end wall and circular flange and conforming to the latter, and means for conveying articles from said chute.



1,623,067. SOCKET CAP AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. ERASTUS G. OAKLEY, Southport, Conn., assignor to Bridgeport Brass Company, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed July 21, 1922. Serial No. 576,490. 5 Claims. (Cl. 29—155.5.)

1. A socket cap shell having an opening and a flange extending axially of the opening, a washer encircling the flange and provided upon its inner periphery with notches having shoulders at each end thereof and a flanged hub having the flange thereof inserted into the opening, the cap flange and hub flange being pressed outwardly and upwardly into the notches of the washer between the shoulders to effect an interlocking engagement of the parts.

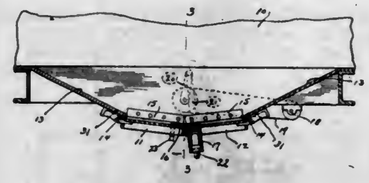


4. The method of making a socket cap which comprises forming a cap body with an opening and an axially extending flange, inserting within the opening the flange of a flanged hub member, placing back of the body flang a washer having on its inner periphery notches with sharply defined end faces forming shoulders and displacing the metal of the flanges upwardly and outwardly into the notches to form an intimate connection between the parts.

1,623,068. PORTABLE BLEACHER. HENRY D. OBERDORFER, Champaign, Ill. Filed Aug. 1, 1923. Serial No. 654,970. 4 Claims. (Cl. 304—1.)

1. In portable bleachers, the combination with a pair of stringers supported at intervals, of means for locking them spaced apart in upright parallel position, seat and foot boards therefor, and a plurality of supports and hangers each attachable at the upper edges of the stringers for supporting the seat and foot boards respectively.

1,623,069. DEVICE FOR DETERMINING PRESSURE IN VEHICLE SHOCK ABSORBERS. CARLO PINTACUDA and UGO FRILLI, Florence, Italy. Filed Mar. 26, 1924, Serial No. 702,083, and in Italy Oct. 20, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 73—51.)



1. A device for use in testing the resistance to relative turning movement of frictional packings in vehicle shock absorbers of the character described comprising an element in frictional contact with the said packing, and means for facilitating the turning of the said element in contact with the said packing and independently of the arms of the shock absorber.

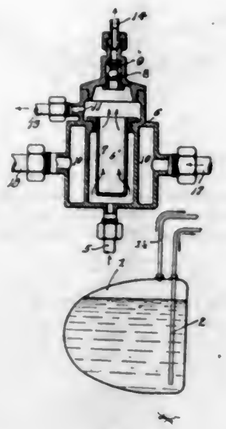
1,623,070. PROCESS FOR REMOVING SULPHUR DIOXIDE AND COMPOUNDS FROM FOOD PRODUCTS. LUDWIG ROSENSTEIN, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Mar. 18, 1926. Serial No. 95,799. 9 Claims. (Cl. 99—11.)

5. The process of removing undesirable sulphur compounds from dried fruit which comprises subjecting the fruit to the action of hydrogen peroxide in aqueous solution by dipping the fruit therein for a brief space of time and permitting subsequent action on the fruit of the liquid adhering thereto, the active chemical in the amount of liquid adhering to the fruit being so proportioned as to react with the quantity of sulphur compound it is desired to remove from the fruit.

1,623,071. HOPPER FREIGHT CAR. JAMES A. SHAFER, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed July 10, 1925. Serial No. 42,628. 1 Claim. (Cl. 105—253.)

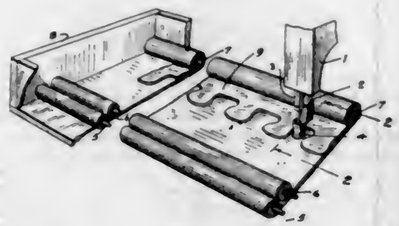
A hopper freight car, comprising doors pivotally carried at the bottom of the hopper, a door beam carried by one only of the doors, one of the doors being provided with means overlapping the other door when in their closed positions, and means for operating one only of the doors.

1,623,072. NIGHT GOWN. BEULAH G. SPILSBURY, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to The Munsingwear Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed July 26, 1926. Serial No. 125,062. 4 Claims. (Cl. 2—73.)



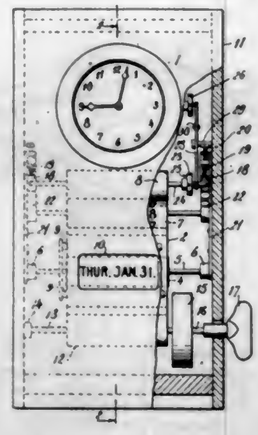
1. A lady's garment having shoulder bands and arm holes, gores being removed from the front of the garment on each side to provide substantially V-shaped notches extending inwardly and upwardly from the front edges of the arm holes, the upper edges of said notches being shorter than their lower edge whereby when the edges of the notches are drawn together and shirred or pleated, the desired fullness for the bust portion of the garment will be obtained with a corresponding shortening of the front edge of the arm holes, to maintain an even edge at the bottom of the garment and prevent sagging.

1,623,073. BOX TOE. CHARLES E. SWETT, Boston, Mass., assignor to Harry H. Beckwith, Brookline, Mass. Filed Dec. 1, 1922, Serial No. 604,415. Renewed Aug. 30, 1926. 5 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.)



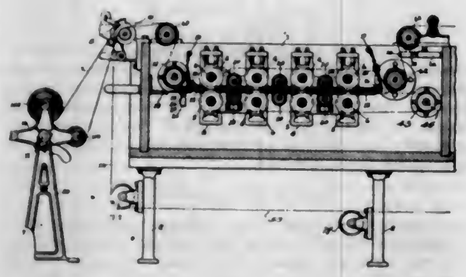
1. A shoe stiffener comprising a fibrous foundation having a thermo-plastic compound incorporated therein, said thermo-plastic compound comprising one or more acid resins, a resin soap, a wax and a drying oil.

1,623,074. FUEL-SUPPLY MEANS FOR HEAVY-OIL ENGINES. EUGÈNE HENRI TARTRAIS, Maisons-Laffitte, France. Filed Mar. 7, 1924, Serial No. 697,515, and in France Mar. 14, 1923. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)



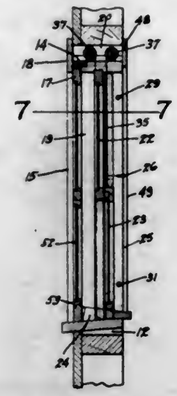
1. In combination with the fuel pump of a liquid fuel internal combustion engine, a heated receptacle through which the fuel is caused to flow from bottom to top and according to a substantially straight path, the inlet pipe of said pump opening laterally into said receptacle and at the upper part thereof, and means for returning the surplus of fuel and the bubbles which are formed within said liquid fuel from the top of said receptacle to the fuel feed tank.

1,623,075. PRESSER FOOT. CHESTER L. THOMAS, Denver, Colo. Filed June 30, 1924, Serial No. 723,354. Renewed Feb. 18, 1927. 1 Claim. (Cl. 112—2.)



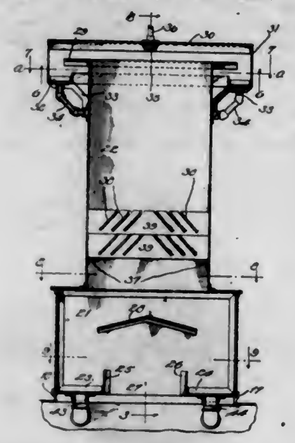
In a sewing machine adapted for use in quilting, a guide adapted to be laid on any material that is to be sewed, a presser foot adapted to be used in connection with said machine and guide, said presser foot having a body portion whose outer surface is cylindrical from the bottom upwardly for a distance greater than the thickness of the guide whereby every part of the outer surface thereof is adapted to contact with the guide.

1,623,076. COMBINATION CLOCK AND CALENDAR. GLENVILLE S. TREMAINE, Westfield, N. J. Filed July 23, 1924. Serial No. 727,065. 4 Claims. (Cl. 58—6.)



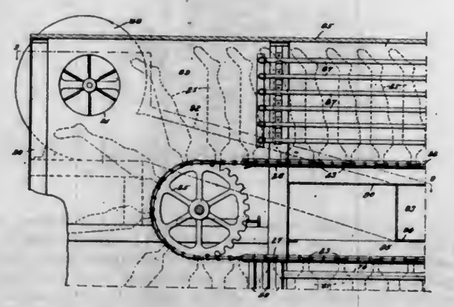
1. In a calendar clock having a calendar strip, a spool adapted to have said strip wound thereon, means for advancing said strip, a guide roller for said strip, a friction roller adapted to press said strip against said guide roller; a member normally fixed with respect to one of said rollers, and having a stop thereon, a continuously operating mechanism, a cam operated by said mechanism, and a pair of levers cooperating with said cam and said member whereby said strip is permitted to advance at certain times only.

1,623,077. LAUNDERING MACHINE. WILLIAM W. TRINKS, Bridgeport, Conn., assignor to Pullman Manufacturing Corporation, Bridgeport, Conn., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 29, 1924. Serial No. 702,985. 13 Claims. (Cl. 68—37.)



1. In a machine of the class described, a washing tank, scrubbing brushes therein, a towel connecting bar, carrier belts having means loosely connecting with said bar and movable in a path to carry the latter and connected towel through the tank and in operative relation to the brushes therein, and means for engaging the said towel bar in its passage through the tank and maintaining its connection with the carrier belts.

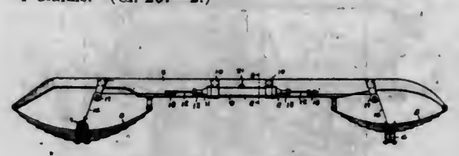
1,623,078. WINDOW STRUCTURE. GEORGE M. WALKUP, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed May 24, 1926. Serial No. 111,286. 8 Claims. (Cl. 20—45.)



1. The combination with a window structure comprising a frame adapted to be secured in a wall opening and adapted to have a sash mounted therein, of an inwardly facing seat in said frame adapted to demountably receive a storm sash from the interior of said frame.

1,623,079. WASH VENT FOR ASH-CONVEYER SYSTEMS. CARL F. ZIMMERMANN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Conveyors Corporation of America, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 3, 1922. Serial No. 526,576. 4 Claims. (Cl. 261—111.)

1. In combination, a baffle plate grid comprising a first series of plates with their lengths extending in the plane of the grid and with their widths extending in spaced parallel planes at right angles to the plane of the grid, each of said plates having inclined slots cut along one edge of and sloping away from the center of the plate, a second series of plates extending cross-wise of said first series, each of said second series having slots cut along one edge of the plate, the slots of said second series engaging with the slots of said first series, each of said second series of plates being proportioned so that one longitudinal edge thereof terminates short of the adjacent edges of the first series of plates, and a second baffle plate grid disposed in a plane parallel with said first baffle plate grid and substantially contacting therewith, the termination of the longitudinal edges of said inclined plates affording a plurality of transverse passageways between said first and second grids.

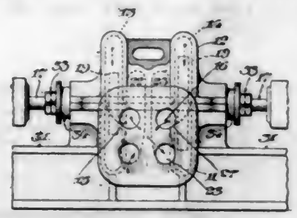


1,623,080. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR FINISHING KNITTED ARTICLES. EDWARD J. ZIOCK, Rockford, Ill. Filed May 7, 1924. Serial No. 711,565. 35 Claims. (Cl. 8—19.)

1. The method of finishing stockings consisting in boarding the stockings, moving the boarded stockings on an endless continuously traveling carrier, subjecting the boarded stockings at progressive stages of their travel on the carrier to different processing operations in which solutions are applied to the stockings, applying said solutions by spraying devices from opposite sides of the stockings with predetermined time intervals intervening between the spraying operations, and passing the boarded stockings on said carrier through a drying compartment.

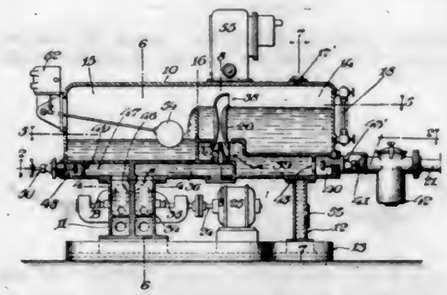
2. The method of dyeing stockings consisting in boarding a stocking on a shaped form, and delivering a uniform spray of dye solution over the entire area of the stocking.

1,623,081. SHOCK ABSORBER. LEWIS W. AMENDE, Casper, Wyo. Filed June 18, 1925. Serial No. 38,094. 4 Claims. (Cl. 267—2.)



1. A shock absorber comprising a cylinder, rods slidably projecting through packing at the ends of the cylinder, a tension spring connecting the inner ends of the rods within the cylinder, means rigidly securing the cylinder to the frame of a vehicle between the axles thereof, means to operatively connect the outer ends of the rods respectively to the front and rear axles of the vehicle whereby separating movement between the axles and the vehicle frame will cause an outward pull upon the rods, and means for facilitating introduction of oil into the cylinder.

1,623,082. CENTRIFUGAL PUMP. CHARLES F. AMES, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor of one-fifth to Alphonse H. E. Berchem and one-fifth to Harry S. Schanck, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 22, 1925. Serial No. 64,085. 3 Claims. (Cl. 103—107.)



1. A centrifugal pump comprising a two-part casing having a plurality of volute chambers therein in spaced relation, central inlet ports for said chambers, outlets from said chambers, impellers mounted in said chambers on a common axis of rotation and having their eyes in register with said ports, and supply conduits arranged between and leading respectively to the said inlet ports, said supply conduits and outlets opening through the casing adjacent to each other and adapted to have a coupling head secured thereto.

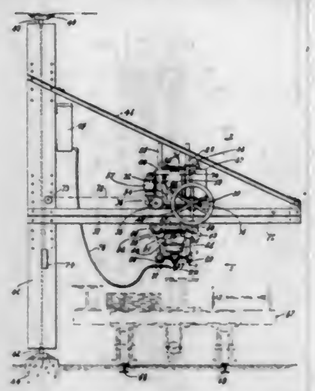
2. A centrifugal pump comprising a casing having a plurality of volute chambers therein in spaced relation, central inlet ports for said chambers, outlets from said chambers, impellers rotatably mounted in said chambers and having their eyes in register with said ports, supply conduits arranged between and leading respectively to the said inlet ports, and a head secured to the casing having a cross-over connection between the outlet of one chamber and the supply conduit of another chamber, an inlet port and an outlet port communicating with the other supply conduit and the other outlet.



1,623,083. VACUUM-PRODUCING APPARATUS. CHARLES F. AMES, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor of one-fifth to Alphonse H. E. Berchem and one-fifth to Harry S. Schanck, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 22, 1925. Serial No. 64,086. 7 Claims. (Cl. 103—6.)

1. A vacuum producing apparatus comprising primary and secondary chambers in free communication with each other at a predetermined level, two centrifugal pump elements below the level of the chambers, inlet and outlet water circulation connections between one of said pump elements and the primary chamber, said connections including an ejector leading to the upper part of the chamber, an exhaust connection in communication with the ejector, and discharge connections between the other pump element and the secondary chamber.

1,623,084. DRILLING APPARATUS. MILO A. BAKER, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Oct. 8, 1925. Serial No. 61,205. 14 Claims. (Cl. 77—27.)

1. A drilling apparatus comprising spaced rails, a pair of wheels on each rail, a cylinder mounted on the wheels, a plunger in the cylinder, an electrically operated drill connected with the plunger, means to admit an operating fluid to the cylinder and an electrically operated pump mounted on the cylinder operable to impart pressure to the operating fluid.

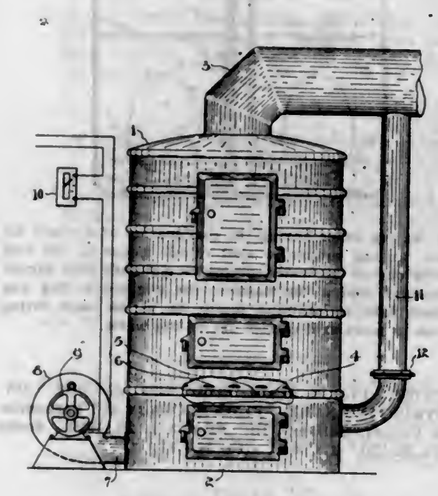
1,623,085. MANUFACTURE OF SHAPED ARTICLES OF CASEIN. AMANDUS BARTELS and OTTO MIECH, Harburg-on-the-Elbe, Germany. Filed Mar. 24, 1926, Serial No. 97,141, and in Germany May 15, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 18—47.5.)

1. A method of manufacturing shaped articles from artificial horn made from casein, consisting in producing from non-hardened casein material separate pieces corresponding in size and shape to the desired product, with such material containing approximately between 7 and 17% of water, rapidly softening such pieces by the action of heat, treating such pieces to give them their final form, and finally hardening and drying the pieces.



1,623,086. ILLUMINATED ORNAMENTAL DEVICE. RICHARD W. BOCK, River Forest, Ill. Filed Sept. 2, 1925. Serial No. 54,044. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—10.)

1. A decorative object of opaque material having a hollow interior and having outer surfaces of irregular shape forming hollows and recesses therein and projections thereupon extending outwardly adjacent to the respective recesses and cooperating to define the recesses, the walls of the object having openings therethrough leading to the hollow interior, said openings being located in such hollows and recesses respectively, a source of light within the hollow interior, and means for supporting the object in its normal position, the arrangement of said openings being such that the glow from the hollow interior is diffused by the walls defining the openings respectively and by outer surfaces of the projections adjacent thereto to produce a glowing area at and about the openings.

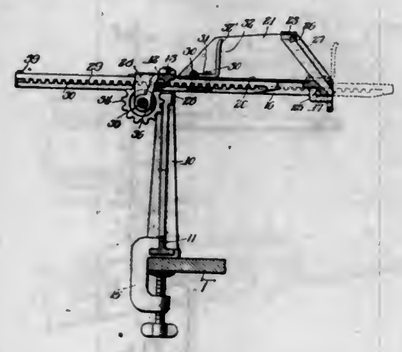
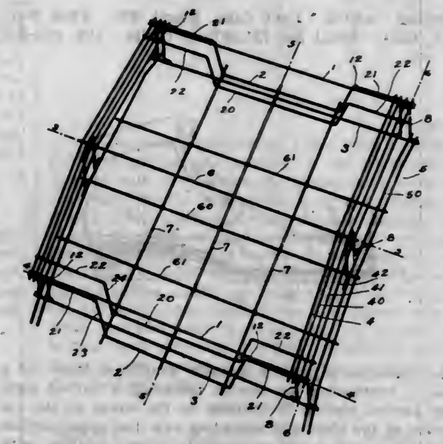
1,623,087. FURNACE. ALEXANDER GRAHAM BOYD, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed May 22, 1926. Serial No. 110,958. 4 Claims. (Cl. 110—69.)



1. The combination with a furnace provided with a closed ash pit, of means for supplying air under pressure to the ash pit; a relief pipe leading from the ash pit; and a valve in said relief pipe adapted to close when air pressure exists in the ash pit and to open when the air pressure in the ash pit falls to a point at or near atmospheric pressure.

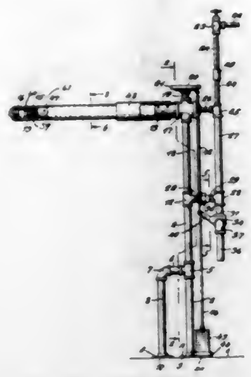
1,623,088. MACHINE FOR CUTTING GREEN CORN FROM THE COB. FRANK W. BURPEE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Burpee Can Sealer Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 8, 1926. Serial No. 93,003. 7 Claims. (Cl. 130—9.)



1. In a machine for cutting green corn from the cob, the combination of a stationary annular frame member, a circular group of levers pivoted on said frame member, a cutting blade on one arm of each lever, a gear segment on another arm of each lever, a ring encircling said group of levers and formed with internal gear segments in mesh with said lever gear segments and wholly supported by the latter, means for confining said ring against lateral movement away from said frame member, and spring means urging said ring in a direction to swing said cutter blades toward the axis of said frame member.

1,623,089. GREEN-VEGETABLE CUTTER. FRANK W. BURPEE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Burpee Can Sealer Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 31, 1926. Serial No. 98,754. 8 Claims. (Cl. 146—170.)

1. In a machine for comminuting vegetables, the combination of a support, a stock receptacle mounted on said support formed with side walls and an open front end, a group of downwardly and forwardly inclined spaced cutter blades mounted across the open front end of said receptacle, a pusher, and means for reciprocating said pusher through said receptacle.



1,623,090. REENFORCED-CONCRETE PAVING. GEORGE D. BURR, Seattle, Wash. Filed Aug. 31, 1925. Serial No. 53,542. 6 Claims. (Cl. 94—8.)

6. A reenforcing element for concrete paving slabs comprising a longitudinal bar adapted in the main to lie in the lower portion of the side edge of the slab, the ends of said bar being bent upwardly and extending to the ends of the slab, and adapted to lie in the upper portion of the side edge thereof, a second longitudinal bar extending between the end portions of said first bar, to lie in the upper portion of the slab edge, and means for securing together the ends of said bars.

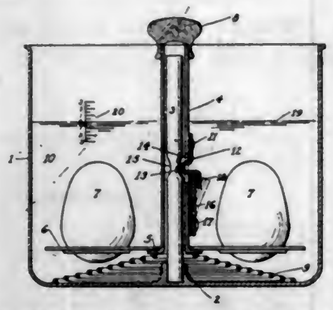
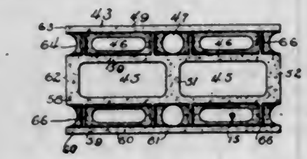
1,623,091. DRY-STEAM SLEEVE-FINISHING BOARD. WALLACE W. CAMPBELL, Denver, Colo. Filed July 30, 1926. Serial No. 125,926. 4 Claims. (Cl. 68—9.)



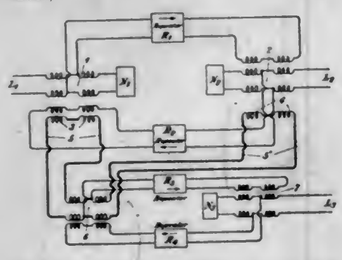
1. In a sleeve steaming board having a perforated, tubular arm, means for supporting said arm in a horizontal position, one end of said arm being closed, and means for connecting the other end of the arm with a source of steam under pressure and with an exhaust pipe, the combination with said exhaust pipe of a valve having means comprising a spring for holding it in closed position and means comprising a pedal for moving it to open position when pressure is applied to the pedal.

1,623,092. SHOE. PAUL CARR, Miami, Fla. Filed Nov. 21, 1924. Serial No. 751,337. 1 Claim. (Cl. 36—3.)



In combination with a movable ventilator insole of a shoe, a ventilating toe section including a curved rigid body portion curved to conform to the shape of the toe portion of the shoe, ribs extending over the upper surface of the toe section and arranged in spaced relation with each other, said ribs contacting with the inner surface of the toe of the shoe to provide air passageways therebetween so that movement of the insole will force air through the passage ways and over the toe section.

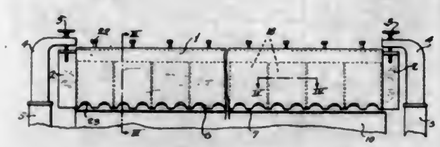
1,623,093. AUTOMATIC EGG BOILER. PHILIP P. CHAPIN and WILLIAM J. KUPEC, New York, N. Y., assignors of one-third to Dominick Castaguaro, New York, N. Y. Filed June 28, 1926. Serial No. 119,096. 5 Claims. (Cl. 53—1.)



2. An egg boiler having the combination of a vessel for water, an egg carrier in said vessel, means to lift said carrier out of the water, means to maintain said carrier submerged, and a thermostatic bar adapted to flex and actuate said maintaining means to permit said lifting means to move said carrier out of the water.

1,623,094. BLOCK WALL AND METHOD FOR CONSTRUCTING SAME. FLOYD S. COOLEY and FREDERICK A. COOLEY, McHenry, Ill. Filed Aug. 26, 1925. Serial No. 52,570. 1 Claim. (Cl. 72—41.)

A building block formed to provide an air space to minimize the weight thereof, a row of vertical apertures near one face of the block for the purpose of receiving a filler, and a longitudinally extending groove connecting said vertical apertures, said longitudinally extending groove being bridged by cross walls of less height than the depth of the groove.



1,623,095. MULTIWAY CONNECTION. GEORGE CHRISSON, East Orange, N. J., and HAROLD C. SILENT, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 24, 1925. Serial No. 71,233. 5 Claims. (Cl. 179—170.)

1. A circuit for establishing a multi-way telephone connection between a plurality of lines comprising two line sections interconnected by a repeater set, said repeater set comprising two one-way repeater circuits having their terminals connected to hybrid coils, a third line section connected to a second repeater set, said second repeater set comprising two one-way repeater circuits having their terminals connected to hybrid coils, and a loop circuit associated with the windings of both of the hybrid coils of said first repeater set and having included serially therein windings of one of the hybrid coils of said second repeater set.

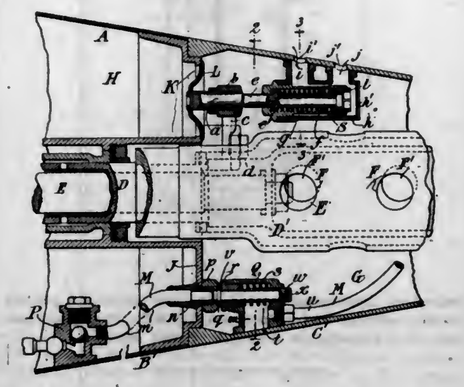
1,623,096. SLICE FOR PAPER MACHINES. DAVID B. DAVIES and COMMADORE J. THOMAS, Green Bay, Wis. Filed Oct. 24, 1925. Serial No. 64,565. 6 Claims. (Cl. 92—44.)

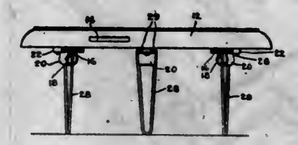
1. A slice for paper machines having unobstructed orifices along its lower edge whereby streams of stock of unequal depth are allowed to flow thereunder onto the wire in the direction of said wire.

1,623,097. FITTING FOR QUICK-DETACHABLE COUPLINGS. GEORGE W. DE LOACHE, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Larkin Automotive Parts Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Aug. 9, 1926. Serial No. 128,164. 5 Claims. (Cl. 184—105.)



1. In a valved coupling element of the character described, a tubular member, a valve seat formed at one end thereof, a transverse coupling pin extending through said tubular member and protruding on opposite sides thereof, a closure member located at one side of said pin for engagement with the valve seat, an actuating spring located within the tubular member on the opposite side of the transverse pin, and spacer means intermediate the closure member and spring and extending past the pin to transmit the pressure and movement of one of said members to the other.

1,623,098. CONTACT BLOCK FOR ELECTRIC ORGANS AND THE LIKE. CHARLES N. DEVERALL, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Rudolph Wurlitzer Manufacturing Company, North Tonawanda, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 17, 1922. Serial No. 561,622. 3 Claims. (Cl. 200—166.)

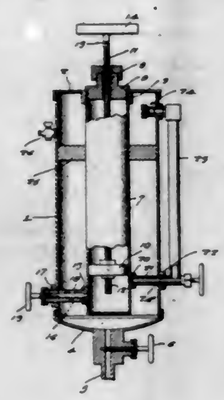


3. As an article of manufacture, a sectional contact-block, comprising a front section provided with a reduced overhanging rearward extension, a rear section secured to the underside of said reduced extension and having its bottom substantially flush with that of the front section, and a flexible contact-member secured at one end to said front section and fulcrumed upon the rear section at a point beyond the attachment of said member to the front section.

1,623,099. AUTOMOBILE TORPEDO. WILLIAM DIETER, Newark, N. J. Filed Jan. 28, 1926. Serial No. 84,318. 19 Claims. (Cl. 114—20.)

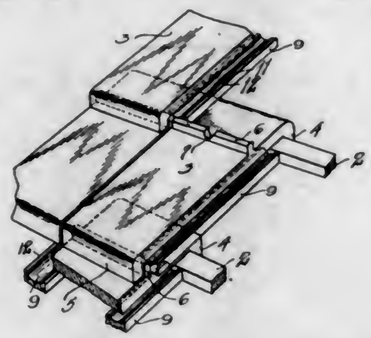
1. In an automobile torpedo having a transverse bulkhead with an exhaust opening through it, an exhaust valve to close said opening, and a spring carried by the tail section and located on the aft side of said bulkhead to close said valve.

1,623,100. SLICING BOARD. FRANCIS M. DOLAN, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Feb. 5, 1925. Serial No. 7,045. 1 Claim. (Cl. 45—11.)



A slicing board comprising a flat piece of wood, a plurality of projections secured to the underside thereof, each of said projections consisting of a metal member bent downwardly to provide a rounded recess, a bow-shaped metal member having its ends engaging the ends of said first member and having inclined sides terminating in stops and a third metal member extending over said first member with its ends bent over the ends thereof and extending under the ends of said bow-shaped member, screws passing through the overlapping ends of said three members, and V-shaped legs of springy material having upper bent ends pivotally mounted in said rounded recesses, the branches of said legs yieldingly engaging said inclined sides.

1,623,101. LUBRICANT PUMP. OLIVER WENDELL FISHER, Baton Rouge, La. Filed Mar. 17, 1926. Serial No. 95,322. 2 Claims. (Cl. 221—47.1.)



1. In a device of the class described, a casing having a valve discharge at one end, an air pump carried by and extending into the interior of the casing, said pump including a cylinder fixedly connected to said casing and a plunger slidable in the cylinder, a follower slidably mounted in said casing and upon said cylinder, and a valved air passage connected with the inner end portion of the cylinder and communicating with the upper portion of the casing on one side of said follower.

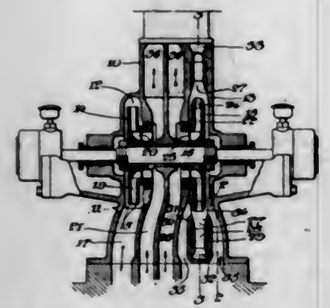
1,623,102. ROOF CONSTRUCTION. ARTHUR B. FORSBERG, Spokane, Wash. Filed Oct. 17, 1925. Serial No. 63,044. 1 Claim. (Cl. 108—10.)

A roof structure comprising spaced horizontal cleats, overlapping courses of shingles with hooks on their upper ends engaging over said cleats, alined exterior cross ribs on the overlapped outer faces of said shingles having notches therein, gutter-sections below the joints of the shingles alined with said joints and resting on their lower ends on the upper portions of overlapped shingles, and alined weather flanges on the lower overlapping ends of the shingles engaging over said cross ribs.



1,623,103. VACUUM-PRODUCING APPARATUS. RHEUEL H. FREDERICK, Irvington, N. J., assignor of two-fifths to Charles F. Ames, Brooklyn, N. Y., and one-fifth to Alphonse H. E. Berchem, New York, N. Y. Filed June 2, 1926. Serial No. 113,308. 10 Claims. (Cl. 103—6.)

1. In a vacuum producing apparatus for steam heating systems, the combination with a receiver for motive liquid and condensate, of a pump element including an impeller chamber, a rotary vacuum impeller therein having a central inlet and a continuous circumferential discharge venturi, a connection affording communication between the receiver and the central inlet, an annular chamber encircling the venturi and spaced therefrom, whereby a diverging annular stream of liquid is forcibly discharged into the said chamber and against the walls thereof, thus producing an ejector effect and a water seal, a vacuum space within which the venturi rotates, said space being in operative communication with the annular chamber and the return line of the steam heating system, and a discharge connection between the said chamber and the upper part of the receiver.

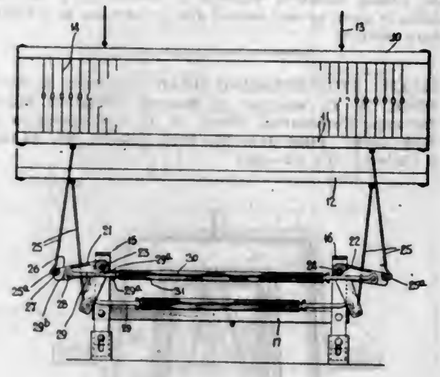
1,623,104. CENTRIFUGAL PUMP. RHEUEL H. FREDERICK, Irvington, N. J., assignor of two-fifths to Charles F. Ames, Brooklyn, N. Y., and one-fifth to Alphonse H. E. Berchem, New York, N. Y. Filed June 2, 1926. Serial No. 113,309. 8 Claims. (Cl. 230—14.)



1. A pump comprising a casing, an impeller chamber therein, a centrifugal impeller mounted to rotate in said chamber and having a central fluid inlet and a circumferential Venturi nozzle, a chamber spaced from and encircling said nozzle and adapted to receive a diverging annulus of fluid ejected from the nozzle, a vacuum chamber in operative communication with the venturi and the encircling chamber, and a discharge chamber encircling the latter chamber.

1,623,105. TENSION DEVICE FOR THE HARNESS OF LOOMS. JOACHIM GIARDINO, West New York, N. J. Filed Apr. 21, 1926. Serial No. 103,479. 6 Claims. (Cl. 139—89.)

1. A tension device for the harness shafts of looms comprising a coil spring, means interposed between the end of the spring and adjacent end portions of a shaft of the harness for applying tension to said shaft, said means involving pivoted levers arranged in spaced and opposed relation, said levers being of channel formation in cross section, the side walls of the channel projecting at the outer ends of the lever, pins mounted in and traversing the space between said side walls, and connecting rods mounted on the outermost pins of said levers coupled with said shaft.

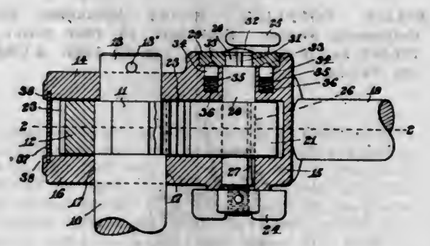
1,623,106. HORN. SAMUEL GOLDBERG, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 16, 1926. Serial No. 88,524. 1 Claim. (Cl. 46—46.)

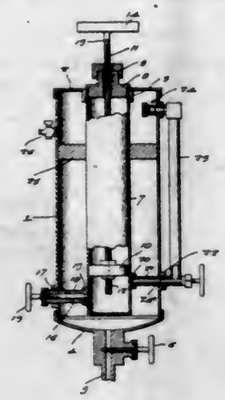


A horn comprising an inwardly tapering main body provided at its inner end with a sounding reed, and an elongated continuously inwardly tapering integral mouthpiece enclosing the reed to define a reed chamber and having its small end secured to the main body, the large end of the mouthpiece being remotely disposed with respect to the point of attachment of the mouthpiece to the main body and being spaced a substantial distance from the reed and having an integral continuously rounded top portion terminating in an integral inturned cylindrical flange extending into the reed chamber.

1,623,107. GASOLINE RECEPTACLE. ALBERT M. GOODYKOONTZ, Harlingen, Tex. Filed Sept. 18, 1926. Serial No. 136,810. 6 Claims. (Cl. 221—1.)

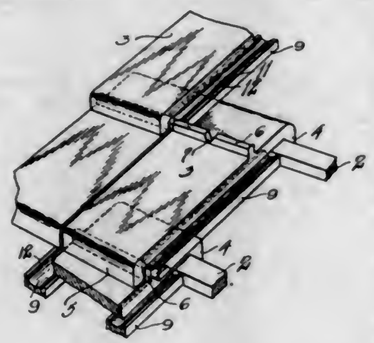
1. A collapsible receptacle of flexible material comprising a body with side walls terminating at their upper ends in apertured handle portions and accordion pleat edge walls of a less height than the side walls, a foldable bottom, a foldable top covering a portion of the upper end of the body, and a spout carried by said foldable top.

1,623,108. OPERATING MECHANISM FOR LIFTING JACKS. FRANK L. GORMLEY, Brookline, Mass., assignor to The Buda Company, Harvey, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 10, 1925. Serial No. 49,268. 18 Claims. (Cl. 192—43.1.)



1. The combination of a driving shaft; a ratchet secured thereto having V-shaped teeth; a casing movable about the axis of said shaft; a pawl wholly enclosed within said casing having a plurality of V-shaped teeth in a curved plane and all adapted to fit the teeth of said ratchet; a pin mounted in the walls of said casing to which said pawl is keyed; and means on the outer end of said pin whereby said pin may be oscillated.

1,623,109. FLUSHING-VALVE MECHANISM. PHILIP HAAS, Dayton, Ohio. Filed June 9, 1925. Serial No. 35,873. 3 Claims. (Cl. 4—67.)



1. In flushing valve mechanism, the combination with a tank provided with a flushing outlet and valve seat, and a vertical overflow pipe adjacent thereto, a valve engaging said seat and provided with a guiding stem, and a guide for said stem, of a bell crank lever pivotedly supported adjacent to the upper end of the overflow pipe

cluding a cylinder fixedly connected to said casing and a plunger slidable in the cylinder, a follower slidably mounted in said casing and upon said cylinder, and a valved air passage connected with the inner end portion of the cylinder and communicating with the upper portion of the casing on one side of said follower.

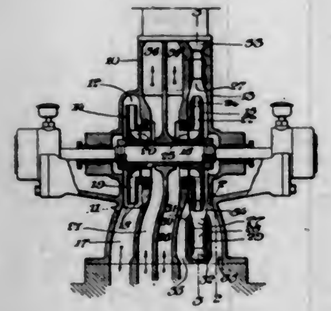
1,623,102. ROOF CONSTRUCTION. ARTHUR B. FOSSEEN, Spokane, Wash. Filed Oct. 17, 1925. Serial No. 63,044. 1 Claim. (Cl. 108—10.)

A roof structure comprising spaced horizontal cleats, overlapping courses of shingles with hooks on their upper ends engaging over said cleats, alined exterior cross ribs on the overlapped outer faces of said shingles having notches therein, gutter-sections below the joints of the shingles alined with said joints and resting on their lower ends on the upper portions of overlapped shingles, and alined weather flanges on the lower overlapping ends of the shingles engaging over said cross ribs.



1,623,103. VACUUM-PRODUCING APPARATUS. RHEUEL H. FREDERICK, Irvington, N. J., assignor of two-fifths to Charles F. Ames, Brooklyn, N. Y., and one-fifth to Alphonse H. E. Berchem, New York, N. Y. Filed June 2, 1926. Serial No. 113,308. 10 Claims. (Cl. 103—6.)

1. In a vacuum producing apparatus for steam heating systems, the combination with a receiver for motive liquid and condensate, of a pump element including an impeller chamber, a rotary vacuum impeller therein having a central inlet and a continuous circumferential discharge venturi, a connection affording communication between the receiver and the central inlet, an annular chamber encircling the venturi and spaced therefrom, whereby a diverging annular stream of liquid is forcibly discharged into the said chamber and against the walls thereof, thus producing an ejector effect and a water seal, a vacuum space within which the venturi rotates, said space being in operative communication with the annular chamber and the return line of the steam heating system, and a discharge connection between the said chamber and the upper part of the receiver.

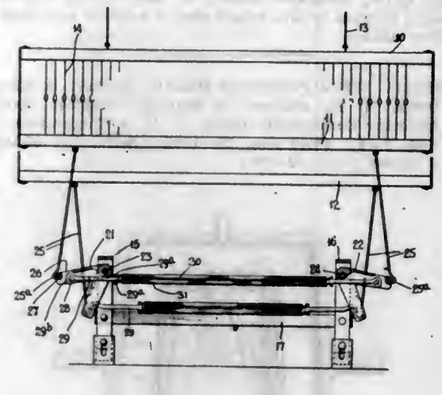
1,623,104. CENTRIFUGAL PUMP. RHEUEL H. FREDERICK, Irvington, N. J., assignor of two-fifths to Charles F. Ames, Brooklyn, N. Y., and one-fifth to Alphonse H. E. Berchem, New York, N. Y. Filed June 2, 1926. Serial No. 113,309. 8 Claims. (Cl. 230—14.)



1. A pump comprising a casing, an impeller chamber therein, a centrifugal impeller mounted to rotate in said chamber and having a central fluid inlet and a circumferential Venturi nozzle, a chamber spaced from and encircling said nozzle and adapted to receive a diverging annulus of fluid ejected from the nozzle, a vacuum chamber in operative communication with the venturi and the encircling chamber, and a discharge chamber encircling the latter chamber.

1,623,105. TENSION DEVICE FOR THE HARNESS OF LOOMS. JOACHIM GIARDINO, West New York, N. J. Filed Apr. 21, 1926. Serial No. 103,479. 6 Claims. (Cl. 139—89.)

1. A tension device for the harness shafts of looms comprising a coil spring, means interposed between the end of the spring and adjacent end portions of a shaft of the harness for applying tension to said shaft, said means involving pivoted levers arranged in spaced and opposed relation, said levers being of channel formation in cross section, the side walls of the channel projecting at the outer ends of the lever, pins mounted in and traversing the space between said side walls, and connecting rods mounted on the outermost pins of said levers coupled with said shaft.

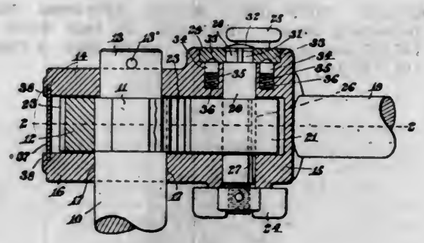
1,623,106. HORN. SAMUEL GOLDBERG, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 16, 1926. Serial No. 88,524. 1 Claim. (Cl. 46—46.)

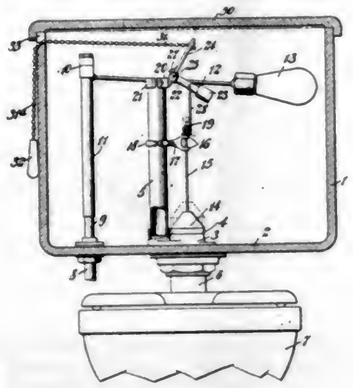


A horn comprising an inwardly tapering main body provided at its inner end with a sounding reed, and an elongated continuously inwardly tapering integral mouthpiece enclosing the reed to define a reed chamber and having its small end secured to the main body, the large end of the mouthpiece being remotely disposed with respect to the point of attachment of the mouthpiece to the main body and being spaced a substantial distance from the reed and having an integral continuously rounded top portion terminating in an integral inturned cylindrical flange extending into the reed chamber.

1,623,107. GASOLINE RECEPTACLE. ALBERT M. GOODYKOONTZ, Harlingen, Tex. Filed Sept. 18, 1926. Serial No. 136,310. 6 Claims. (Cl. 221—1.)

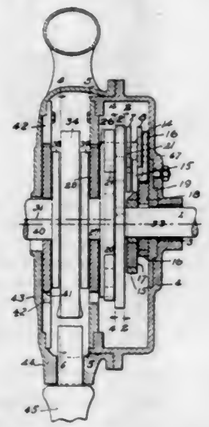
1. A collapsible receptacle of flexible material comprising a body with side walls terminating at their upper ends in apertured handle portions and accordion pleat edge walls of a less height than the side walls, a foldable bottom, a foldable top covering a portion of the upper end of the body, and a spout carried by said foldable top.

1,623,108. OPERATING MECHANISM FOR LIFTING JACKS. FRANK L. GOEMLEY, Brookline, Mass., assignor to The Buda Company, Harvey, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 10, 1925. Serial No. 49,268. 18 Claims. (Cl. 192—43.1.)



1. The combination of a driving shaft; a ratchet secured thereto having V-shaped teeth; a casing movable about the axis of said shaft; a pawl wholly enclosed within said casing having a plurality of V-shaped teeth in a curved plane and all adapted to fit the teeth of said ratchet; a pin mounted in the walls of said casing to which said pawl is keyed; and means on the outer end of said pin whereby said pin may be oscillated.

1,623,109. FLUSHING-VALVE MECHANISM. PHILIP HAAS, Dayton, Ohio. Filed June 9, 1925. Serial No. 35,873. 8 Claims. (Cl. 4—67.)



1. In flushing valve mechanism, the combination with a tank provided with a flushing outlet and valve seat, and a vertical overflow pipe adjacent thereto, a valve engaging said seat and provided with a guiding stem, and a guide for said stem, of a bell crank lever pivotedly supported adjacent to the upper end of the overflow pipe and comprising a horizontally disposed weighted arm and a vertically disposed operating arm, said bell crank lever being provided adjacent to and on opposite sides of its pivot with stops to engage a stationary part, one of said stops being normally engaged and operative to support the weighted arm in substantially horizontal position, and the other of said stops being operative to prevent the movement of said weighted arm into inoperative position, a connection from said valve stem to said weighted arm constructed to permit the valve to move upwardly with respect to said connection, and a flexible connection secured to the operating arm of the bell crank and extending outside of the tank, said tank being provided with guiding means frictionally engaging said flexible connection, the frictional engagement of said flexible connection with said guiding means serving to cushion the return movement of said bell crank lever.

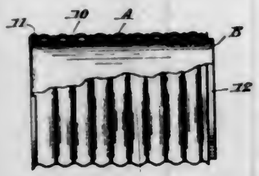
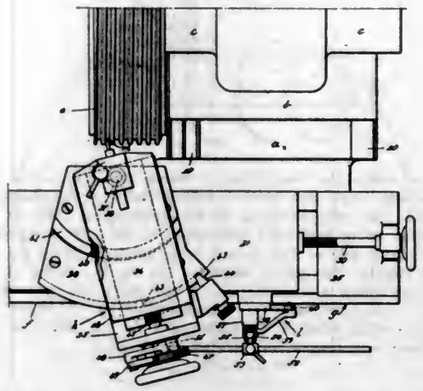
1,623,110. COUPLING. RUDOLF ALEXANDER HAGE, Gottenborg, Sweden. Filed Sept. 13, 1924, Serial No. 737,567, and in Great Britain Aug. 12, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)



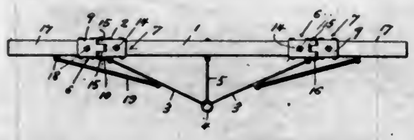
1. A coupling device comprising a rotating shaft, a disc-like member mounted on said shaft, two arms mounted on a common pivot on said disc-like member, means for imparting to the free ends of said arms a reciprocatory arcuate motion in addition to their bodily rotary motion with said disc-like member, a second disc mounted in a separate bearing having freedom of movement in a vertical direction, two sliding members which slide in grooves crossing one another at right angles in the face of said second disc, and means for imparting the reciprocatory motion of said free ends of said arms to said sliding members whereby a reciprocatory vertical motion is given to said second disc in addition to a bodily rotary motion.

1,623,111. PULP-PRESSING HEAD. RICHARD E. HALL, Olean, N. Y., assignor to Seaman Container Manufacturing Corporation, Olean, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 27, 1926. Serial No. 84,106. 3 Claims. (Cl. 92—60.)



1. In combination, a hollow outer shell having pressure and suction communication and an annular flange on its base, a flexible pressing bag and a perforated metal hood adapted to have removable engagement with said shell, the perforated metal hood being interposed between said flexible bag and the shell, and retaining elements adapted to have cooperative locking engagement with the flange on the shell and with the base of the perforated metal hood and flexible bag respectively, including a removably mounted ring having cooperative engagement with the lower ends of the shell, flexible bag and metal hood respectively, and clamping means for locking said ring in position.

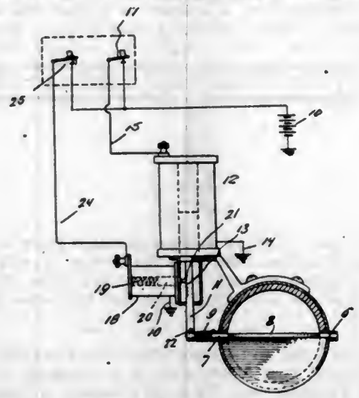
1,623,112. CORRUGATED PIPE OR CULVERT. WILLIAM HERBERT HALL, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada, assignor to The Pedlar People Limited, Oshawa, Canada, a Corporation. Filed Apr. 11, 1924. Serial No. 705,896. 1 Claim. (Cl. 137—75.)



A corrugated culvert section formed from a single sheet of metal and having the edges overlapped, a lining for the culvert formed with overlapping edges and securing means through the overlapped edges of the lining and the metal to form an overlapped joint, the lining being folded over the culvert at one end to prevent leakage and formed with a projection at the other end protruding beyond the culvert to provide a lappage for an adjacent section.

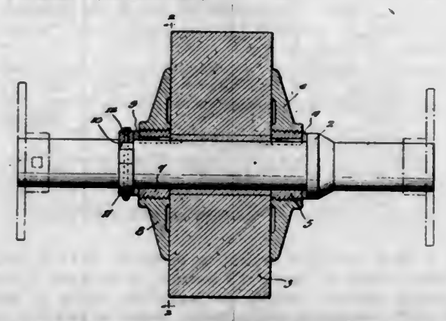
1,623,113. APPARATUS FOR AND METHOD OF TRUING ABRASIVE SCREWS. BENGT M. W. HANSON, Hartford, Conn.; Einar A. Hanson and Clarence E. Whitney executors of said Bengt M. W. Hanson, deceased. Filed Nov. 30, 1923. Serial No. 677,632. 18 Claims. (Cl. 125—11.)

16. The method of truing a thread on an abrasive screw which consists in taking helical cuts in a side face of the thread at successive points in the direction of its depth.



1,623,114. HARROW. RICHARD C. HAUGLAND, Jackson, Minn. Filed June 24, 1926. Serial No. 118,374. 1 Claim. (Cl. 55—84.)

In a harrow structure of the class described, a main harrow section and relatively movable end sections, and a hinge structure between the adjacent ends of said sections, said hinge structure embodying a pair of complemental parts, each of which is of channel-shaped cross section and is fastened to the complemental end of said sections, one of said parts being provided with a pair of spaced projecting pintle receiving bearings, and the other part being provided with a centrally disposed single projecting pintle receiving bearing disposed between the first named bearings, together with apertured ears located on the outer sides of the first named pair of bearings, and a pintle connecting pin passing through said bearings and apertures in said ears.



1,623,115. ELECTRICALLY-CONTROLLED CUT-OUT. KELLIS S. HENSLEY, Wanego, W. Va. Filed Jan. 27, 1926. Serial No. 84,141. 2 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)

1. In an electrically controlled cut out and in combination, a conduit having a lateral orifice, a jacket secured about said conduit and having a lateral orifice and also having side flanges connected together, a cut out valve located in the conduit and having trunnions journaled in bearings between the flanges of the jacket, one of said trunnions being comparatively long and provided with a crank arm, a torsional spring mounted about said comparatively long trunnion and arranged and connected to return the valve to and maintain the valve in one position yieldingly, a solenoid, a bar connected to the armature of the solenoid and also connected to said arm on the valve trunnion and having teeth, an auxiliary solenoid having on its armature a latch for cooperation with the teeth of said bar, a source of electric energy, and normally open circuits comprising the said solenoids and the said source of energy and also comprising normal open switches.

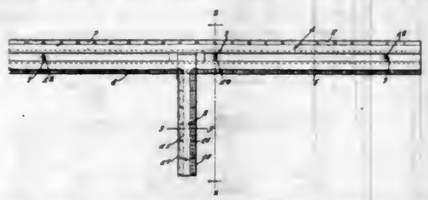
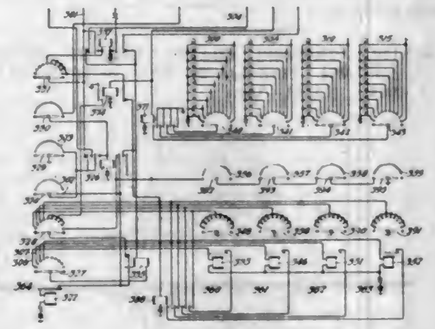
1,623,116. GRINDER SHAFT. FRED H. HEURING, Niagara, Wis. Filed Apr. 29, 1925. Serial No. 26,724. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—168.)



A grinder shaft having an annularly extending groove formed therein, an annularly extending abutment shoulder rigid with said shaft and spaced from said groove longitudinally of the shaft, threaded sleeves keyed upon said shaft in spaced relation to each other between the groove and shoulder and having their outer ends spaced from the groove and shoulder, a grinder upon said shaft between said sleeves, clamping disks threaded upon said sleeves and having firm gripping engagement with opposite sides of said grinder, a collar removably secured in said groove and of greater external diameter than said shaft and forming a second annularly extending abutment, a removable fastener passed radially through said collar and shaft, and soft metal washers upon said shaft fitting snugly between said shoulder and collar and the outer ends of said sleeves.

1,623,117. PLOTTING SQUARE. FRANK HOLLAND, Poplar Bluff, Mo. Filed Sept. 9, 1925. Serial No. 55,312. 3 Claims. (Cl. 33—103.)



1. A plotting square comprising a combined plotting arm carrier and base scale member having its upper face, centrally thereof, provided with a lengthwise disposed dove-tail groove extending from one end to the other end of said member and a plotting arm scaled to conform to the scale of said member and provided with a dove-tail head slidably mounted in said groove for maintaining the arm at right angles to said member, said arm having its inner end edge overlapping and snugly engaging said member, and retaining members threadedly engaging with said combined carrier and base scale member for detachably securing it to a support to prevent the slipping thereof, said retaining members arranged below said head having their tops flush with the bottom of said groove and extending through and projecting from the lower portion of the combined carrier and base scale member.

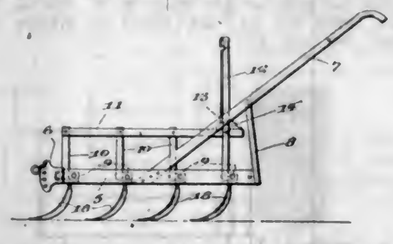
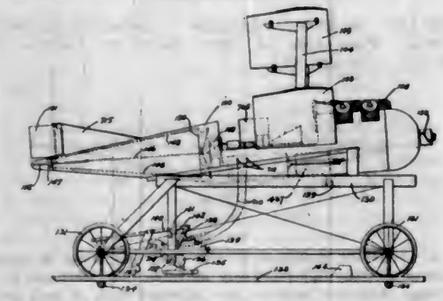
1,623,118. TELEPHONE-EXCHANGE SYSTEM. EMIL JACOBSEN, Port Washington, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 3, 1922, Serial No. 540,888. Renewed Oct. 18, 1926. 34 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)



1. In a telephone system, a telephone line, an automatic switch, an operator's position, a plurality of connecting circuits thereat, an indicating device at said position common to said circuits, means in said line for transmitting a plurality of impulses thereover, said switch being responsive to certain of said impulses for extending said line to one of the connecting circuits at the operator's position, other of said impulses being directed to said position, and means responsive to such impulses for operating said indicating mechanism.

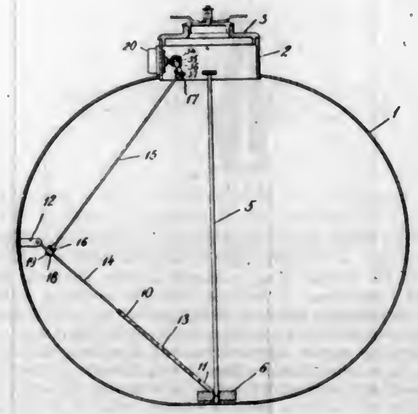
1,623,119. TEE FOR GOLF BALLS. GRAHAM KEARNEY, Lisbon, Ohio. Filed Aug. 26, 1926. Serial No. 131,761. 8 Claims. (Cl. 273—33.)



1. A tee comprising a peg adapted to be forced into the ground and having a head adapted to be arranged substantially flush with the surface of the ground and a plurality of tee seats of different heights hinged to said head.

1,623,120. CULTIVATOR. ANDREW JOSEPH KERN, Paris, Ky. Filed Feb. 9, 1922. Serial No. 535,415. 1 Claim. (Cl. 55—102.)

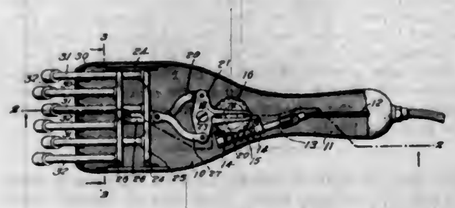
A cultivator comprising a frame consisting of a continuous band and formed substantially wedge-shaped in plan, the side surfaces of the converging sides of the frame being vertically disposed and the side surfaces of the rear side of the frame being inclined upwardly and forwardly, the lower edges of all of the sides of the frame being approximately in the same plane, a series of tooth carrying bars circumscribed by the band, the bars being pivoted at their ends in the sides of the frame, and means for turning the bars.



1,623,121. CONTROL APPARATUS. CHARLES F. KETTERING, Dayton, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Dayton-Wright Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 25, 1919. Serial No. 319,667. 31 Claims. (Cl. 244—30.)

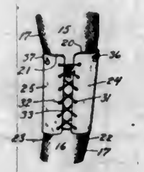
1. Controlling apparatus for a self-propelled vehicle, adapted for movement in a sustaining medium, comprising the combination with a propelling means, a rudder, and an elevator; of pneumatic means for operating said rudder to control the direction of flight of said vehicle, and a direction indicating mechanism for actuating said means; pneumatic means for operating said elevator to control the elevation of the vehicle in the sustaining medium; and means responsive to variations in altitude for actuating said elevator operating means; and pneumatic means associated with the propelling means for automatically stopping the operation of such propelling means after the vehicle has traveled a predetermined distance, said last-named means comprising an air distance recording wind wheel.

1,623,122. LIQUID-LEVEL INDICATOR. ANDREW A. KRAMER, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Jan. 5, 1926. Serial No. 79,281. 5 Claims. (Cl. 73—82.)



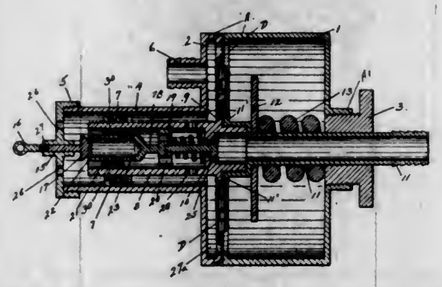
1. In a liquid level indicator for tanks, a float, a guide rod extending from the center point of the bottom through the center of the tank upwardly to a point adjacent the top thereof, said guide rod being adapted to direct the movement of the float, a bracket supported by the tank and arranged in spaced relation to said guide rod, an arm comprising two telescopically connected members, pivoted at one end to said bracket, the other end of said arm being attached to the float, a second arm having a universal connection at one end thereof, by which said arm is joined to the first mentioned arm at a point adjacent its pivoted end, and means associated therewith for indicating the position of the float in the tank.

1,623,123. PROCESS FOR PRODUCING COLORED PHOTOGRAPHS (POSITIVE PRINTS ON PAPER OR THE LIKE). ERNST AUGUST LAGE, Hamburg, Germany. Filed July 25, 1921, Serial No. 487,527, and in Germany July 30, 1920. 1 Claim. (Cl. 95—2.)



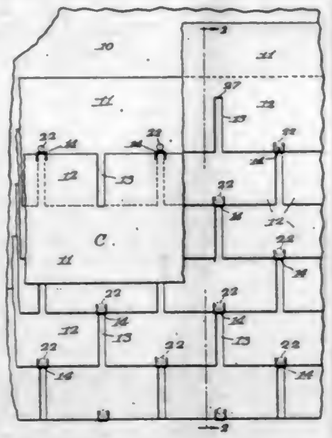
A process for producing colored photographic prints, consisting in subjecting a black silver print made from the yellow printing negative to a bleaching bath including lead nitrate, potassium ferricyanide, and nitric acid, resensitizing the print with a solution containing potassium ferricyanide and ferric ammonium citrate and printing from the blue printing negative, washing and then resensitizing the print with a solution of potassium bichromate, printing from the red printing print, applying red color for adherence to those parts of the negative which have been exposed to the light, and fixing the sodium thiosulfate.

1,623,124. MASSAGE AND SHAMPOOING APPARATUS. HENRY CHARLES LAUFE, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 23, 1925. Serial No. 70,814. 2 Claims. (Cl. 128—60.)



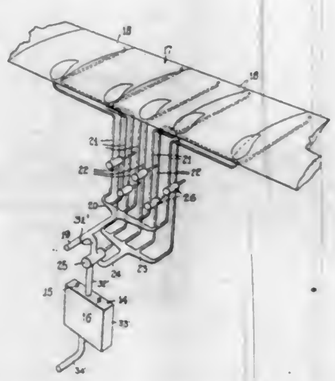
1. A scalp treating apparatus comprising a group of fingers, a second group of fingers, the fingers of said second group being disposed between the fingers of the first, and means for causing relative movement between the groups.

1,623,125. ANATOMICAL RESTRAINING APPLIANCE. HYMAN LEVINE, Englewood, Colo. Filed May 18, 1923. Serial No. 639,845. 2 Claims. (Cl. 128—133.)



1. A device of the character disclosed, embodying a pair of individually non-sectional longitudinally tapering limb supporting shields, made of stiffly flexible material that is formed slightly arcuate in cross-section and is of a width less than one-half of the circumference of the limb to which they are to be applied in opposite snug fitting relation, the said shields being springy transversely and substantially rigid lengthwise, lacing means hingedly and adjustably connecting one complementary pair of the longitudinal edge portions of said shields, with their tapering edge faces disposed in edgewise spaced relation, and lacing means adjustably connecting their remaining longitudinal edge portions, with their tapering edge faces disposed in edgewise spaced relation.

1,623,126. DIAPHRAGM VALVE. ROBERT E. MITTON, Salt Lake City, Utah. Filed July 3, 1926. Serial No. 120,345. 7 Claims. (Cl. 303—54.)

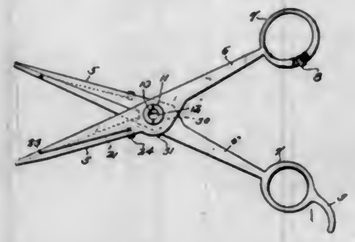


1. In a valve the combination of a casing having one end of less diameter than the other; a diaphragm mounted in the large end of said casing; a piston longitudinally movable in said smaller portion; a tubular casing secured to said piston and to said diaphragm; a tube secured to the diaphragm end of said tubular casing and connected with the air supply; a valve seat cut in said tubular casing; a guide member longitudinally movable in said tubular casing; a valve plug connected with the guide member; and a piston secured to said guide member and carried in said tubular casing.

1,623,127. ROOFING. ALBERT E. F. MOONE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Lehon Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 10, 1926. Serial No. 121,643. 11 Claims. (Cl. 108—33.)

6. Flexible prepared roofing adapted to be laid upon a deck in overlapping courses, and a separately formed hinge secured adjacent to one edge of the roof and having a pivoted portion adapted to be folded against one side of the roofing.

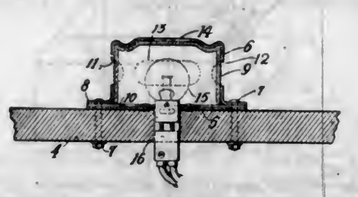
1,623,128. TEMPERATURE-REGULATING SYSTEM FOR AERONAUTICAL MOTORS. HARVEY C. MUMMERT, Hollis, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, Inc., Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 8, 1922. Serial No. 605,641. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—174.)



1. In a temperature regulating system for aeronautical motors, the combination with the oiling system of the motor of an oil radiator, a circuit for the liquid cooling agent including a container within which the oil radiator is enclosed and thru which the liquid cooling agent is continuously passed, a radiator within said cooling circuit, a by-pass around said last mentioned radiator, and means to open and close said by-pass whereby the cooling agent in circulation may be directed thru said container and over the oil radiator without its first having been passed thru the radiator of the cooling circuit.

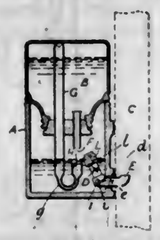
1,623,129. SPARK PLUG. EDWARD B. NOWOSIELSKI, Bloomfield, N. J., assignor to Splitdorf Electrical Company, Newark, N. J. Filed Jan. 2, 1925. Serial No. 270. 7 Claims. (Cl. 123—169.)

1. In a spark plug, a shell having a central bore and a counter-bore at one end larger in diameter than the diameter of the central bore, a unitary central electrode assembly comprising; a metallic electrode having a collar near the sparking end and threads on the other end, said collar being dished on its side away from the sparking end, an insulator around the electrode and extending from the collar to a point closely adjacent said threads, an insulator positioned over said first insulator and having one end engaging said collar, a relatively heavy collar of good heat conducting material dished on both sides and positioned over the first insulator and against one end of the second insulator, a third insulator positioned against the other side of said heavy collar, means on the threads for clamping the last two mentioned insulators and heavy collar in position with respect to the first collar; said heavy collar being positioned in said counter-bore and a turned over portion of the shell for gripping said heavy collar as and for the purpose described.



1,623,130. BARBER SHEARS. HOWARD S. OTIS, Janesville, Wis. Filed Mar. 19, 1926. Serial No. 95,982. 2 Claims. (Cl. 30—13.)

1. A device of the class described including a pair of blades, means for pivoting the blades together, each blade being provided with a longitudinally extending recess starting at the extremity thereof and terminating a slight distance from the pivot thereof, a lug projecting from the end of the recess inwardly thereof adjacent the pivot, a cutting edge portion having a notch at one end, said cutting edge portion adapted to be received in the recess and the lug adapted to extend in the notch, and a spring engaged with the other end of the cutting edge portion and with the blade.



1,623,131. RUNNING-BOARD LAMP. WILLIAM A. PEARSALL, Jr., Detroit, Mich. Filed May 21, 1925. Serial No. 31,735. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—8.26.)

1. In a lamp, the combination with an inverted single-piece casing having a top wall and a surrounding marginal wall, the top wall being formed with a light emitting opening and the marginal wall being formed with a plurality of light emitting openings, of a single-piece glass dome fitting within said casing and extending over said openings, an electric lamp located within the dome whereby light rays will be emitted through the openings in the marginal wall in diverging paths in a horizontal plane and through the opening in the top wall in a vertical plane, and a base plate attached to the casing and forming a support for the dome and lamp.

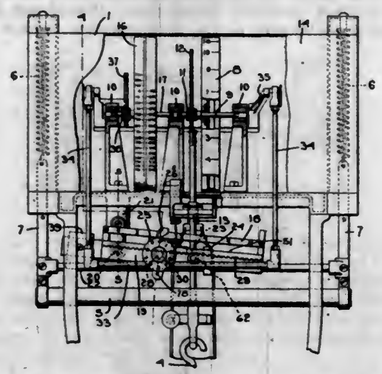
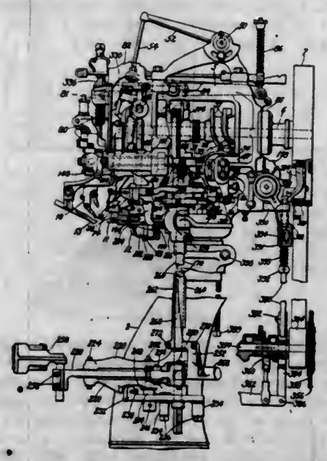
1,623,132. APPARATUS FOR MIXING AND DELIVERING LIQUIDS. REGINALD HUMPHREY LEE PENNELL, Berkshire, and ADRIAN WILFRED WYLIE, Surrey, England. Filed Aug. 18, 1925, Serial No. 51,062, and in Great Britain Feb. 4, 1925. 17 Claims. (Cl. 187—68.)



1. Apparatus of the kind referred to for mixing and delivering liquids wherein a portion of a liquid stored in a container is delivered into a liquid supplied to a receiver subject to the head at a permanent liquid seal in association with the container and with the receiver, the two liquids eventually discharging as a mixture from the receiver.

1,623,133. SPINNING DEVICE. ALEXANDER T. PETRIE, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Herbert Love, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Jan. 30, 1926. Serial No. 84,805. 11 Claims. (Cl. 46—32.)

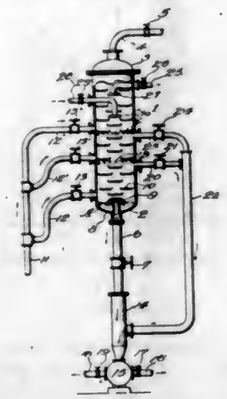


1. A spinning device comprising a base, a body rotatably mounted on said base, sound producing means supported on said base within said body, and a member supported on said body within said sound producing means, which in the rotation of said body will be moved into engagement with said sound producing means to actuate the same.

1,623,134. COMPUTING SCALE. WILFRED J. ROULEAU, Quincy, Mass. Filed May 4, 1925. Serial No. 27,985. 17 Claims. (Cl. 265—39.)

1. In a computing scale, the combination with a weighing scale including a vertically moving part, in the form of a horizontal rod, of a pivoted price-indicating arm having a stud engaging said rod so that the position of the arm at all times corresponds to the weighing movement of the scale, and a price-indicating dial controlled by said arm.

1,623,135. LASTING MACHINE. THOMAS H. SEELY, Malden, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 26, 1923. Serial No. 641,685. 54 Claims. (Cl. 12—2.)



1. In a lasting machine, the combination of a gripper, mechanism for imparting plaiting movements to the gripper comprising a rock-shaft, a member pivoted to said shaft, connections from said member to the gripper to impart lateral movements to the gripper, and means under the control of the operator for turning said member on its pivot to vary the movement imparted to the gripper through said connections.

1,623,136. PROCESS AND APPARATUS OF DEPHLEGMATION. JEAN D. SEGUY, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Universal Oil Products Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of South Dakota. Filed Mar. 25, 1925. Serial No. 18,187. 8 Claims. (Cl. 196—139.)

6. A method for controlling the capacity of a dephlegmating column for dephlegmating hydrocarbon oil vapors, consisting in maintaining a predetermined volume of reflux condensate in the dephlegmating column by withdrawing the reflux condensate from the dephlegmating column at predetermined vertically spaced points thereof and in introducing the vapors to the dephlegmating column at a point above the liquid level of the reflux condensate maintained in the dephlegmating column, and in varying the point at which the vapors are introduced to the dephlegmating column when the liquid level of the reflux condensate in the dephlegmating column is varied.

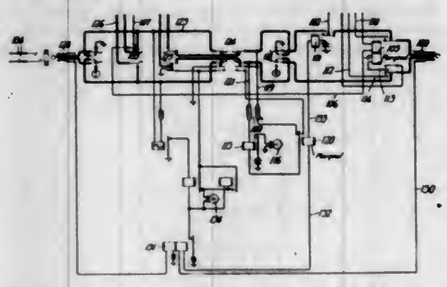
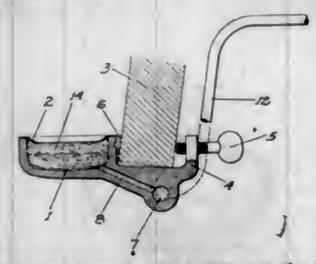
1,623,137. SHIPPING ATTACHMENT FOR WEIGHING SCALES. THOMAS H. STRACHAN, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to Dayton Scale Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 1, 1925. Serial No. 47,474. 5 Claims. (Cl. 265—39.)



1. A shipping attachment for a weighing scale having a base lever system and a displaceable operating connection to the weight indicator and load counterbalancing means comprising a spider device adapted for cooperation with fixed parts of the scale with provisions for holding the base lever system against movement when shipping the scale, and means associated with said spider and arranged for connection to the aforesaid operating connection for securing the operating connection and its associated parts against movement when the scale is shipped.

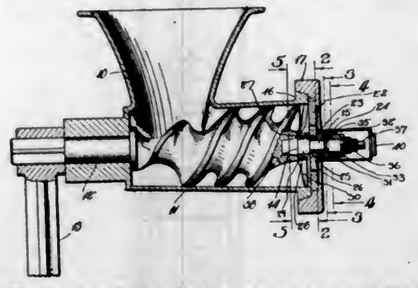
1,623,138. TAPE MEASURE. FRANK SWIFT, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed July 23, 1926, Serial No. 124,481, and in Canada Aug. 13, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 33—137.)

In a tape measure, the combination with the looped end of the tape, of a catch piece comprising a central plate body portion, an end portion divided longitudinally to form three fingers, the two outer fingers being bent into spring hook form and the centre finger extending substantially at right angles to the body and adapted to bear on the tape when the spring hooks are in engagement with the loop of the tape, and an inturned piece at the opposite end of the body having a serrated edge adapted to grip the end of the article to be measured when the central finger at the opposite end of the body is in engagement with the tape when resting upon the top of the article to be measured.



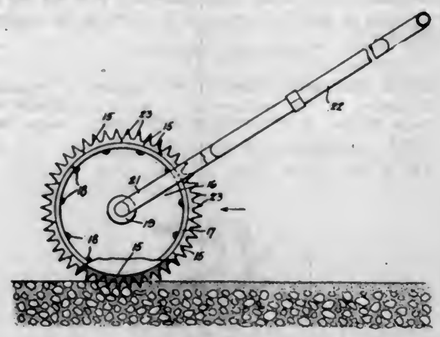
1,623,139. TELEPHONE-EXCHANGE SYSTEM. JOHN F. TOOMEY, New York, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 4, 1922. Serial No. 549,480. 18 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)

1. In a telephone system, a toll line, a toll cord circuit, a visual signaling device associated therewith, a toll switching trunk, automatic switches, trunk groups terminating therein, a sender for setting said switches, and means automatically operated when one of said switches encounters a busy trunk group for operating said signaling device and for transmitting a signal to said toll line.



1,623,140. EXTINGUISHER FOR CIGARETTES AND THE LIKE. BERMA A. TRAVIS, Sacramento, Calif. Filed Aug. 19, 1925. Serial No. 51,137. 4 Claims. (Cl. 131—51.)

1. An extinguisher for cigarettes and the like adapted for use on a motor vehicle including a bowl, and means for supplying water to the bowl from the water-cooling system of the engine of the vehicle.



1,623,141. MEAT GRINDER. MURPHY E. WALKER, Austin, Tex. Filed Nov. 25, 1925. Serial No. 71,383. 4 Claims. (Cl. 146—189.)

1. In a meat grinder, a cutting unit comprising a ring adapted to be anchored to a meat grinding machine, an apertured plate, a shaft rotatable therein and having means for connecting it to a meat feeding element of a grinder, a knife having a hub mounted on the shaft whereby the knife engages the apertured plate, the said shaft having a knife engaging part for holding the knife in engagement with the plate, a bearing anchored to the plate in which the shaft is rotatable, a coacting bearing on the shaft including means for adjusting the shaft and bearings, and a cap on the bearing enclosing the end of the shaft and the adjusting parts.

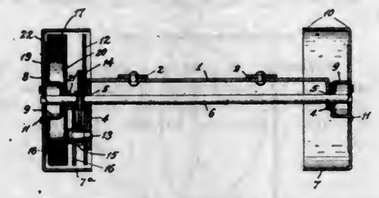
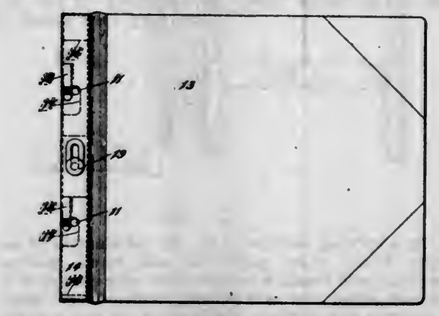
1,623,142. DEVICE FOR FINISHING CONCRETE SURFACES. CORNELIUS S. WALSH, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Mar. 17, 1924. Serial No. 699,917. 6 Claims. (Cl. 94—50.)



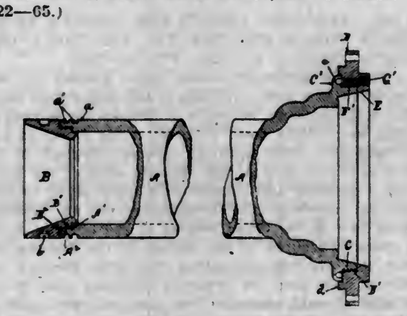
1. A device of the character described comprising a cylinder formed with longitudinal sections, disk heads in the ends of the cylinder, peripheral flanges on the disk heads, fastening members extending through the flanges and engaging the sections for securing the latter in cylindrical formation, and ribs on the cylinder co-extensive in length therewith.

1,623,143. RADIOFREQUENCY TRANSFORMER. ROBERT M. WARREN, East Orange, N. J., assignor to Dubilier Condenser Corporation, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 9, 1924. Serial No. 685,241. 3 Claims. (Cl. 175—356.)



1. A magnetic core comprising a pair of sections, the extremities of which are spaced apart to provide an air gap, a spacing element to hold the extremities a fixed distance apart, and a retaining element co-operating with the spacing element to prevent the air gap being increased.

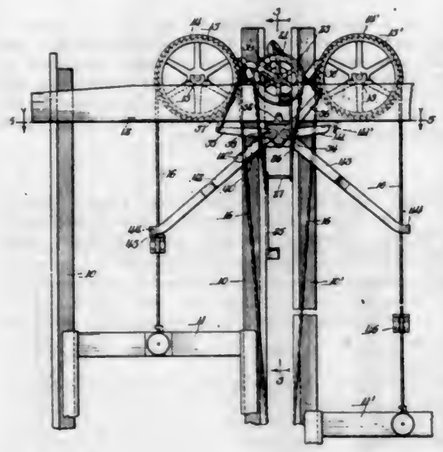
1,623,144. SELF-PROPELLING TOY. LEO L. WEISS, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 27, 1924, Serial No. 740,202. Renewed Jan. 28, 1927. 3 Claims. (Cl. 46—48.)



1. In a toy in combination, a plurality of wheels, a shaft connecting two of said wheels, a gear secured to said shaft near one end thereof, a fly wheel supported on said shaft and positioned between said gear and said shaft end, and gear connections between said gear and fly wheel, said gear, fly wheel and gear connections being enclosed within one of said wheels.

1,623,145. BINDER FOR LOOSE-LEAF FILES. NELSON S. WELK, Athens, Ohio, assignor to The McBee Binder Company, Athens, Ohio. Filed Mar. 29, 1923. Serial No. 628,425. 2 Claims. (Cl. 129—12.)

1. A binder for loose leaf files comprising a lower cover with binding posts secured thereto, a slotted member to be fitted over said binding posts, a sliding member secured to the slotted member and springs thereon inclining upwardly from the horizontal to engage the posts and lock them to the slotted member, when the sliding member is moved in one direction.



1,623,146. PIPE MOLD FOR CENTRIFUGAL CASTING MACHINES. CLINTON E. WILDER, Irvine, Pa. Filed Nov. 9, 1925. Serial No. 67,849. 6 Claims. (Cl. 22—65.)

2. A pipe mold tube having an annular bearing slot around the intake end thereof, internal screw threads within the intake end of said tube, a throat ring, external screw threads thereon adapted to engage said internal threads external screw-threads on the opposite end of said tube, a driving ring, and internal screw threads in said driving ring adapted to engage said external threads, whereby said driving ring is removably secured on said mold tube.

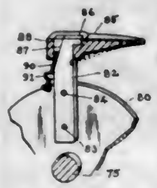
1,623,147. HOISTING MACHINE. ALEXANDER H. WILSON, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Thomas Elevator Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 10, 1926. Serial No. 107,837. 5 Claims. (Cl. 187—2.)

3. In a building material hoist, the combination of an upright frame, cages guided in said frame, pulleys mounted on said frame, a hoisting cable connected to said cages and guided over said pulleys, mechanism for starting, stopping and reversing the movement of said hoisting cable including a rock shaft journaled on said frame, a pulley fast on said rock shaft, and a control cable passing over and secured to said pulley, manually operable means for actuating said rock shaft, strikers mounted on said hoisting cable above said cages, a pair of arms pivoted at their inner ends on said frame and at their outer ends straddling said hoisting cable above said strikers, whereby said arms are adapted to be raised by said strikers, and mechanism operated by said arms on their rising movement for actuating said rock shaft.



1,623,148. RESCUING DEVICE FOR SUNKEN SHIPS. HARRY S. WILSON, High Rock, Pa. Filed Jan. 9, 1926. Serial No. 80,261. 1 Claim. (Cl. 61—69.)

In a rescuing device for sunken ships wherein the ship is provided with a hatch opening in the upper deck thereof, the opening being normally closed by an outwardly swinging water tight door, a flaring guide flange extending around the hatch opening, pulleys attached to the upper deck of the ship on the opposite sides of the hatch opening, a rescuing unit comprising a water tight metallic housing for receiving the rescuing party, an inwardly swinging door in the lower portion of the housing, a circular chamber secured to the bottom of the housing and adapted to have communication therewith through the medium of said door, an inwardly swinging door in the lower side of said chamber, eye members arranged on opposite sides of the housing and chamber respectively, and cables for moving the unit downwardly within the water to position over the hatch opening of the sunken ship so that the bottom of the chamber will be disposed in said flaring guide flange, said cables being attached at one end to the lowermost pair of eye members, the cables extending around the pulleys and upwardly through the eye members, and a hoist chain associated with the top of the housing to permit the same to be raised to the surface of the water.

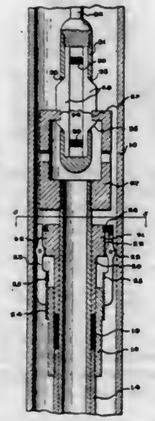
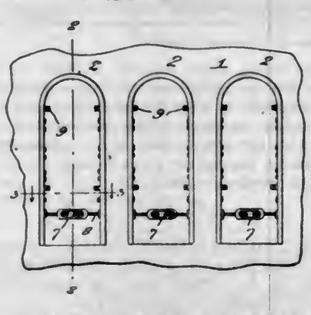
1,623,149. ROTARY GANG PLOW. ROBERT J. WILSON, Rochester, N. Y., assignor of one-half to Robert S. Crain, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Nov. 27, 1925. Serial No. 71,825. 4 Claims. (Cl. 97—212.)



1. In a rotary gang plow the combination of a shaft, a pair of disks fastened to said shaft, standards fastened radially between said disks and extending outwardly therefrom, shares fastened to said standards, each of said shares comprising a head having an opening therein, a tooth projecting from one side of said head, and a horizontal cutting blade projecting from the side of said tooth.

1,623,150. OIL AND WATER WELL PUMP. WILLIAM WINESBURG, Bristow, Okla. Filed Oct. 6, 1923. Serial No. 666,977. 1 Claim. (Cl. 286—31.)



In a packing device of the class described the combination of a tubular member haivng a passageway therein, a plunger reciprocable in said passageway, said tubular member at an end thereof having a sleeve-like portion in spaced relation with the plunger to provide an annular chamber about the plunger in the sleevelike portion, packing material in said annular chamber, said sleeve-like portion on the exterior thereof having teeth, a gland slidable in the annular chamber against said packing to compress the same, means formed on the plunger to impact said gland to cause the same to compress said packing, detent arms pivotally mounted intermediate their ends directly on said gland having teeth at the ends thereof in facing relation with the gland for cooperation on the teeth of the sleeve-like portion above mentioned, to prevent release of the packing when the gland has forced the same into a packed relation in the annular chamber, and spring means carried by the gland at the opposite ends of said detent arms operating on the latter to force the teeth of said arms into engagement with the teeth of the sleeve-like portion.

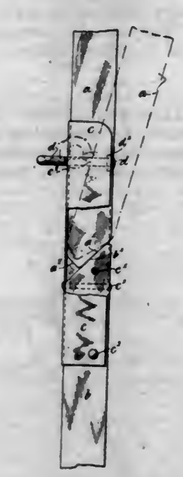
1,623,151. CONCRETE FORM. FRED WUSTHOLZ, Claytonville, Ill. Filed Mar. 2, 1926. Serial No. 91,725. 4 Claims. (Cl. 25—131.5.)

1. A concrete form comprising opposed U-shaped sections with flanges on their outer edges, cleats complementary to the said sections for holding the sections in working position, rigid lapped bars carried by each section at the inner side thereof and resting at the inner side of the other section, and means interposed between the opposite portions of each section for thrusting said portions away from each other and for drawing said portions toward each other.



1,623,152. RADIO APPARATUS. ARTHUR MILLER YOUNG, Brentwood, and NORMAN WOOLLARD SIMPSON, Bolton, England, assignors to Radio Corporation of America, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 12, 1922, Serial No. 567,599, and in Great Britain June 18, 1921. 12 Claims. (Cl. 250—39.)

1. An instrument adapted to operate in circuit with a capacity for indicating the period of electrical oscillations, comprising the combination of two inductance coils, one within the other, one being mounted for self adjusting rotation so that it can set itself relatively to the other so that the circuit is in resonance with the oscillations, and an arm actuated by the movable coil.

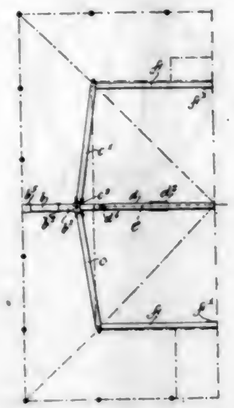
1,623,153. TENT POLE. DAVID T. ABERCROMBIE, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Dec. 15, 1925. Serial No. 75,528. 2 Claims. (Cl. 287—104.)



1. A joint for detachable sectional tent poles comprising a metal channel member secured to one pole section and extended beyond the end thereof, engaging means on the end of the pole section cooperating with the channel member, cooperating means on another pole section formed to be received between the engaging means and the channel member, a portion of the cooperating pole adjacent the channel member receding therefrom toward the engaging face of the other pole section to permit the interengagement of the members with a substantially pivotal motion at the engaging portions, and means to lock the channel member to the cooperating pole section.

2. A tent frame comprising opposite wall frames including spreader arms, horizontal members supported by the spreader arms of the wall frames, and a truss-like top frame supported by the wall frames, the top frame comprising separable top members engaged with the wall frames and with each other at an angle to form a peak, a tension member, and means for connecting the tension member to brace the top frame members.

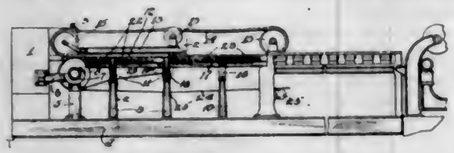
1,623,155. METALLIC STRUCTURE. DAVID H. BELLAMORE, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Mosler Safe Company, Hamilton, Ohio, a Corporation of New York. Filed July 14, 1923. Serial No. 651,468. 12 Claims. (Cl. 109—2.)

2. In a structure of the character described, in combination, a transverse wall, and means for retarding heat travel through said wall, said means comprising a plurality of lines of apertures in said wall and a plurality of lines of heat radiating flanges extending from said wall.



1,623,156. MILK-CAN-STEAMING AND WATER-HEATING SYSTEM. HAROLD F. BERG, Clinton, Iowa. Filed July 10, 1925. Serial No. 42,836. 1 Claim. (Cl. 122—41.)

A device of the class described, comprising a frame, a heater casing in the lower part of said frame, and heater therein, a boiler in said casing adapted to receive heat from said heater, a discharge pipe leading from said boiler, a water supply tank and pipe system between said tank and boiler, a coil encircling said boiler and communicating with said pipe system at the upper and lower ends of said coil, and a water chamber in proximity to said tank and communicating with said coil.

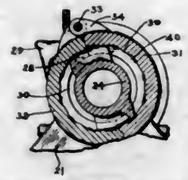
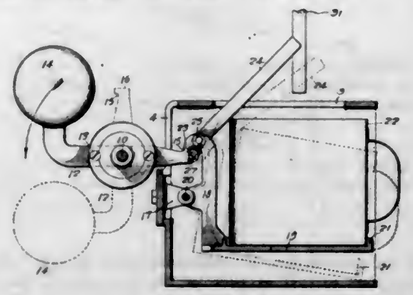
1,623,157. PAPER-MAKING MACHINE. EARL ELWIN BERRY, Beloit, Wis., assignor to Beloit Iron Works, Beloit, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Apr. 10, 1924. Serial No. 705,429. 1 Claim. (Cl. 92—40.)



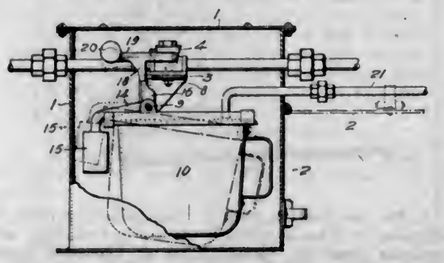
In a Fourdrinier paper machine adapted for making a continuous web of paper and having a shaking mechanism, the combination with the breast roll and a plurality of table rolls, of an impermeable endless apron mounted for movement thereover, said apron extending a substantial distance beyond the slices to form a pond of stock subject to the shaking action.

1,623,158. CARDBOARD-BOX KNIFE. FREDERICK L. BLEVIN, Jersey City, N. J., and ANDREW D. FERGUSON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Aug. 16, 1924. Serial No. 732,482. 7 Claims. (Cl. 164—84.)



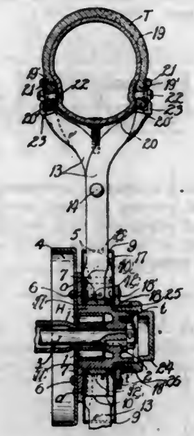
1. In a knife of the character described the combination of a knife blade, a guide and supporting wheel for the knife blade, means to adjust the location of the supporting wheel and a roller adjustably connected to the knife blade.

1,623,159. MACHINE FOR MIXING OR MASTICATING RUBBER AND LIKE MATERIAL. DAVID B. BOWEN, Ansonia, and CARL F. SCHNUCK, New Haven, Conn., assignors to Farrel Foundry & Machine Company, Ansonia, Conn. Filed Oct. 15, 1921. Serial No. 507,961. 36 Claims. (Cl. 18—2.)



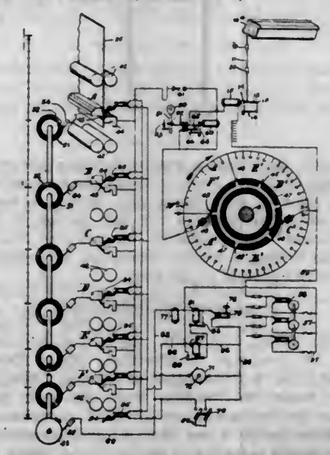
1. A rubber mixer comprising a mixing chamber and a rotor mounted therein, the working surface of said chamber being provided substantially throughout its length with protrusions extending toward the rotor, said rotor being provided with means to work the charge from each end of the chamber toward and into the opposite end.

1,623,160. SAFETY VALVE FOR OIL BURNERS AND THE LIKE. CHARLES B. BUERGER, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Gulf Oil Burner Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 23, 1924. Serial No. 739,368. 16 Claims. (Cl. 137—68.)



5. The combination with a valve and a lever constantly tending to close the same, of a yieldingly supported platform having a projection engaging said lever to hold the valve open, and means carried by the platform in position to be engaged by a receptacle on the latter and to prevent the engagement of said lever and projection in the absence of said receptacle.

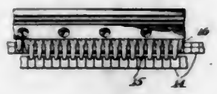
1,623,161. SAFETY VALVE FOR OIL BURNERS AND THE LIKE. CHARLES B. BUERGER, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Gulf Oil Burner Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 27, 1926. Serial No. 157,329. 8 Claims. (Cl. 137—68.)



1. In combination with an overbalanced support, of a receptacle carried thereby, a fuel feed valve, means for controlling said valve and normally tending to close it, a weight normally tending to maintain said support and receptacle in balanced position, and means for normally holding said valve in open position but adapted to be automatically withdrawn to permit closing of the valve when said receptacle is filled and to prevent re-setting thereof until said receptacle has been emptied and replaced on said support.

1,628,162. VEHICLE WHEEL. WILLIAM H. BURRITT, St. Louis, Mo. Filed July 24, 1924. Serial No. 727,950. 7 Claims. (Cl. 152—29.)

1. A vehicle wheel comprising a hub, a series of spokes arranged in pairs around said hub, the spokes of each pair being pivotally secured together intermediate their extremities, the outer ends of said spokes terminating in suitable felloe receiving formations, felloe rims positioned on said formations, a tire mounted on said felloe rims, corresponding spokes of each pair being secured to the hub, and the other spokes of said pair being removably positioned over said hub.



1,623,163. CARD-CONTROLLED PRINTING MACHINE. FRED M. CARROLL, Endicott, N. Y., assignor to The Tabulating Machine Company, Endicott, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 12, 1922. Serial No. 606,364. 59 Claims. (Cl. 101—96.)

1. In a card-controlled machine, a rotatable drum, a plurality of groups of printing characters carried by said drum, group selector means controllable by a perforation in a card and a character selecting device controllable by a perforation in a card and by said selector means for bringing one of said characters into printing operation.

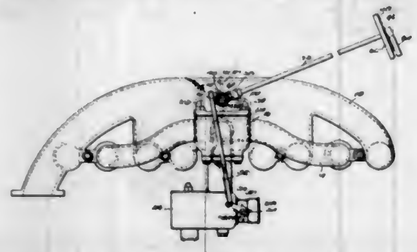
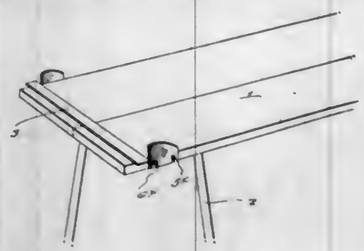
1,623,164. SENSING MEANS FOR PERFORATED RECORD CARDS. FRED M. CARROLL, Endicott, N. Y., assignor to The Tabulating Machine Company, Endicott, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Original application filed Nov. 18, 1922, Serial No. 601,931. Divided and this application filed Dec. 6, 1923. Serial No. 678,898. 5 Claims. (Cl. 200—46.)

1. In a machine for sensing perforated records, a plurality of series of sensing elements arranged one series in advance of and staggered with reference to the elements of the other series, and a series of contact blocks for each series of sensing elements.



1,623,165. CANDY JUMPING JACK. WILLIS W. CASSIDY, Salt Lake City, Utah, assignor to Sweet Candy Company, Salt Lake City, Utah, a Corporation of Utah. Filed Aug. 2, 1926. Serial No. 126,710. 6 Claims. (Cl. 46—40.)

4. A toy including a carton forming the body of a figure and having a head, wrapped candy members forming the arms of such figure and having a flexible connection extending through one end portion of the body, and wrapped candy members forming the legs of such figure and having a flexible connection extending through the other end portion of the body.



1,623,166. FUEL CONTROL. MILTON E. CHANDLER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stromberg Motor Devices Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Nov. 17, 1924. Serial No. 750,509. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)

4. In a control system for internal combustion engines, the combination of a hot spot, a valve therefor, a choke valve, a control element, a connection between said control element and said hot spot valve adapted to positively close said valve when said control element is moved in one direction, a connection between said choke valve and said control element adapted to positively close said choke valve when said control element is moved in the opposite direction, and means for each valve for causing re-opening movement thereof prior to the positive closure movement of the other valve.

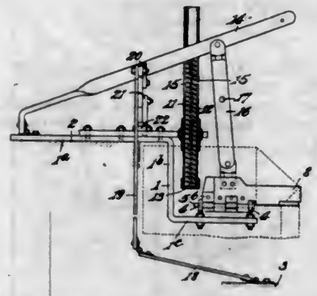
1,623,167. PAPER-HANGER'S TABLE. JULIUS H. A. CHRISTIANSEN, Ricketts, Iowa. Filed May 12, 1926. Serial No. 108,557. 2 Claims. (Cl. 164—78.)

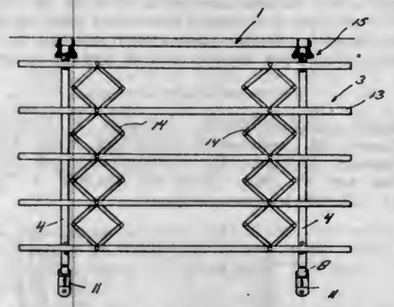
1. In combination, a paper hanger's table top, headed projections carried by each of the longitudinal edges of said top spaced apart and also spaced from the adjacent end of the top, and side plates each having a vertical slot adjacent to its heel end and a horizontal slot in its forward end, said slots receiving the headed projections whereby the plates are detachably supported on the shanks of the projections and between the heads thereof and the side edges of the top.

1,623,168. TOY TRUMPET. IRWIN COHN, New York, N. Y., assignor to Irwin & Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 31, 1926. Serial No. 158,152. 2 Claims. (Cl. 216—46.)



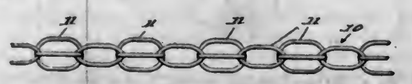
1. The combination with a wind sound-producing instrument of a figure mounted thereon and provided with swinging arms, the representation of a musical instrument held by said arms, and means provided at the outlet end of the sound producing instrument for deflecting the air against a surface of the arms, thereby raising the instrument representation to the lips of the figure.

1,623,169. POROUS MASS FOR STORING EXPLOSIVE GASES AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. GUSTAF DALEN, Lidingon, Stockholm, Sweden, assignor to American Gasaccumulator Company, Elizabeth, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 14, 1922, Serial No. 581,898, and in Sweden Aug. 16, 1921. 6 Claims. (Cl. 252—2.)



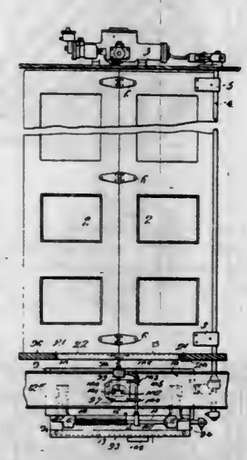
2. A porous mass for storing explosive gases, consisting of a mixture of a relatively large proportion of powdered kieselguhr and a relatively small proportion of a fibrous material.

1,623,170. BAG-VALVE-FORMING MECHANISM. MERRITT J. DAVIS, Wellsburg, W. Va. Filed Aug. 2, 1926. Serial No. 126,690. 12 Claims. (Cl. 93—8.)



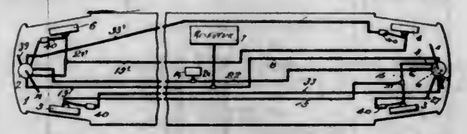
1. In a mechanism of the character described, a folding device comprising relatively foldable members each of which includes relatively spaced superposed elements, and means for actuating said foldable members.

1,623,171. COLLAPSIBLE ROOST. THEODORE DOSER, St. Anthony, Iowa. Filed June 28, 1926. Serial No. 119,220. 3 Claims. (Cl. 119—24.)



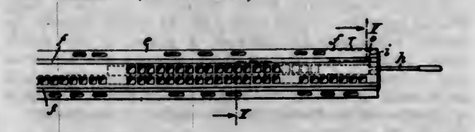
1. In a structure of the class described, a plurality of roost forming bars, lazy tongs connecting said bars together in an assembled relation, means for swingably connecting one end bar with a support, a pair of end frames, means for swingably connecting said frames with the support, each frame comprising a top bar and a bottom bar, and a connecting bar, the ends of the roost forming bars resting upon the top bars of the end frames, and supporting legs for said end frames.

1,623,172. CHAIN. FRANK W. EMRICK, Buchanan, Iowa. Filed Dec. 7, 1925. Serial No. 73,847. 1 Claim. (Cl. 59—83.)



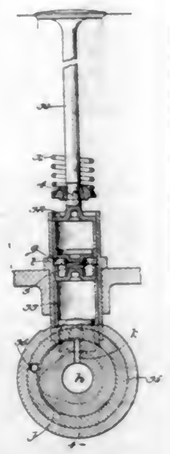
A chain comprising a plurality of similar connected links, each link being formed of a pair of elongated wire loops lying in planes at right angles to each other, each loop being provided initially with a gap at one end and the loops being arranged with the gap of each engaging upon the bight portion of the other, the loops being secured together at their points of engagement.

1,623,173. ELECTRICALLY-CONTROLLED DOOR-OPERATING APPARATUS. PARIS R. FORMAN, Rahway, N. J., assignor to National Pneumatic Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Jan. 6, 1926. Serial No. 79,595. 33 Claims. (Cl. 303—6.1.)



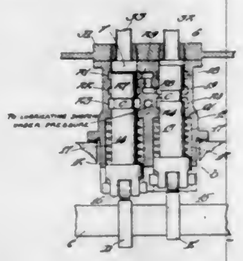
1. In a vehicle having entrance and exit ways, barrier means for said ways, electrically operated means operable by the act of a passenger when the brakes are applied for opening the barrier means.

1,623,174. DOOR-OPERATING SYSTEM FOR ONE-MAN CARS. PARIS R. FORMAN, Rahway, N. J., assignor to National Pneumatic Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Jan. 9, 1926. Serial No. 80,228. 35 Claims. (Cl. 303—6.1.)



1. In a vehicle having entrance and exit ways, doors in said ways, and means for opening said doors on one side of the vehicle during an emergency application of the brakes.

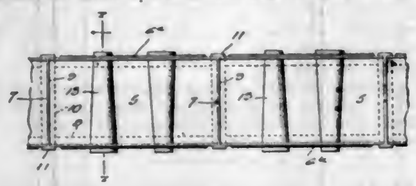
1,623,175. MUSICAL INSTRUMENT. OTTO BRUNO FRIEDEL, Obersachsenberg, Germany. Filed Mar. 17, 1926, Serial No. 95,444, and in Germany Apr. 20, 1925. 11 Claims. (Cl. 84—377.)



7. Musical instrument comprising two reed plate slides, means for adjusting said slides with regard to each other, a casing surrounding both slides and secured to one of them, said casing having recesses, and a spring catch on one of said slides which is adapted to engage said recesses, each slide having tone cells, and one of said slides having four cells more than the other.

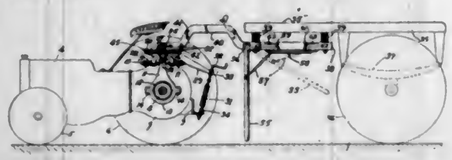
1,623,176. VALVE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. OTIS C. FUNDERBURK, Boston, Mass. Filed Mar. 10, 1921. Serial No. 451,082. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—90.)

1. The combination with a poppet valve, of operating mechanism therefor which includes a column of oil, and means connecting with the oiling system of the engine for replenishing said column of oil, said replenishing means comprising a cam shaft provided with a longitudinal opening through which oil is supplied under pressure, a radial passage leading from said longitudinal opening, and means for placing said radial passage in communication with said column of oil during a part of each revolution of said shaft.



1,623,177. VALVE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. OTIS C. FUNDERBURK, Boston, Mass. Filed Sept. 20, 1923. Serial No. 663,883. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—90.)

1. The oil operated valve mechanism in which cooperating ports in a valve lifter and the casing therefor establish communication between a source of oil supply under pressure and the oil space between another lifter and its cooperating valve stem whereby one lifter acts as a valve to control the supply of oil to the oil space of another lifter during the idle period of the latter.



1,623,178. BUILDING-BLOCK MOLD. LEWIS EDWARD GEARHART, Marietta, Ohio. Filed Feb. 8, 1926. Serial No. 86,866. 2 Claims. (Cl. 25—121.)

1. A mold of the class described, including, in combination, a plurality of bottoms, a plurality of end or dividing walls each provided with a bottom flange extending beyond the faces thereof and side flanges extending beyond the faces thereof, said side flanges terminating a distance from the bottom flanges, and a plurality of side walls provided with inwardly directed flanges terminating a distance from the ends.

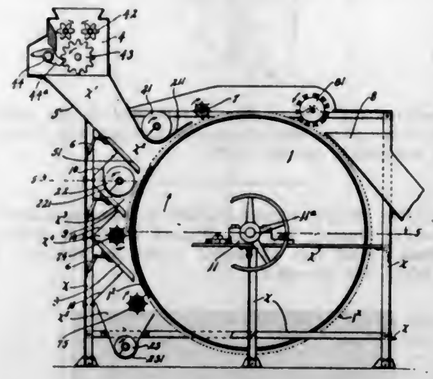
1,623,179. TRACTOR HITCH. EDWARD R. GREER, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to Trail-It Company, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed Dec. 11, 1922. Serial No. 606,117. 20 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.1.)

1. A tractor hitch including a member adapted to be secured to a trailer, an element adapted to be mounted to rock upon the tractor, means to connect the member and element to maintain the element in normal position and to permit relative pivotal movement upon turning travel of the tractor and tension means connected to the element adapted to rock on the tractor and to the tractor to exert a downward force upon the front end of the tractor substantially sufficient to counteract any tendency thereof towards upward movement.



1,623,180. CARBURETOR. CHARLES J. GUSTAFSON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stromberg Motor Devices Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 13, 1921. Serial No. 461,003. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—124.)

1. In a charge forming device, the combination of an air controlling valve, a retarding chamber, a baffle moving with said valve and forming a movable wall on said retarding chamber, said baffle being responsive to the engine suction on one side and the pressure in said retarding chamber on the other side, and adjustable means for controlling the admission of atmosphere to said retarding chamber.

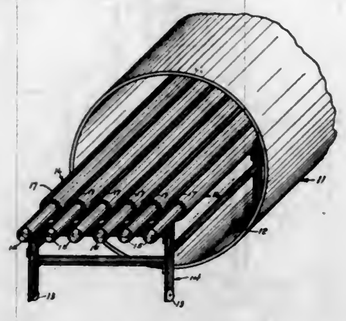
1,623,181. HULLER AND OPENER. WILLIAM L. HANCOCK, Dallas, Tex., assignor to The Murray Company, Dallas, Tex., a Corporation of Texas. Filed Oct. 9, 1926. Serial No. 140,513. 9 Claims. (Cl. 19—36.)

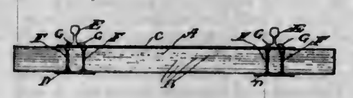


1. In a duplex cotton hull separator and opener, a frame-casing having upper and lower lint inlet openings and two lint exit openings; a rotatable toothed drum supported on the frame the surface of the drum opposed to the upper inlet opening moving upward to a lint exit opening; a chute adjacent the upper feed opening to receive the entering material and guide it against the toothed drum; a knocker roller adjacent the upper part of the drum, to beat back hulls and loose material while permitting the drum-engaged lint to pass on to an exit; means to remove the lint from the drum; a trough below the knocker roll to receive the material beaten back; a conveyor within the trough to move said material along the trough to an exit; a second conveyor below said exit to receive the material and return it within the casing through the lower feed opening; a chute over which the second conveyor moves the material and down which it is guided against the toothed drum.

1,623,182. DISHWASHING MACHINE. REDGE HARVEY and ADOLPH P. WASHLAKE, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 23, 1923. Serial No. 620,596. 4 Claims. (Cl. 141—9.)

1. In a washing machine, a tub, a basket for dishes therein adapted to be turned, the vertical wall of the tub having an offset portion terminating short of the bottom thereof providing an outlet, and a spray nozzle rotatably mounted in the said offset portion of the vertical wall and terminating practically at the periphery of the tub.

1,623,183. VULCANIZATION. DANIEL E. HENNESSY, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The Fisk Rubber Company, Chicopee Falls, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Aug. 19, 1922. Serial No. 582,957. 2 Claims. (Cl. 18—53.)

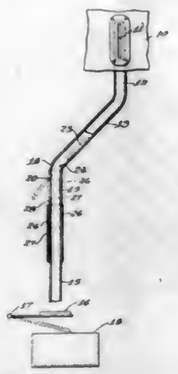


1. The method of vulcanizing inner tubes in open heat comprising placing the splice directly above the mandrel so that when the rubber softens the edge of the splice will merge into the walls of said tube to form a tube of substantially smooth surface.

1623,184. PROCESS OF MANUFACTURING INSULATING AND PLASTER BOARD FROM CORNSTALKS. JAMES J. HINDE, Sandusky, Ohio. Filed Nov. 17, 1924. Serial No. 750,479. 9 Claims. (Cl. 92—3.)

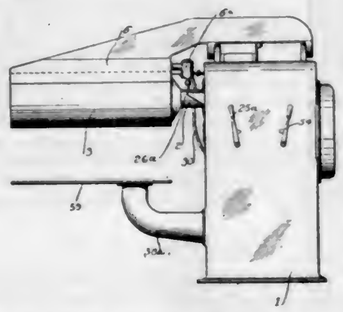
1. The process of manufacturing insulating lumber consisting first, in cutting or shredding the stalks, leaves, pith, tassels and husks or corn growth into portions and softening them by treatment in cold or luke-warm water, until the glutinous substances and the fibrous material therein have been softened, extracting a portion of the excess moisture therefrom by suction or pressure, to compact and weave or felt the finer fibres with the coarser fibres and further drying the product between suitable porous carriers, at sufficiently high degree of temperature to evaporate the moisture therefrom, and until a thick fibrous and porous insulating board has been produced thereby.

1,623,185. RAILWAY TIE. JAMES J. HINDE, Sandusky, Ohio. Filed July 17, 1926. Serial No. 123,111. 6 Claims. (Cl. 238—37.)



1. An article of manufacture comprising a shaped mass composed of layers of compressed, shredded woody fibre saturated with a binding and waterproofing material and vertically spaced open mesh weave metallic reinforcing material through the openings in which the wood fibers are thoroughly embedded and interwoven.

1,623,186. COIN SELECTOR. GUSTAV F. HOCHRIEM, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Rhodes-Hochriem Manufacturing Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Jan. 2, 1924. Serial No. 683,937. 2 Claims. (Cl. 194—102.)



1. A tubular coin chute having a flat sliding surface arranged to guide coins moving gravitationally downward therein sliding on their sides respectively and having means for deflecting the coins into another path of movement, said deflecting means defining an opening in the downward path of movement of the coins through which relatively small coins may pass out of the chute while larger coins are deflected into another path of movement, and slidable closure means readily movable into position to obstruct said opening.

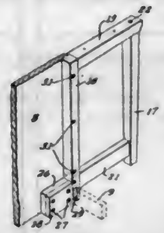
1,623,187. UNIVERSAL IRONING MACHINE. JOSEPH HUEBSCH, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Feb. 9, 1924. Serial No. 691,563. 22 Claims. (Cl. 68—9.)



3. In an ironing machine, a pressing shoe having an arcuate surface, a roll for engagement with said surface, mechanism for continuously rotating said roll, and mechanism for optionally rotating said roll a distance substantially equal to the arcuate surface of said shoe.

19. In a machine of the class described, a roll, a shoe cooperating with said roll, a yieldable friction drive for initially operating said shoe in one direction, fluid pressure means for applying the final pressure to said shoe, and mechanism for simultaneously disconnecting said friction drive and relieving the fluid pressure.

1,623,188. TRUSS STRUCTURE FOR UPRIGHT-PIANO CASES. JAMES D. HURST, Rockford, Ill., assignor to Schumann Piano Company, Rockford, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 2, 1923. Serial No. 622,294. 2 Claims. (Cl. 84—177.)

1. In an upright piano, in combination with the case, a truss unit of assembly adapted for attachment to and detachment from the case beneath each end of the keyboard comprising a truss proper and an upright stile joined at the top and bottom and held in rigid spaced relation by a truss cap and a base-piece, respectively, the truss proper being equipped at the lower end with a caster and disposed in front of the base-piece to support forward lean of the piano, and means for detachably connecting the upright stile of each unit to the inner side of one of the sides of the case and the truss cap to the underside of the key-board.

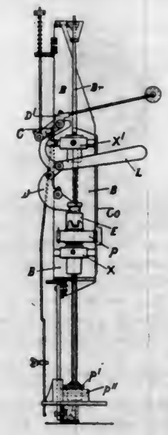
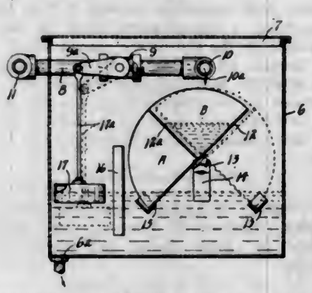
1,623,189. WATERPROOF PRODUCT. LESTER KIRSCHBRAUN, Chicago, Ill., and WALTER H. CADY, Boston, Mass. Filed Dec. 18, 1920. Serial No. 431,744. 1 Claim. (Cl. 91—68.)



A strip shingle consisting of a fibrous base and an adhesive coating and a granular surfacing, a waterproof matrix of predetermined color filling the interstices and the granular surfacing in spaced areas of a design to simulate shingles, and a waterproof matrix of a different color than the first, likewise filling such interstices between the granular particles but in relatively narrow lines separating the designs formed by the first matrix.

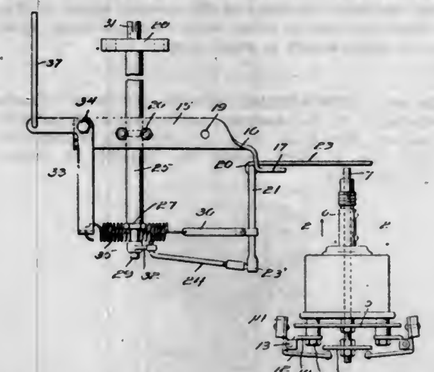
1,623,190. TRUNK-LOCK STRUCTURE. STANLEY KLEIN, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The Mendel-Drucker Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 12, 1925. Serial No. 1,830. 2 Claims. (Cl. 70—115.)



1. In a device of the class described the combination with a plate having a recess extending from one edge of the plate and for a distance across the top of said plate, an integral tongue on the plate turned upon itself to form a tubular hinge member, and positioned substantially within the recess in the plate, a flanged hasp adapted to seat in the recess in the plate with its flanged sides in abutment with the walls of the recess, an integral complementary hinge member on one end of the hasp, and a pintle for hingedly mounting the hinge members one upon the other, the flanges on the hasp precluding access to the pintle.

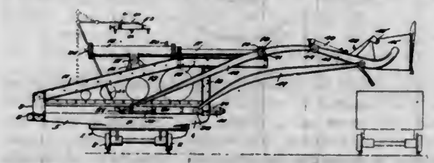
1,623,191. COP-WINDING FRAME. OSWALD LAMBERT, Tamise, Belgium. Filed Aug. 19, 1926, Serial No. 130,316, and in Belgium Oct. 30, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 242—27.)

In a cop-winding frame, in combination with a spindle, a box unit individual to said spindle partly enclosing said spindle, spindle bearing members carried by and within said box unit, a pinion on said spindle housed in said box unit, a clutch on said spindle, within said box unit, for coupling said pinion with said spindle, and clutch controlling means sustained by said box unit.



1,623,192. MEASURING DEVICE. GEORGE D. LIVINGSTON, Anoka, Minn. Filed Nov. 2, 1925. Serial No. 66,255. 7 Claims. (Cl. 249—35.)

1. A measuring device comprising means for delivering material to be measured, an oscillating measuring receptacle disposed below said means, supporting means for said receptacle having a convex bearing surface, and means for limiting the oscillation of said receptacle in either direction.



1,623,193. GOVERNOR. HOWARD S. LOOMIS, Kasson, Minn. Filed Dec. 29, 1925. Serial No. 78,254. 1 Claim. (Cl. 264—3.)

A governor actuated throttle valve controlling mechanism of the class described including, in combination, a governor actuated push rod, a bracket adapted to be attached to an engine block, a sleeve formed on the bracket, a crank rod having a portion rotatable in the sleeve, a plate fixed on said portion of the rod to be disposed in the path of movement of the push rod so that when the push rod moves in one direction, it will abut the plate for swinging the crank rod, a link engaged with the end of the other portion of the crank rod, a tubular housing supported on a bracket, a throttle valve operating shaft journaled through said tubular housing, a crank on said shaft engaged with said link, a bell crank on said bracket, manual means for operating said bell crank, a spring engaged with said bell crank and with said other portion of the crank rod whereby the spring may be tensioned to swing the crank rod and the plate attached thereto so as to resist movement of said plate and said crank rod by the push rod.

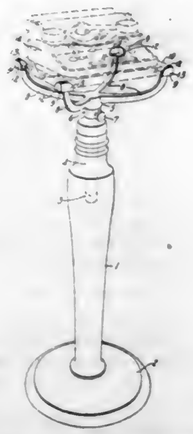
1,623,194. EXCAVATING MACHINE. FRANCIS C. MARSHALL, Green Bay, Wis. Filed Aug. 30, 1921. Serial No. 496,880. 7 Claims. (Cl. 214—132.)

1. A shoveling machine of the class described having a dipper, pairs of arms pivotally connected to said dipper, a movable motive element to which said arms are pivoted and by which the arms are separated to cause an upward swinging movement of the dipper, and a main element for moving said dipper and motive element in a horizontal plane.



1,623,195. APPARATUS FOR PILING SHEETS OF PAPER. GEORGE E. MAXNER, Somerville, Mass. Filed July 7, 1923. Serial No. 650,131. 1 Claim. (Cl. 271—86.)

The combination with a printing press having mechanism for depositing the printed sheets in a pile, of jogger boards arranged on opposite sides of said pile and movable toward and from said pile to tap opposite edges of each printed sheet as it is deposited on said pile, and air supplying nozzles secured to said movable jogger boards to move therewith and to direct opposing currents of air beneath a plurality of the printed sheets to float the same on cushions of air while they are being tapped by said jogger boards to align them.

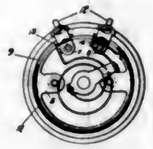
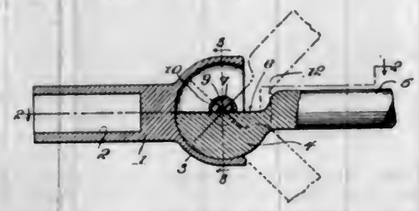
1,623,196. TYPEWRITER STAND. JACOB E. NEAHR, Hartsdale, N. Y., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 1, 1921. Serial No. 504,687. 2 Claims. (Cl. 45—117.)



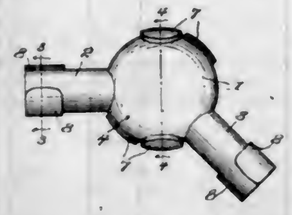
1. In a stand for typewriters, a standard of small cross-area and adapted to support a typewriting machine between the knees of a typist, said standard being provided with a weighted disc-shaped base of large circular diameter to maintain the standard normally in an upright position and facilitate its movement when slightly tilted by rolling on the periphery of said base, and a mounting for a typewriter baseboard comprising a hub having a spindle rotatable in the upper end of the standard and rigid cross-arms intersecting in the hub in fixed relation to said hub, said arms being curved upwardly toward their outer ends and having at their extremities flanged seats to engage the corners of the baseboard to support the latter and to hold the same against lateral displacement when the standard is tilted.

1,623,197. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR MAKING CUPS. JAMES G. NORTON, Leonia, N. J. Filed Apr. 11, 1922, Serial No. 551,709. Renewed Sept. 17, 1926. 16 Claims. (Cl. 93—60.)



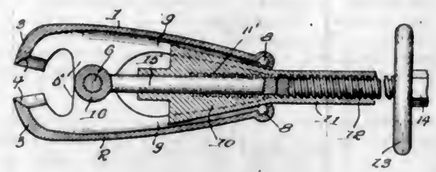
1. The process of making a cup which consists in shaping a blank into a substantially frusto-conical body portion and a more nearly cylindrical handle portion and then setting the blank in permanent condition.

1,623,198. RHEOSTAT. EDWARD B. NOWOSIELSKI, Bloomfield, N. J., assignor to Splitdorf Electrical Company, Newark, N. J. Filed June 19, 1924. Serial No. 720,886. 9 Claims. (Cl. 201—55.)



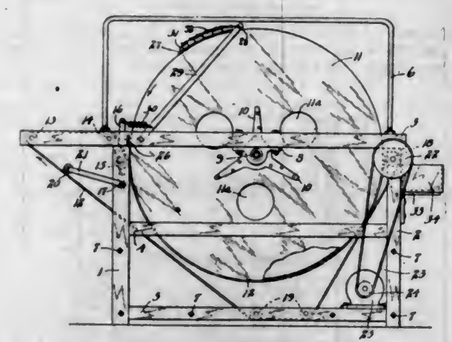
1. In a device of the class described, a casing, a resistance unit mounted within the casing, said unit consisting of a series of wire convolutions arranged on an arcuately formed member, a control rod, an arm carried by said rod, a resilient member carried by said arm in contact with said wire convolutions, a terminal connected to said wire convolutions, a second terminal and a spirally wound conducting member joining said second terminal and said arm.

1,623,199. UNIVERSAL JOINT. DABNEY P. OWENS, Lake Worth, Fla. Filed July 10, 1925. Serial No. 42,735. 1 Claim. (Cl. 64—91.)



A universal joint connection between a drive and driven shaft, comprising a semispherical head on one of said shafts, a socket on the end of the second shaft, receiving the head therein, an element revolubly seated at diametrically opposite points in the socket, and having a central reduced portion disposed over the flat face of the head, and anti-frictional elements carried by the reduced portion of said element bearing directly on the flat surface of the head.

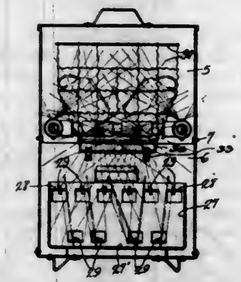
1,623,200. FIXED HOUSING FOR UNIVERSAL CONNECTIONS. DABNEY P. OWENS, Lake Worth, Fla. Filed July 10, 1925. Serial No. 42,737. 1 Claim. (Cl. 64—89.)



A fixed housing for universal connections, comprising a hollow spherical body having angularly disposed tubular members extending therefrom, said housing and tubular members being constructed of two sections which have their confronting edges in contacting engagement, the housing sections having their edges each formed with a pair of outstanding fingers designed to be bent over the other housing sections, the fingers on one of the housing sections being arranged angularly with respect to the fingers on the second housing section, whereby the adjacent edges of the said bent fingers will be arranged in contacting relation, and the sections comprising the tubular extensions being also formed with fingers designed to be bent over each other.

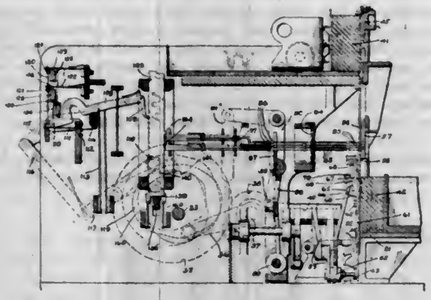
1,623,201. CUTTER. DABNEY P. OWENS, Lake Worth, Fla. Filed July 10, 1925. Serial No. 42,739. 3 Claims. (Cl. 81—197.)

1. A device for severing the heads of bolts, rivets or the like, comprising two members, each being substantially U-shaped in cross-section and having their outer edges arched to the ends thereof, each of said members having their outer ends extended toward each other to provide cutting jaws and each of said members having its sides inward of the jaws formed with ears which lap each other, a pivot element passing through the ears, a rod member through which the pivot also passes and which rod is directed toward the rear of the members, a wedge member received between the members, and in which the rod is also received, said wedge member having a threaded bore and a screw threadingly engaging the bore for contacting with the rod, for the purpose set forth.



1,623,202. PHOTOGLAZING METHOD AND APPARATUS. JAMES W. PASSMAN, Newark, Ohio, assignor to Pako Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 5, 1923. Serial No. 678,697. 43 Claims. (Cl. 95—1.)

1. A print-glazing apparatus having in combination, a revoluble rigid member having a smooth polished peripheral surface and a flexible member adapted to contact and travel with said surface for a portion of its revolution and carry a photographic print with the emulsion side thereof against said surface, said print being carried between said revoluble member and said flexible member.



1,623,203. DISHWASHER. JOHN F. PATTERSON, Warren, Ohio. Filed July 14, 1919. Serial No. 310,599. 1 Claim. (Cl. 141—9.)

In a dish washing machine the combination with a receptacle, of superposed spaced containers within the receptacle, the upper container being foraminous and spaced from the walls of the receptacle, a pipe extending continuously around but spaced from the upper container and located between said container and the wall of the receptacle, said pipe being parallel with the bottoms of the containers, there being a series of apertures in the pipe opening inwardly therefrom toward the bottom portion of the upper container, and a series of apertures opening upwardly from said pipe to deliver jets between the upper container and the walls of the receptable, an outwardly tapered valve for controlling the flow of water through each aperture and a spreading head at the outer end of the valve supported thereby outwardly beyond the opening, the spreading head adjacent one series of openings constituting means for breaking up the jets of water issuing from said openings and spraying them inwardly and upwardly and the heads upon the valves adjacent the other openings constituting means for breaking up the jets issuing from said openings to spray them inwardly, upwardly and downwardly into both containers.

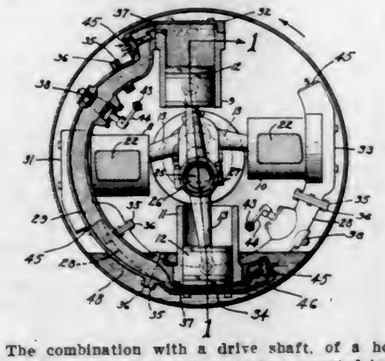
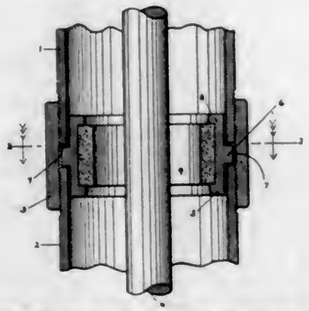
1,623,204. TABULATING APPARATUS. JOHN ROYDEN PEIRCE, New York, N. Y., assignor to International Business Machines Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 3, 1924. Serial No. 717,498. 23 Claims. (Cl. 235—92.)



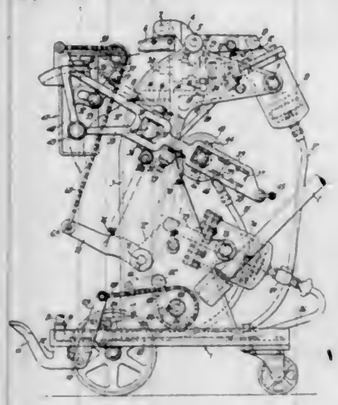
3. A record controlled machine comprising analyzing devices for combinational hole readings, relatively movable combs controlled thereby, a fixed comb cooperatively disposed with respect to the relatively movable combs, all of said combs having notches thereon, means adapted to slidably sweep over the movable and fixed combs and to be arrested upon reaching an open alignment position of the notches of all said combs, contact devices adapted to be operated by said last mentioned means when arrested, circuits controlled by said contact devices, magnets in said circuits, and parts controlled by said magnets for the purpose described.

1,623,205. ELECTRIC RECEPTACLE. JAMES W. PHELPS, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 24, 1924. Serial No. 715,555. 8 Claims. (Cl. 200—115.5.)



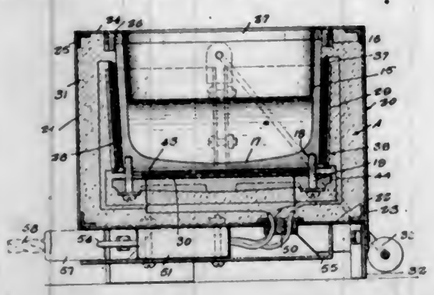
1. In a device of the kind described, a unitary body member having an up-standing socket for an incandescent lamp base and a protected chamber of substantially equal height for housing a thermo element.

1,623,206. FLUID-TRANSMISSION MECHANISM. CUSHMAN POTTER, Houston, Minn. Filed June 13, 1923. Serial No. 645,109. 5 Claims. (Cl. 192—60.)



1. The combination with a drive shaft, of a housing mounted to revolve therewith, cylinders mounted in pairs in said housing in opposing relation, each cylinder of a pair being offset or out of alignment with the other cylinder of the same pair, a shaft having double cranks, pistons for said cylinders connected respectively with said cranks, circulating passages connecting the cylinders of the same pair for conducting the inelastic fluid from one cylinder to the other of the same pair, said passages having intake ports and valves therefor communicating with a fluid supply, the offsetting of said cylinders creating a suction in said passages and opening said valves, and means for interrupting the flow of the inelastic fluid through said passages to check the stroke of said pistons and transmit power to said cranks and shaft.

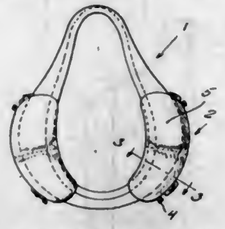
1,623,207. SHAFT BEARING. OSCAR POULSEN, Alameda, Calif. Filed July 14, 1922. Serial No. 575,047. 2 Claims. (Cl. 103—111.)



1. In combination with the discharge casing of a deep well pump and a rotating shaft therein, said casing being divided into sections spaced apart at their ends, a rubber cushion surrounding the inner side of said casing and adapted to prevent the whipping of said shaft, said cushion having a supporting member including an annular flange projecting from said member and secured between said sections, adapted to hold said cushion away from said shaft.

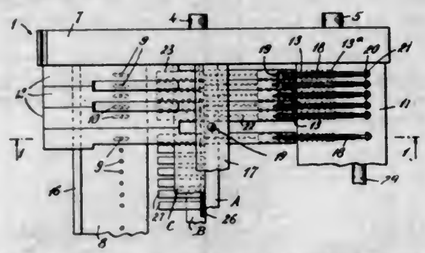
1,623,208. MACHINE FOR STRIPPING VULCANIZED ARTICLES. CHESTER J. RANDALL, Woonsocket, R. I., and CHARLES WURTENBERG, Union City, Conn., assignors to The Goodyear's Metallic Rubber Shoe Company, Naugatuck, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Feb. 1, 1924. Serial No. 689,858. 18 Claims. (Cl. 18—2.)

1. In a machine for stripping angular articles of vulcanized material from forms, means for gripping the form, means for gripping the article, and means for separating the form and article by successive relative movements of rotation and revolution.



1,623,209. ELECTRIC MELTING POT. FRANK SCHUSTER, Richmond Hill, N. Y. Filed Dec. 16, 1925. Serial No. 75,813. 10 Claims. (Cl. 219—44.)

1. An electric melting pot comprising an inner vessel, an outer jacket surrounding and receiving the said vessel, an electric heating element disposed in the jacket in close proximity to the inner vessel, an annular top plate secured to the upper edge of the jacket, and a heat insulating ring disposed between the upper edge of the vessel and said top plate.



1,623,210. HORSE-COLLAR CUSHION. AUGUST H. STAHL, Grafton, Nebr. Filed Sept. 22, 1926. Serial No. 136,989. 1 Claim. (Cl. 54—65.)

As a new product of manufacture, an air cushion for a horse collar comprising a casing constructed to provide upper and lower bag receiving pockets, individual inflatable air bags in said pockets, each bag being provided with an inflation valve, said casing being provided along one edge with an extending flap, and resilient hooks carried by said flap and adapted to detachably mount the device upon said collar.

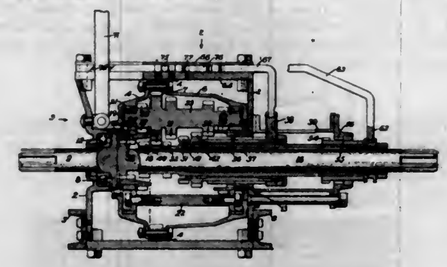
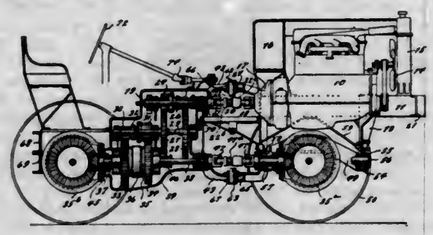
1,623,211. KEYBOARD FOR ORGANS AND THE LIKE. JOHN W. STARKIE, East Elmhurst, N. Y., assignor to The Aeolian Company, a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed June 29, 1923. Serial No. 648,586. 3 Claims. (Cl. 84—424.)



3. In combination, a manual for a keyboard instrument, supports at the ends of said manual; and pin and groove connections between said ends of the manual and said supports permitting the manual to be slid into and out of position thereon, there being two pins projecting from each end of the manual to engage the grooves in the supports, said grooves inclining downwardly from their forward open ends to their rear closed ends, which latter act as stops for the rear pins of the manual, and notches extending downwardly from the undersides of said grooves to receive the front pins and lock them against accidental displacement.

1,623,212. TRANSMISSION MECHANISM. CHARLES E. STARR, Oakland, Calif., assignor to Perfecto Gear Differential Co., Seattle, Wash., a Corporation of Washington. Filed May 10, 1922. Serial No. 559,697. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—99.)



1. The combination with a differential gear system of a planetary gear system having its intermediate gears journaled on the differential casing and a ring fixed for rotation with the differential casing, the inner gear of the planetary system being journaled on said ring and on said differential casing.

1,623,213. TRANSMISSION GEARING. CHARLES E. STARR, Oakland, Calif., assignor to Perfecto Gear Differential Company, Oakland, Calif., a Corporation of Washington. Filed Nov. 19, 1923. Serial No. 675,474. 15 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)

1. In a transmission gearing, a rotatable closed housing, a driving shaft connected for rotation with said housing, a driven shaft extending into said housing, a jack shaft within said housing and geared to both the housing and the driven shaft, a plurality of planet gears fixed on said jack shaft, a non-rotatable center gear adapted to mesh with each planet gear, and means for optionally engaging any center gear with its planet gear.

1,623,214. VEHICLE. NORMAN C. STOREY, Passaic, N. J. Filed Sept. 28, 1923. Serial No. 665,300. 11 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.)

1. A vehicle comprising a front and a rear truck frame, drive wheels rigidly but rotatably mounted on said rear frame, a wheel frame tiltably mounted on said front truck frame about an axis extending longitudinally of the vehicle, drive wheels mounted on said wheel frame, a vertical pivotal connection between said truck frames, a driving motor mounted on said forward truck frame, a transmission mounted on said rear truck frame, means comprising flexible couplings for transmitting power from said motor to said transmission, means for transmitting power from the transmission to the rear wheels, and means comprising flexible couplings for transmitting power from the transmission to the front wheels.

1,623,215. CAR HEATER. VICTOR SUSSIN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Feb. 12, 1926. Serial No. 87,731. 4 Claims. (Cl. 257—136.)

1. A heater for utilizing gaseous products of combustion,—as the exhaust gases of an internal combustion engine,—consisting of a pair of stamped metal members each formed with a longitudinally extending cavity, said members adapted to mutually close each other throughont their longitudinal extent in common when assembled with said cavities facing each other, and a partition plate interposed between said members and united fluid-tight thereto at the margins of their cavities, said members having pipe connections leading into their respective cavities at opposite sides of said partition near the same end of the assembled structure, the partition being apertured near its opposite end for discharge of gases from one side of the partition to the other.

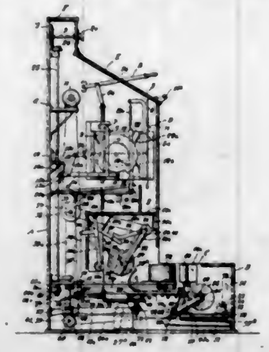
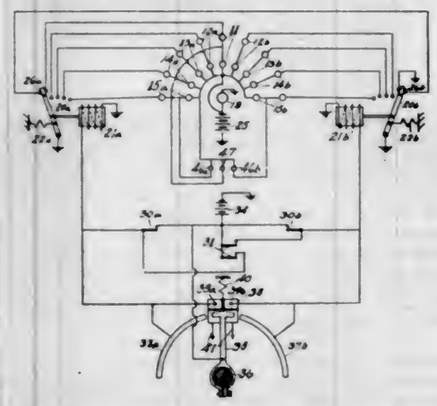
1,623,216. INSTRUMENT FOR GRAPHIC CONTROL. EUGENE SZEPESI, Boston, Mass. Filed Aug. 26, 1925. Serial No. 52,698. 5 Claims. (Cl. 116—135.)

2. A graphic control device comprising a supporting structure, graphic units removably supported by said supporting structure in superposed relationship, each of said graphic units comprising a casing having a sight opening in the front wall thereof extending longitudinally of the casing, an arrangement of rollers in the casing, a ribbon supported for movement by the rollers with portions thereof in overlapped relationship, a slide carried by the casing for longitudinal movement, the opposite ends of the ribbon attached respectively to front and rear portions of the slide, the end of the ribbon attached to the front portion of the slide so that the slide and one of the rollers maintain a portion of the ribbon movably disposed in front of another portion of the ribbon parallel thereto, the latter portion of the ribbon appearing through the sight opening, one side of the ribbon being distinctively colored and the other side having a scale whereby upon movement of the slide any particular part of the scale on a portion of the ribbon adjacent the sight opening may be exhibited adjacent a colored portion of the ribbon adjacent the sight opening.



1,623,217. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. OTTO THIEME, Hartford, Conn., assignor to Underwood Computing Machine Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 20, 1924. Serial No. 700,455. 13 Claims. (Cl. 235—102.)

1. The combination of a key-lever, a counter, actuating mechanism for said counter, said actuating mechanism comprising a toggle-joint, and an intermediate lever to be operated by said key-lever, said intermediate lever engaging the toggle-joint to actuate the latter to operate the counter.



1,623,218. SHOE-POLISHING MACHINE. JOHN L. THOMPSON, Waterbury, Conn. Filed July 29, 1925. Serial No. 46,803. 11 Claims. (Cl. 15—32.)

3. In a shoe polishing machine, a casing, means for brushing the sides of a shoe, means for brushing the front of said shoe, means for brushing the heel of said shoe, means for reciprocating said side brushing means along the whole length of said shoe, and means for alternately moving said front brushing means and said heel brushing means out of operating position when the side brushing means are at the front and rear of said shoe respectively.

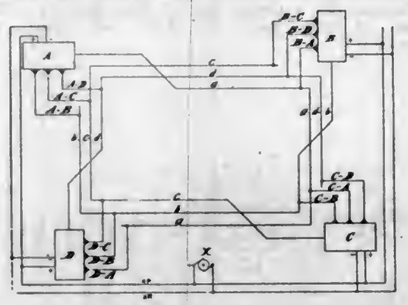
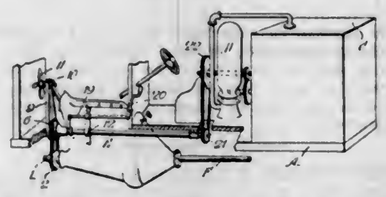
1,623,219. VEHICLE SIGNAL. SAMUEL TOLMACH, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 23, 1919. Serial No. 319,374. 9 Claims. (Cl. 177—339.)



1. A vehicle signal consisting of a casing, means whereby said casing is divided into a series of radial compartments, means for providing a separate compartment at the centre of said radial compartments, illuminating means for each of said compartments, and means whereby the illuminating means of the radial compartments may be energized successively to simulate movement about said central compartment to indicate a change in the operation of the vehicle.

1,623,220. TELAUTOGRAPH SYSTEM. ARLEIGH N. VAN NOSTRAND, Flushing, N. Y., assignor to Telautograph Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Apr. 14, 1926. Serial No. 101,905. 10 Claims. (Cl. 178—2.)



1. In a telautograph having a rheostat, a rheostat roller, and a pivoted arm on which the roller is mounted, the combination, with the rheostat roller, and the said pivoted arm, of a switch device arranged to control the master-switch circuit, a lever arranged to swing in a plane transverse to the plane of movement of the said roller-carrying pivoted arm, said lever being arranged to actuate the switch device, and locking means movable with said pivoted arm and arranged to swing into and out of the path of said lever whereby the movement of said lever is prevented when the said locking means is in the path of movement of said lever, and is permitted when said means is out of said path.

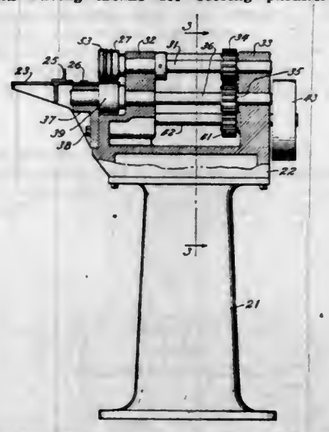
1,623,221. COMBINED AUTO TRUCK AND SPRAYER. ROBERT WEIMER, Apple Creek, Ohio. Filed Sept. 5, 1925. Serial No. 54,822. 2 Claims. (Cl. 180—53.)



1. In a power spray rig, the combination with a motor vehicle engine and chassis, of a longitudinal shaft rotarily mounted on said engine, a bearing for one end of said shaft, a support bar for said bearing secured on said engine body, a driven pulley mounted idly on said shaft comprising a sprocket wheel and belt pulley solidly united and of different diameters and one member of a clutch, means for actuating said clutch manually, a drive pulley mounted on the opposite end of said shaft, a driven pulley in operative engagement with said drive pulley, a hydraulic force pump in operative engagement with said driven pulley, and means, including an attachment mounted on the engine drive shaft comprising a short spindle, a sleeve integral therewith, and a sprocket pulley on said sleeve, to drive said horizontal shaft.

1,623,222. ABRASIVE COMPOUND. JOHN FREDERICK WERDER, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Mar. 6, 1926. Serial No. 92,943. 8 Claims. (Cl. 51—280.)

1. The method of preparing an abrasive compound containing soluble starch powder which comprises mixing the dry abrasive material and dry cold water paste, saturating the dry mixture with an aqueous solution, and stirring for a time sufficient to obtain a homogeneous substance but insufficient to permit substantial solution of the cold water paste.

1,623,223. SCORING MACHINE. MAGNUS E. WIDELL, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to American Can Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 12, 1923. Serial No. 674,129. 7 Claims. (Cl. 113—15.)

1. A machine for scoring blanks for tearing strip containers, comprising different operation scoring rollers arranged in tandem relationship and driven in unison, a certain roller having means for scoring parallel bounding lines of the tearing strip, and another roller in line therewith having means for scoring parallel diagonal lines between said parallel lines, whereby a plurality of score designs are provided in a single machine and with a single sheet feeding operation.

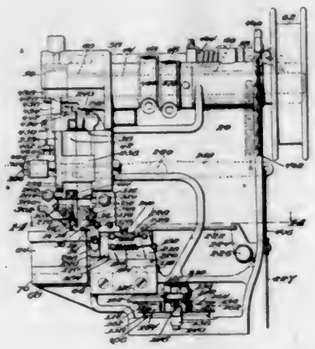
1,623,224. KEY-HOLDING DEVICE. CHARLES E. YALE, Santa Monica, Calif. Filed Apr. 23, 1926. Serial No. 104,045. 8 Claims. (Cl. 59—96.)

1. A key holding device comprising a casing, a plurality of keys disposed within the casing, and swinging means for projecting all of the keys sidewise beyond the casing and to retain the keys under tension within the casing.



1,623,225. CHANNELING MACHINE. HARRIE A. BALLARD, Boston, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 3, 1920, Serial No. 421,485. Renewed Oct. 12, 1925. 75 Claims. (Cl. 12—27.)

70. In a machine of the class described, two reciprocating slides, a knife carried by one of said slides for cutting an inner channel in a sole, a knife carried by the other of said slides for cutting an outer channel in a sole, means carried by each of said slides for feeding the sole, means for moving said slides simultaneously in opposite directions to cause said knives and said feeding means to act in alternation to cut and feed the sole, and means for controlling the extent of reciprocation of the slide carrying the knife for cutting the inner channel.

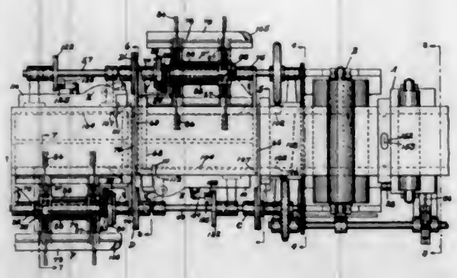
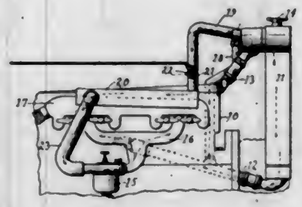
1,623,226. CHANNELING MACHINE. HARRIS A. BALLARD, Boston, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 15, 1923. Serial No. 657,526. 61 Claims. (Cl. 12—27.)



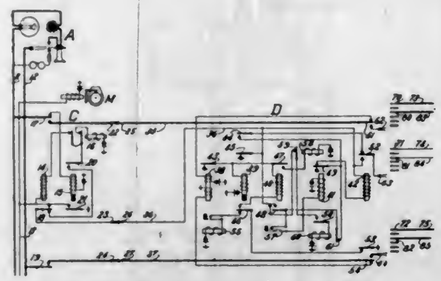
1. In a machine of the class described, feeding means intermittently operative to feed the work, cutting means movable opposite to the direction of feed to cut the work while said feeding means is operative and movable to starting position while said feeding means is inoperative, and means constantly in engagement with the work for imparting an additional feed movement to the work during the movement of the cutting means to starting position.

1,623,227. BRAKE MECHANISM. HERBERT E. BARTSCH, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Universal Draft Gear Attachment Co., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 8, 1926. Serial No. 93,032. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—110.)



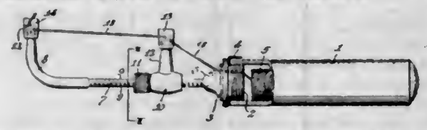
1. In a brake mechanism for railway cars, a brake lever, a brake staff, an expansible and contractible connection between said staff and lever, said connection comprising a reversible lever, an inclined support, and means slidably mounted on said support for supporting said reversible lever.

1,623,228. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR SEVERING AND VALVING BAG TUBES. ADELMER M. BATES, GEORGE P. DORR, and JOHANN E. DANCKER, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Bates Valve Bag Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Apr. 18, 1925. Serial No. 24,103. 44 Claims. (Cl. 93—8.)



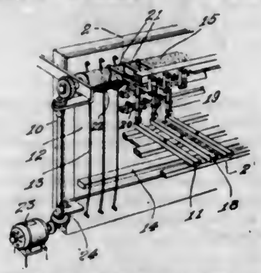
1. In combination, intermittent means for moving a bag tube longitudinally, two bag lengths at a time, and means to simultaneously sever two bag lengths from the tube while it is at rest, the severing means being constructed to cut each bag length longer on one side than on the other.

1,623,229. WATER CIRCULATOR AND AIR MOISTENER FOR WATER-COOLED INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. RILEY BECK, Dows, Iowa. Filed Jan. 12, 1925. Serial No. 1,979. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—25.)



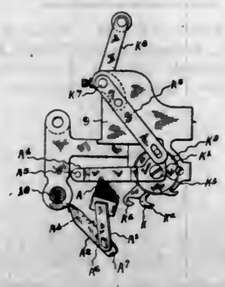
The combination with an internal combustion engine including a water jacket, a carburetor, air intake and a radiator, the latter being closed at its top, of a water pipe communicating between the bottom of the radiator and the water jacket, an air inlet pipe communicating with said water pipe at a point between the radiator and jacket and extended upwardly to a point above the water level of the radiator, a water pipe communicating between the top of the water jacket and the top of the radiator, an air pipe communicating with the top of the radiator and extended first upwardly and rearwardly and then downwardly and communicating with the carburetor air intake, and a manually controlled air valve in said latter air pipe, for the purposes stated.

1,623,230. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. JOHN I. BELLAMY, Brookfield, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Automatic Electric Inc., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Original application filed Oct. 12, 1921, Serial No. 507,182. Divided and this application filed Oct. 23, 1925. Serial No. 64,301. 22 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)



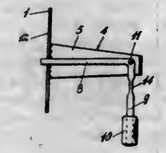
1. In an automatic switch having a directively controlled primary movement and a secondary movement, a line relay, a release relay, a relay for controlling the change over from primary to secondary movement, and a single pair of contacts on said line relay directly controlling said release and change over relays.

1,623,231. FLOSS HOLDER. CLARENCE B. BOWLING and HUBERT BULMAN, Detroit, Mich. Filed May 2, 1925. Serial No. 27,371. 1 Claim. (Cl. 132—92.)



In a floss holder having a bow provided with an outer head, and a sleeve adjustable on said bow and supporting an inner head, said inner and outer heads having vertical longitudinal slots, side bottom slots, and front and rear openings, the slots and openings adapted to receive a piece of floss to be drawn taut by adjustment of said sleeve on said bow, said outer head having angularly disposed slots either of which is adapted to receive the outer end of the floss.

1,623,232. TONE-SUSTAINING MECHANISM. CHARLES CHADWICK, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Jan. 29, 1926. Serial No. 84,710. 6 Claims. (Cl. 84—245.)



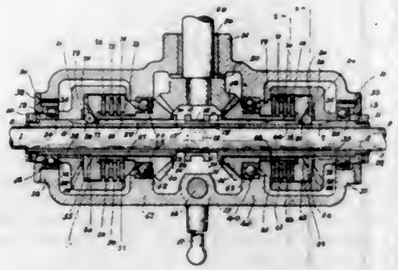
2. In a device of the class described, the combination of a sonorous member, a vibratory member of approximately the same frequency as said sonorous member, means for initially imparting a vibratory action to said vibratory member, a rotatable member, and co-acting means for sustaining the vibrating action of said vibratory member after the actuation of said means and for transmitting the vibrations to said sonorous member.

1,623,233. KNOTTING MECHANISM FOR KNITTING MACHINES. EDGAR W. CLARKE, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, assignor to Mercury Mills, Limited, Hamilton, Canada. Filed July 1, 1925. Serial No. 40,877. 7 Claims. (Cl. 289—2.)

2. The combination with a bill hook for forming a loop knot in parallel thread parts; means for actuating the bill, of a movable brush adapted to sweep over the bill and carry the loop along the threads away from the bill hook; and means operable by the bill actuating means for operating the brush.

1,623,234. GRADE INDICATOR. CHARLES W. CUTTER, Long Beach, Calif. Filed Oct. 29, 1925. Serial No. 65,582. 1 Claim. (Cl. 33—218.)

A grade indicator comprising a face plate having a slot therein, a scale on said plate, a bracket secured to said plate, an indicating finger pivoted to said bracket, an arm integral with said finger and depending therefrom, and a weight on said arm, said arm having a reduced neck portion thereon, whereby the weight may be adjusted to correct the setting of the finger by flexing the arm at said neck portion.



1,623,235. NOTEBOOK HOLDER. CHARLES L. DAHLBERG, Des Moines, Iowa. Filed Sept. 30, 1925. Serial No. 59,493. 4 Claims. (Cl. 129—1.)

2. A note book holder comprising a body portion having at one end a staple member, one end of said staple member being secured to said body portion and the other end overhanging the end of said body portion, means for closing said staple member comprising a plate slidably mounted on said body portion, and means for locking said plate against inward or outward movement when in a closed position.

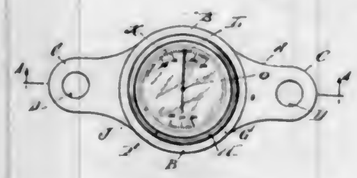
1,623,236. FRICTION CLUTCH. WILLIAM C. DE ROO, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The Dreses Machine Tool Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 9, 1925. Serial No. 1,397. 24 Claims. (Cl. 192—21.)

1. In a friction clutch, a driving shaft, a plurality of wedges, a clutch member mounted concentric of said shaft and having a beveled side having a plurality of grooves therein, an engaging member in each of said grooves, circularly retracting springs connecting said engaging members and received within the beveled side of said clutch member, a driven member and manually operative means adapted to actuate said wedges into simultaneous engagement with said engaging members whereby said engaging members are forced into uniform engaging contact with said clutch member whereby said clutch member is forced into clutching frictional engagement with said driven member.

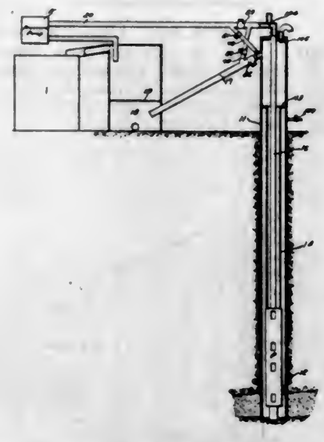


22. In a friction clutch, a driving shaft, a driven shaft, a pair of sleeves splined to said driving shaft and each having spaced apart allned longitudinal grooves therein, a spacing sleeve mounted on said driving shaft and intermediate said pair of sleeves, longitudinal wedges slidably mounted in said alined groves, respectively, and having their ends beveled and each having a centrally disposed transverse groove therein, a collar mounted on said spacing sleeve and received in said transverse grooves and having a circumferential groove therein, a fork in said circumferential groove, manually operative means having operative connection with said fork whereby said collar is adapted to be moved longitudinally on said spacing sleeve and simultaneously slide said wedges longitudinally of said driving shaft, the directional movement of said manually operative means controlling the slidable directional movement of said wedges, a bevel gear rotatably mounted around each of said pair of sleeves, respectively, and each having an extended hub having external teeth thereon, a plurality of spaced apart disks mounted on each of said bevel gear hubs and meshing with said teeth thereof, a gear keyed to said driven shaft and in permanent mesh with both of said bevel gears, a clutch hub keyed to each of said pair of sleeves, respectively, and having internal teeth, a plurality of disks mounted in each of said hubs, respectively, and in mesh with the internal teeth and one of each set of said last disks having a plurality of inclined grooves therein, respectively, in alinement with said longitudinal grooves, a cylindrical roller in each end of each of said longitudinal gro ves, respectively, and extending into the adjacent incline groove and adapted to be engaged by the adjacent beveled end of one of said wedges, whereby manual operation of said manually operative means is adapted to force one of said grooved disks into frictional driving engagement with the adjacent disks whereby rotary movement is imparted to said driven shaft.

1,623,237. VACUUM-FUEL SYSTEM FOR CARBURETORS. NOBLE ECKLES, San Diego, Calif., assignor of three-fourths to Lewis W. Rhode, San Diego, Calif. Filed Jan. 20, 1921. Serial No. 438,689. 1 Claim. (Cl. 158—36.1.)

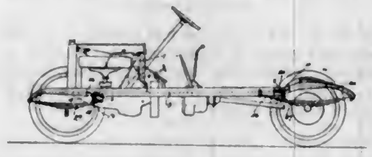
A carburetor having a suction passage, a spray nozzle discharging into the suction passage and a fuel tank divided into two chambers, one of said chambers being connected to the spray nozzle at its lower end, the other of said chambers having a fuel inlet pipe, a float means controlling the inlet into the last named chamber, a float controlling the passage of fuel from the last named chamber to the other chamber and a pipe in continuous communication with the upper ends of both chambers and with the suction passage of the carburetor whereby to maintain a partial vacuum in the upper portion of both fuel chambers while there is a partial vacuum in the suction passage of the carburetor, means adjustably regulatable for relieving without breaking a partial vacuum formed in the fuel chambers and manually operable means for breaking the vacuum of the chamber.

1,623,238. DYNAMOMETER GAUGE. THOMAS H. FROST and PAUL HEYMANS, Brookline, Mass. Filed May 8, 1925. Serial No. 28,804. 13 Claims. (Cl. 265—68.)



1. A stress measuring instrumeat comprising, in combination, a prime indicator adapted to be distorted by the stress, a gauge adapted to measure a linear dimension, a single fastening element for removably mounting said gauge on a part of said prime indicator for contact between said gauge and another part of said prime indicator adapted to be relatively displaced according to the stress to be measured.

1,623,239. HYDRAULIC PUMP AND SYSTEM. EDWIN B. GALBREATH, Long Beach, Calif. Filed Dec. 8, 1924. Serial No. 754,510. 20 Claims. (Cl. 103—44.)



1. In the elevating of oil from a deep well equipped with a duplex double-acting pump comprising power cylinders in the well and with a power pump outside the well, and an oil delivery string having an interior pipe therein, a method which comprises: advancing a power fluid continuously downward from said power pump through said interior pipe and intermittently through said power cylinders, while conducting from said duplex pump, through said delivery string, a mixture of said power fluid and the fluid pumped thereby.

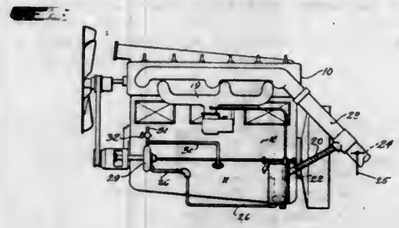
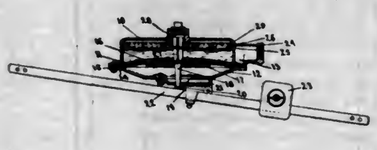
1,623,240. LUBRICATING SYSTEM. COY C. GOODRICH, San Francisco, Calif. Filed June 23, 1924. Serial No. 721,887. 2 Claims. (Cl. 184—7.)



1. A distributing head for a pumping system comprising a casting recessed to communicate with the discharge port of the pumping system, a spring pressed cup slidable in the recess and normally closing said port and positioned to intercept and to close the cylinder so as to force the lubricant to spread, longitudinal grooves along the wall of the recess allowing the spreading lubricant to be forced thereinto and transverse ports communicating with the grooves having passages communicating therewith for guiding the lubricant to its various points of application.

1,623,241. FUEL AND METHOD OF PRODUCING SAME. CHARLES JASON GREENSTREET, Chicago, Ill., assignor to American Coalinoil Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 13, 1922. Serial No. 588,053. 20 Claims. (Cl. 44—8.)

1. A fuel product comprising, finely divided, solid, carbonaceous materials, substantially free of impurities, a fluid fuel medium, and a substance capable of rendering the consistency of the fluid medium such as to receive and hold the solid fuel particles.



1,623,242. HEATER AND PURIFIER. JOSEPH GRUBER, Sioux Falls, S. D. Filed Dec. 7, 1925. Serial No. 73,572. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—196.)

A device of the character described comprising a closed casing, a pipe extending thru the casing thru which to pass hot gases to heat the contents of the casing, an oil inlet near the bottom of the casing for connection to the crank case of an engine, an opening at the upper end of the casing for a tube to connect it to the intake conduit of an engine, a discharge opening near the bottom of the casing for connection of an oil circulating tube, an oil strainer in the casing overlying the latter opening, and a spring pressed valve connected to the upper end of the casing for opening inwardly of the casing.

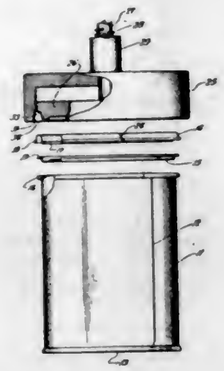
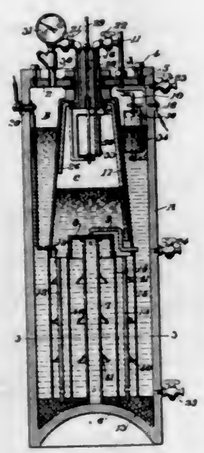
1,623,243. STEAM-IMPELLED MOTIVE APPARATUS. CHARLES V. HAYNES, Ardmore, Pa., assignor to Hoffman Specialty Company, Waterbury, Conn., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 17, 1925. Serial No. 37,603. 7 Claims. (Cl. 236—26.)



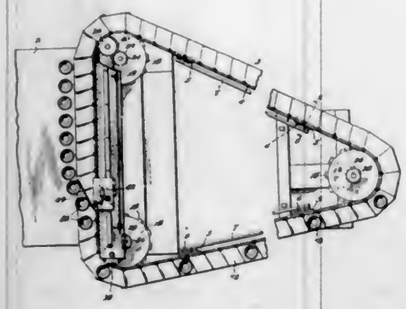
1. A steam impelled device of the character described, comprising a closed pressure chamber having a steam connection, a downwardly movable member closing said chamber below said steam connection, yieldable means constantly tending to move said member upward, and a displacer movable across the level of said steam connection in unison with movements of the aforesaid movable member.

1,623,244. SHOE RACK. JOHN E. HOOPER, Milford, Mass. Filed Jan. 22, 1925, Serial No. 4,106. Renewed Aug. 25, 1926. 7 Claims. (Cl. 211—14.)



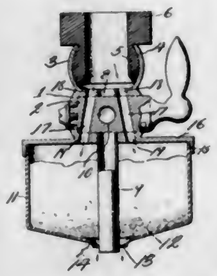
1. A cover for the trays of shoe-racks comprising a body portion to rest upon the bottom of the tray, and flaps depending from said body portion to guide anything falling from the cover away from the shoes in the trays below.

1,623,245. METHOD FOR CLOSING CONTAINERS. JOHN M. HOTHERSALL, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to American Can Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 18, 1925. Serial No. 24,045. 12 Claims. (Cl. 113—116.)



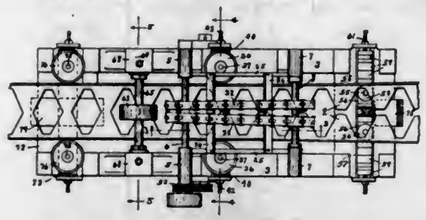
1. The process of closing containers, which consists in providing a container body having a horizontally extending rolled upper edge, positioning upon said body a cover having a flange adapted to overlie said rolled edge and a vertical wall part arrangeable within said body, providing a sealing ring of substantially the shape of an inverted U and having a rolled edge, arranging said ring over said body edge and cover flange, and pressing the rolled edge thereof downwardly to cause it to engage beneath the rolled upper edge of the can body.

1,623,246. ELECTROLYTIC CELL. ALBERT A. JAHNKE, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Aug. 20, 1925. Serial No. 51,479. 14 Claims. (Cl. 204—5.)



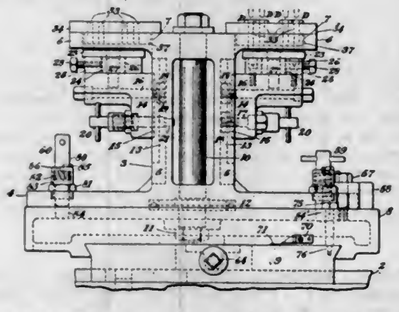
1. An electrolytic cell comprising a housing, anode and cathode electrodes in said housing, and a pair of gas collecting chambers formed within the housing and arranged one within the other, said chambers permitting accumulation and gradual pressure building of the gases received.

1,623,247. CONVEYER FOR LEER-CHARGING APPARATUS. FRED H. JOHNSON and SHERMAN R. LATHROP, Sapulpa, Okla. Original application filed Mar. 19, 1925, Serial No. 16,834. Divided and this application filed July 13, 1926. Serial No. 122,216. 8 Claims. (Cl. 198—129.)



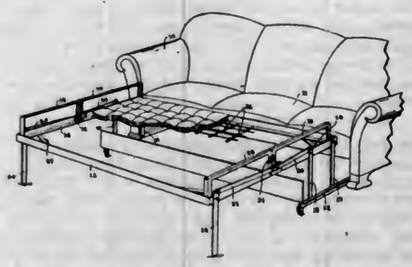
1. In an apparatus for the purpose set forth, an endless conveyer comprising a chain set on edge, and overlapping plates secured to and extending laterally from the chain.

1,623,248. FAUCET ATTACHMENT. FREDERICK JOSEPH and ISAAC P. CREAMER, New York, N. Y., assignors of one-third to Joseph Alterman, New York, N. Y. Filed June 25, 1925. Serial No. 39,547. 1 Claim. (Cl. 251—104.)



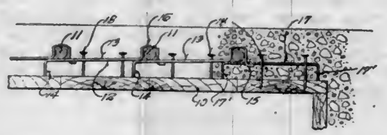
A valve comprising a casing, means carried by said valve casing for attaching the same to a faucet, a horizontally disposed valve rotatably mounted in the valve casing and provided with a centrally disposed transversely disposed port and with diverging ports at opposite sides of the first mentioned port, and in a plane at a right angle thereto, a member carried by said valve casing and provided with diverging ports adapted to register with the diverging ports of the rotatable valve, and a discharge pipe carried by said casing in the same vertical plane as the first mentioned valve port.

1,623,249. ELECTRIC-WELDING MACHINE. JULIUS KAHN, Youngstown, Ohio. Continuation of application Serial No. 683,707, filed Dec. 31, 1923. This application filed Sept. 10, 1925. Serial No. 55,466. 16 Claims. (Cl. 219—4.)



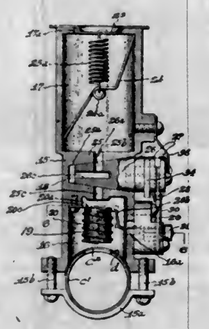
1. In an electric welding machine, parallel guides between which the work is slidable, and a conductor chain adapted to pass between the guides with the work.

1,623,250. APPARATUS FOR DRILLING AND THE LIKE. CHARLES D. KING, Rutherford, N. J. Filed Apr. 26, 1922, Serial No. 556,682. Renewed July 10, 1926. 15 Claims. (Cl. 77—63.)



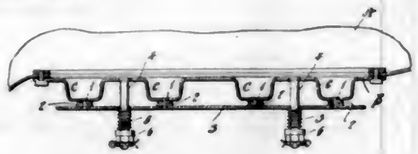
1. An apparatus for drilling and the like embodying a separate fixture-frame adapted to be secured in alinement with a drilling spindle, drill-guiding means fixed on the fixture-frame, a work-support movable toward and from the drill-guiding means and guided by means on the fixture-frame, means to secure blanks to the said work-support, and means to secure the work support on said fixture-frame immediately adjacent to the drill-guiding means for drilling and in a removed position on the fixture-frame for loading and unloading blanks.

1,623,251. FOLDABLE BED COUCH. OTTO KONRAD, Oshkosh, Wis., assignor to Three C Davenport Company, Oshkosh, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Nov. 13, 1922. Serial No. 600,651. 2 Claims. (Cl. 5—53.)



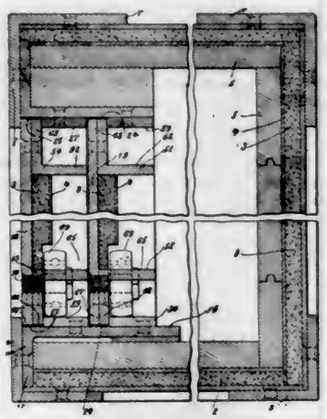
1. In a foldable bed, a supporting frame, a bed frame, said bed frame being formed in sections hinged to fold upon itself, means for extensibly supporting said bed frame upon said supporting frame, a brace member pivotally connected to said bed frame at each end thereof, said brace members each comprising two sections hinged together to fold only in one direction whereby said brace member may fold with said bed frame, said braces adapted in their operative position to prevent a folding of said bed frame and an outward displacement of the ends of said frame.

1,623,252. MEANS FOR REENFORCING CONCRETE FLOORS. OTTO KONRAD, Oshkosh, Wis. Filed Nov. 12, 1923. Serial No. 674,210. 2 Claims. (Cl. 72—122.)



1. Reenforcing means for cementitious floors comprising longitudinally and transversely extending reenforcing members arranged in spaced relation, each of said transverse members consisting of a plurality of sections, each section being formed with a perforation and a hooked end, the hooked end of each section engaging the perforation of the next adjacent section, each section being shaped to engage one of the longitudinal members, the opposite end of each section being angularly bent to form a supporting leg.

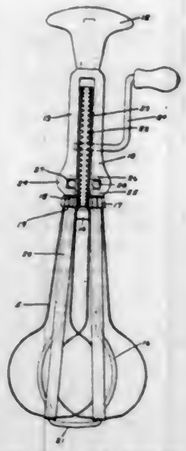
1,623,253. ART OF VAPORIZING FUEL. CHARLES F. LARZELERE and CHARLES H. NEUMEYER, Flint, Mich. Filed Apr. 15, 1922. Serial No. 553,281. 28 Claims. (Cl. 123—180.)



5. A vaporizing instrumentality for internal combustion engines comprising a casing having a retort portion and a fuel reservoir in superposed relation and spaced apart, a heat-vaporizing unit operative within the retort, and means interposed between the retort and reservoir for transferring fuel from said reservoir to the unit in the retort at will, said means including an element movably rotatively between two positions, said element having a pair of communicating ports, said ports being adapted to communicate with the reservoir and retort respectively, said ports extending radially and having their outer ends relatively positioned to maintain closure of one of such ends when the other end is in complete open position.

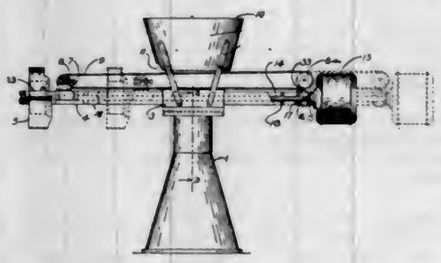
1,623,254. DRAINING MEANS FOR SPLASH TROUGHS OF INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. GEORGE A. LAUVER, Ponca City, Okla., assignor, by mesne assignments, to William A. Morgan, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Jan. 9, 1926. Serial No. 80,380. 3 Claims. (Cl. 184—106.)

1. In combination with the crank casing of internal combustion engines having a plurality of openings in the bottom thereof, a bar movable to and from the bottom, valves on said bar to close said openings, and resilient means engaging said bar and adapted to hold said valves seated in said openings.



1,623,255. SAFE. OLIVER P. LE COMPTE, Baltimore County, and SAM A. CAHN, Baltimore, Md., assignors to Miller Safe Company, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Dec. 4, 1925. Serial No. 73,105. 18 Claims. (Cl. 109—1.)

1. A safe having inside and outside overlapping sliding doors, the safe walls and the doors having an interlocking connection on three edges of each door in the closed position of the latter, the fourth edges of the two respective doors being overlapped in said closed position, and each door having at the overlapping edge a portion projecting in the direction of closing, the projecting portions being interlocked inside the safe in the closed position of the doors both doors having integral outer surface portions and the outer door having a flange integral therewith, which flange covers and encloses the interlocking projections and closely contacts the inner door in the closed position of the doors.



1,623,256. EGG BEATER. RICHARD B. LIENHARD, Newington, Conn., assignor to The Taplin Manufacturing Company, New Britain, Conn., a Corporation. Filed Mar. 30, 1925. Serial No. 19,413. 1 Claim. (Cl. 259—131.)

In an egg beater having as associated operating parts, a drive gear positioned between beater blade driving pinions and individual shafts for said pinions that are operatively held in place by a swaged portion of each of said shafts that is located between longitudinally spaced walls, a frame having side members that are separated by a space for admitting said drive gear, that are provided with recesses that are bordered by said walls, and that are provided with bores for unswaged portions of said shafts, and said recesses extending individually from front to rear across said side members and opening inwardly into said space for the drive gear, whereby is permitted a close relation of the drive gear and pinions, involving the use of small pinions for obtaining relatively high speed and the supporting material of the side members extending around the recesses may unrestrictedly be provided with needed material for strength and rigidity.

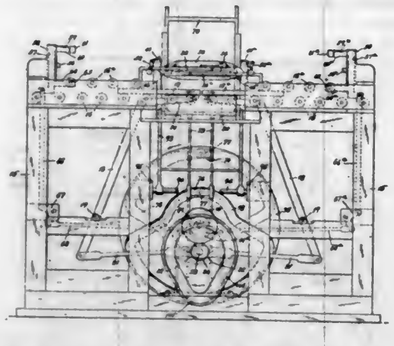
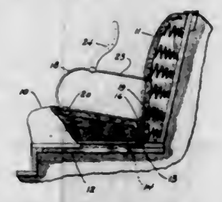
1,623,257. MOLDING MACHINE. NELSON LITTELL, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 6, 1924. Serial No. 718,215. 19 Claims. (Cl. 22—36.)



1. In a molding machine of the type described, a projector, means to operate the projector, a supporting mast, a pivot and a slide supported on said mast, means extending through said slide and slidable therein for supporting the projector and means for conveying sand or other molding material from over said pivot, to the projector.



1,623,258. LOOM. JONATHAN LUCAS, Savannah, Ga., assignor to Lucas-Lamborn Loom Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 7, 1924. Serial No. 711,581. 16 Claims. (Cl. 139—141.)

1. A shuttle shifting and carrying mechanism for looms, comprising a pair of longitudinally movable carriers, means for inversely reciprocating the carriers in a continuous manner, a pair of fingers carried by each carrier, the fingers of one carrier being disposed in a plane different from that in which the fingers of the other carrier are located, a shuttle, guide means upon said shuttle adapted to receive the fingers of each of the carriers simultaneously, and means whereby upon each completion of one of the strokes of said carriers the shuttle will be transferred from the fingers of one carrier to the fingers of the other.

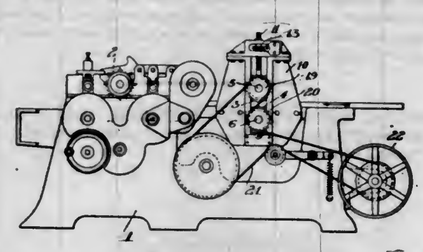
1,623,259. DEMOUNTABLE SEAT. HERMAN C. McGREGOR and DONALD B. McGREGOR, Berkeley, Calif. Filed May 11, 1925. Serial No. 29,313. 5 Claims. (Cl. 155—189.)

1. A substantially rigid auxiliary seat frame comprising the combination of a pair of side arm members, means connecting such members and holding the same in spaced relation, a portion of the rear end of the frame projecting laterally away therefrom, the frame being adapted to rest on an automobile seat and engaged against the back thereof with the said rear portion projecting downwardly between the seat and back cushion, and means adapted to be secured to the automobile and to cooperate with the said rear portion to hold the frame in place on the seat, the structure permitting the occupant of the seat frame to be held therein by a strap extending across the frame and connected to the arm members.



1,623,260. SIPHON STARTER AND AUTOMATIC SHUT-OFF. JOHN MOHN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 28, 1924. Serial No. 709,375. 1 Claim. (Cl. 226—25.)

A siphon starter and automatic shut off comprising a tubular piston rod having a discharge nipple adapted to extend into a receiving receptacle and a flange adjacent said nipple adapted for supporting said piston rod relative to the receiving receptacle, said piston rod having its upper end reduced to form a shoulder, an abutment carried by the upper end of said piston rod in opposed relation to the shoulder of said rod, said piston rod having a lateral opening adjacent said abutment, a piston reciprocable on the reduced upper end of said piston rod and limited in its reciprocation by said shoulder and said abutment, said piston closing the lateral opening of said piston rod when engaging said abutment, and a cylinder reciprocable on the lower end of said piston rod and adapted to shift said piston, said cylinder having its lower end adapted to abut the flange of said piston rod, the upper end of said cylinder adapted to communicate with a supply receptacle and afford an unobstructed chamber for the upper end of said piston rod.

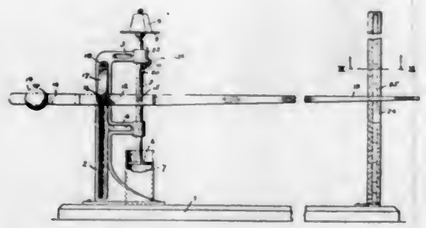
1,623,261. METHOD AND MACHINE FOR SHREDDING WOOD. FRANK J. MOORE, North Tonawanda, N. Y. Filed Nov. 25, 1925. Serial No. 71,474. 4 Claims. (Cl. 144—185.)

1. The method of shredding wood which consists in slitting the surface of a board longitudinally and then feeding it endwise to a cylindrical planing cutter with circumferentially spaced knives which intermittently engage said slitted surface and product short, fine shreds.



1,623,262. BRAKE-OPERATING MEANS. EMIL A. NELSON, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Bendix Brake Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 23, 1925. Serial No. 58,069. 14 Claims. (Cl. 287—52.)

1. Operating mechanism comprising, in combination, a shaft, an arm having a slotted hub encircling the shaft, a member carried by said hub and engaging the shaft and movable lengthwise in the hub to turn the arm on the shaft, and means engaging said member and operable to contract the split hub on the shaft.

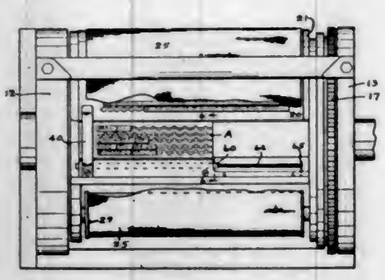
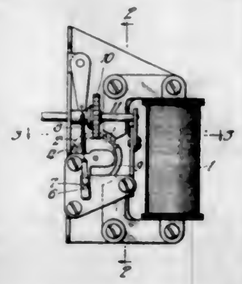
1,623,263. APPARATUS AND METHOD FOR DETERMINING THE MOISTURE CONTENT OF RAISINS AND THE LIKE. PAUL F. NICHOLS, Fresno, Calif., assignor to Sun Maid Raisin Growers of California, Fresno, Calif., a Cooperative Association of California. Filed Aug. 31, 1925. Serial No. 53,503. 3 Claims. (Cl. 73—51.)



1. Apparatus for measuring the compression of a mass of raisins when subjected to a predetermined pressure comprising a compartment, means for applying a predetermined pressure on said mass of raisins contained in said compartment, an indicating arm connected to said means and adapted to move along a scale, said scale, which is calibrated to indicate by the lever movement the percentage of compression of said mass when said pressure is applied and a base member supporting said compartment and said scale.

1,623,264. SPIKE-FORMING MACHINE. FRED C. OLIN, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Jan. 2, 1925. Serial No. 36. 15 Claims. (Cl. 10—59.)

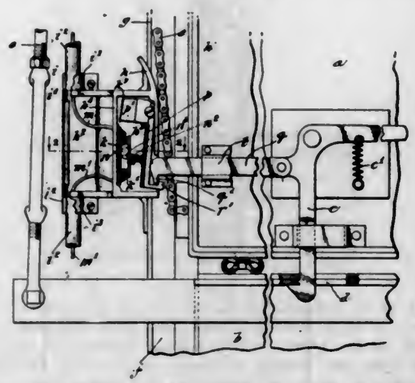


1. A machine of the character described, comprising a die having a convex face adapted to engage the shank of a spike, and means for moving said die bodily toward and from said shank and also rocking same in one direction while in engagement with said shank and in the opposite direction while out of engagement with said shank.

1,623,265. ADDRESSING MACHINE. HENRY C. OSBORN, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The American Multigraph Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed May 5, 1926. Serial No. 106,791. 18 Claims. (Cl. 101—52.)

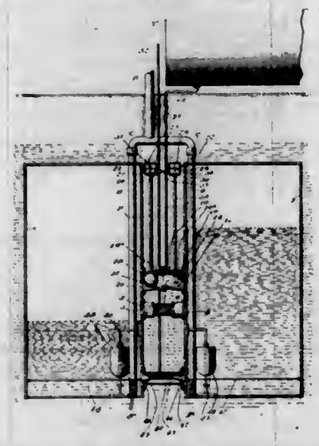
3. In an addressing machine the combination with a support for an address plate, of an ejecting device adapted to engage such address plate and be moved to eject it, and a spring adapted to restore said device to its non-ejecting position.

1,623,266. NOISELESS CLOCK MECHANISM. ERNEST S. OSTLER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stromberg Electric Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed July 31, 1925. Serial No. 47,236. 2 Claims. (Cl. 172—238.)



1. A step by-step movement mechanism comprising an electromagnet, a revoluble armature therefor rotated a partial step when the magnet is energized, and means for completing said step comprising a revoluble crank driven from said armature and a spring secured to said crank, said crank being rotated past the dead center of the line of spring action when the magnet is energized and the revolution of the crank being completed by the spring when the magnet is deenergized.

1,623,267. ELECTRIC INTERLOCK FOR ELEVATOR DOORS. ROBERT S. PEELLE, Hollis, N. Y., assignor to The Peelle Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 10, 1925. Serial No. 22,188. 9 Claims. (Cl. 187—31.)



5. An electric interlock for elevator doors embodying therein the combination with a vertically movable door section, a spring, actuated latch mechanism carried thereby, and a guide structure for said section including a wall angle, of a housing secured to said wall angle having an opening therethrough adapted to permit the passage of a bolt, and a striker plate adapted to guide the bolt to said opening, an electrical switch mechanism in said housing arranged in circuit with the motor for actuating an elevator car, said switch mechanism including spaced fixed contacts within said housing, a pivoted switch arm, a stem carried by said switch arm, a bridge contact slidably mounted upon said stem, a spring acting to normally thrust said bridge contact towards said fixed contacts, an overbalancing weight operative upon said switch arm to normally maintain said bridge contact out of engagement with said fixed contacts, a socket forming projection upon said switch arm projecting through the opening in said housing into engaging relation with a bolt, and a bolt operatively connected with said latch mechanism and adapted to pass through said opening and engage said switch arm when the door section is in the closed position, said bolt having a projection adapted to interlock with said socket-forming projection upon said movable switch arm when the door section is in the closed position, whereby said switch mechanism will be positively actuated to both close and open the circuit in which it is arranged substantially simultaneously with the setting and the release of said latch mechanism with the closing, or preparatory to the opening, of the door section.

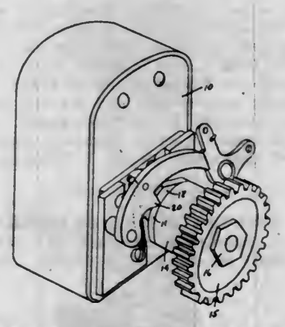
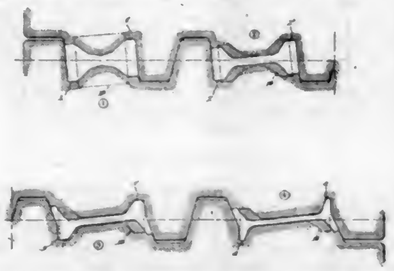
1,623,268. PUMP. JOHN W. PRICE and RICHARD M. LEAKE, Laramie, Wyo. Filed Jan. 20, 1926. Serial No. 82,534. 9 Claims. (Cl. 103—238.)

1. A pump including a pair of tanks, check valve controlled inlets to said tanks, discharge means for the tanks, an air line, a connection communicating with said air line and with both of said tanks at points below the maximum water level in the tanks, a valve member loosely mounted in the connection and shiftable therein under the influence of water flowing from one tank to the other and operable to control the communication of the air lines with the tanks and venting means associated with the tanks.



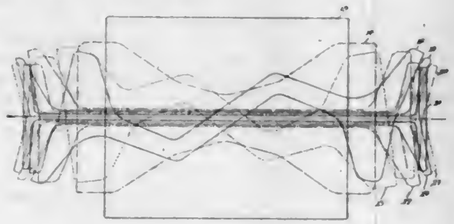
2. A pump including a plurality of connected tanks, inlet means for the tanks, discharge means for the tanks, a source of fluid under pressure, automatically operable venting means, and means connected with the source of fluid under pressure and with the tanks, said means including a valve operable by the action of the fluid under pressure and by the flow of water from one tank to another for controlling the communication between the source of fluid under pressure and the tanks.

1,623,269. DIED-OUT BLANK FOR RECEPTACLES. RODOLPHE R. REILLY, Port Washington, N. Y., assignor to Angel International Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Maine. Filed July 30, 1924. Serial No. 729,034. 2 Claims. (Cl. 229—1.5.)



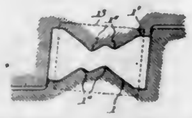
1. As an article of manufacture a receptacle blank of quadrilateral form having one end of arcuate shape the center of the curve of which lies in a line extending vertically to said end, with opposite sides converging from said curved end, and the opposite end of the blank having an intermediate portion extending in a horizontal plane with opposite end portions extending outward from and at an obtuse angle to the horizontal portion and terminating at the sides.

1,623,270. MAGNETO. BENJAMIN P. REMY, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed Dec. 1, 1925. Serial No. 72,524. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—149.)



1. In a magneto, the combination of a rotor shaft, a driving shaft therefor flexibly connected thereto, said shafts having limited relative rotational movement, a combined cam and stop carried by the rotor shaft, a movably mounted catch for said combination cam and stop yieldingly engaging the same but forcibly and automatically movable into stop releasing position by the latter for permitting impulsive rotation of the rotor shaft by the flexible connection when the catch and combination stop and cam have been disassociated, and a second stop for limiting movement of the catch toward the combination cam and stop but permitting catch and combination cam and stop cooperation.

1,623,271. MANUFACTURE OF FLANGED BEAMS. NORMAN C. RENDLEMAN, Dormont, Pa., assignor to Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 15, 1923. Serial No. 625,342. 20 Claims. (Cl. 80—66.)

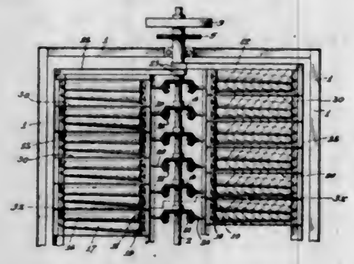


1. The process of rolling which comprises a series of two or more similar operations involving lateral spreading of a suitable billet or blank with comparatively slight reduction of cross-sectional area in proportion to the increase in width to produce a wide shallow section having short heavy flanges followed by repeated working of opposite sides to reduce and spread the flanges.

1,623,272. MANUFACTURE OF FLANGED BEAMS WITH THIN WEBS. NORMAN C. RENDLEMAN, Dormont, Pa. Filed July 2, 1923. Serial No. 40,861. 14 Claims. (Cl. 80—66.)

14. The process of rolling wide flanged shapes from narrow billets or blanks which comprises repeated multigrooving passes operating principally upon the medial region of the billet to thin and bend it into a blank having a zig zag web flanked by heavy flanges, and thereafter flattening and reducing said web and reducing said flanges simultaneously in successive passes according to the diagonal system wherein diagonally opposite flanges are operated upon simultaneously in alternation.

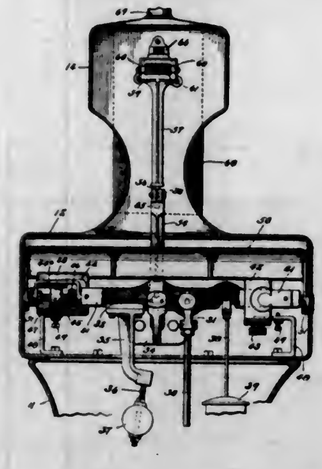
1,623,273. PROCESS OF ROLLING FLANGED BEAMS. NORMAN C. RENDLEMAN, Dormont, Pa. Filed July 14, 1926. Serial No. 122,373. 8 Claims. (Cl. 80—66.)



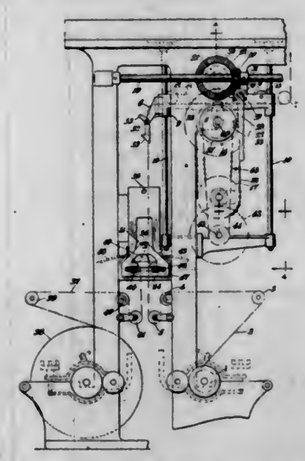
1. The process of rolling flanged beams which comprises repeated grooving passes operating first upon the portion of the blank intermediate its edges to form a longitudinally corrugated web with thick edge portions, and prognally corrugated web with thick edge portions, and progressively flattening out the corrugations and reducing and at the same time work the metal in the edge portions into the progressively widening web portion.

1,623,274. ADJUSTING AND HOLDING DEVICE FOR SHADE AND DRAPERY SUPPORTS. LULA H. ROBINSON, Dallas, Tex. Filed Dec. 26, 1925. Serial No. 77,706. 3 Claims. (Cl. 156—27.)

1. In an adjusting device for curtain and drapery supports, a track having a series of spaced depressions, a slide on the track, a lever pivoted between its ends to the slide and having a tongue on one end extending through the slide and engageable in a selected one of the depressions and having a curved slotted tail, a slidable member on the track having a headed pin engaged in the slot of the lever whereby upon downward movement of the member of the head the pin will ride on the curved tail of the lever and operate the tongue, and spring means to tension the member to normally hold the tongue in operative position.



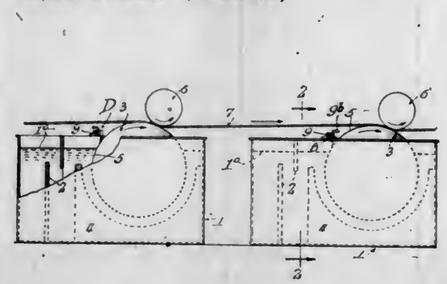
1,623,275. BEAN-SEPARATING MACHINE. JOHN H. RUTTLE, Carsonville, Mich. Filed May 19, 1924. Serial No. 714,330. 6 Claims. (Cl. 209—107.)



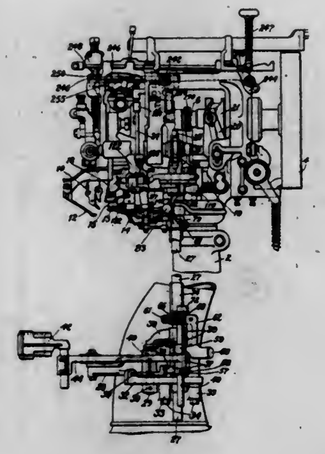
1. In a bean separating machine of the class described, a pair of inclined rolls arranged side by side, said rolls being tapered towards the lower ends and the axes thereof converged to maintain parallel relation between the meeting faces of the said rolls thereby forming a runway, feeding mechanism at the upper ends of said rolls, and means rotating said rolls outwardly with respect one to the other, whereby beans having rough or adhesive surfaces are lifted over said rolls.

1,623,276. WEIGHING DEVICE. HARRY C. SCHAPER, St. Louis, Mo., assignor to The Weight-O-Graph Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed Mar. 27, 1923. Serial No. 627,954. 9 Claims. (Cl. 265—62.)

1. In a weighing device, the combination with weighing mechanism, of a screen, an oscillatory arm, a chart on said arm and divided into a series of weight-indicating zones, means for projecting said zones in an enlarged form onto said screen, and means operable by said weighing mechanism for moving said arm, said means being adjustable whereby when a load of predetermined weight is placed on said weighing mechanism, said chart zones are projected onto said screen in a predetermined relation.

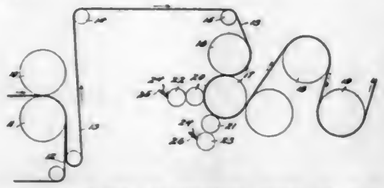


1,623,277. METHOD OF AND MEANS FOR UNINTERRUPTEDLY FEEDING A WEB OF FLEXIBLE MATERIAL WHILE CHANGING FROM ONE WEB ROLL TO ANOTHER. WALTER C. SCOTT, Plainfield, N. J., assignor to Isabella Scott and David J. Scott, executors of the estate of Walter Scott, deceased, doing business as Walter Scott & Company, Plainfield, N. J. Filed July 18, 1925. Serial No. 44,506. 72 Claims. (Cl. 242—58.)



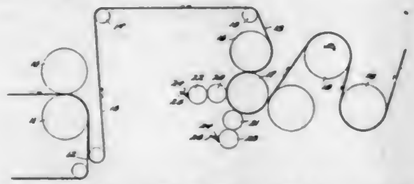
1. The method of joining two webs of flexible material which consists in: accumulating a surplus in an employed web, dissipating said surplus to thereby slow down the speed of a portion of the web, and then attaching a second web to the slowed-down portion of the first web.

1,623,278. WATER DECKLE FOR PAPER-MAKING MACHINES. FRED W. SEARS and ARTHUR BUCK, Three Rivers, Mich.; said Buck assignor to Rudolf Hueckler, Three Rivers, Mich. Filed Dec. 21, 1925. Serial No. 76,596. 9 Claims. (Cl. 92—43.)



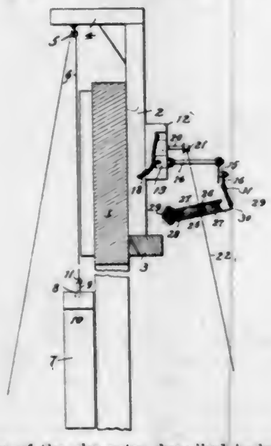
1. A water deckle embodying therein a header, a casing operatively connected to said header and means dividing the casing into a plurality of compartments, said casing having a slit like discharge mouth common to all of said compartments.

1,623,279. FASTENING-INSERTING MACHINE. THOMAS H. SEELY, Malden, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed July 22, 1920. Serial No. 398,056. 16 Claims. (Cl. 1—6.)



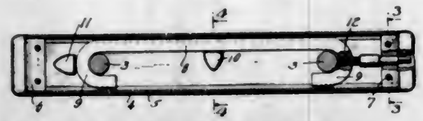
1. In a machine of the class described, the combination of an inclined raceway having a plurality of tack channels down which tacks travel supported by their heads with their stems inclined out of the vertical in a direction away from the end of the raceway, and a separator for the tacks arranged to separate tacks from either channel and having a delivery passage inclined to the vertical at an angle approximating the natural hanging angle of the tacks in the raceway.

1,623,280. DECORATED PAPER AND METHOD OF MAKING SAME. DANIEL A. SMITH, Chevy Chase, Md., and CHARLES P. STIRLING, Washington, D. C., assignors to District of Columbia Paper Manufacturing Company, Washington, D. C., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed July 14, 1925. Serial No. 43,514. 5 Claims. (Cl. 41—26.)



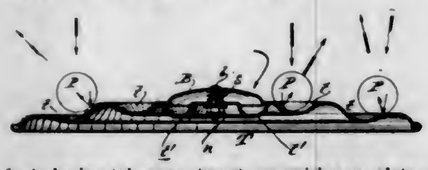
1. A process of making decorated paper by printing, comprising forming a sheet and removing the excess water therefrom, printing upon the wet sheet by means of a roll having a resilient surface and receiving its ink or color design from an engraved metal design cylinder, and subsequently drying the sheet.

1,623,281. MACHINE FOR MAKING DECORATED PAPER. DANIEL A. SMITH, Chevy Chase, Md., and CHARLES P. STIRLING, Washington, D. C., assignors to District of Columbia Paper Manufacturing Company, Washington, D. C., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed July 14, 1925. Serial No. 43,515. 3 Claims. (Cl. 101—152.)



1. A machine for producing decorated paper comprising in combination, a paper making machine and a printing attachment therefor, the printing attachment consisting of an intaglio printing press incorporating an engraved metal design cylinder and an offset roll, the printing attachment being inserted in the paper making machine in advance of the final drying rolls.

1,623,282. INITIATING APPARATUS. MILO HERRICK SPAULDING, Bozeman, Mont. Filed Apr. 15, 1924. Serial No. 706,729. 3 Claims. (Cl. 272—9.)

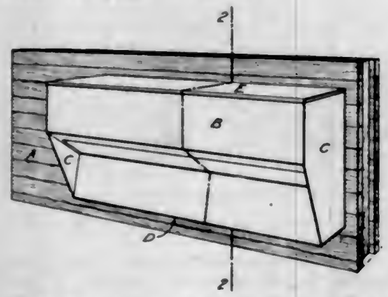


1. A device of the character described including a support, transversely spaced rods carried by the support, an ignitible member connecting the spaced rods, a guide connected to the support, a slide mounted on the guide, means engageable with the ignitible member for supporting the slide, and means for igniting the ignitible member for allowing the slide to drop on the guide.

1,623,283. LOCKING MECHANISM FOR LOOSE-LEAF BINDERS. WILLIAM J. STEENROD, Benton Harbor, Mich., assignor to Baker-Vawter Company, Benton Harbor, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Sept. 23, 1926. Serial No. 137,228. 3 Claims. (Cl. 129—12.)

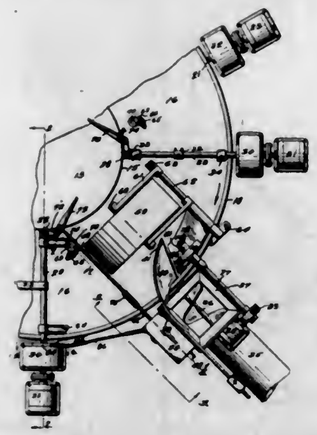
1. In a binder having a post bar equipped with a pair of posts fixed thereto and a hollow orificed removable post bar, locking mechanism housed within said removable bar including a rigid lock bar having semi-circular hooks at its opposite ends arranged to engage said posts, and a locking screw disposed longitudinally of said removable post bar at one end thereof and making screw-threaded engagement with said lock bar at the center of its adjacent hook.

1,623,284. GAME TARGET PLATE. EDWIN W. STODDART, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 4, 1926. Serial No. 126,984. 10 Claims. (Cl. 273—127.)



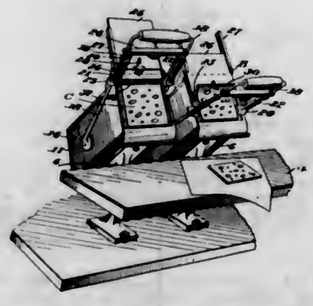
1. A horizontal game target comprising a plate the upper surface of which is formed with undulating curves surrounding an impact-soundable device, together with said soundable device, the latter being tiltably mounted.

1,623,285. SOUND RECORD. FREDERICK W. STONE, Montreal, Quebec, Canada, assignor to Central Commercial Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 31, 1923. Serial No. 629,220. 1 Claim. (Cl. 106—1.5.)



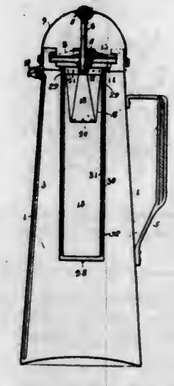
A sound record comprising in its composition a filler of pulverized slate reduced to a powder of air float fineness, and a suitable bonding material.

1,623,286. AIR CONTROL FOR VENTILATING SYSTEMS. JAMES L. STRAHAN, Fairfield, Iowa, assignor to The Louden Machinery Company, Fairfield, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed June 1, 1926. Serial No. 113,035. 12 Claims. (Cl. 98—37.)



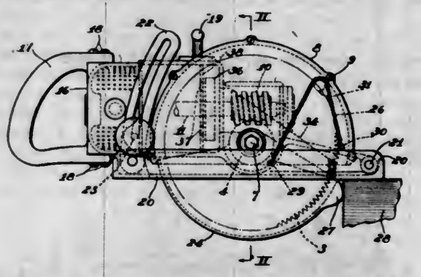
1. In an air control for a ventilating system, a housing, comprising an essentially rectangular hollow structure having an outer and an inner side with an opening in each side, the opening in the outer side to be placed adjoining an air intake opening, and a damper plate centrally pivoted in the housing so as to oscillate between the openings and to be normally adapted to close the outer opening, but also adapted when subjected to the pressure of a strong air current to close the inner opening.

1,623,287. CONTINUOUS-PUGGING WET PAN. HALVER R. STRAIGHT, Adel, Iowa. Filed June 23, 1924. Serial No. 721,850. 6 Claims. (Cl. 83—73.)



1. In a device of the class described, a pugging pan, a pugging mechanism within said pan, means for delivering material to be pugged to said pan, means for continuously supplying water to said material within the pan, means for driving said pugging mechanism, the quantity of water supplied being automatically controlled through the amount of power required to operate said pugging mechanism.

1,623,288. CHEESE CUTTER. JOSEPH FR. TOPINKA, Cleveland, and OTTO J. WEICHART, East Cleveland, Ohio. Filed June 10, 1926. Serial No. 114,943. 2 Claims. (Cl. 31—19.)

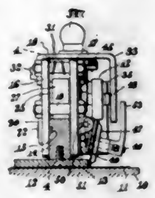


1. In a cutting and dispensing machine means for exposing predetermined quantities of product to be cut, a movable cutting knife for cutting off the section exposed, means for detaching the cut section, a glass cover for the exposed surface of the stock, means for raising and lowering said glass cover at the time the cutting knife is raised and lowered.

1,623,289. CARTRIDGE FOR FIRE EXTINGUISHERS. ALBERTO VEZZANI, Genoa, Italy. Filed Dec. 21, 1923, Serial No. 681,902, and in Italy Dec. 30, 1922. 1 Claim. (Cl. 169—32.)

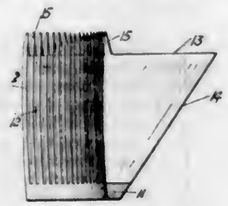
A cartridge for fire extinguishers, comprising an outer wall, a flange provided thereon, and a double walled jacket formed of two co-axial tubes, an outer and inner tube, projecting from said flange, the said tubes being spaced from each other and from said outer wall, the space between said inner tube and said outer wall communicating with the cartridge through holes provided at the top of said outer wall, the space between said inner and outer tubes being open to the outside of said outer tube, said inner tube being open at its free end.

1,623,290. PORTABLE SAW. FRED W. WAPPAT, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed July 26, 1926. Serial No. 124,867. 2 Claims. (Cl. 143—43.)



1. In combination in a portable saw, a motor, a circular saw driven thereby, a supporting frame for the motor and saw having a handle at its rear end, a fixed casing on the frame surrounding the edge and sides of the upper portion of the saw, a plate on the lower side of the frame pivoted at its forward end to the forward end of the frame in advance of the saw, securing means for the rear end of the plate for holding it at a plurality of points of vertical adjustment with respect to the frame, a guard or shield surrounding the portion of the saw lying below the plate pivotally supported in the casing concentric with the axis of rotation of the saw and adapted to telescope into the fixed casing when swung to the rear, and yielding means for holding the guard or shield in advanced position with its forward edge beneath the plate in position to be engaged by the work.

1,623,291. MARKING DEVICE. JAMES WEST, Jamaica Plain, Mass. Filed June 7, 1926. Serial No. 114,041. 17 Claims. (Cl. 33—36.)



1. In a device of the class described, a guide member; a plate beneath said guide member having a straight edge parallel to and at one side of said guide member; a framework adapted to travel along said guide member;

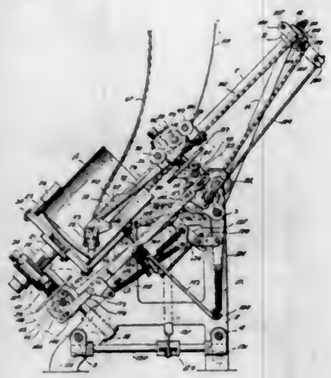
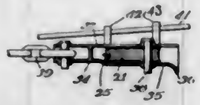
a marker carried by said framework; and yielding means for retaining said marker in contact with said straight edge.

1,623,292. HAIR-CUTTING COMB. ANNA M. WIDDOWS, Akron, Ohio. Filed May 3, 1924, Serial No. 710,788. Renewed Sept. 18, 1926. 3 Claims. (Cl. 132—45.)



3. A comb of the character described, comprising a series of blade-like teeth which are substantially triangular in shape, said teeth being arranged in closely spaced relation and prongs on said blades forming, in effect, continuations of corresponding edges of the blades.

1,623,293. SOLDERING MACHINE. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS, Oak Park, Ill., and AXEL M. WALSTROM, Minneapolis, Minn., assignors to The Creamery Package Mfg. Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 30, 1924. Serial No. 710,004. 18 Claims. (Cl. 113—60.)

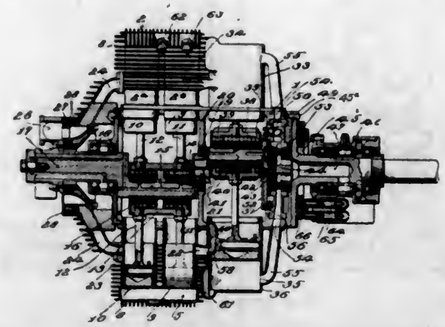


1. A soldering machine comprising a reciprocatory carriage for a cam body having a side seam, a heated soldering copper, a swinging arm supporting said copper adjacent the path of said seam, means for forwarding said carriage, and means operable by the movement of said carriage to rearward position to cause the actuation of said carriage forwarding means and to move said swinging arm to effect contact by said copper with said can seam.

1,623,294. SOLDERING MACHINE. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS, Oak Park, Ill., and AXEL M. WALSTROM, Minneapolis, Minn., assignors to The Creamery Package Mfg. Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 30, 1924. Serial No. 710,005. 31 Claims. (Cl. 113—77.)

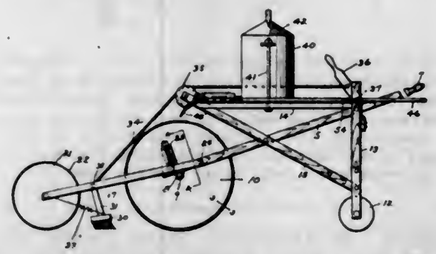
1. A soldering machine comprising a rotatable head for holding a can having an annular seam, a heated soldering copper, a slidable carriage supporting said copper adapted to move said copper in and out of said can and into contact with said seam, means for actuating said carriage, means operable to rotate said head, and automatic means for effecting the operation of said head rotating means when said copper is in contact with said seam.

1,623,295. BRAKE MECHANISM. JACK WILSON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Universal Draft Gear Attachment Co., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 3, 1926. Serial No. 120,445. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—110.)



1. In brake mechanism for railway cars, a brake lever, a brake staff, an expansible and contractable connection between said staff and lever, including a reversible lever, a jaw member for pivotally supporting said reversible lever in horizontal position, and inclined supporting means for mounting said jaw member on said car.

1,623,296. TWO-CYCLE GAS ENGINE. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AUGUSTINE, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Augustine Automatic Rotary Engine Company, Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 26, 1922. Serial No. 556,740. 41 Claims. (Cl. 123—44.)



1. A two-cycle gas engine including in combination, a cylinder and a piston, said piston and cylinder having a movement relative to each other, single means outside of the cylinder and associated therewith for forcibly supplying the cylinder with the entire charge of fuel gases continuously and at relatively low pressure during the entire intake period, and means whereby intake and compression occur on one stroke of the piston and expansion and exhaust occur on the other stroke of the piston.

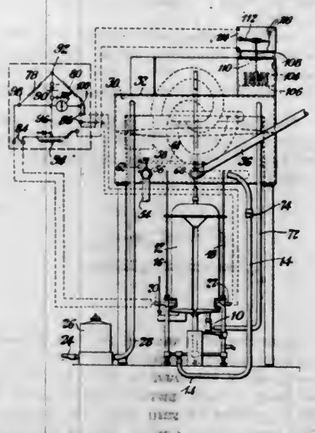
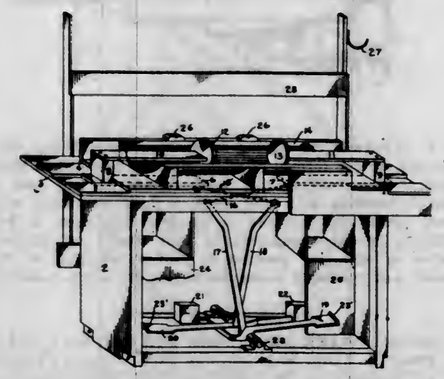
1,623,297. MARKER FOR PAVEMENTS. FREDERICK M. BALSLEY, Madison, Wis. Filed Oct. 9, 1922. Serial No. 593,465. 13 Claims. (Cl. 91—49.)



1. A pavement marking device including a frame, a marking wheel supporting said frame, a lead wheel guided by and yieldable vertically relative to said frame, resilient means acting between said wheel and frame to urge said wheel into contact with a surface traversed thereby, and a receptacle for marking fluid arranged to deliver such fluid to the periphery of said marking wheel.

1,623,298. TRUCK. FRANK M. BELL, Muncie, Ind., assignor to Robert G. Thompson and Eugene B. Simmonds, Muncie, Ind. Filed Aug. 4, 1924. Serial No. 729,899. 13 Claims. (Cl. 280—61.)

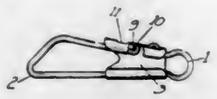


1. A truck of the kind described comprising outer parallel shafts, a shaft disposed centrally of and parallel to the outer shafts, side members disposed at a right angle to and engaging the shafts at locations near their ends, lateral arms on the side members provided with downturned ends, retainer devices on the ends of the shafts, and rollers journaled on the ends of the shafts between the side members and the retainer devices.

1,623,299. CALORIMETER. EDMUND G. BORDEN, Queens, N. Y., assignor to Doherty Research Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 30, 1922. Serial No. 609,820. 19 Claims. (Cl. 73—184.)

1. A method of determining the calorific value of gas which comprises burning gas in heat interchanging relation with water, continuously measuring the water prior to its being heated, continuously measuring the gas being burned by displacing the gas with the measured water volume for volume, and continuously recording the rise in temperature of the water due to the heat of combustion of the gas in terms of the B. t. u. value of the gas.

1,623,300. PACKAGE-WRAPPING DEVICE. ELLEN BRADY, Bloomfield, N. J., assignor to Henry Brady, Inc., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 30, 1922. Serial No. 571,975. 2 Claims. (Cl. 93—2.)



1. In a device of the class described, a bench and a support thereon conforming in part to the shape of the package to be wrapped, channels beneath said support, and holding devices with slides adapted to slide longitudinally within said channels, a pair of bell cranks fulcrumed in said bench and having foot pieces each of which is adapted to slide one of said holding devices, links between the opposite ends of said bell cranks and their respective slides, and counter-balances adapted to normally hold said slides and holding devices in retracted position.

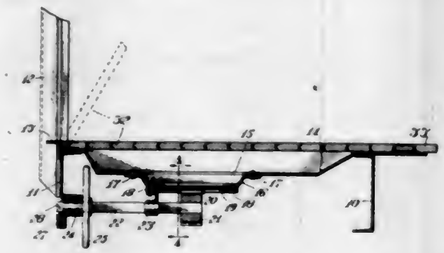
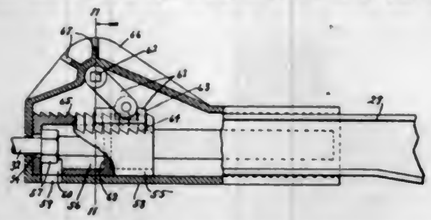
1,623,301. HEAT-RESISTING GLASS. RALPH F. BRENNER, Rochester, Pa., assignor to H. C. Fry Glass Company, Rochester, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 9, 1922. Serial No. 559,609. 9 Claims. (Cl. 106—36.1.)



1. A heat resisting glass containing silica, boric oxide, an alkali oxide and aluminum oxide, the latter being in colloidal condition.

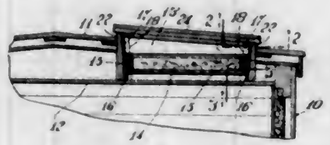
1,623,302. CATCH. JOSEPH BUFFINGTON, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor of one-half to Charles J. Kirk, New Castle, Pa. Filed Aug. 13, 1923. Serial No. 657,192. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—238.)

A catch consisting of a spring member formed in the shape of an unsymmetrical elongated loop with unequal sides, an eye member attached to the straight continuous side of said loop, a body member surrounding said eye member and a portion of said loop, an opening in said body member, and a hook on the curved leg of said loop arranged to engage with said opening in said body member.



1,623,303. RAILWAY CAR. RICHARD W. BURNETT, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 31, 1923. Serial No. 642,600. 6 Claims. (Cl. 105—282.)

1. A railway car having an opening through the floor thereof, a door formed of metal slidably mounted in position to close said opening, teeth formed on said door, a pinion meshing with said teeth, a shaft connected with said pinion for rotating it to move the door, a key slidably mounted adjacent to said shaft and adapted when in operative position to prevent rotation of the shaft, and releasable means for locking the key in position.



1,623,304. BRAKE MECHANISM FOR RAILWAY CARS. PERCY B. CAMP, Maywood, and JACK WILSON, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Universal Draft Gear Attachment Co., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 6, 1924. Serial No. 754,287. 11 Claims. (Cl. 188—200.)

1. In a brake mechanism, the combination of a foundation brake gear, a brake cylinder for operating the foundation brake gear, and a hand brake for operating the foundation brake gear, including a hand power device and means connecting the hand power device and the foundation brake gear automatically operable to adjust the hand brake during the brake applying movement of the foundation brake gear by air to compensate for slack.

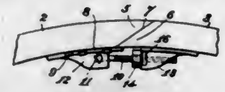
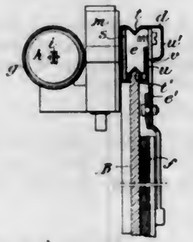
1,623,305. REFRIGERATOR CAR. MATTHEW CARR, Berwyn, Ill., assignor to Joseph C. Carry, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 19, 1926. Serial No. 130,300. 5 Claims. (Cl. 105—377.)



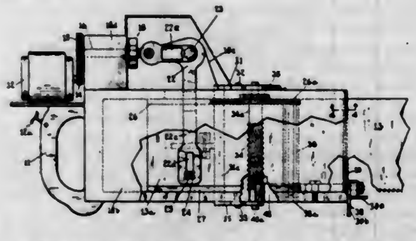
3. In a refrigerator car provided with a rectangular hatchway having walls converging downwardly, a corner shield of sheet metal secured in each corner of said hatchway, the corner portion of each shield being curved in cross-section, and a tapered plug adapted to be inserted in said hatchway, said plug being rectangular in cross-section and padded on all four side edges.

1,623,306. TRANSMISSION. ROLAND CHILTON, Keyport, N. J., assignor to Henley-Aeromarine Bus Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 29, 1926. Serial No. 119,378. 23 Claims. (Cl. 74—34.)



1. A planetary drive comprising in combination, a driving member, a driven member, a tension member wrapped about both of said members, an idler for said tension member adapted for planetary motion about the axis of said driving and driven members, and means adapted to restrict the idler to one way planetary motion.

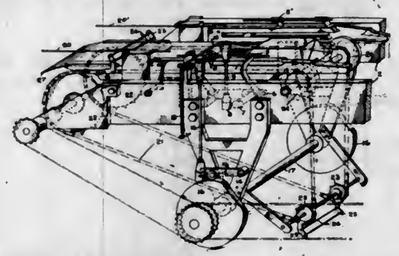
1,623,307. TIRE RIM. ROBERT C. COLEMAN, Wind Gap, Pa. Filed May 5, 1924. Serial No. 710,992. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—32.)



A demountable rim having the adjacent ends correspondingly beveled, an expansion bolt pivoted to said rim adjacent one end thereof, a pair of lugs on the other end of the rim adapted to receive said bolt between them, a nut on said bolt impinging against said lugs, said lugs being provided with transverse notches, and a bar on said bolt resting in said notches and held therein by said nut, substantially as described.

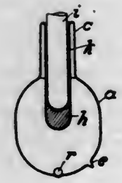
1,623,308. WINDSHIELD WIPER. JOSEPH DEMAND, New York, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to All Clear Windshields, Inc., Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed June 7, 1921. Serial No. 475,768. 5 Claims. (Cl. 15—253.)

1. A combined wind shield and wind shield cleaner comprising a wind shield sash, a wiper carrier and means for automatically reciprocating said carrier, one structural element of said sash being tubular and serving as a hollow guideway through which said carrier is reciprocated and said carrier reciprocating means comprising a cylinder permanently attached to the tubular element of said sash in close parallelism therewith.



1,623,309. PORTABLE RECIPROCATING POWER SAW. LOUIS GEORGE ECONOM, North Plainfield, N. J. Filed Oct. 7, 1924. Serial No. 742,120. 13 Claims. (Cl. 143—68.)

1. A portable power saw of the character described comprising a casing, a saw blade mounted thereon for reciprocating movement, and a guide rest support slidably mounted to move with respect to the casing for feeding the saw blade during the cutting operation.



1,623,310. PAPER-BOX GUIDING AND CONVEYING MECHANISM. ADIN W. HILSINGER, Orange, N. J., assignor to Henry Brady, Inc., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 30, 1922. Serial No. 572,095. 2 Claims. (Cl. 198—29.)

1. In a machine of the class described, a conveyer for successively engaging and feeding articles therethrough, and guide rails on pivotally mounted axes parallel with the line of feed, said rails adapted to move in a path transverse to the line of feed for guiding said boxes and cam mechanism for the purpose of moving said guide rails toward and from each other.

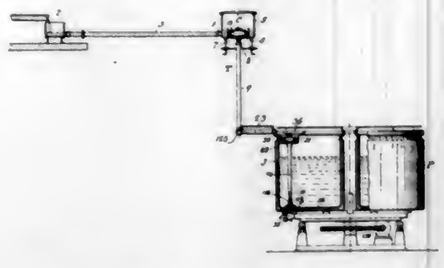
1,623,311. METHOD OF MANUFACTURING DOUBLE-WALLED GLASS VESSELS. WILHELM HODECKER, Ilmenau, Germany. Filed May 4, 1926, Serial No. 106,631, and in Germany Dec. 12, 1924. 17 Claims. (Cl. 49—79.)

1. The herein described method of manufacturing double-walled glass vessels, which consists in manufacturing the outer wall of the vessel to be manufactured and forming the same with a cap, passing the said cap into the vessel in the form of a cup, filling so much glass into the said cup as is necessary for manufacturing the inner wall of the receptacle, and forming the cup and glass filled into the same into the inner wall of the vessel.



1,623,312. TRANSMISSION - BAND - OPERATING DEVICE. MICHAEL HOFFMAN, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Oct. 13, 1924. Serial No. 743,260. 2 Claims. (Cl. 188—2.)

1. In a transmission, the combination with a drum, the band surrounding the drum, and having slotted members at its respective ends, a means for actuating one of said slotted members toward the other for tightening the band around said drum, comprising a cam section, a pedal to operate said cam section, and a shaft, extended through the slotted members of said band, said shaft having a cupped end for receiving the end of said cam section and bearing against the outside of one of the slotted members on said band.

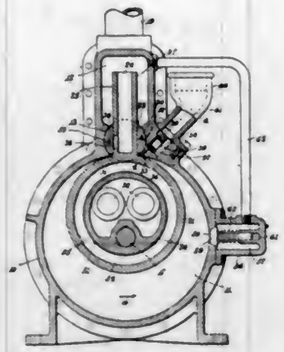
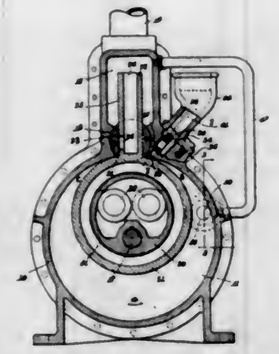
1,623,313. MILK-TRANSFER SYSTEM. RALPH HORTON, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 1, 1926. Serial No. 132,991. 10 Claims. (Cl. 99—2.)

1. A milk transfer device comprising a float chamber having an inlet for the milk to be transferred, a float positioned within said float chamber, a transfer conduit leading from said float chamber to a lower level, a valve positioned in said transfer pipe in the region of said lower level, and means connecting said float to said valve in such manner that the valve unseats itself to open the lower end of the conduit only when the liquid column between the valve and the upper part of the float chamber has become so materially longer than the conduit that only liquid will pass into said conduit.



1,623,314. LOOSE-LEAF BINDER. FRANK J. HRUSKA, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, assignor to Le Febure Ledger Company, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed Sept. 18, 1920. Serial No. 411,098. 4 Claims. (Cl. 129—13.)

1. In a loose leaf binder, the combination of movable side plates; guides for said plates; a screw rod extending lengthwise of said plates; nuts on the screw rod; links connecting the screw rod with the side plates; a paper support mounted above the side plates and stationary with the guides; and telescoping posts mounted above the paper support.



1,623,315. VACUUM PUMP. JUSTUS R. KINNEY, Jamaica Plain, Mass., assignor to Kinney Manufacturing Co., Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Apr. 14, 1926. Serial No. 101,932. 30 Claims. (Cl. 230—30.)

1. In a device of the class described, a piston rotatable in a cylindrical chamber with one point thereof always in contact with the wall of said chamber, said chamber having an outlet therefrom open to atmosphere at its outer end and said piston having a radial blade extending therefrom with an inlet passage therein terminating in a port in a side wall of said blade farthest from said outlet and spaced from the periphery of said piston; and an oscillating pin having a transverse slot through which said blade extends, one wall of said slot closing said port until the contacting point of said piston in its rotation has advanced considerably beyond said slotted pin and said oscillating pin being at one side of and slightly removed from said outlet.

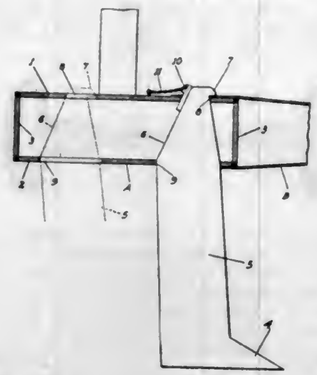
1,623,316. RELIEF VALVE FOR ROTARY PUMPS. JUSTUS R. KINNEY, Jamaica Plain, Mass. Filed June 5, 1926. Serial No. 113,873. 4 Claims. (Cl. 103—42.)



1. In a device of the class described, a casing having a cylindrical piston chamber therein provided with an inlet thereto and an outlet therefrom; a piston revoluble therein and contacting at one point with the cylindrical wall of said chamber, the ends of said piston contacting with the end walls of said chamber; a by-pass communicating with an opening in the wall at one end of said piston chamber; and a valve closing said by-pass and adapted to be opened when the pressure within said chamber exceeds a predetermined limit.

1,623,317. SCARIFIER. ROBERT G. LE TOURNEAU, Stockton, Calif. Filed June 2, 1926. Serial No. 113,164. 3 Claims. (Cl. 262—33.)

1. In a scarifier, a horizontal beam having a vertical opening therethrough smaller at the top thereof than at the bottom, a tooth having a shank insertible through the opening from the bottom thereof, the shank snugly fitting the opening at the bottom, but being narrower at its upper end than the adjacent end of the opening, an overhanging head on the shank disposed to overhang the beam at one end of the relatively wider portion of the opening, whereby when the shank is tilted in the opening the head may pass therethrough, and means between the shank and opening for normally preventing such tilting movement.

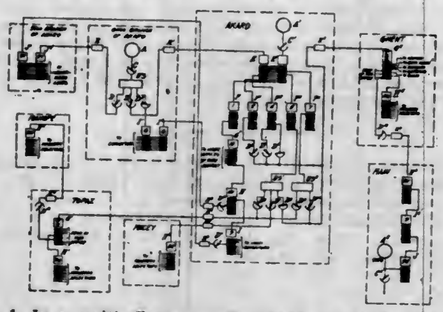
1,623,318. TRUNK LOCK. MARTIN RASMUSSEN, Racine, Wis., assignor to Hartmann Trunk Company, Racine, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed July 7, 1923. Serial No. 650,186. 1 Claim. (Cl. 70—20.)

A lock comprising a casing, a pair of locking levers pivotally mounted therein, a rotatable cam for moving said locking levers to unlocked position, a plurality of locking discs non-rotatably mounted within said casing and provided with apertures of different diameters and a key-receiving member passing through said locking discs and engaging said cam, said key-receiving member being rotatable upon the insertion of a proper key to rotate said cam.



1,623,319. AUTOMOBILE TRANSMISSION LOCK. WALTER M. REASON, Pontiac, Mich., assignor to Elizabeth Ballamos, Pontiac, Mich. Filed Aug. 14, 1922. Serial No. 581,601. 2 Claims. (Cl. 70—128.)

2. A locking device for shift levers comprising the combination with a lever having a ball like portion and a hollow supporting case therefor in the upper end of which the ball seats and which is provided with an aperture thru which the lever projects, the aperture being of a form to permit the rocking of the lever in any direction, and a boss integrally formed with the casing and lying at an angle to the vertical axis thereof, the said boss having a central chamber and an opening in the bottom thereof to the interior of the casing, the said ball also having a recess adapted to be brought to registration with the said last named opening when the lever is in neutral position, of a lock member having a portion adapted to be projected into the ball recess by movement of the lock longitudinally in the boss, the inner wall of the boss having two pairs of notches in staggered relation, the said pairs being on diametrically opposite sides of the inner wall, the said lock member being rotatable in the boss, and retractable plungers for engaging the respective pairs of notches in the wall of the boss to maintain the lock member in a locked or unlocked position.

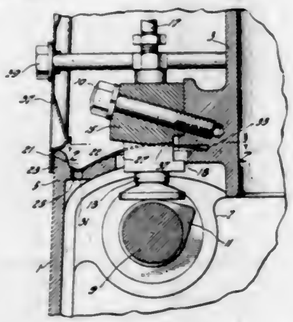
1,623,320. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. ARTHUR BESSEY SMITH, Evanston, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Automatic Electric Inc., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 7, 1922, Serial No. 550,451. Renewed Aug. 16, 1926. 47 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)

1. In a multi-office automatic telephone system, means responsive to the calling of a part of a called number for extending a connection from an office to each of a plurality of other offices over separate paths, and means responsive to the calling of a second part of the number for operating switches in all of said other offices and for subsequently releasing the connections to all of said other offices except the one by way of which the called line is reached.



1,623,321. AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENT. EVANDER A. SMITH and EDWARD R. FINCH, Houston, Tex. Filed Sept. 15, 1924. Serial No. 737,776. 1 Claim. (Cl. 97—59.)

A ground working implement including a frame, a carrier wheel supporting one end of the frame, handles carried by the other end of the frame, straps forming supporting legs fastened to the frame and depending forwardly therefrom, a plow stock formed with side grooves in which the lower ends of the straps fit, means securing said ends in said grooves in such manner that said stock may be swung on said securing means, a share fastened to said stock, and depending therefrom, and braces fastened at their upper ends to the side members of the frame and at their lower ends to said stock for bracing same.

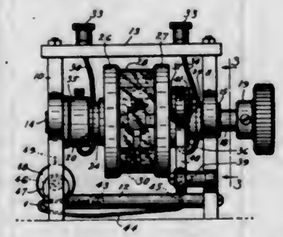
1,623,322. BAFFLE PLATE IN VALVE CHAMBER. ALEX TAUB, Detroit, Mich., assignor to General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 17, 1926. Serial No. 123,122. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—90.)

1. In an engine, a casing having a longitudinal channel upon its upper surface, there being an opening from said channel into said casing, the casing having a tappet opening and a tappet guide associated therewith, means associated with said guide and closing said opening to restrict the escape of fluid.

1,623,323. METHOD OF INTRODUCING VOLATILE MATTER INTO LAMPS AND THE LIKE. CLETUS CLINTON VAN VOORHIS, Princeton, N. J., assignor to Westinghouse Lamp Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 18, 1923. Serial No. 658,097. 11 Claims. (Cl. 176—2.)

1. The combination with an exhaust system for evacuated containers, of means for introducing volatile substances into said system at a point remote from said containers and means for subsequently transferring said material in a solid condition to a position adjacent said containers.

1,623,324. DOORKNOB SPINDLE. WILLARD C. WERST, Pendleton, Oreg. Filed Feb. 4, 1924. Serial No. 690,526. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—355.)

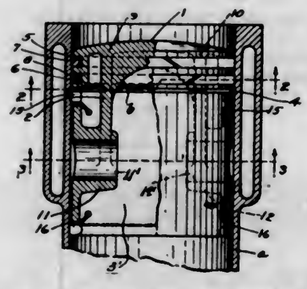


In a device of the class described, a spindle made up of bars located side by side, knobs receiving the ends of the spindle, a smooth tapered pin in one knob, the bars having alined cylindrical openings located entirely within the contour of the respective bars, the pin being wedged and distorted to cylindrical form in the openings and throughout the combined width of both bars, and a screw threaded into the other knob and having a conical end, the bars having transversely inclined surfaces defining a V-shaped groove wherein the conical end of the screw is wedged, the screw and the pin being located at right angles to each other.

1,623,325. PROCESS OF MAKING SPUDS. CHARLES P. WETMORE, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Wetmore-Gibbons Co., Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Dec. 8, 1923. Serial No. 679,396. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—148.2.)

1. The method of forming spuds from sheet metal which consists in subjecting a flat sheet metal blank to a series of drawing operations to form a cup-shaped member, drawing and punching this cup-shaped member to form a flared-end tube, comprising and bending this flared-end tube to form a flanged tube whose tubular wall is thicker than the thickness of the original blank, then bodily displacing a tubular part of the flanged tube longitudinally so that portions of the tube project from opposite sides of the flange to form the finished spud blank.

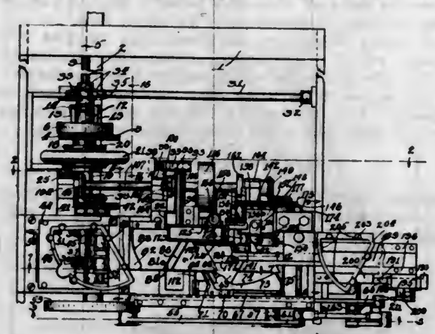
1,623,326. ELECTRIC SWITCH. JAMES WHALEN, Omaha, Nebr. Filed Dec. 26, 1924. Serial No. 758,186. 9 Claims. (Cl. 200—137.)



1. An electric switch comprising a rotatable axially horizontally cylindrical drum having a conductive peripheral portion, a contact-member inclosed by said drum and fixedly connected therewith and insulated therefrom, means for connecting terminals of an electric circuit with said contact-member and the conductive portion of the drum, a body of fluid metal disposed within the drum and tending by gravitation and inertia to remain constantly in the lowermost portion of the drum during rotation thereof, said fluid metal being an amalgam of mercury and solder, and means for rotating the drum to positions at which the contact-member is dipped into and withdrawn from the fluid metal to respectively close and open the electric circuit.

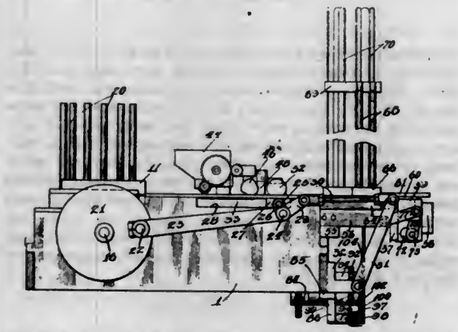
1,623,327. METHOD OF ASSEMBLING RADIATORS. FRED M. YOUNG, Racine, Wis., assignor to Racine Radiator Company, Racine, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 14, 1924. Serial No. 699,157. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—157.4.)

1. The method of assembling a radiator core, water tank and support brackets for a motor vehicle, which consists in riveting the brackets to the exterior of the bottom of the water tank, the brackets then being in a form to extend away from the sides of the tank, then attaching the core to the top of the water tank and externally soldering the joints between the brackets and the water tank, and finally bending the brackets inward convergently adjacent to the sides of the tank and co-assembled core into the form required for ultimate installation.



1,623,328. PISTON. GEORGE C. AUSTIN, Seattle, Wash., assignor, by mesne assignments, of one-half to S. C. Carter Co., Inc., Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Oct. 31, 1922. Serial No. 598,153. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)

1. A piston of the class described consisting in a head portion and a skirt portion separated about their peripheral walls and connected together internally by integral members spaced from said walls, said skirt portion having an oblate central portion and short vertical slots extending inwardly from its ends and with other laterally inclined slots extending circumferentially and communicating with said vertical slots.



1,623,329. PAPER-CUP-FORMING MACHINE. CESARE BARBIERI, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Vortex Mfg. Co., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 15, 1924. Serial No. 699,424. 36 Claims. (Cl. 93—36.)

1. A flat cup forming machine comprising a blank holding magazine, means for automatically removing a cup blank from the magazine, devices for folding and sealing portions of the blank to form a collapsed cup, means for transferring the cup through the machine from one of said devices to the other, a stacking device, and means for delivering the cup into the bottom of the stacking device.

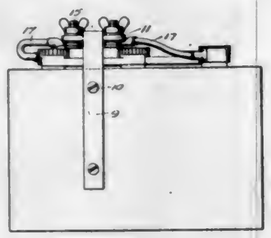
1,623,330. CUP-MACHINE CARTON-LOADING ATTACHMENT. CESARE BARBIERI, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Vortex Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 3, 1924. Serial No. 710,750. 22 Claims. (Cl. 93—93.)

1. The combination with a cup stacking magazine, of mechanism for lifting the cups stacked in the magazine and delivering cups to the magazine beneath the cups stacked therein, and means adapted to mark off the stacked cups in predetermined numbers in the magazine.



1,623,331. PIANO KEY. GEORGE J. BECKER, Annandale, N. Y. Filed Aug. 25, 1923. Serial No. 659,296. 2 Claims. (Cl. 84—423.)

1. A device for leveling piano keys comprising a finger formed by cutting into the material of the key, and said finger being normally seated in the cutaway portion of the key, a spring device attached to the key and extending across the point of connection between the key and the finger to resist displacement of the finger from the cutaway portion of the key, said finger being provided with a recess at its free end, and an adjusting element extending through the key in an angular direction and having its end received in the recess to hold the finger in alignment with the body of the key, and to positively move the finger out of the cutaway portion of the key.

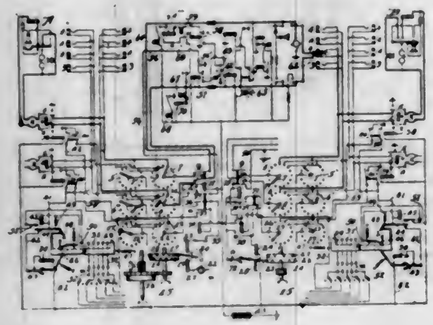
1,623,332. STORAGE-BATTERY TERMINAL. REGNALD RUFUS BEEZLEY, Memphis, Tenn. Filed Aug. 3, 1922. Serial No. 579,419. 1 Claim. (Cl. 173—322.)

A storage battery terminal comprising an inverted substantially L-shaped bracket having each arm provided with a plurality of apertures for the passage of hold fast devices, the long arm of said bracket being designed to be secured to the side of the battery box with its other arm overhanging and spaced from the battery box top, a relatively wide but thin insulation plate having said other arm extended medially thereof, securing elements passed through the other arm to secure said plate thereto, and binding posts removably passed through the insulation plate one on either side of the arm attached thereto, and having wing nuts for the detachable engagement of battery terminals with the post.

1,623,333. OIL GAUGE. STEPHEN F. BRIGGS and EDWARD N. JACOBI, Milwaukee, Wis., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Briggs & Stratton Corporation, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 8, 1920. Serial No. 363,943. 4 Claims. (Cl. 73—109.)

1. In a pressure gauge, a gear frame comprising a frame member, arms bent up from the sides thereof, a top plate mounted on some of the arms at a distance from the frame member, an intermeshing segment gear and pinion on staffs mounted in and between the frame member and the top plate, a dial plate mounted on other arms at a greater distance from the frame member, and a hand on the pinion staff cooperating with the dial plate to indicate movements of the mechanism.

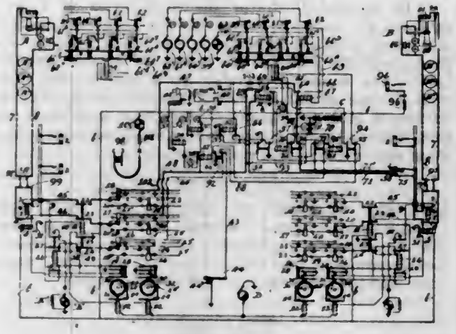
1,623,334. METAL DOOR CONSTRUCTION. EARL V. COULSTON, Rock Island, Ill. Filed Oct. 19, 1922. Serial No. 595,480. 2 Claims. (Cl. 126—190.)



1. In a door structure, the combination of a primary inner sheet-metal wall member; a secondary inner sheet-metal wall member; and an outer sheet-metal wall member; said primary inner member being provided with a peripheral depression upon its inner side; said secondary member being bent around the peripheral portions of said primary and outer members to secure same in contact with each other; the inner portion of said secondary member lying in said depression whereby its inner surface is flush with the inner surface of said inner wall member.

1,623,335. STAPLE. MICHAEL DE BONIS, Abbotsford, British Columbia, Canada. Filed Aug. 1, 1924. Serial No. 729,471. 1 Claim. (Cl. 85—49.)

In a staple having a central portion and a sheet metal head engaged under said central portion and having the ends thereof turned backwardly to engage the sides of said central portion, said staple having legs depending from said central portion, the combination of projections depending from said legs, and engaging beneath said head to hold said head in place.



1,623,336. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. FRANCIS W. DUNBAR, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Co., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 19, 1904. Serial No. 237,445. 164 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)

1. A telephone exchange system including a plurality of telephone lines provided with jacks and divided into groups, a plurality of cord circuits for each group of telephone lines also divided into groups and extending to cord connecting plugs at different sections of the switch-board, automatically operated selective switching mechanism in circuit relation with the lines and including traveling answering terminals of the cord circuits and multipled telephone line terminal contacts engaged by said answering terminals, whereby the answering ends of the cord circuits are connected with calling lines, and apparatus for changing the electrical character of the cord circuits to cause them, when idle, to cooperate with the selective switching mechanism as if they were busy, to enable the said mechanism to pass the same into co-operation with an idle cord circuit that may be used, substantially as described.

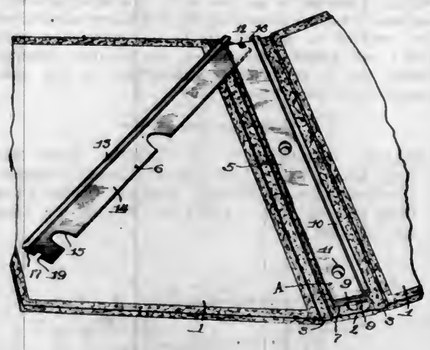
1,623,337. TELEPHONE-EXCHANGE SYSTEM. FRANCIS W. DUNBAR, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 9, 1905. Serial No. 281,907. 74 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)

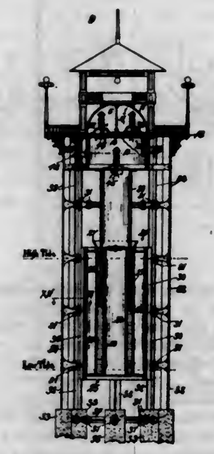


1. A telephone exchange system including telephone lines extending to an exchange and provided with jacks, link-circuits at the exchange provided with manually operated terminals for connection with said jacks, clearing-out signaling-appliances in association with the link-circuits, a source of current, and means associated with said source of current for causing the operation of the clearing-out signaling appliances upon the connection of said manually operated terminals with said jacks only when the jack connected to is that of an already busy line.

1,623,338. TIE AND SPACING MEANS FOR PLASTIC CONSTRUCTION. WILLIAM M. GOLDSMITH, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The Goldsmith Metal Lath Company, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed July 3, 1922. Serial No. 572,472. 6 Claims. (Cl. 72—118.)

4. In plastic construction the combination of a plastic mass, a hanger having an eye portion embedded in the mass and suspended therefrom, a support bar suspended at the free end of the hanger and spaced from said mass, spacer means for rigidly retaining the support bar in its spaced relation to the mass, and a ceiling structure suspended from the support bar.

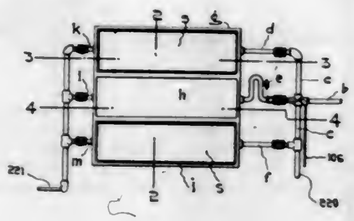
1,623,339. BINDER. CHARLES GOLDSTEIN, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 1, 1924. Serial No. 710,354. 7 Claims. (Cl. 281—19.)



1. Means for removably securing the filler within a binder, comprising a fixed channel member secured to said cover, a complementary channel forming member pivoted to said fixed member, said last mentioned member being adapted to be opened and closed to engage the bound edge of said filler.

1,623,340. SOAP COMPOUND AND PROCESS OF MAKING THE SAME. HUGO HENRY HANSON, Bangor, Me., assignor to Tarratine Manufacturing Co. Inc., Bangor, Me., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Jan. 6, 1923. Serial No. 611,178. 7 Claims. (Cl. 87—5.)

1. The process of making a soap compound which consists in dissolving a neutral vegetable oil soap in a sufficient quantity of a mixture of water and neutralized sulphonated castor oil to form a thick liquid, and then beating said liquid until it assumes a creamy consistency.



1,623,341. OCEAN COMPRESSED-AIR POWER. CHARLES N. HARE, Lima, Ohio. Filed Aug. 17, 1921. Serial No. 493,031. 9 Claims. (Cl. 230—32.)

1. In combination with a base, an upright secured to said base; of a stationary vacuum tank secured to said uprights; a stationary vacuum cylinder connected to said stationary vacuum tank; a wave actuated reciprocating tank having cylinders adapted to reciprocate with the stationary vacuum tank; and an auxiliary tank interposed between the stationary vacuum tank and stationary vacuum cylinder; a suction valve provided between the stationary vacuum tank and the stationary vacuum cylinder, adapted to exhaust air in the stationary vacuum tank; and valves provided on the vacuum cylinder to permit air to be exhausted therefrom on the upward stroke of the reciprocating tank.

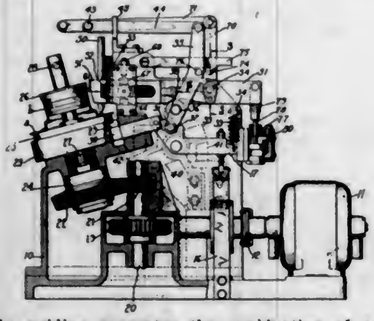
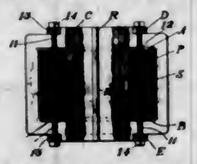
1,623,342. TREATMENT OF WATER. JOHN HENRY HARRINGTON, Baie d'Urfe, Quebec, Canada, assignor of one-third to George W. Robb, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed Feb. 2, 1924. Serial No. 690,109. 8 Claims. (Cl. 23—230.)



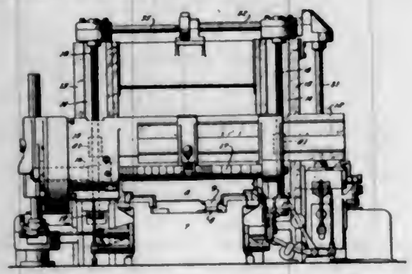
1. In the continuous treatment of water for purification, a method of testing for the chemical purifier content of the water consisting in causing a specimen of the water being tested to constantly flow in a plurality of streams one within the color reflecting range of a color producing device, and simultaneously in a stream distinct from and adjacent to but out of the color reflecting range of the first mentioned stream for the purpose of ocular comparison of the second stream with the first.

1,623,343. ANTIRATTLE WINDOW LOCK. LUTHER HILL, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Feb. 23, 1923. Serial No. 620,661. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—140.)



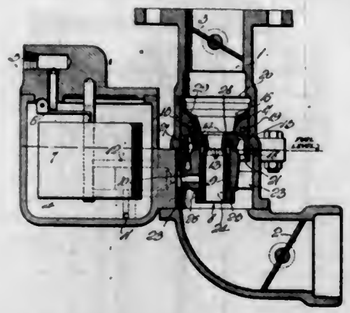
In an anti-rattle window lock, comprising a base, screws adapted to extend through said base into the upper edge of the lower sash of a window, integrally formed upwardly extending flanges on the sides of said base, a slotted slide adapted to move longitudinally between said flanges, a holder integral with said slide and arranged at one end thereof, a rubber block carried by said holder, a lever, a screw extending through the lever and base and adapted to be screwed into a sash through the slot in said slide to pivot said lever, said lever being adapted to engage said holder to move said slide into sash engaging position and a projection struck up on said slide near one edge thereof, adapted and arranged to be acted upon by said lever to move the slide out of sash engaging position.

1,623,344. ELECTRIC-ARC-WELDING APPARATUS. HOWARD P. HIMES, Detroit, Mich., assignor of one-half to General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 6, 1920. Serial No. 394,298. 10 Claims. (Cl. 219—8.)



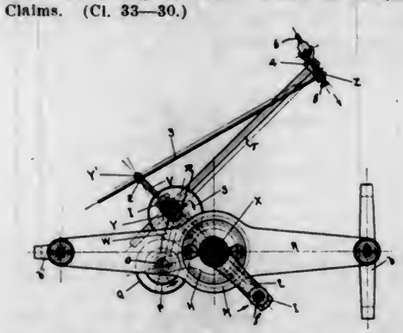
1. In welding apparatus the combination of a work support, an electrode holder movable into two definite and fixed positions relative to the work support, two fixed stops for limiting the movement of said electrode holder, and means for moving the holder in both directions to the extent permitted by said stops, and for holding it in a fixed position away from said work support while a welding operation is being performed upon work supported by said work support.

1,623,345. ELECTRICAL APPARATUS AND CORE THEREFOR. NEVIL MONROE HOPKINS, New York, N. Y., assignor to National Carbon Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 18, 1921. Serial No. 446,126. 25 Claims. (Cl. 175—356.)



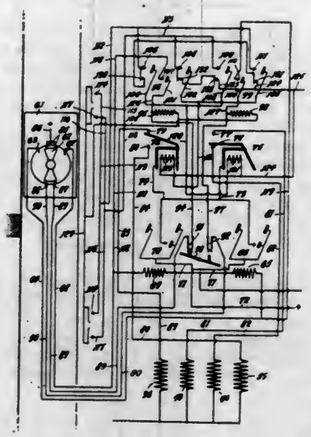
1. In electrical apparatus, in combination, a core comprising a hollow central unitary leg, and yokes secured thereto and disposed radially relatively to the axis of said leg, and an electrical winding disposed between portions of said yokes and said leg.

1,623,346. FEED MECHANISM FOR MACHINE TOOLS. JOHN R. JOHNSON, Rockford, Ill., assignor to The Ingersoll Milling Machine Company, Rockford, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 12, 1923. Serial No. 631,509. 37 Claims. (Cl. 90—15.)



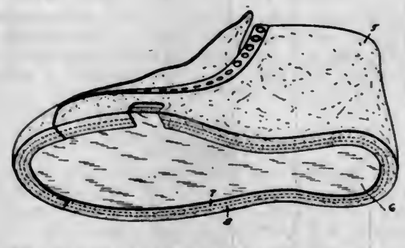
1. Feed mechanism for machine tools comprising in combination with a work table and a spindle carrier, a prime reversing clutch, a table and a carrier driving shaft in parallel relation, gearing adapted to be continuously driven by said clutch including a rapid traverse and a feed gear on each of said shafts, and means for selectively connecting either the rapid traverse or feed gear of either shaft thereto.

1,623,347. CARBURETOR. EARL H. KELLEY, HUGO F. GREIWE, and FRED E. HOSKIN, Portland, Oreg. Filed Nov. 3, 1924. Serial No. 747,612. 4 Claims. (Cl. 161—41.)



1. A carburetor comprising a main air passage, a relatively small air passage disposed in said main air passage, said small air passage having a hollow wall providing a fuel chamber, said hollow wall having fuel feeding portage leading to its inner side from the fuel chamber and also having additional portage leading from said fuel chamber to the main air passage, and port-controlling means for closing the main air passage, said means being disposed about the small air passage on the engine side of said additional portage at low engine speeds to permit said additional portage to then communicate with the inlet end of said main air passage for the purpose of supplying air to the aforesaid fuel chamber, said port-controlling means being mounted for movement to another position for allowing flow of air through the main air passage past said additional portage at relatively high engine speeds.

1,623,348. ELLIPSOGRAPH. KARL KIEFER, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed May 29, 1920. Serial No. 385,233. 3 Claims. (Cl. 33—30.)

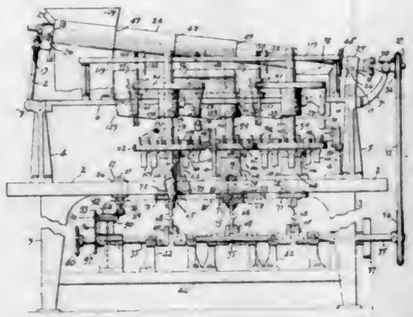


1. In an ellipsograph, a support, a driving gear fixed to said support, a driven gear, a marking member fixed to said driven gear, means supporting said driven gear and said member for movement toward and away from and for revolution about said driving gear, a marking element mounted for oscillation on said member, intermediate gear means between said driving and driven gears for rotating said driven gear as it is revolved about the driving gear, a guiding member rotating with said driven gear, and means whereby said guiding member oscillates said marking element to maintain said element in predetermined relation to the adjacent portion of the curve being drawn.

1,623,349. ELECTRIC-LIFT MACHINE AND THE LIKE. JOHN BERTRAM MORTON KNUTSEN, Elizabeth Bay, near Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Filed Dec. 18, 1924, Serial No. 756,852, and in Australia Jan. 15, 1924. Renewed Feb. 24, 1927. 10 Claims. (Cl. 187—29.)

5. In an electrically operated lift, the combination, with a lift car, its switch, and winding mechanism, of auxiliary reduction and reverse gearing directly and positively associated with said mechanism and interposed between the same and the lift motor, relay control switches controlling the reduction and reverse gearing, relays connected to said relay control switches and automatically switched into and out of use by the car switch, and cam switches in the lift well for operating said relay control switches according to the position of the car relative to a required stopping level; said gearing comprising two gear cases, epicylic speed-reduction gear housed in one gear case, a tubular spindle connected to the speed-reduction gear, a central spindle connected to said gear case, a direct drive clutch wheel mounted on said tubular spindle, a reverse drive clutch wheel mounted on said central spindle, clutch plates on both of said clutch wheels, an electro-magnet for each of said clutch wheels, a sleeve connected to both magnets, armatures on said magnets, clutch discs connected to said armatures, clutch plates on said clutch discs engaging the clutch plates on the clutch wheels, and electrical control connections between said electro-magnets and the relay control switches.

1,623,350. SHOE AND METHOD OF MANUFACTURING THE SAME. ALEX RALPH LESHIN, Seattle, Wash. Filed May 8, 1923. Serial No. 637,519. 4 Claims. (Cl. 36—19.)



1. The method of making a shoe by cutting an upper and slip sole to exact size of the last; marking the slip sole for the precise location thereon of the edge of the upper: sewing the upper to the slip sole by stitches passing through the upper and through the slip sole; turning these parts inside out; inserting an insole and stitching the same to the slip sole by a line of stitches inside of the edge of the upper, said line of stitches being in spaced relation to the lateral edge of said insole; inserting the last; and stitching an out sole to said slip sole.

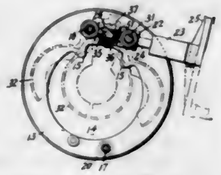
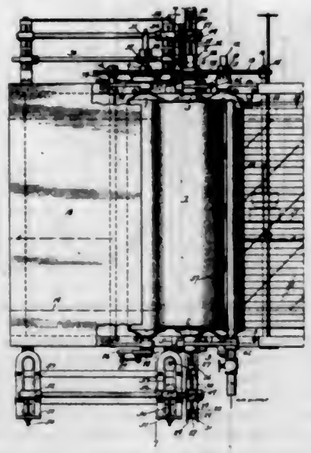
1,623,351. GETTER AND THE APPLICATION THEREOF. DUNCAN MACRAE, East Orange, and HENRY KNEELAND RICHARDSON, Newark, N. J., assignors to Westinghouse Lamp Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 8, 1922. Serial No. 566,847. 5 Claims. (Cl. 176—16.)



1. The method of treating incandescent lamp filaments comprising applying a refractory getter thereto by means of an inorganic binder fused to the filament, introducing the filament into a bulb, exhausting the bulb, vaporizing the binder and thereafter vaporizing the refractory getter.

1,623,352. AUTOMATIC CUT-TUBE-SORTING MACHINE. HARRY DE FOREST MADDEN, Newark, and JOHN JOSEPH HIGGINS, East Orange, N. J., assignors to Westinghouse Lamp Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 9, 1921. Serial No. 468,125. 27 Claims. (Cl. 209—82.)

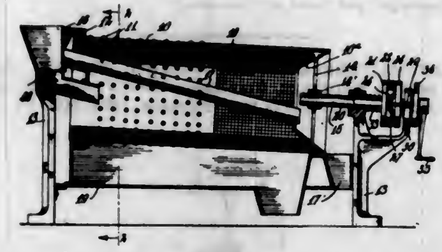


1. In a machine for gauging the outside diameter and the wall thickness of tubes, the combination of an element for gauging the diameter of tubes, means for feeding gauged tubes from said gauging element, means for supporting the gauged tubes of a given diameter in groups, a calipering element in operative relation to each group, means for moving said calipering elements to engage and caliper the wall thickness of said supported tubes, means for moving said calipering elements to remove the tubes from said supporting means and means for releasing tubes of given diameters and wall thickness for deposit in a common receptacle.

1,623,353. CUP DISPENSER. JOHN W. MCCARTHY, Lockport, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Vortex Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Nov. 8, 1923. Serial No. 673,510. 6 Claims. (Cl. 211—8.)

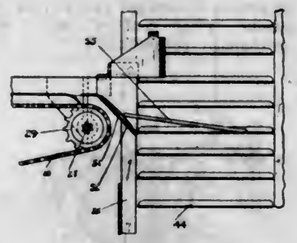
1. A cup dispenser comprising a container for a stack of nested cups, gripper mechanisms, means for oscillating the same in a horizontal plane transversely of the cup path, and means adapted to be operated to cause said gripper mechanisms to be reciprocally translated to effect cup drawing and positioning of the gripper mechanisms for subsequent cup gripping.

1,623,354. MACHINE FOR CUTTING BIAS STRIPS. VLADIMIR V. MESSER, Douglaston, N. Y. Filed Feb. 28, 1924. Serial No. 695,727. 13 Claims. (Cl. 164—77.)



1. In a machine of the class described, in combination, a rotatable roll, having an uninterrupted surface, a cutter adapted to impinge on the surface of the roll, a stationary guide for the cutter parallel to the axis of the roll, and means exterior to the roll for moving the cutter longitudinally along the roll synchronously with the rotation of the guide whereby fabrics fed continuously over the roll may be continuously cut in diagonal lines.

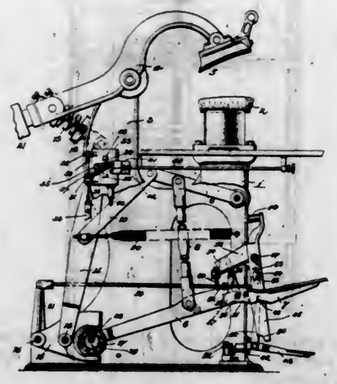
1,623,355. WHEEL. WALTER B. MINCH, Jackson, Mich., assignor to General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 20, 1922. Serial No. 602,187. 8 Claims. (Cl. 301—63.)



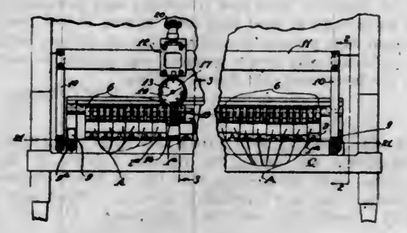
6. A wheel comprising a hub, a disc and a fixed rim, the disc being composed of a plurality of layers of wood, the rim having a base portion provided with a circumferential groove, receiving the outer periphery of the disc.

1,623,356. GRAIN SIFTER. ANDREW MIRONUCK, Max, N. Dak. Filed Nov. 21, 1923. Serial No. 675,983. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)

1. A reciprocating means for the rotary drum of a grain sifter, comprising a bearing, a sleeve passing through said bearing, a disk fixed to the forward end of said sleeve, rollers mounted on the front face of said disk, a standard offshot from said bearing, a disk fixed to said standard, a pair of cam arms hinged to said latter disk, said cam arms extending towards one another from their hinged ends, inclined with respect to the face of the disk so as to constitute cam elements, the free ends of said cam arms overlapping, and curved inwards towards the face of the latter mentioned disk, adjusting screws threaded through said latter disk, abutting said cam arms, tension springs passing through apertures in the latter disk, and having one end fixed to said disk, and the other to said cam arms to press the cam arms against the said adjusting screws, a shaft passing through said sleeve, and feathered thereto, allowing longitudinal freedom, and a coiled expansion spring surrounding said sleeve, and acting between the said bearing and the first mentioned disk fixed to the forward end of said sleeve, said coiled expansion spring urging said sleeve and attached disk in one direction.



1,623,357. TRANSFER DEVICE. JOEL MOORES, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The J. H. Day Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Mar. 14, 1923. Serial No. 624,910. 4 Claims. (Cl. 198—28.)

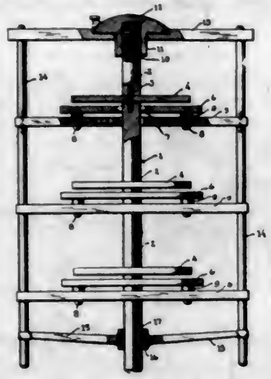


3. In a device of the class described, the combination of a pair of cooperating non-overlapping endless conveyors for moving pans in different directions of plates interposed between the conveyors for engagement by pans moving between the conveyors, the pans and plates cooperating for utilizing motion imparted to the pans by the conveyors for moving the pans over the plates and from one conveyor to the other conveyor.

1,623,358. GARMENT-PRESSING MACHINE. HERBERT E. PAGE, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to United States Hoffman Machinery Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 10, 1923, Serial No. 624,146. Renewed Sept. 18, 1926. 11 Claims. (Cl. 68—9.)

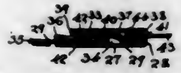
1. In a press, the combination of two relatively movable pressing elements; means adapted to be actuated by the operator to move said elements into pressing relation; locking means to hold the aforesaid means against release movement; means under the control of the operator to release the locking means; power actuated means for exerting heavy pressure between the pressing elements; and mechanism actuated by the power means to lock the locking means against release by the operator.

1,623,359. APPARATUS FOR LEVELING PIANO KEYS. EDWIN SAMUEL RAUWORTH, De Kalb, Ill., assignor to Apollo Piano Company, De Kalb, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 28, 1923. Serial No. 654,433. 7 Claims. (Cl. 33—180.)



1. A key leveling apparatus comprising a guide rail with standards for supporting it over the keys of a piano, a depth gauge slidably mounted on said rail and having a vertically movable member which may be lowered at will into contact with the keys, one at a time, and including an indicator operable by the movable member for showing the position of the latter with reference to a predetermined normal.

1,623,360. CONDENSER. THOMAS T. RODGERS, MARC A. GIBLIN, FRANCIS K. MOORE, and GEORGE T. MOORE, Milwaukee, Wis., assignors to Rodger's Radio Corporation, West Allis, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Sept. 24, 1924. Serial No. 739,491. 3 Claims. (Cl. 175—41.5.)



1. In a multiple unit variable condenser system, a plurality of condensers each being formed with co-operating plates having normally opposed surfaces, inherently resilient means for adjusting certain of said co-operating plates, and a common axially movable member to which each of said other co-operating plates is connected for moving the same in the direction of the movement of the shaft to simultaneously vary the distances between the opposed surfaces of the plates of the respective condensers by equal increments.

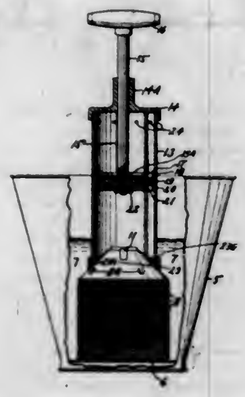
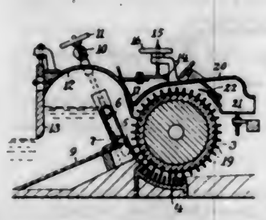
1,623,361. FASTENER STRIP OR FLY FOR GARMENTS. LEO ROSENMAN, Newark, N. J., assignor to R. K. M. Mfg. Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 24, 1922. Serial No. 563,209. 4 Claims. (Cl. 2—265.)



1. In a fastener provided fly for garments, a base strip, a face strip disposed in parallel plane over said base strip, fasteners disposed between said base strip and face strip, a line of stitches joining said base strip and the main body of said face strip and traversing said fasteners, and said main body of said face strip having a free forward marginal edge portion beyond said line of stitches adapted to fold backwardly over a garment edge portion to conceal both the latter and said line of stitches.

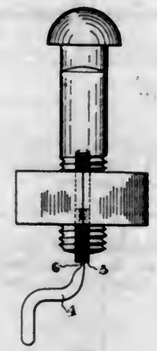
1,623,362. MEANS FOR FORMING AND DELIVERING CHARGES OF MOLTEN GLASS. JOHN F. RULE, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Owens Bottle Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Aug. 22, 1921. Serial No. 494,124. 25 Claims. (Cl. 49—55.)



5. The combination of means for forming, suspending, severing and dropping a gob of molten glass, and automatic means to engage the gob and move downward therewith at substantially the same speed as the latter would fall under the influence of gravity and shape the gob during said downward movement, said shaping means also having a forward movement in a horizontal direction during such shaping, whereby the gob is given a combined downward and forward movement.

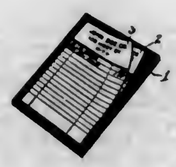
1,623,363. CREAM-SEPARATOR-BOWL WASHER. ALBERT F. SCHWANKE, Grey Eagle, Minn. Filed June 25, 1926. Serial No. 118,453. 2 Claims. (Cl. 141—1.)

1. A washing device for cream separator discs consisting of a series of vertically spaced inverted funnel shaped discs, said device comprising a cylindrical body, a cap member on the upper end of said cylinder, a ring member of soft material securable to the lower edge of said cylinder and adapted to be pressed downwardly concentrically upon the top of the discs, a piston reciprocable in said cylinder, a piston rod extending upwardly through said cap member, and a hand hold on the upper end of said piston rod.



1,623,364. BEATING ENGINE. LEO SHLICK, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed Feb. 17, 1921. Serial No. 445,736. 38 Claims. (Cl. 92—24.)

1. A beating engine comprising a beater roll, coacting bed-plate and knives, a back-fall, a board rising from the bed-plate, a lip rising from said board, a folded plate having its edges resting against said lip and board, and means for vertically adjusting said folded plate.



1,623,365. NUT LOCK. RUFUS W. SMITH, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Apr. 3, 1926, Serial No. 99,536, and in Canada Mar. 9, 1926. 3 Claims. (Cl. 151—8.)

1. The combination of a bolt and a nut, one of said parts having grooves formed therein diametrically opposite one another and parallel to the axis of the bolt and the other part; similar grooves at right angles to one another with which the first mentioned grooves may be brought progressively into engagement to form a key seat; and a key adapted to fit said key seat, certain of the grooves and the key being threaded, the pitch of the thread being one-quarter the pitch of the bolt.

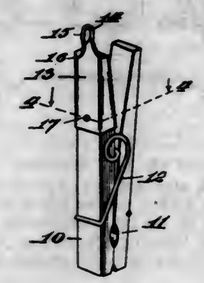
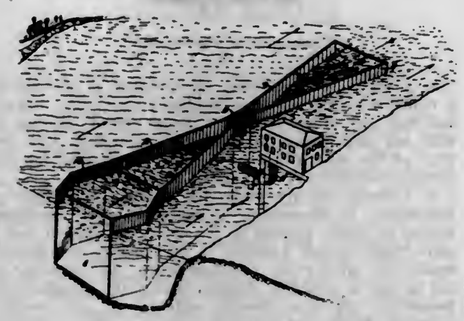
1,623,366. DUPLICATING DEVICE. ERVIN E. STRAWN, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Arthur S. Gilman, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,386. 4 Claims. (Cl. 197—150.)



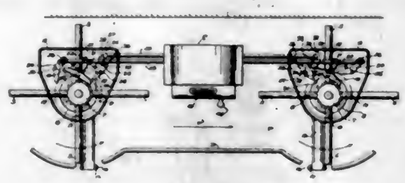
1. In a typewriting machine, the combination with a cylindrical platen having a surface adapted to receive and retain a transfer material; of a bar of such material in solid form, mounted upon the typewriter and movable toward and from said platen, whereby said material may be applied to the latter when required.

1,623,367. VALVE ACTION FOR ORGANS AND THE LIKE. FRANCIS W. SULLIVAN, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Feb. 4, 1926. Serial No. 85,846. 2 Claims. (Cl. 84—338.)



1. A valve action of the character described comprising a body having an air passage and having an opening and a valve chamber communicating with the passage, a diaphragm valve closing said opening, there being ports in opposite sides of the valve chamber, a second valve in the valve chamber between said ports formed at least in part of a magnetic metal, and an electromagnet positioned to effect movement of the second valve to open and close the ports.

1,623,368. SPRING-CLIP HANGER. JAMES R. TATE, Lowell, Ariz. Filed May 7, 1926. Serial No. 107,407. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—137.)



The combination with a spring clothes pin, of a sleeve positioned on the upper end of one of the jaws of the clothes pin, a rivet passing through said sleeve and through the jaw on which it is positioned, a hook formed integral with the upper end of the outer wall of said sleeve and projecting upwardly, outwardly and thence downwardly and the free end of which hook is provided with a sharp point.

1,623,369. METHOD AND MEANS FOR CREATING A HYDRAULIC HEAD. HENRY TILL, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 9, 1925. Serial No. 74,374. 6 Claims. (Cl. 61—19.)

1. The method of utilizing the power of a large area of cross-section of stream without materially backing up the upstream level by converging the flowing stream section into a narrow open topped throat and then passing the water from the throat in a spreading open body whereby to cause a pocket to be created at the throat and between the level of the upstream side and the level of the downstream side, such pocket providing a positive head as between the higher level and the bottom of the pocket and inducting water into the throat at the zone of water depression.

1,623,370. DEVICE FOR CONTROLLING THE OPERATION OF WORKMEN'S TIME CLOCKS. FRED WAYMAN, Binghamton, N. Y. Original application filed Oct. 27, 1923, Serial No. 671,233. Divided and this application filed Feb. 15, 1926. Serial No. 88,254. 2 Claims. (Cl. 70—26.)

1. In a device of the kind described, a time clock, a pair of turnstiles arranged one on each side of the clock in the path of a person seeking access to the clock, and means controlled by the clock mechanism and operatively connected to the turnstiles to prevent the operation of said turnstiles in one direction during a predetermined period of time.

1,623,371. OIL LIBERATOR. WILLIAM O. WETMORE, U. S. Army, Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii. Filed Feb. 10, 1926. Serial No. 87,476. 4 Claims. (Cl. 221—67.)

1. A device for preventing the breeding of mosquitoes, a liquid receiving container gradually converging toward one end and provided with a liquid outlet opening at said end and means for associating a weight with the face of the container including a compartment for the reception of a heavy granulated material.

4. A device for preventing the breeding of mosquitoes comprising a submergible pyramidal shaped container having an outlet opening in the upper end thereof and a water inlet opening adjacent to the opposite end thereof, means for closing the openings when the container is not in use, a partition disposed within the container adjacent to the base thereof defining an anti-breeding mosquito liquid compartment and a heavy granulated material receiving compartment, means for filling the last mentioned compartment with heavy material, and manipulating handles associated with the container.

1,623,372. DEMOUNTABLE RIM. LEO B. WISHNEVSKY, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Fred M. Heyman, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 24, 1923. Serial No. 627,362. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—32.)

In a demountable rim the combination of sections having openings adjacent to their abutting ends and a locking plate spanning said ends of the sections with its end portions in the said openings of the sections, said locking plate having openings, and said sections of the rim having projections extending over their openings to form locking means therewith, said projections engaging the openings in said locking plate to permanently hinge the plate and sections together.

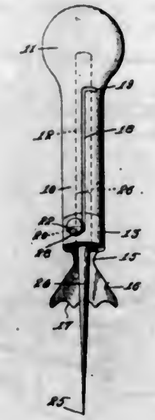
1,623,373. FAN BLADE AND CENTER. SOCRATES A. XIPPAS, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed July 24, 1925. Serial No. 45,902. 11 Claims. (Cl. 170—159.)

1. In a fan, a blade carrier comprising a central body portion provided with outwardly extending arms, one of said arms being provided along one of its longitudinal extremities with an upwardly extending wing of substantially the same length as the arm, and another one of said arms being provided along one of its longitudinal extremities with a downwardly extending wing of substantially the same length as the last mentioned arm.



1,623,374. FLOAT VALVE. OSCAR O. ANDERSON, Sioux Rapids, Iowa. Filed May 28, 1926. Serial No. 112,331. 1 Claim. (Cl. 137—104.)

As a new product of manufacture, a float valve structure for the purpose specified, comprising a valve casing including an attaching nipple and a ported valve seat above which is a screw threaded neck, a plug threaded into said neck and extending into the interior of the casing and including a hollow shank having a cylindrical portion terminating in close proximity to the valve seat, a ball valve normally resting upon said seat and guided by the cylindrical hollow portion, said casing including a depending flange surrounding the valve seat and a portion of said flange being cut away to provide spaced ears, a float, a lever connected with one end of the float, and pivotally connected intermediate its ends with said ears, the inner end of said lever being formed into an upwardly curved operating finger which is movable through the port in the valve seat and engageable with said valve for opening it under predetermined conditions.

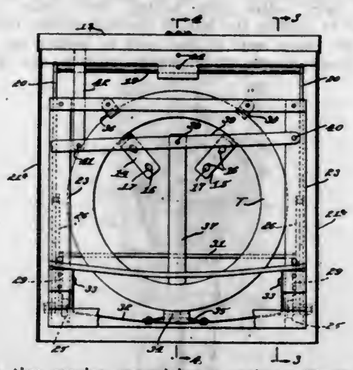
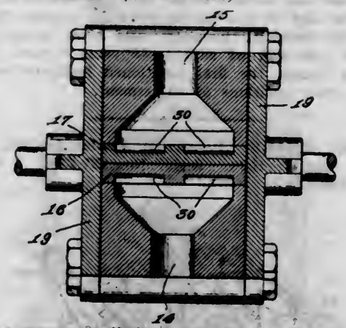
1,623,375. ICE PICK. HUGO CARL ASMUS, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Dec. 14, 1925. Serial No. 75,428. 3 Claims. (Cl. 83—62.)



1. A device of the class described, comprising a handle having a longitudinal bore and having a longitudinal slot communicating with the bore, a tool slidable within the bore, and a shield member offset from the end of the handle and extending longitudinally thereof and over the free end of the tool when the latter has reached its limit of retractive movement in the bore.

1,623,376. ANNUNCIATOR DROP. CHARLES AUTH, New York, N. Y., assignor to Emma Louise Auth, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 16, 1919. Serial No. 297,696. 21 Claims. (Cl. 177—329.)

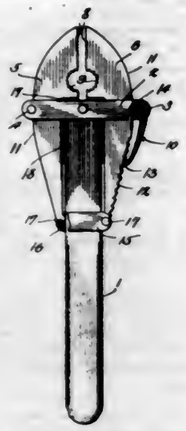


11. An annunciator drop comprising setting and resetting coils disposed side by side, a locking armature comprising an angle shaped spring strip having one leg bowed inwardly across one side of one of said coils and its other leg extending across one end of both coils, an indicator supporting yoke pivoted between the coils, said yoke being provided with armatures movable respectively by the coils, and having an arcuate heel provided with shoulders adapted to engage selectively with a lug on said locking armature to hold the yoke in set or reset position when the coils are denergized.

1,623,377. TIRE CARRIER. ALFRED M. BACON, Arlington, Mass. Filed Sept. 24, 1924. Serial No. 739,741. 10 Claims. (Cl. 224—29.)

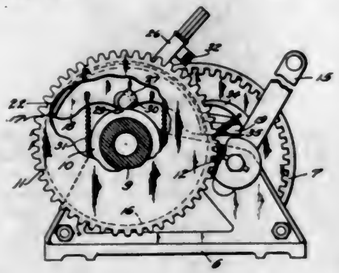
1. A tire carrier comprising a casing with front and back portions, the back portion bearing supports for the tire, and the front portion mounted for opening movement with respect to the back portion and bearing means for taking the tire off said supports and presenting it for removal.

1,623,378. COMPRESSOR. WALTER W. BAVINGTON, Okmulgee, Okla. Filed Jan. 2, 1926. Serial No. 78,953. 2 Claims. (Cl. 230—30.)



1. In a pump, a cylinder having inlet and outlet ports at the opposite sides thereof, an eccentric arranged to rotate within the cylinder, a rotor disposed in spaced concentric relation to said eccentric, anti-frictional bearings positioned between the eccentric and said rotor, means including said bearings for transmitting motion from the eccentric through the rotor, causing the latter to roll about the cylinder, a valve chamber arranged above the cylinder and communicating therewith, slide valves operating in said chamber and controlling communication between said ports and said cylinder, a drain pipe establishing communication between the valve chamber and the inlet port of the cylinder, a second cylinder disposed above said chamber, a piston arranged to operate in the last mentioned cylinder, means for conveying a pressure from the outlet side of the pump to the second mentioned cylinder to hold the piston depressed, and a connection between the piston and said valves whereby the latter are constantly maintained in contacting engagement with the periphery of the rotor as and for the purpose specified.

1,623,379. WRENCH. BYRON REECE BEAVER, Ulysses, Nebr. Filed Apr. 8, 1925. Serial No. 21,649. 1 Claim. (Cl. 81—112.)



A wrench including a handle portion, a pair of bars secured to the handle portion adjacent to one end thereof, said bars being held in spaced relation by the handle portion, rivets connecting the bars adjacent to their ends to close the ends of the bars, jaws having inclined outer edges and having their inner edges cut away to receive the handle portion, means for connecting the inner ends of the jaws to permit the jaws to slide longitudinally of the handle portion, one of said jaws having teeth, a pivoted member having a cam portion at one end, carried by the bars and cooperating with the outer edge of one of the jaws for moving the jaw associated therewith inwardly, said lever being curved, and the free end of said lever being formed into a tooth to engage the first mentioned teeth to hold the jaws in their positions of adjustment.

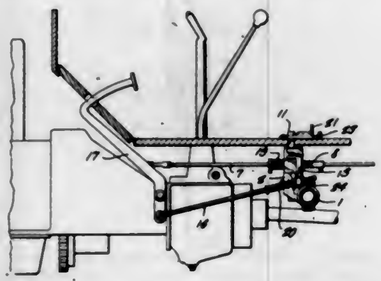
1,623,380. BRAKE. ROBERT H. BEEBE, Seattle, Wash. Filed Aug. 7, 1926. Serial No. 127,779. 6 Claims. (Cl. 188—78.)

1. In brake mechanism, the combination with a machine frame, a rotary drum, a shaft therefor mounted in said frame, a brake shoe having an arm pivotally connected to said frame externally of the drum, and brake shoe operating means comprising a lever adapted to be held by said shoe in operable relation upon said frame, said lever being provided with cam elements which are cooperable with the frame for effecting the engagement of the shoe with said drum.



1,623,381. MUSICAL INSTRUMENT. FREDERICK C. BENDER, Mineola, N. Y. Filed Nov. 30, 1925. Serial No. 72,362. 3 Claims. (Cl. 84—377.)

1. A musical instrument of the class described comprising a harmonica adapted to be held in a stationary position before the mouth of the performer, a stationary air conducting tube carried by said harmonica and provided with openings affording communication with the cells of the harmonica, and a slide valve tube telescopically fitted into the first named air tube, said valve tube being provided with a single restricted opening adapted to be selectively registered with the openings in the air tube for compelling the passage of air through the selective cells.

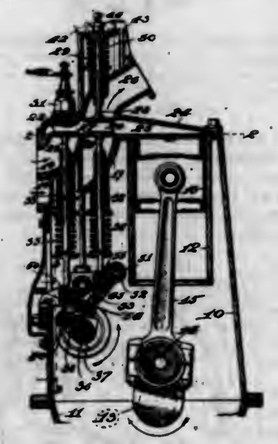
1,623,382. BRAKE LOCK. WALTER G. BOWERS and CHARLES A. SMITH, Akron, Ohio. Filed Oct. 30, 1926. Serial No. 145,319. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—81.)

1. In combination with a motor vehicle and its brake and clutch means, a rack connected with one of the brake rods, a dog for holding the rack with the rod in its forward position when the brake pedal has been depressed and means, operated by the movement of the clutch pedal to normal position to release the dog from the rack.



1,623,383. AUTOMOBILE VENTILATOR. GEORGE A. BURKHOLDER, Shoal Lake, Manitoba, Canada. Filed June 28, 1926. Serial No. 119,110. 1 Claim. (Cl. 268—101.)

In a closure operator mechanism of the class described, a frame open at its top and bottom, a lid hingedly secured to the top of the frame to provide a closure therefor, spaced horizontal spiders arranged within the frame, the web portions of said spiders being provided with registering openings, a rod adapted for vertical slidable movement through said openings, a link affording the pivotal connection between the upper end of the rod and the intermediate portion of the bottom of said lid, means whereby the rod may be raised or lowered for actuating the lid, said means comprising a threaded rod, the lower end of the first mentioned rod having a threaded socket formed therein for cooperation with the upper threaded end of the last mentioned rod, a cross bar through which the threaded rod extends, a handle supported on the lower end of the threaded rod for actuating the same, and stop collars secured on the threaded rod and arranged on opposite sides of the cross bar for preventing the vertical movement of said threaded rod.

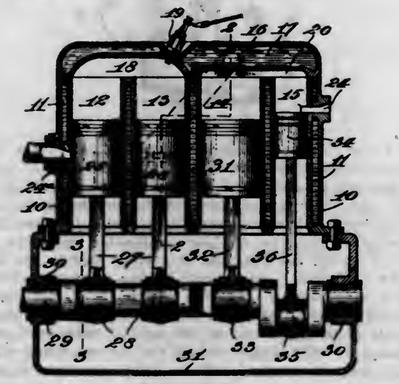
1,623,384. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed May 31, 1923. Serial No. 642,508. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—75.)

3. In a four stroke cycle internal combustion engine, a combustion cylinder, a crank shaft, a common compression and combustion clearance chamber extending laterally from the head end of the combustion chamber, three valves seated in the wall of said common clearance chamber, each of said three valves controlling a separate duct that communicates with said common clearance chamber, the axis of said three valves being arranged in direct alignment with each other and with the axis of the combustion cylinder and disposed at right angles to the crank shaft of the engine and rocker arms arranged in tandem and at right angles to the axis of the crank shaft for actuating two of said valves.



1,623,385. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed Nov. 22, 1923. Serial No. 676,279. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—53.)

A two stroke cycle internal combustion engine unit of four cylinders, two of the cylinders being joined by a single compression and combustion clearance chamber that is formed lengthwise parallel with the axes of the crank shaft, exhaust ports in one of the two cylinders that are joined by the single clearance chamber, inlet ports formed in the wall of the outer one of the two cylinders that are joined by the single clearance chamber, a charge pumping cylinder, a piston valve cylinder, inlet ports formed in the wall of said piston valve cylinder, a single compression clearance chamber joining said pump cylinder and the piston valve cylinder, the piston valve cylinder being disposed to the side of and parallel with the pumping cylinder, the compression clearance chamber that joins the pump cylinder and the piston valve cylinder extending laterally with respect to the plane occupied by the row of three cylinders, a separate crank shaft for driving the piston valve, engine speed actuated driving means between the main crank shaft and said separate crank shaft, a duct extending from one end of the lateral clearance chamber, that joins the piston valve cylinder to said pump cylinder, to an inlet port formed in one of the combustion cylinders arranged in the row of three cylinders, a separate connection between each of the pistons in the combustion cylinders and the charge volume pumping cylinder and the main crank shaft and said main crank shaft having a separate bearing periphery for each connection.

1,623,386. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed Sept. 18, 1924. Serial No. 738,417. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—53.)

In a two stroke cycle internal combustion engine, a cycle having a pair of combustion cylinders, a pumping cylinder and a piston valve cylinder, pistons arranged for operation within the combustion cylinders and pumping cylinder, a piston valve arranged for operation within the piston valve cylinder, the pair of combustion cylinder chambers being joined at the head end by a common compression and combustion clearance chamber, the pumping cylinder chamber and the piston valve cylinder chamber being joined by a common compression clearance chamber, a transfer duct extending from the clearance chamber of the pumping and piston valve cylinder to ports formed in the intermediate portion of one of the pair of combustion cylinders, the axis of all of the cylinders being substantially parallel and arranged in a row with the axis of the crank shaft, a three throw crank shaft, the said three throws being arranged in different axial planes circumferentially, the two pistons within the pair of combustion cylinders being separately connected to one of the crank throws of said three crank throw shaft, the piston within the pumping cylinder being connected to a second crank throw of said three throw crank shaft, the piston valve within the valve cylinder, being connected to the third crank throw of the said three crank throw crank shaft, the degree of angularity between the crank to which the two combustion cylinder pistons are connected and the crank to which the piston of the pumping cylinder is connected, being such, as to cause the piston within the pump cylinder to reach compression dead center as the piston within the combustion cylinder in which the inlet ports of the transfer duct are formed, has closed the said inlet ports and the crank to which the piston valve is connected, being spaced circumferentially in degrees in relation to the crank to which the piston within the pumping cylinder is connected so as to cause the inlet function by the said piston valve to the said pumping cylinder, to be effected during the entire period of the suction stroke of the pumping piston with the desired lag in valve closing timing.

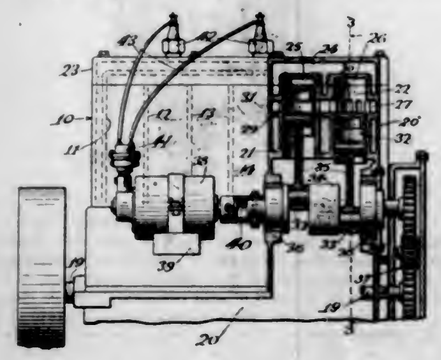
1,623,387. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed Oct. 8, 1924. Serial No. 742,405. 8 Claims. (Cl. 123—53.)

8. In an internal combustion engine, a two stroke cycle internal combustion unit of six cylinders, four of which are disposed in a row and functioning as combustion cylinders, the other two cylinders of the unit being arranged in transverse alignment respectively, with the two inner cylinders of the row of four combustion cylinders and functioning for the pumping of gaseous fuel to the combustion cylinders, a crank shaft having two crank throws, pistons arranged for operation within all of the combustion and pumping cylinders, the piston within the second cylinder from either end of the row of four combustion cylinders and the piston within the corresponding transversely aligned pumping cylinder being directly connected to the same crank throw of the crank shaft and the piston within the first cylinder from each end of the row of combustion cylinders having a separate connection to the corresponding crank throw of the crank shaft and a counterweight connected to each crank throw between the connection to the piston in the first cylinder in the row of four combustion cylinders and the connections to the piston in the second cylinder in the row and the piston in the transversely aligned pumping cylinder.



1,623,388. INLET MANIFOLD FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. EVERETT R. BURNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed Oct. 8, 1924. Serial No. 742,406. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)

2. A gaseous fuel inlet manifold having three horizontally disposed chambers, the ends of two of said chambers being connected to the ends of the third chamber thereby forming in effect a pair of endless chambers, the third chamber to which the ends of the pair of chambers are connected being provided with a pair of separate outlets and a tubular member formed integral with said manifold and lying parallel with the three chambers therein, which tubular member is adapted to function as an exhaust gas conduit member.

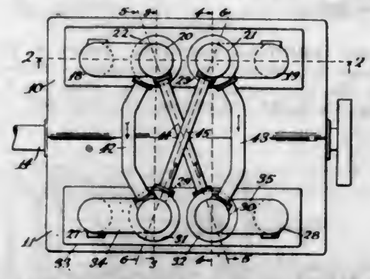
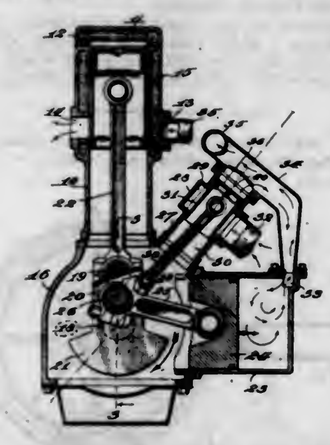
1,623,389. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed Oct. 23, 1924. Serial No. 745,341. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—53.)



1. The combination in a two stroke cycle internal combustion engine, of a series of six cylinders arranged in a row, two of the cylinders at one end of the row functioning as pumping cylinders, the other four cylinders functioning as combustion cylinders and being arranged in pairs with the head ends of the members of each pair connected by a common clearance, compression and combustion space, piston valve cylinders arranged laterally with relation to said pumping cylinders, piston valves arranged for operation within said piston valve cylinders for controlling the admission of gaseous fuel into said piston valve cylinders, a piston valve crank shaft, means connected to one end of said shaft for driving same at engine crank shaft speed, the other end of said shaft being extended to provide a point of attachment for an engine accessory, and the lower portions of the piston valve cylinders being in direct communication with the interior of the engine crank case, whereby the piston valves and their operating mechanism are lubricated from the oil splash within said crank case.

1,623,390. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed June 18, 1925. Serial No. 37,092. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—59.)



4. In a two stroke cycle internal combustion engine, eight cylinders arranged in two rows of four cylinders each, the two rows being disposed 90° apart, the two end cylinders of each row having straight diameter chambers, the two center cylinders of each row having two-diameter chambers, the smaller diameter portion of each two-diameter chamber constituting a combustion chamber the head end of which is connected by a common clearance space with the head end of the adjacent straight diameter chamber, the larger diameter portion of each two-diameter chamber constituting a pumping chamber, a transfer duct connecting each pumping chamber with a smaller diameter chamber of one of the two diameter chambers in the opposite row of cylinders, a crank shaft having two crank pins arranged 180° apart, pistons arranged for operation within the chambers of the eight cylinders, the pistons within four of the cylinders at one end of the V-structure being connected to one of the crank pins of said crank shaft and the pistons within the four cylinders at the other end of the V-structure being connected to the other one of the two pins of said crank shaft.

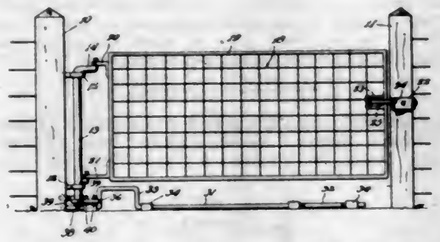
1,623,391. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EVERETT R. BURTNETT, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Automotive Valves Co., Los Angeles, Calif., a Voluntary Trust. Filed Nov. 5, 1925. Serial No. 66,963. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—72.)

5. In a two stroke cycle internal combustion engine, a unit comprising a pair of combustion cylinders, a fresh charge pump cylinder and a piston valve cylinder, piston within each of the four cylinders, a crank shaft having three crank pins to each unit of four cylinders, connection between the four pistons and the three crank pins of the crank shaft, the two combustion cylinders being adjacent to each other and having axes parallel, the fresh charge pump cylinder being radially disposed relative to the pair of adjacent combustion cylinders, with its axis 90° apart from the axes of the combustion cylinders, the piston valve cylinder being angularly disposed in the same radial plane as the combustion and pump cylinder and located between the said combustion and pump cylinders, the axes of the combustion cylinders, the pump cylinder and the piston valve cylinders intersecting the axis of the crank shaft, the three crank pins of the crank shaft adapted to each unit of four cylinders being arranged with two pins axially tandem and with a given radial distance between their axes and the axis of the crank shaft, one crank pin between and separating the axially tandem pair of crank pins, the said intermediate crank pin axis being of less radial distance from the axis of the crank shaft, than is the radial distance between the axes of the axially tandem pair of crank pins and the axis of the crank shaft, a wrist pin located in the crank end part of the connecting rod that joins the pump piston to the intermediate crank pin of the least crank throw, the crank end of the piston valve connecting rod being attached to said wrist pin, and the axis of said wrist pin joining the pump piston connecting rod and the piston valve connecting rod, being offset late relative to crank shaft direction of rotation to the dead center line intersecting the axis of the crank shaft and the axis of the wrist pin in the piston valve to which the piston end of the piston valve connecting rod is connected.

1,623,392. DRAINING RACK FOR CONTAINERS. JAMES DAVIDSON, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed June 25, 1926. Serial No. 118,517. 6 Claims. (Cl. 141—11.)

4. In a device of the kind described, a skeleton frame, formed of parallel bars joining a recessed yoke lower end, and having a loop extension from the rear end, and a sliding dog on said parallel bars for engaging an inverted vessel.

1,623,393. CAN PAIRING AND INCASING MACHINE. LEE W. DICELY, Richmond, Calif., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 20, 1925. Serial No. 44,849. 20 Claims. (Cl. 226—15.)



8. In a can pairing and incasing machine, the combination of a conveyor along which a plurality of cans having filling openings are adapted to be conveyed, means for selectively pairing the cans with their filling openings in diagonal opposed positions, and means for fitting a casing over the cans so paired.

12. In an apparatus of the class described, the combination of a conveyor along which a plurality of cans are adapted to be conveyed, means for separating the cans on the conveyor, means for rotating each alternate can through substantially 180°, means for pairing the cans on the conveyor, means for inverting the cans, and means for fitting a casing over the cans so inverted.

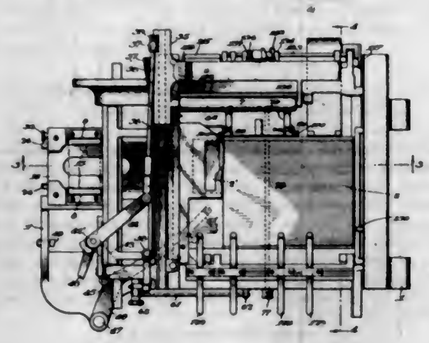
17. In an apparatus of the class described, the combination of means for conveying a plurality of containers, means mounted on the conveyor for pairing the said containers, means for inverting the containers onto a second adjacent conveyor, means on the said second conveyor for arresting the motion of the container, a casing conveyor mounted over the said conveyor and adapted to support the casings in position to be engaged by the forward edge of the container as the same are driven along the second said conveyor so that the containers pull a casing from the casing conveyor over themselves.

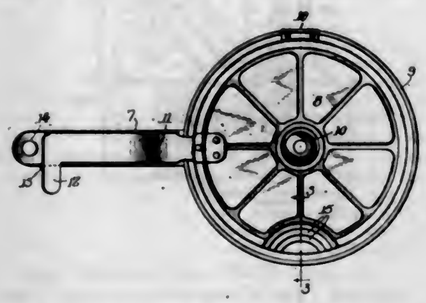
1,623,394. GATE. JAMES A. DODD, Lexington, Ky. Filed Sept. 1, 1925. Serial No. 53,861. 1 Claim. (Cl. 39—56.)



A structure of the character described comprising a support, bearings carried by said support in vertical spaced relation to each other, a shaft rotatable in said bearings, upper and lower arms extending from said shaft and provided with upstanding trunnions, the upper arm being of greater length than the lower arm, a gate, upper and lower brackets extending from one end of said gate and rotatably fitted upon the trunnions of said arms, the upper bracket being of less length than the lower bracket, said shaft having its lower portion reduced and noncircular in cross section and terminating in a threaded stem, a crank arm snugly fitted upon the noncircular portion of said shaft, a securing nut screwed upon said stem to hold said crank arm in place, and actuating means connected with said crank arm and adapted to move the same to rotate said shaft and impart swinging movement to said gate.

1,623,395. DIRIGIBLE HEADLIGHT. JOHN M. DONTON, Bonner Springs, Kans. Filed Mar. 23, 1925. Serial No. 17,734. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—61.)

1. In a dirigible headlight for motor vehicles, a support carrying a headlight arranged to turn to the right or left, a member actuated by the steering gear of the motor vehicle, a second member loosely connected to the first-mentioned member, a link connected to said headlight, a crank connected to said link, a journaled shaft upon which said crank is fixedly mounted, a gear wheel fixedly mounted upon said shaft, a second gear wheel for driving the first gear wheel, mechanism connecting said second gear wheel and said second member, and manual means whereby said second member may be fixed to said first member so that the headlight may be automatically turned to the right or left with the steering gear, or released from said second member so that the headlight may be held stationary or turned independently of the steering gear.

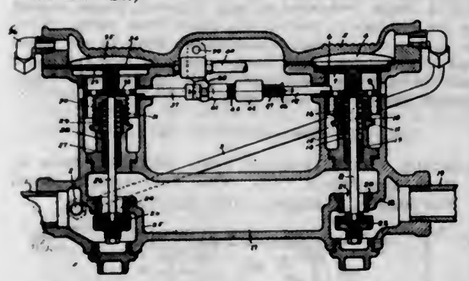


1,623,396. PRINTING MACHINE. JOSEPH S. DUNCAN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Addressograph Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 9, 1925. Serial No. 61,416. 43 Claims. (Cl. 101—56.)

1. A printing machine comprising means for printing from a plurality of devices, means for feeding said devices from operative position, and a hopper to receive said devices and comprising pivoted means for supporting them in a stack therein with the top of the stack at a substantially constant elevation.

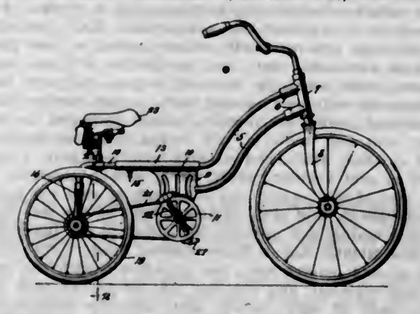
37. A printing machine comprising a bed plate, a platen carriage having a platen adapted to co-operate with said bed plate, and means to shift said platen axially in respect to said carriage after each operation thereof.

1,623,397. SAUCEPAN. RALPH S. DUNLAP, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 10, 1925. Serial No. 74,461. 4 Claims. (Cl. 53—8.)



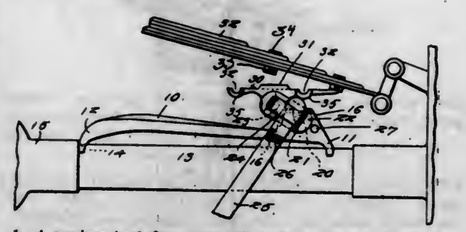
1. The combination with a sauce pan having a radially extending handle of channel form, of a lid fitting the top edge of said pan and permanently hinged to said top edge at a point substantially ninety degrees from said handle, and a radially extending handle approximately coextensive lengthwise with said pan handle rigidly attached to the marginal portion of said lid and adapted to nest within the channel of said pan handle when the lid is closed.

1,623,398. BUMPER. WAYNE E. DUNSTON, Detroit, Mich., assignor to The C. G. Spring & Bumper Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 27, 1925. Serial No. 39,965. 12 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



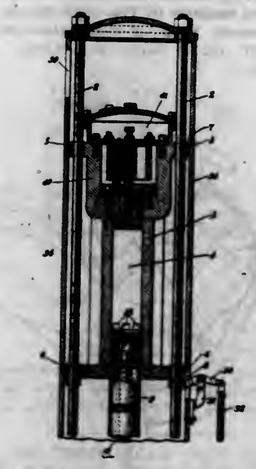
1. A bumper comprising a pair of vertically spaced front or impact bars and a rear or auxiliary bar, extension bars additional to the first three bars and interposed between the ends of the front or impact bars and the ends of the rear or auxiliary bar and secured to the said bars, with the extension bars projecting beyond the ends of the impact and auxiliary bars.

1,623,399. WATER-SOFTENING APPARATUS. CHARLES P. EISENHAUER, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Duro Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 26, 1926. Serial No. 124,932. 5 Claims. (Cl. 210—24.)



1. In a water softener, a refill valve, a brine valve, means to deliver hydrostatic pressure to open the refill valve, means to deliver hydrostatic pressure to open the brine valve, locking means for said respective valves, a common float actuating means for said locking means actuated by the level of brine in a brine tank, and a brine line adapted to convey brine in one direction and refill water in the other direction controlled by said refill and brine valves.

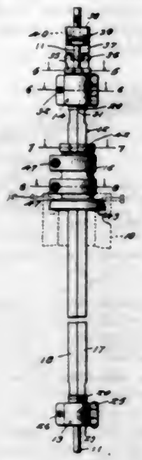
1,623,400. TRICYCLE. EDWIN H. L. ENGLUND, Muskegon Heights, Mich., assignor of one-third to Sophus M. Peterson and one-third to Hans M. Peterson, Muskegon Heights, Mich. Filed Aug. 3, 1925. Serial No. 47,054. 1 Claim. (Cl. 208—113.)



In a tricycle, a frame including a front section and a rear section, vertically spaced bars forming a part of the front section, a guard having a tubular member, forming a part of the front section, said rear section embodying a curved axle supporting bar, a bar extending upwardly from the curved axle supporting bar and extending into the tubular member to adjustably connect the front and rear sections, wheels mounted on the axle, a fork mounted in the forward section, an axle mounted in the fork, and a wheel mounted on the axle of the fork.

1,623,401. SPRING TOOL. ALBERT O. ERICKSON, Jasper, Minn., assignor of one-half to Knute Wold, Jasper, Minn. Filed June 5, 1926. Serial No. 113,930. 6 Claims. (Cl. 29—87.1.)

1. A spring tool for supporting the springs of vehicles in which the springs are directed transversely of the vehicle and overlie the axle thereof, said tool comprising an axle engaging bar adapted to engage the axle beneath the spring and a spring engaging plate overlying the axle engaging bar and connected thereto by a link pivoted to each thereof, said spring engaging plate having at its side edges ears for engaging the side edges of the spring to prevent displacement of the plate with relation to the spring and a lever operatively engaged with said bar and plate for shifting the spring engaging plate to move the same into or out of engagement with the spring, the plate having transverse grooves for the reception of the clip bolts of the spring.



1,623,402. PUMP AND INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE THEREFOR. WILLIAM S. FRANKLIN, Cambridge, Mass. Filed Sept. 23, 1920. Serial No. 412,154. 28 Claims. (Cl. 60—8.)

1. An internal combustion engine having piston and cylinder members, one of said members being slidably carried by the other and being constantly urged by a constantly acting force toward a position against a fixed abutment, the other member being also slidably mounted, means for supplying an explosive mixture within said chamber to move the piston relative to the cylinder member and both of said members relative to said fixed abutment to impart energy to said members, and means for utilizing energy thus imparted to said members to perform useful work.

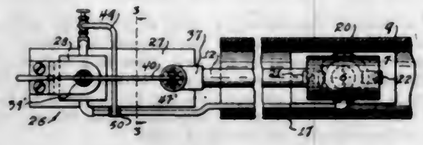
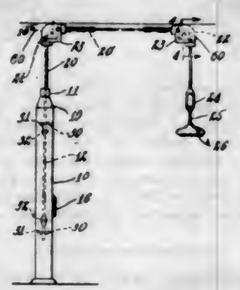
1,623,403. OIL SAVER. JOHN J. FRIEL, Tulsa, Okla. Filed Apr. 3, 1926. Serial No. 99,667. 5 Claims. (Cl. 166—14.)



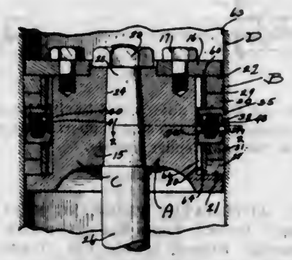
1. In an oil saver for cable lines, a casing surrounding the cable line and secured against longitudinal movement with relation thereto, means for packing the casing to the cable line at the lower end thereof and a packing gland through which the casing is reciprocable, each of said elements being formed in sections adapted to be assembled about the cable.

1,623,404. AUTOMOBILE BUMPER. CHRISTIAN GIRL, Detroit, Mich., assignor to The C. G. Spring & Bumper Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 27, 1925. Serial No. 39,912. 16 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



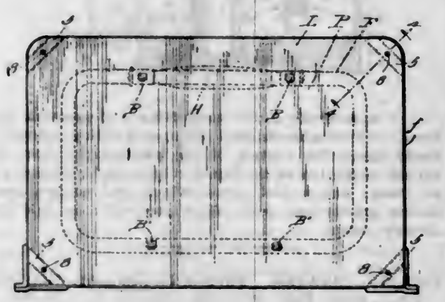
1. The combination, with the side members and radiator of an automobile, of a bumper extending across the front of the automobile below the upper portion of said radiator, a guard or bumper extending upwardly and rearwardly with respect to the first-mentioned bumper and providing a protection for the part of the radiator above the first-mentioned bumper, and means carried by the side members for supporting both of the aforesaid bumpers in operative relation to the radiator and the front of the automobile.

1,633,405. PIPE STRAIGHTENER. JAMES B. GOCKE and CHARLES F. DE CORSE, Los Angeles, Calif.; said De Corse assignor to said Gocke. Filed Aug. 11, 1924. Serial No. 731,376. 1 Claim. (Cl. 153—80.)



In a device of the character described, a pump body, a rigid rod projecting from said body, a cylinder rigidly fixed to the outer end of said rod, a convex shoe rigidly attached at the lower end of said cylinder with its longitudinal axis paralleling the longitudinal axis of the rod, a piston reciprocal in said cylinder, means carried by the cylinder to prevent the piston from turing therein, and a convex shoe non-revolubly fixed to the upper end of the piston; said means acting to hold the upper shoe so that its longitudinal axis parallels the longitudinal axis of the lower shoe.

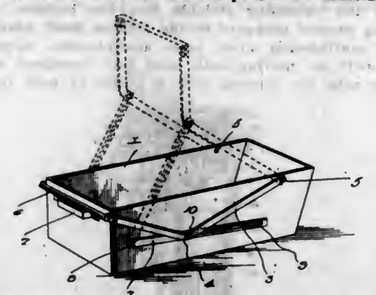
1,623,406. HEIGHT-MEASURING DEVICE. ERLE H. HAND, New Britain, Conn. Filed Aug. 17, 1925. Serial No. 50,546. 2 Claims. (Cl. 33—169.)



1. In a height measuring device of the class described, a scale-bar having ratchet teeth on a vertical side, a casing housing said scale-bar, means associated with said scale-bar and casing providing for a vertical displacement of said scale-bar, a horizontal shaft journaled in the front and rear walls of said casing, a pawl fixed to said horizontal shaft, and engageable with the said ratchet teeth, means for normally urging said pawl into engagement with said ratchet teeth, a gear fixed on said horizontal shaft, an auxiliary shaft journaled in the front and rear walls of said casing, a pinion fixed to said auxiliary shaft, and meshing with said gear, a cam fixed to said auxiliary shaft, a rod slidably mounted to the rear of said casing, the outer end of said rod being engageable by said cam, an arm pivoted to the rear wall of said casing, and pivotally connected to the inner end of said slidable rod, a brake element fixed to the outer end of said pivoted arm, and engageable with the rear of said scale-bar, and resilient pins projecting from the rear wall of said casing, and normally disengaging brake element from said scale-bar, whereby by disengaging said pawl from the said ratchet teeth, the said brake element engages said scale-bar.

1,623,407. SELF-ADJUSTING PACKING FOR PISTONS. LEWIS C. HARROD, Long Island, N. Y. Filed Apr. 23, 1925. Serial No. 25,369. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)

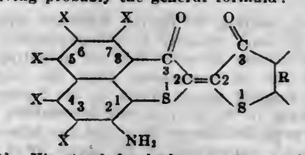
1. An expanding device for maintaining piston packings properly on the piston body comprising a pair of annular rings, one having a tongue thereon and the other having a groove adapted to receive the tongue, spring means for forcing the rings away from each other, and means to limit the amplitude of movement of the rings away from each other.



1,623,408. OVEN-DOOR STRUCTURE. SHERMAN HARTER, Mansfield, Ohio, assignor to The New Method Stove Company, Mansfield, Ohio. Filed Sept. 9, 1926. Serial No. 134,453. 4 Claims. (Cl. 126—190.)

1. An oven door comprising a rectangular door body having a rearwardly projecting peripheral flange, short bars at the rear side of said body extending diagonally across the four corners thereof within the confines of said flange and having their ends rigidly secured to the door, said bars being formed with threaded openings, a lining plate contacting with the rear sides of said bars and engaging said flange, said plate having openings alined with said threaded openings, and screws passing through the plate openings and removably engaged with said threaded openings.

1,623,409. RECEPTACLE AND HANDLE THEREFOR. FRED JOHN HEMPEN and OSCAR LIPSMEIER, Aviston, Ill. Filed Jan. 25, 1926. Serial No. 83,621. 2 Claims. (Cl. 220—94.)



1. In combination with a receptacle, of a pivoted bail therefor, the latter including parallel arms and an intermediate portion forming a handle, the forward ends of the parallel spaced arms being pivotally secured to the respective sides of the receptacle at a point adjacent the forward end thereof, the intermediate portion of each arm being bent, and cooperating means between the bent portions of the respective arms and the rear portions of the sides of the receptacle for limiting the upward swinging movement of the bail whereby said receptacle will be prevented from tilting while being carried.

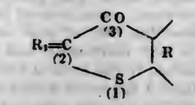
1,623,410. GREEN BLUE TO GREEN VAT DYESTUFFS OF THE THIOINDIGO SERIES. RICHARD HERZ, Frankfort-on-the-Main, and JENS MÜLLER, Hanau-on-the-Main, Germany, assignors to Grasselli Dyestuff Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 23, 1926, Serial No. 96,863, and in Germany Oct. 25, 1924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 260—53.)



1. As new products vat dyestuffs of the thioindigo series, having probably the general formula:

wherein the X's stand for hydrogen atoms, of which one or more may be replaced by a monovalent substituent, and R means an arylresidue of the benzene or naphthalene series, which may contain further substituents, which dyestuffs are when dry dark powders, soluble in concentrated sulfuric acid to a blue solution, and dye cotton and wool in a yellow to red brownish vat fast green-blue to green shades, which dyestuffs may be obtained by condensing 2-aminoperinaphthoxypenthiophenes of the general formula:

wherein the X's stand for hydrogen atoms, of which one or more may be replaced by a monovalent substituent, with 2.3-diketodihydrothionaphthene compounds of the general formula:

wherein R means an arylresidue of the benzene or naphthalene series, which may contain further substituents, and R_1 means ogygen, Cl_2, Br_2 or an anilresidue.

1,623,411. FRICTION HEAD FOR RIFLE BARS. GEORGE W. HULSHIKER, Stewartsville, N. J., assignor to Ingersoll-Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Sept. 16, 1925. Serial No. 56,567. 2 Claims. (Cl. 121—7.)

1. In a fluid actuated rock drill, the combination of a cylinder, a reciprocating hammer piston in the cylinder, a back head for the cylinder, a friction ring secured

fixedly in the back head and having a tapered bore, a friction head rotatable and longitudinally movable in the friction ring, a rifle bar carried by the friction head and extending slidably into the hammer piston, spring pressed plungers in the friction head adapted to bear continuously upon some non-rotatable element of the drill for moving said head into frictional engagement with the tapered bore in order to hold the rifle bar against rotation during the rearward stroke of the piston, a pressure chamber in communication with the cylinder to receive pressure fluid for actuating the friction head out of engagement from the friction ring when the hammer piston starts on its forward stroke, and a passage in the friction ring to establish communication between the tapered bore and the atmosphere for preventing air compressed by the piston from unseating the friction head.

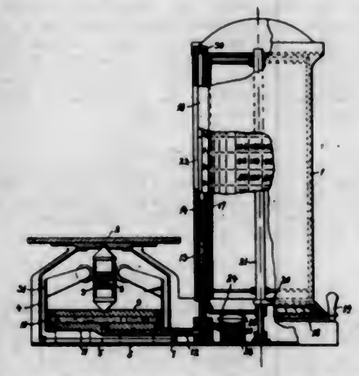
1,623,412. AUTOMOBILE BUMPER. HERBERT S. JANDUS, Detroit, Mich., assignor to The C. G. Spring & Bumper Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 27, 1925. Serial No. 39,930. 11 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

1. The combination, with the side members of an automobile, of arms secured to the said members and projecting rearwardly therefrom, a bar secured to the said arms and extending across the rear of such vehicle, the said bar having its ends bent rearwardly, one or more impact bars pivotally connected to the ends of the first mentioned bar whereby said impact bar or bars may be swung downwardly and upwardly, and means carried by the first mentioned bar for detachably supporting the impact bar or bars in elevated operative position with respect to the first mentioned bar.



1,623,413. BUMPER. HERBERT S. JANDUS and HAROLD L. BLYDENBURGH, Detroit, Mich., assignors to The C. G. Spring & Bumper Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 1, 1926. Serial No. 119,860. 13 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

1. The combination, with a pair of fender guards each comprising a bar adapted to extend across and protect a fender, of a supporting member secured to and projecting rearwardly from the inner portion of each such bar, and a central bumper section extending across the space between the said fender guards and having its opposite ends pivotally connected to the said supporting members and at the rear of the said fender guards.

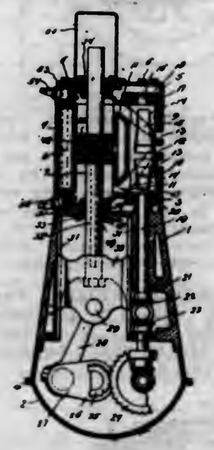
1,623,414. AUTOMATIC WEIGHING SCALE. THOMAS CHRISTIAN JENSEN, Copenhagen, Denmark, assignor to Scandinavian Export Agency Ltd., Copenhagen, Denmark. Filed May 18, 1925, Serial No. 31,165, and in Denmark May 20, 1924. 10 Claims. (Cl. 265—29.)

1. A hydrostatic scale, comprising a depressible platform; a vertically-disposed rising-and-falling column of liquid under the control of the platform; a float supported on the top of the liquid column and provided with an index; and a dial across which said column moves having graduations with which the index on said float directly coacts.



1,623,415. HEATER. THOMAS H. KENNEDY, Alta Loma, Tex. Filed Feb. 16, 1926. Serial No. 88,563. 3 Claims. (Cl. 158—91.)

1. A heater including a jacket, an upstanding nozzle in the bottom thereof, a flue depending from the top of the jacket whose ends are open and whose lower end is disposed around said nozzle, a transverse anchor bar across the upper end of said flue, a flame spreader in the flue above said nozzle and a rod adjustably connected to said bar and to the lower end of which said spreader is attached.

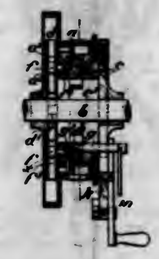
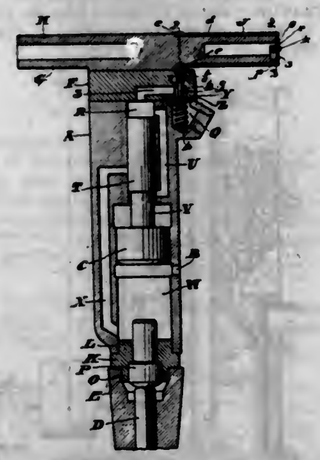
1,623,416. DOUBLE-ACTING INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. MICHAEL G. KOURY, Cairo, Ill. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,319. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—63.)



1. A double acting four cycle internal combustion engine, comprising a cylinder body formed with a cylinder opening through opposite ends of said body, and a cylindrical opening formed in spaced parallel relation to the cylinder, cylinder heads removably secured to the opposite ends of the cylinder body, a piston rod having slidable bearings in engagement in said cylinder heads, and extending axially through the cylinder, a rotary cylindrical valve mounted in the cylindrical opening in the cylinder body, bearings for said valve mounted in the cylinder heads, and means operable by the engine for rotating said cylindrical valves in a predetermined timed relation for controlling ports formed in the cylinder body communicating with the opposite end of the cylinder therein in a predetermined manner.

1,623,417. PAVEMENT. FRANK V. LANHAM, Dallas, Tex. Filed Jan. 7, 1927. Serial No. 159,514. 4 Claims. (Cl. 94—10.)



1. A pavement consisting of a concrete foundation, a wear layer of relatively large stones or rocks embedded partially in said foundation with their upper portions protruding from said foundation in close relation to form a wearing surface whereby a plurality of juxtaposed stones or rocks will substantially simultaneously engage the tread of a vehicle wheel passing over the same, and a filler deposited in the voids between the portions of the rocks or stones protruding above said foundation.

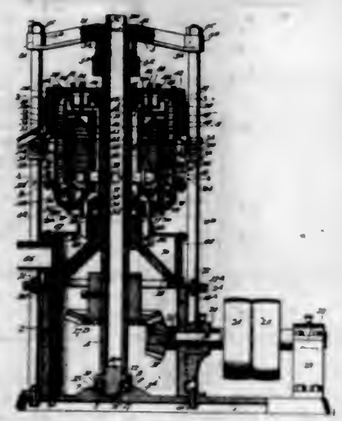
1,623,418. CHANGE-SPEED GEARING. ADOLF LAUB, Basel, Switzerland, assignor to the Firm Progression S. A., La Chaux-de-Fonds, Switzerland. Filed Sept. 8, 1925, Serial No. 55,131, and in Switzerland Sept. 22, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—53.)

1. A change speed gearing comprising a rotary driving element, a rotary driven element, a series of coupling members eccentrically adjustable relative to the axis of rotation of the gear on one of said rotary elements, two rings on the other rotary element to receive said coupling members between them and positioning means to so position said rings as to be slightly eccentric to one another, for the purpose specified.

1,623,419. ROCK DRILL. GORDON LEE, Easton, Pa., assignor to Ingersoll-Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 18, 1926. Serial No. 116,910. 3 Claims. (Cl. 121—35.)

1. In a rock drill, the combination of a cylinder, a back head therefor, a throttle valve controlling the admission of pressure fluid to the cylinder, a handle secured to the back head for guiding the drill, a sleeve rotatable on the handle, a cam on the sleeve for manipulating the throttle valve, and a slot in the back head cooperating with the cam for holding the sleeve on the handle.

1,623,420. PROPELLER. WILLIAM H. LEINWEBER, Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-third to Victor H. Leinweber and one-third to Curtis H. Leinweber, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 27, 1925, Serial No. 39,957, and in Canada Jan. 25, 1924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 170—159.)



1. A propeller having a plurality of operating surfaces, each curved laterally with axial displacements increasing progressively more rapidly than proportional to the traverse of said surface from its entering edge to its trailing edge, the plane of the entering edge of each of said surfaces being substantially perpendicular to the axis of the propeller, and each of said surfaces being curved radially of the propeller making the maximum axial displacements of said surface at different radii substantially inversely proportional to said radii.

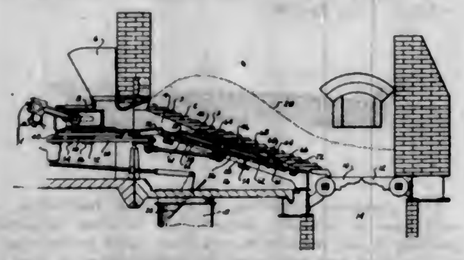
1,623,421. CENTRIFUGAL AMALGAMATOR AND CONCENTRATOR. FRANK D. LEWIS, Denver, Colo. Filed Mar. 6, 1925. Serial No. 13,482. 12 Claims. (Cl. 209—199.)

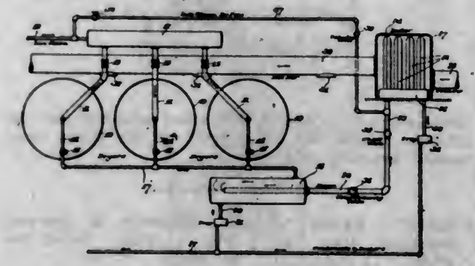
1. A centrifugal concentrator and amalgamator, comprising a rotatable cylinder having a plurality of annular mercury holding grooves in its inner face, a circular mercury pocket at the bottom of said cylinder, spaced cylindrical amalgamating units in said cylinder provided with mercury holding grooves, means for dividing the mercury pocket into two annular pockets, means for delivering pulp to the innermost amalgamating unit, means for separating the inflowing pulp from the mercury in the mercury holding pocket in its passage through said units and through said cylinder, means for permitting the discharge of the concentrates from the upper end of the outer cylinder, means for rotating said cylinders and means for discharging the tailings from the bottom of said cylinder, said mercury pocket having normally closed outlets.

1,623,422. TORQUE-ABSORBING SPRING CONSTRUCTION FOR VEHICLES. RALPH M. LOVEJOY, Boston, Mass. Filed Mar. 26, 1925. Serial No. 18,385. 15 Claims. (Cl. 267—36.)



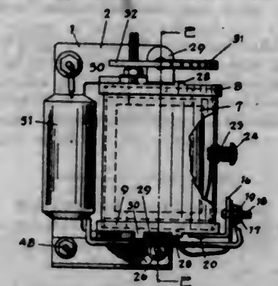
1. A vehicle spring construction comprising a leaf spring mounted upon the axle of the vehicle and having a resilient end portion extending in one direction from the axle and flexibly connected at its end to the end of the frame and a relatively rigid section extending from the axle in the opposite direction and flexibly secured to the frame.

1,623,423. UNDERFEED STOKER. EDWIN LUNDGREN, Frederick, Md., assignor to Combustion Engineering Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 19, 1923. Serial No. 633,096. 3 Claims. (Cl. 110—44.)



1. An underfeed stoker having, in combination, a wind box, a plurality of downwardly inclined fuel retorts arranged side by side and spaced apart, and fuel supporting tuyère blocks spanning the margins of the side walls of adjacent retorts with the air passages of different blocks of different capacities so as to cause air passing from the wind box through the blocks to be supplied in different quantities to the fuel supporting surfaces of the different blocks, respectively, said blocks having provision for varying the capacity of their air passages.

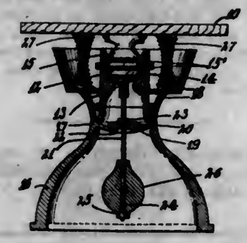
1,623,424. STOKER. EDWIN LUNDGREN, Frederick, Md., assignor to Combustion Engineering Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 4, 1923. Serial No. 636,523. 15 Claims. (Cl. 110—44.)



1. In a multiple retort stoker, the combination of a plurality of retorts, means for underfeeding fuel to said retorts, an overfeed grate surface within each of said retorts and extending throughout the major portion thereof, means for supplying air to said overfeed grate surface, and means for controlling the supply of air to one longitudinally extending part of said overfeed grate surface independently of another such part of said surface.

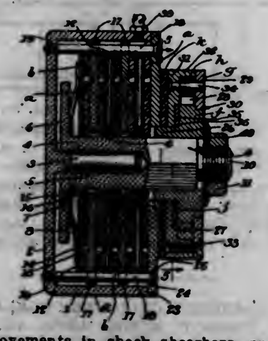
1,623,425. DRIER-HEATING SYSTEM. ALFRED MACKAY, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Sept. 26, 1924. Serial No. 740,061. 3 Claims. (Cl. 34—48.)

1. In a drier system, the combination of a plurality of drying cylinders, means to separately introduce live steam to said cylinders, a steam separator common to said cylinders and connected to receive exhaust steam therefrom, heater sections in communication with said separator to receive steam therefrom, a housing for said sections having an inlet for cold air and an outlet for heated air, and means for discharging the air from said outlet about the exterior of said cylinders.



1,623,426. INDUCTION COIL FOR IGNITION SYSTEMS. MARION MALLORY, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Oct. 5, 1925. Serial No. 60,513. 7 Claims. (Cl. 175—356.)

1. In an induction coil, a U-shaped magnetic member, a shell, a coil located in the shell, a pair of caps for closing the ends of the shell, the caps having channels extending radially with respect to the center of the caps, the arms of the U-member fitting the channels to secure the caps in position on the shell.



1,623,427. GRAVITY TABLE. FRANK J. MANROCK, Newark, N. J. Filed Jan. 22, 1926. Serial No. 83,066. 2 Claims. (Cl. 114—195.)

1. A self levelling table comprising a top horizontal member, a substantially spherical member mounted at the center of the bottom surface of said top member, a base for said table, a socket for said spherical member mounted on said base, a shelf disposed around said socket positioned below said horizontal top member, a plurality of spaced compression springs interposed between said shelf and said top member adapted to resiliently hold the latter in a substantially horizontal position, a depending rod secured to said spherical member, a weight adjustably mounted on the lower end of said rod and disposed within said base, a partition in said base having an upper concave surface and provided with an opening to accommodate said rod, and a block having a lower convex surface adjustably mounted on said rod with its convex surface adjacent the concave surface of said partition for retarding the movement of said upper horizontal member.

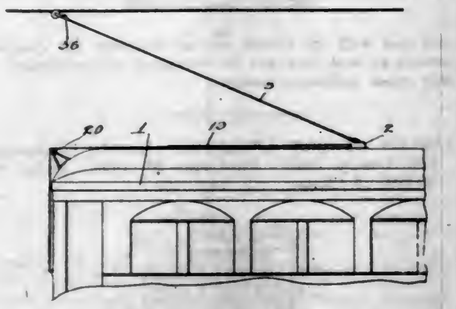
1,623,428. SHOCK ABSORBER. GEORGE C. MARTIN, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 26, 1925. Serial No. 32,928. 6 Claims. (Cl. 188—130.)

1. In improvements in shock absorbers, an arm member, a pair of friction members, said arm member being permitted to move over a determined neutral position thereof prior to moving one of the friction members, the other friction member at all times exerting a constant and even resistance to movement of the arm member over the neutral position.



1,623,429. FLY BOOK. P. HILBERT MARTINSON, Wenatchee, Wash. Filed Mar. 31, 1925. Serial No. 19,712. 3 Claims. (Cl. 43—32.)

1. In a fly-book comprising a transversely foldable backing sheet, a plurality of strips of material of the same width as the backing sheet secured to said backing sheet and extending transversely thereof upon one side of the backing sheet, said strips of material being secured to the backing sheet at their ends and one side to thereby combine with the backing sheet to produce pockets, the outer faces of said strips of material being provided with a layer of fibrous material for the reception of barbs of hooks, a pair of said layers opposing their fibrous faces during folding of the backing sheet.

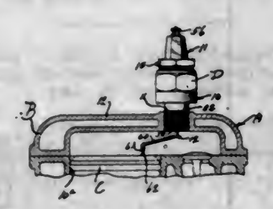
1,623,430. TROLLEY CONTROL. JULIUS GRANT MCMAKIN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 23, 1925. Serial No 17,502. 5 Claims. (Cl. 191—66.)

1. In a control of the class described, a support, a trolley rod pivoted upon said support, a cable for holding said rod in elevated position, a pulley for winding said cable to put it under supporting tension, a pawl for maintaining said pulley under tension, and a solenoid energized when said trolley rod leaves the wire for releasing said pawl to permit the trolley rod to drop.



1,623,431. COMBINED CYLINDER COCK AND RELIEF VALVE. VINCEN P. MCVOY, Mobile, Ala. Filed July 3, 1920. Serial No. 393,890. 5 Claims. (Cl. 121—134.)

2. A combined cylinder cock and relief valve embodying an air cylinder, a bored piston therein having a seat portion, a check valve supported in and movable to seating position in advance of the piston, adjacent seats for the piston seat portion and the check valve, a spring acting on the piston and disposed between the stem of the valve and the end wall of the bore of the piston, and a spring acting on the valve to hold the same in seated position when air pressure is released from the piston.

1,623,432. SPARK PLUG. ROBERT C. MYERS, Hutchinson, Kans. Filed Mar. 23, 1925. Serial No. 17,751. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—169.)

1. In combination with an internal combustion engine including a casing provided with a cylinder chamber and a spark plug inserting opening in the casing above and axially offset from the cylinder chamber, a spark plug for said spark plug inserting opening, said spark plug including an insulating core and an electrode carried by said insulating core, said electrode at its inner end providing a relatively long flexible offset extending into the cylinder chamber for engagement by the piston upon topmost movement of the latter.

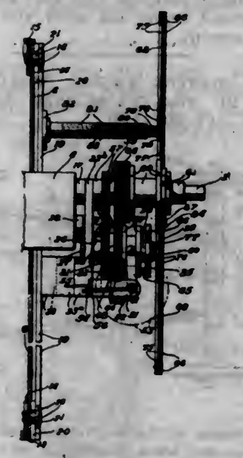
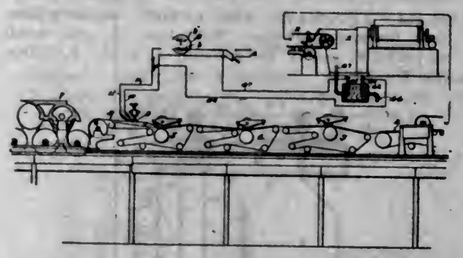
1,623,433. LAWN MOWER. HERBERT B. NEWTON, Brookline, Mass. Filed Nov. 7, 1925. Serial No. 67,567. 11 Claims. (Cl. 56—254.)



1. A lawn mower comprising a driven axle, spider arms fixed to and projecting laterally therefrom and provided with keepers at their outer ends, the arms being arranged in pairs, and resilient blades having keyhole slots in their end portions adapted to receive the keepers when the blades are moved sidewise upon the arms to an abnormal inoperative position, and to be interlocked with the keepers by edgewise swinging movements of the blades to normal operative positions, one arm of each pair having a different angular arrangement from the other, causing a spiral formation of the blade engaged therewith.

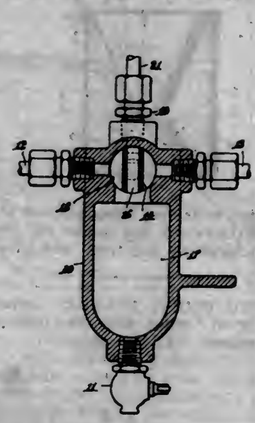
1,623,434. PIPE-WELDING APPARATUS. FRANK P. OFNER and WALTER H. NOURSE, Portland, Oreg. Filed Apr. 28, 1926. Serial No. 105,243. 8 Claims. (Cl. 219—6.)



1. In means for welding pipe sections together and in combination, means for moving pipe sections longitudinally, hollow cooled rolls disposed below the lower and upper contiguous edges of the pipe sections, and electrodes disposed above the lower and upper contiguous edges of the pipe sections.

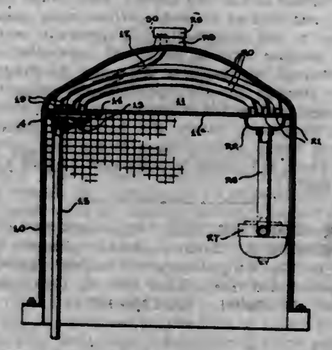
1,623,435. MOTION-PICTURE PROJECTOR. FREDERICK T. O'GRADY, Flushing, N. Y., assignor to Helen Vogt O'Grady, Flushing, N. Y. Filed May 18, 1923. Serial No. 639,844. 17 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.4.)

1. In a motion picture projector, the combination of a rotatable color filter carrier rotatably mounted on and driven from the shutter shaft of the projector and having two diametrically opposed light filters of different color thereon, and means for synchronizing said filters with a film having alternate images of two different color values corresponding with the color values of the filters while the projector is in operation.



1,623,436. MOISTURE-TESTING MEANS FOR PAPER-MAKING MACHINES. FRANK A. PESCHL, Jackson Heights, N. Y., assignor to International Paper Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed June 22, 1926. Serial No. 117,662. 18 Claims. (Cl. 92—38.)

1. In a paper making machine, the combination of means for supporting the traveling paper web, a contactor member provided with spaced contact surfaces insulated from each other, means for supporting said member in fixed relation to the travel of the web and with said surfaces in contact therewith, whereby the web in its travel will sweep over said surfaces and keep them clean, an electric circuit including said contact surfaces, and an electric-current indicating instrument included in said circuit.



1,623,437. SEDIMENT COLLECTOR. WALTER B. POHLE, Lynn, Mass., assignor of one-third to Parker B. Haskell, Lynn, Mass., and one-third to Susan V. Russell, Chelsea, Mass. Filed Jan. 30, 1926. Serial No. 84,869. 6 Claims. (Cl. 210—57.)

1. A casing provided with alined inlet and outlet pipes; a pet cock at the bottom of said casing; a flat sided member in said casing between said pipes rotatable about alined trunnions disposed in the side walls of said casing and having a passage therethrough adapted to be alined with said pipes, the flat sides of said member being separated from the ends of said pipes under normal conditions; and means whereby the sediment may be removed from the bottom of said casing.

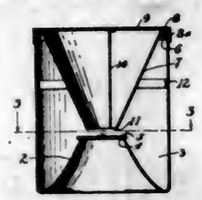
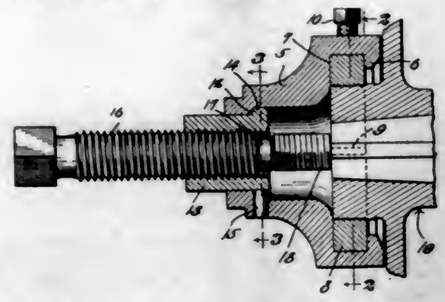
1,623,438. AIR HEATER AND MOISTENER FOR CARBURETORS. WILLARD J. PAIESTLEY, South Sioux City, Nebr. Filed Mar. 6, 1926. Serial No. 92,898. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—25.)



1. A device of the character described comprising in combination, a radiator provided with an upper header, an air moistening compartment located below the upper header and connected with the usual overflow pipe of said radiator, an air chamber sealed to the bottom of the header, a plurality of tubes connecting the air moistener with the air chamber, said air moistener being provided with a passage for the admission of air to the air moistener, a carburetor, and a tube connecting the air chamber with the carburetor.

1,623,439. ANT TRAP. WILLIAM EDWARD RAWLINGS, Santa Clara County, Calif. Filed Sept. 7, 1926. Serial No. 134,089. 2 Claims. (Cl. 43—107.)



1. An ant trap comprising a chamber having a mirror mounted therein, means providing a path of travel for ants suspended in opposed and spaced relation to the reflecting surface of said mirror but closely approaching the same, the gap so formed being adapted to permit the passage of ants thereover and means for closing off all other paths of travel to and from said chamber.

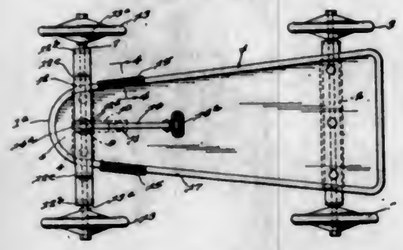
1,623,440. AUTO WHEEL PULLER. JOSEPH V. RAY, Greensboro, N. C. Filed June 29, 1926. Serial No. 119,387. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—85.)

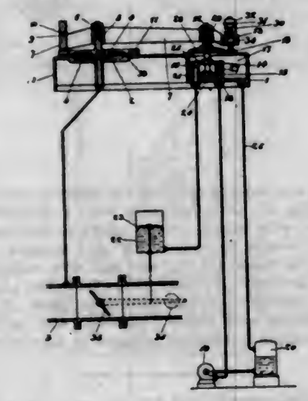
1. In a wheel puller, a rectangular body portion having a flange formed at one end thereof, said flange defining a guideway, one edge of the body portion being open to permit access to the body portion, a removable rectangular threaded member split to permit of expansion and contraction thereof, adapted to be slid under the flange, means extending through the body portion and contacting with the rectangular threaded member to cause the rectangular threaded member to clamp the hub of a wheel to be pulled, and means cooperating with the body portion and axle on which the wheel is positioned to pull the wheel from its shaft.

1,623,441. FUEL HEATER FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. HARRY E. RHOADS, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 10, 1919. Serial No. 276,124. 11 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)



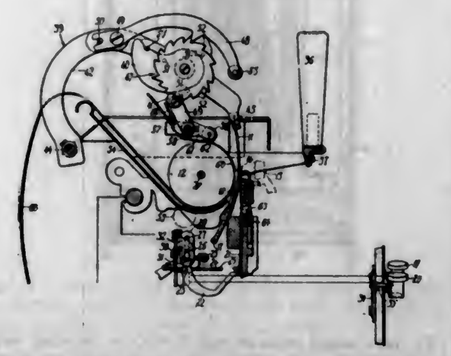
1. In a fuel vaporizing device, an exhaust pipe, a fuel inlet conduit having two branches each partially surrounding said exhaust pipe, one being arranged to traverse a greater portion of the exhaust pipe than the other, whereby to provide passages of different vaporizing power, said conduit being so shaped as to cause the heavier particles of the fuel by centrifugal action to traverse the passage having the greater vaporizing power when suction is produced in said passages.

1,623,442. BUILDING BLOCK. ELLIS ROBERTS, East Palestine, Ohio. Filed June 22, 1925. Serial No. 38,921. 2 Claims. (Cl. 106—24.)



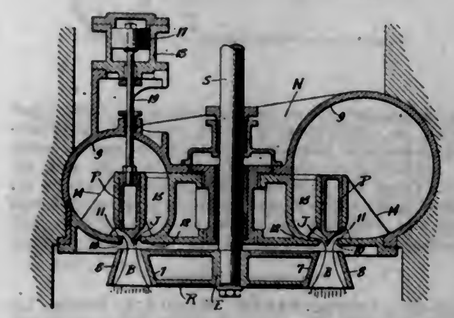
2. A block comprising a mixture of about two parts of crushed burnt slate, one part wood saw dust, and one part of Portland cement and water, and a small amount of calcium stearate.

1,623,443. COASTER WAGON. WILLIAM M. SHEWAY, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 26, 1925. Serial No. 64,962. 6 Claims. (Cl. 280—87.5.)



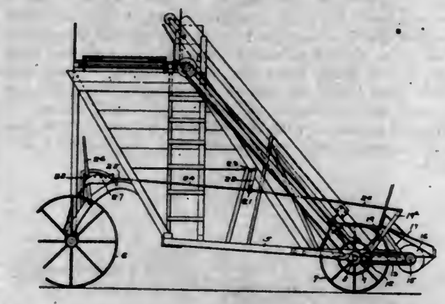
2. In a wagon of the character stated, a body adapted for use as a seat when coasting, a rear axle and wheels mounted thereon supporting the rearward portion of the body, a front axle connected to the forward portion of the body for turning movement about a vertical axis at the transverse center of the forward portion of the body, wheels mounted on the front axle adjacent the ends thereof, and a bow having its arms mounted on the front axle at opposite sides of and remote from the axis of turning movement of said front axle, the bow being freely movable about the front axle and of a height and width to extend over and about the forward portion of the body when the bow is in raised position, the width of the bow being sufficiently greater than the width of the forward portion of the body to permit turning of the front axle by means of the bow when it is in raised position for steering purposes.

1,623,444. AUTOMATIC REGULATOR. ARVID MARTIN SJÖÖ, Stockholm, Sweden. Filed June 13, 1923, Serial No. 645,218, and in Sweden July 4, 1922. 5 Claims. (Cl. 50—10.)



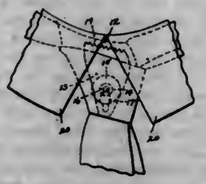
3. In an automatic regulating device, the combination of a relay member, a regulating member, a fluid motor connected with and actuating the regulating member, a balanced two-seated outlet valve having a casing and means for causing a fluid to flow through the outlet valve casing to the fluid motor, said means always maintaining an open communication through the balanced valve casing to the fluid motor, the balanced valve operating to reduce the pressure within its casing and thereby control the pressure transmitted to the fluid motor for operating the regulating member.

1,623,445. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. JESSE A. B. SMITH, Stamford, Conn., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 27, 1925. Serial No. 11,952. 9 Claims. (Cl. 197—135.)



1. In a front-strike stencil-card typing machine, the combination with a platen, of a liftable overhead frame, a carriage for said platen and frame, a card-holding frame connected at its top end to the front of said overhead frame and suspended in front of the platen and having side and bottom gages for a card, and a guard erected upon the framework of the machine and extending along the platen and confining said card-holding frame between the guard and the platen, and means for elevating said overhead frame step by step together with said card-holding frame, the latter being confined by said guard during all elevating and lowering movements of said overhead frame.

1,623,446. IMPULSE TURBINE. HARVEY BIRCHARD TAYLOR, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Nov. 20, 1920. Serial No. 425,318. 44 Claims. (Cl. 253—154.)

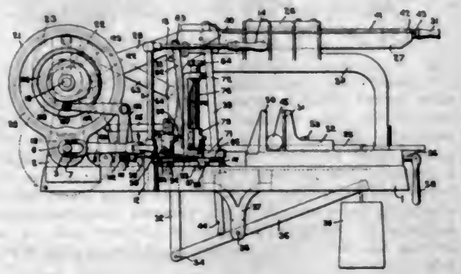


1. An impulse turbine having a runner provided with a circular series of buckets and means forming an inlet passage having an annular orifice for directing an axially progressing continuous circular jet against all of said buckets simultaneously.

1,623,447. HAY LOADER. JOHN G. TAYLOR and HIRAM STOKER, Lovelock, Nev. Filed June 18, 1924. Serial No. 720,849. 1 Claim. (Cl. 56—358.)

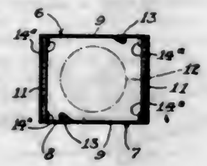
A hay loader comprising a main supporting frame, a main slatted cylinder, an auxiliary slatted cylinder to the rear of the main cylinder, a supporting frame for the auxiliary cylinder, a pair of rods attached to the last named frame for elevating said auxiliary slatted cylinder, a swinging bar extending from side to side of the hay loader and hung from the main supporting frame and to which the forward ends of the rods are connected, cables attached to the outer portions of said bar and an operating rod disposed in advance of said bar and to which said cables are attached.

1,623,448. KNOT SUPPORTER FOR FOUR-IN-HAND NECKTIES. FRED I. THAYER, Farmington, N. H. Filed Dec. 29, 1926. Serial No. 157,680. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—56.)



1. A four-in-hand necktie knot-supporter composed of an oblong piece of sheet material having a slotted end portion formed to engage and be supported by a collar-button shank, and an opposite end portion having a knot-engaging edge adapted to bear on the inner surface of the fold constituting the top of the knot as formed by the wearer, the length of the supporter being such that when its slotted end portion is engaged with a collar-button shank, the knot-engaging edge is adapted to confine said top in the end portions of the fold of a turn-down collar engaged with the button, the supporter being adapted also to support said end portions when the collar is of soft construction, the supporter, when in use, being located in the inner side of the knot without adding appreciably to the thickness of the knot from the rear to the front thereof.

1,623,449. METAL-CUTTING MACHINE. ARTHUR GRAHAM THOMPSON, New York, N. Y., and LINUS K. SPRAGUE, New Haven, Conn., assignors to The Henry G. Thompson & Son Company, New Haven, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Nov. 17, 1924. Serial No. 750,285. 17 Claims. (Cl. 29—73.)



1. A metal cutting machine comprising a work support, a saw blade having an edge provided with teeth and with gullets intermediate the successive teeth of sufficient capacity to permit the coiling therein of strips of metal cut from the stock by the respective teeth throughout the cutting field, means for reciprocating the saw blade to give the cutting stroke and a return stroke in a path above the path of the cutting stroke, and means acting during the cutting stroke continuously and positively to feed the saw blade relatively to the work support and to prevent greater than a predetermined depth of penetration, in which machine the speed of the saw during the cutting stroke, the feeding movement thereof, the resistive properties of the stock being cut, the maximum cutting field of the stock being cut and the capacity of the gullets of the saw are correlated to cause each tooth during its cutting engagement with the stock to cut metal therefrom of a maximum bulk not greater than the capacity of a gullet.

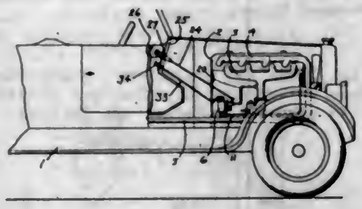
8. A metal cutting machine comprising a supporting bed, a saw frame vertically and longitudinally movable with respect to the bed, a saw blade mounted in the frame, means for longitudinally reciprocating the saw frame to give alternating cutting and return strokes to the saw blade, a feed screw, means for positively rotating said feed screw continuously during the cutting stroke, a nut cooperating with the feed screw and releasable therefrom, a connection between the nut and the saw frame whereby the rotation of the feed screw will feed said saw frame relatively to the supporting bed, and means for automatically disengaging the nut from said screw at a predetermined point during the feeding operation.

1,623,450. AUTOMOBILE SIGNAL DEVICE. LOUIS VAN GALE, Astoria, N. Y. Filed Jan. 24, 1923. Serial No. 614,529. 5 Claims. (Cl. 40—132.)



3. In an automobile signal case a plurality of sectional elements each consisting of a rectangular shaped box adapted to register one on the top of the other, each sectional element having flush top and bottom flat surfaces, said boxes each comprising two flat-sided stamped metal parts each of identical cross-section with interengaging joints inwardly projecting on each section, and means in said signal box for locking said plurality of elements together in fixed engagement.

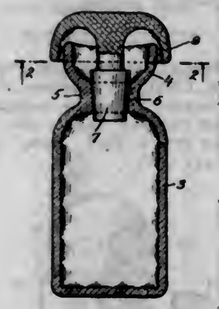
1,623,451. PHONOGRAPH. IGNATIUS J. VETTER, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 11, 1923. Serial No. 662,031. 16 Claims. (Cl. 274—2.)

11. In a sound transmitting device, an amplifier comprising a rack of sound boards for receiving and amplifying sounds, a sound reflector positioned adjacent an end of said amplifier, a resonator, means connecting said amplifier and resonator in sound vibrative connection, said means extending through said reflector.

1,623,452. VAPORIZER. JARVIS SHERMAN WIGHT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Nov. 30, 1921. Serial No. 518,746. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—25.)

1. A vaporizer for an internal combustion engine, comprising in combination, a water supply, an automatic valve controlling said water supply, an air supply, means for vaporizing the water and mixing the air with the water vapor, an outlet for supplying said mixture to the engine intake manifold, and means cooperating with said valve for supplying an excess of moisture from said vaporizer to said outlet in the form of globules or spray.

1,623,453. UNDERREAMER. WILLIAM R. WILSON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 13, 1925. Serial No. 68,810. 4 Claims. (Cl. 255—74.)



1. In an under-reamer, a shank formed with a transverse slot, a pair of cutters arranged in said slot and slidably supported therein, a slide-bar carried by said shank and interposed between said cutters, oppositely inclined ledges on said slide-bar adapted to engage the lower end portions of said cutters, protuberances on said slide-bar engageable with the upper end portions of said cutters, said ledges and protuberances operable on longitudinal movement of said slide-bar to move the cutters outwardly at their upper and lower ends, and means for limiting outward movement of the cutters.

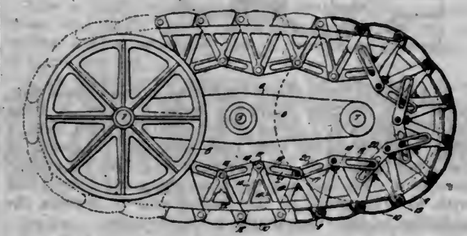
1,623,454. EYEWASH BOTTLE. PETER M. WILSON, Niagara Falls, N. Y. Filed Aug. 18, 1925. Serial No. 50,909. 1 Claim. (Cl. 128—249.)

An eye-wash bottle comprising a bottle portion adapted to contain a portion of the eye-wash, said bottle portion having formed integrally therewith an eye-cup portion having a rim of contour adapted to fit about an eye, the interior of the eye-cup portion having a passage communicating with the interior of the bottle portion, and a stopper adapted to tightly fit said passage, said stopper having a protective bell-shaped cover for the eye cup attached thereto.



1,623,455. AUTOMOBILE LOCK. HOWARD E. ANDREW, Vancouver, Wash. Filed Jan. 5, 1926. Serial No. 79,289. 2 Claims. (Cl. 70—129.)

2. An automobile lock adapted to be placed between the steering wheel and the steering wheel shaft of an automobile, said lock having an outer shell adapted to be secured to said shaft; a hub forming a part of the steering wheel, said hub having means for rotatably attaching same to said shell; a plurality of plungers radially mounted within said shell adapted to lock said hub to said shell when projected; a cam for moving said plungers radially simultaneously; and means for locking said cam against rotation.

1,623,456. VEHICLE. ISAAC H. ATHEY, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Athey Truss Wheel Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 1, 1923. Serial No. 616,404. 5 Claims. (Cl. 305—10.)

1. A track chain for a vehicle comprising a plurality of shoes, each having a tread member, the edges of the adjacent tread members being pivotally connected, a truss arm extending inwardly from each side of each end of said shoes, said arms converging toward each other and being secured together at their inner ends, the arms on alternate shoes being shorter than the arms on the other shoes, a horizontally extending pivot pin carried by the inner ends of the truss arms of each shoe, and truss links connecting the pin of each shoe with the pins of the adjacent shoes, said links having longitudinally extending slots formed therein for receiving the pins on the shorter truss arms.

1. A track chain formed of a plurality of shoes, each comprising a tread portion having a pair of spaced lugs projecting from one side thereof for receiving a second pair of spaced apart lugs on the adjacent side of the next adjacent shoe, pintles pivotally connecting the lugs of adjacent shoes, a V-shaped member comprising two converging truss arms, one of which ends in a single bearing block for receiving the pintle on one side of the shoe, and the other of which ends in a pair of spaced bearing blocks through which the pintle on the opposite side of the shoe passes, said last named bearing blocks being spaced apart for receiving the single bearing block of an adjacent shoe, a cross head at the juncture of said arms, a pin carried by said cross head and having its ends projecting therefrom, and a truss chain connecting the corresponding ends of said pins.

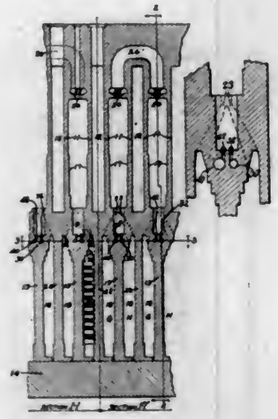
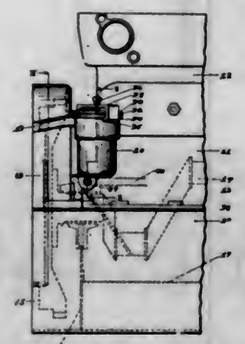
1,623,458. VEHICLE. ISAAC H. ATHEY, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Athey Truss Wheel Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 1, 1923. Serial No. 616,407. 9 Claims. (Cl. 305—10.)



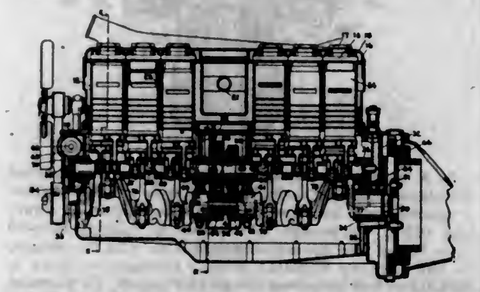
7. A vehicle track chain comprising a tread chain composed of a pivotally connected series of shoes, a truss chain composed of a series of pivotally connected links, a truss arm associated with each shoe and connected to the truss chain, and a spring encircling each connection between a truss arm and the truss chain and cooperating with both to assist in the folding and to cushion the unfolding of the truss chain.

1,623,459. MILK BOTTLE. OSCAR H. BAKER, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 28, 1925. Serial No. 12,216. 3 Claims. (Cl. 215—31.)



1. A milk bottle having indicia thereon identifying a certain milk, and provided with indicating means on the bottle located at, and indicating, the proper location of the cream line for the particular milk identified by the indicia, whereby the cream line of any therein contained milk may be compared with the indicated cream line of the particular milk identified by the indicia.

1,623,460. COMBINATION OVEN. JOSEPH BECKER, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to The Koppers Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 19, 1925. Serial No. 51,120. 15 Claims. (Cl. 202—9.)

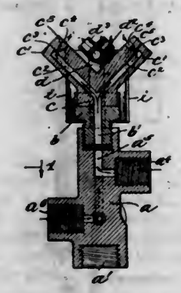


1. In a coke oven, in combination: a heat treating chamber; a flued heating wall adjacent thereto; a plurality of channels proportioned for supplying gases of different heats of combustion respectively to the planes of said flued heating wall; and regenerators communicating with the flues of said flued heating wall independently of said channels for preheating the air of combustion when at least one of said channels is connected to feed gas to the flues of the flued heating wall and for separately preheating the gas and air of combustion when a gas whose operation is improved by preheating is employed; substantially as specified.

1,623,461. LUBRICATION SYSTEM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. EDWARD H. BELDEN, Toledo, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 1, 1917. Serial No. 194,182. 6 Claims. (Cl. 184—11.)

1. In an internal combustion engine, the combination of a crank-case, a crank-shaft journaled therein, a fly-wheel on said crank-shaft, an integral member comprising in part a casing for said fly-wheel and a bearing for said shaft and forming an oil reservoir having a passage leading to said casing and having a passage leading to said bearing, and a baffle whereby oil thrown from said fly-wheel is directed into said reservoir and from thence to said bearing.

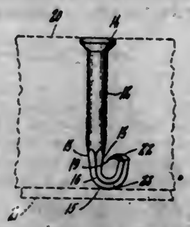
1,623,462. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. EDWARD H. BELDEN, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Mar. 5, 1921. Serial No. 449,715. 13 Claims. (Cl. 123—195.)



9. In an explosive engine, a crank casing having lubricating passageways formed therein, cylinders carried by the casing provided with intake and exhaust ports, pistons within the cylinders, valves for controlling said ports, a crank shaft journaled in the casing and operatively connected with said pistons, said crank shaft having passageways therein leading to its several bearings and communicating with the first mentioned passageways, an eccentric shaft journaled in the casing and operatively connected with said valves, driving means connecting said shafts at their centers, means for forcing lubricating material through said passageways to the bearings of said shafts, and a spring pressed outlet valve controlling an outlet passageway leading from said crank shaft and located to discharge lubricating material upon said driving mechanism when the valve is open.

1,623,463. INCLINOMETER. CASSIUS M. COLLINS, Bakersfield, Calif. Filed Apr. 1, 1926. Serial No. 99,099. 1 Claim. (Cl. 33—215.)

An inclinometer comprising a face plate having a forwardly bowed portion shaped to correspond to a section of a cylinder and formed with a view opening, an indicator spanning said opening, a yoke of substantially U-shaped form disposed behind said face plate and having its ends bent laterally and secured to said face plate, said yoke being disposed in a plane at right angles to the plane of said face plate and having in its arms bearing openings, a wheel disposed between the arms of said yoke and having a shaft the ends of which engage and project through the bearing openings in the arms of the yoke, collars fixed on the projecting ends of said shaft, said wheel having its peripheral portion disposed at and close to the rear side of the forwardly bowed portion of said face plate, said peripheral portion of the wheel being provided with degree designations, and a weight arranged eccentrically on said wheel.



1,623,464. GAS JET AND MEANS FOR IGNITING SAME. ARTHUR V. CONOVER, New York, N. Y., assignor to Interflash Signal Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 11, 1926. Serial No. 108,239. 11 Claims. (Cl. 67—16.)

2. In a burner supplying gas for combustion in a single flame, a plurality of jets, means for causing the jets to impinge against each other, and a plurality of pilot lights to ignite the jets.

3. In a burner for supplying gas for combustion in a single flame, a burner fixture, burners carried by the fixture, means for supplying gas to the burners through the fixture, a plurality of pilot light burners carried by the fixture, and means for supplying gas to the lights through said fixture.

1,623,465. CLINCHING WIRE NAIL. GEORGE A. CURTIS, Framingham, Mass. Filed July 27, 1926. Serial No. 125,171. 1 Claim. (Cl. 85—10.)

A clinching wire nail comprising a headed shank portion whose diameter is determined by that of the wire, an inner clinching portion having relatively wide opposite sides and narrow intermediate edges, so that it is oblong in cross section, and adapted to be bent in a predetermined direction, and an outer clinching portion adapted to be bent in the same direction as the inner portion, the cross sections of the said portions differing, so that the outer portion is more easily bent than the inner portion, the outer portion having flat opposite sides, which join the sides of the inner portion, and narrow intermediate edges, the sides and edges of the outer portion converging to a penetrating point coaxial with the nail, the said sides being parallel with each other in any cross section of the outer portion, so that resistance to clinching force is not greater at the longitudinal center than at the edges, and inclined toward each other from the inner portion to the point, so that the outer portion may be clinched with relative ease, the form and relative arrangement of the clinching portions being such that when the nail is driven against a clinching surface, the outer portion is first bent in a predetermined direction and forms an anchoring spur projecting abruptly from the unbent inner portion, and the inner portion is then bent to a less degree in the same direction, and forms a hook from which the spur projects to anchor the hook in the material with which it is engaged.

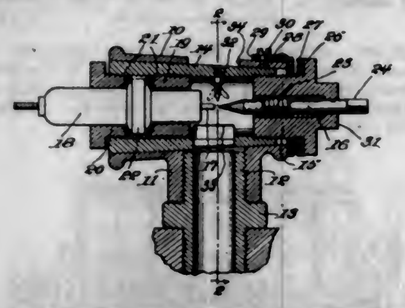
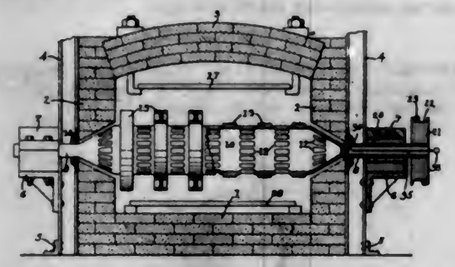
1,623,466. COIN-CONTROLLED MECHANISM. CARMELO DI MARTINO and EDWARD LINDQUIST, Paterson, N. J. Original application filed Jan. 13, 1926, Serial No. 80,940. Divided and this application filed May 27, 1926. Serial No. 112,008. 6 Claims. (Cl. 194—59.)



1. In a coin-controlled apparatus, means to be manually moved having a cam surface, a detent arranged to obstruct the movement of the first means beyond a predetermined limit and movable to clear the same, and means to receive and support a coin between said cam surface and detent in position for the cam surface to transmit motion to the detent on initial movement of the first means whereby to clear the detent therefrom and permit said movement to said limit.

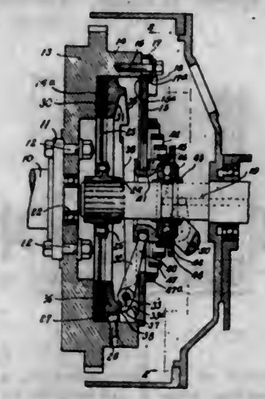
1,623,467. CORRUGATING MACHINE. DONALD V. EDWARDS, Troy, N. Y., assignor to Pittsburgh Transformer Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 7, 1924. Serial No. 718,426. 16 Claims. (Cl. 153—76.)



1. A corrugating machine comprising sheet clamping die means, movable means for supporting one of the same, two dies which are relatively movable to form half of each corrugation, one of said latter dies being carried by said supporting means and movable therewith, and a die which is movable to a position to cooperate with one of said first mentioned dies to form the other half of each corrugation.

1,623,468. SPARK PLUG. LUTHER S. ELLETT, Milburn, Okla. Filed Mar. 12, 1925. Serial No. 15,064. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—169.)

1. A spark plug comprising a body portion tapered toward one end and having an opening in one side thereof, a tapered sleeve arranged within the body for both rotary and sliding movements, and having an opening adapted to be moved into and out of registration with the opening in said body, an insulated member arranged centrally in said sleeve and supported at one end thereof, an electrode projecting from said insulating member, an additional electrode supported in spaced relation to the first mentioned electrode, a nut threaded into one end of the sleeve, a flange formed on said nut, and a resilient washer secured to said body portion and including a plurality of convolutions interposed between one end of the body and said flange of the nut, whereby end thrust is exerted upon the sleeve for holding it frictionally in proper position within the body.



1,623,469. METALLURGICAL FURNACE. FRANK A. FAHRENWALD, Chicago Heights, Ill. Filed Oct. 12, 1925. Serial No. 61,989. 19 Claims. (Cl. 263—6.)

1. In a metallurgical furnace, a plurality of parallel horizontal one piece rolls traversing the furnace chamber and having coaxial shafts at opposite ends projecting through the furnace walls, each roll being hollow and larger than its shafts, and means for rotating all said rolls in the same direction at the same peripheral speed, said shafts having no passageway therethrough.

1,623,470. FRICTION CLUTCH. DAVID E. GAMBLE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Borg & Beck Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Nov. 28, 1923. Serial No. 677,385. 9 Claims. (Cl. 192—68.)

3. In combination, a driving shaft having a flywheel thereon, a driven shaft disposed co-axially with said driving shaft, a plate secured to said flywheel and being apertured for the passage of said driven shaft therethrough, friction elements disposed between said flywheel and said plate and adapted to co-operate with said flywheel and said driven shaft to operatively connect said shafts, radially disposed levers pivoted on the inner surface of said plate and controlling said friction elements, a collar slidable on said driven shaft and engaging said levers to operate the same, a thrust ring having cammed thrust seats for cooperation with said levers, and a spring disposed on the outer surface of said plate and between said plate and said collar, for the purpose set forth.

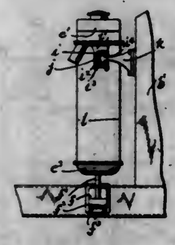
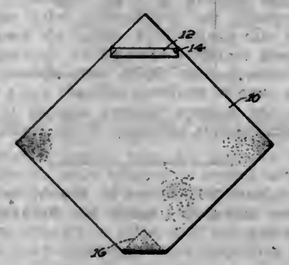
1,623,471. AUTOMOBILE BUMPER. OSCAR H. GOETZ, Springfield, Mass., assignor to American Chain Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 24, 1925. Serial No. 39,194. 14 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

1. An automobile bumper comprising as a main element a bumper bar constructed in a single horizontal plane, having a front impact portion with loop ends and a rear attaching portion formed in continuation of said loop ends; said bumper comprising also an auxiliary impact bar supported in parallelism with the impact portion of said main bar by cross ties extending from said main bar.



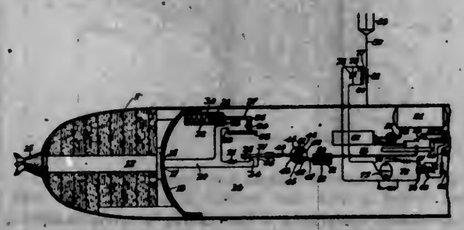
1,623,472. INDICATING DEVICE. ERVING R. GURNEY, Beechhurst, N. Y., assignor to International Motor Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 23, 1924. Serial No. 727,724. 4 Claims. (Cl. 188—140.)



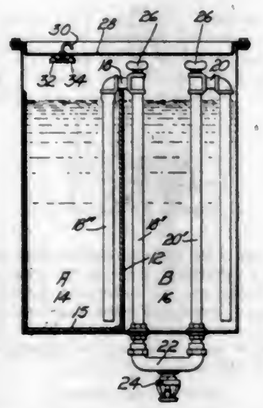
4. In combination, braking means, means to actuate the same, and means observable from an actuating position to determine the effectiveness of the braking means.

1,623,473. CUSHION SUPPORT FOR RADIATORS. ERVING R. GURNEY, Beechhurst, N. Y., assignor to International Motor Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Original application filed Sept. 5, 1924, Serial No. 736,007. Divided and this application filed May 4, 1925. Serial No. 27,707. 1 Claim. (Cl. 180—68.)

In a motor vehicle, in combination with the chassis frame having a vertical dash supported thereon and a vertical radiator comprising upper and spaced lower tank sections and tubes therebetween, housings carried with the lower tank sections, respectively, a housing carried with the upper tank, said housings being formed with an opening in one side thereof, respectively, arms carried with the chassis frame and extending transversely thereof into the housings on the lower tanks through the openings therein, an arm carried rigidly with the vertical dash above the horizontal plane of the first named arms and perpendicular to the transverse vertical plane of said first-named arms and extending into the housing carried with the upper tank, and blocks of yielding non-metallic material carried within the housing and engaging the ends of the arms.

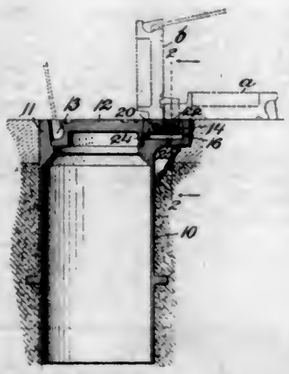


1,623,474. ROOFING. WILLIAM E. HALE, Walpole, Mass., assignor to Bird & Son, Inc., East Walpole, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 2, 1924. Serial No. 710,629. 4 Claims. (Cl. 108—8.)



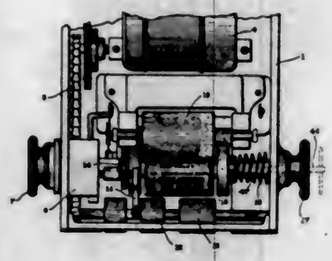
1. As an article of manufacture, a shingle formed from pliable slate-surfaced fibrous material having but one corner portion bent under, said shingle having permanently affixed upon its upper surface adjacent the diagonally opposite corner means adapted to hold down the bent-under portion of a similar overlying shingle.

1,623,475. DETONATOR-CONTROL MECHANISM. JOHN HAYS HAMMOND, Jr., Gloucester, Mass. Filed Dec. 23, 1918, Serial No. 267,994. Renewed Aug. 24, 1926. 8 Claims. (Cl. 102—3.)



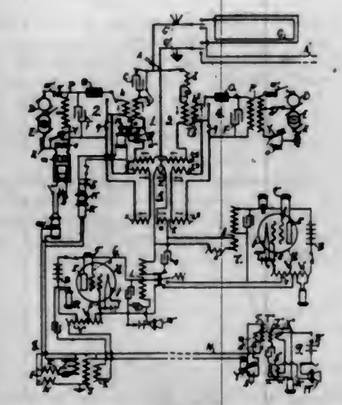
7. A torpedo having in combination a detonator, means actuated by impact of the torpedo for firing said detonator, and means operated by radiant energy for rendering said control effective.

1,623,476. AUTOMATIC MIXING AND DISCHARGING SYSTEM FOR PLURAL LIQUIDS. HERBERT E. HOFFMAN, Providence, R. I., assignor to General Fire Extinguisher Company, Providence, R. I., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 27, 1924. Serial No. 746,036. 5 Claims. (Cl. 169—26.)



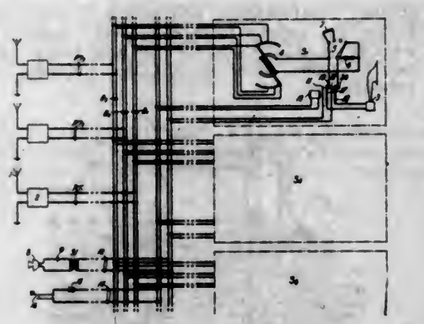
1. An automatic mixing and discharging system for plural liquids adapted to re-act chemically upon each other comprising the combination, with separate containers for said liquids, of a siphon for discharging the liquid of each container having their discharge legs preliminarily primed with liquid, said siphons being connected in a common discharge passage; and a single valve controlling the common passage adapted to be opened to effect simultaneous discharge of the plural liquids.

1,623,477. CLOSURE. PAUL P. HORNI, Newark, N. J. Filed Nov. 27, 1922. Serial No. 603,440. 1 Claim. (Cl. 94—34.)



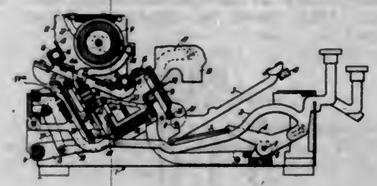
A closure comprising a rim having a recess therein a U-shaped link in the recess and hinged to the rim, a lid having a tongue fitting the link and hinged thereto, and a bar on the link and adapted to engage the under side of the lid to prevent the link alone swinging upward while the lid is down.

1,623,478. PRINTING-DIE STRUCTURE. RAYMOND F. JAHN, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to International Postal Supply Company, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Aug. 20, 1925. Serial No. 51,485. 27 Claims. (Cl. 101—109.)



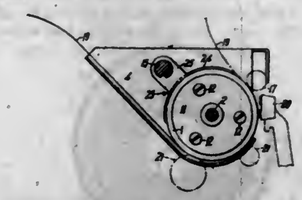
2. In a device of the class described, a hub having laterally extending arms, a cap adapted to be attached to the outer ends of said arms, a carrier movably mounted between the hub and cap, a cam shaft supported between the hub and cap, a cam on the cam shaft at each end of the carrier and adapted to act on the carrier to move the same, a series of type blocks connected together so the series may be rotated on the carrier and a plurality of groups of said series of blocks supported by the carrier.

1,623,479. MULTIPLEX SIGNALING. AUGUST J. KLONDCK, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 31, 1920. Serial No. 370,254. 7 Claims. (Cl. 179—15.)



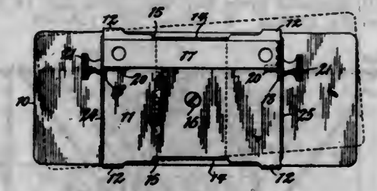
1. A system for signaling including two local circuits and apparatus for simultaneous operation, a system of conductors for common use by said local circuits, means for branching the latter to two independently tuned local branch circuits, means for inductively connecting each of said branch circuits with another of said two local circuits including a common transformer for both branch and local circuits and a separate transformer for each of said branch and local circuits, and means for proportioning the number of turns and the magnetic relation of the coils upon said transformers so as to produce equal but opposed energizations of one of said local circuits upon the other of said local circuits.

1,623,480. TRANSMISSION SYSTEM. JOHN J. KUHN, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 28, 1925. Serial No. 12,249. 5 Claims. (Cl. 179—1.)



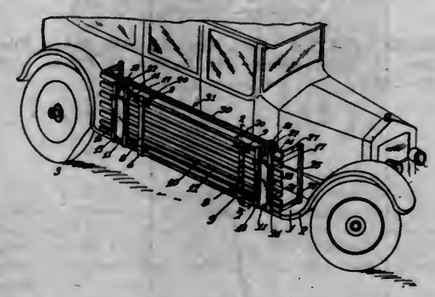
1. In a program distributing system, a central station, an incoming program trunk terminating thereat, a plurality of subscribers' stations each including a signal reproducing instrument, lines for connecting said reproducing instruments to said trunk, a signaling device at said central station, lines connecting said device to said subscribers' stations, and means at said subscribers' stations, remotely controlled from said central station, for simultaneously connecting said signal reproducing instruments and said signaling device.

1,623,481. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. ALFRED G. F. KUROWSKI, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 31, 1924. Serial No. 703,087. 7 Claims. (Cl. 197—91.)



1. In a typewriting machine, the combination of a carriage, letter-feeding mechanism for the carriage including an escapement-wheel and a stepping dog, a stop for limiting the letter-feeding movement of the stepping dog, a key, a pawl operable by depression of said key to engage and move the escapement-wheel, to back-space the carriage, an abutment engageable by said pawl for positively limiting the back-spacing movement of said pawl after the stepping dog has tripped over one tooth and assumed a position for engagement with the next successive tooth of the escapement-wheel, means for guiding said pawl against said abutment and also for forcing said pawl into frictional engagement with the escapement-wheel after the stepping dog has tripped to the aforesaid position, and means for releasing said pawl, thereby permitting the carriage-feeding mechanism to bring said escapement-wheel to stop position against said stepping dog.

1,623,482. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. ALFRED G. F. KUROWSKI, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 30, 1924. Serial No. 729,007. 9 Claims. (Cl. 197—147.)



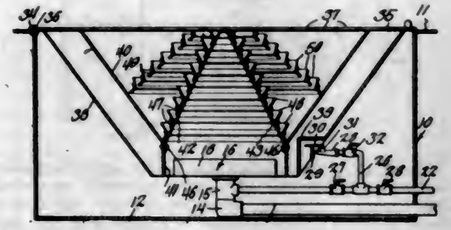
1. A noiseless typewriter platen, including a coreless body portion of sufficiently soft rubber for typing, and non-revoluble means exterior of said body portion and movable laterally therewith, which permits typing on said body portion, and renders a sufficiently rigid support to prevent bodily bending of the platen by said typing.

1,623,483. MIRROR BRACKET. WILLIAM LA HODNY, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Standard Mirror Company, Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 6, 1923. Serial No. 661,128. 2 Claims. (Cl. 45—97.)

1. A mirror bracket comprising a main supporting plate provided at its opposite edges with forwardly projecting hooks adapted to engage over the opposite edges of a mirror, a presser plate adapted to engage with the rear side of the mirror and having flanges which project rearwardly away from the mirror and engage over opposite edges of the supporting plate, and means for adjusting said presser plate relatively to said supporting plate.

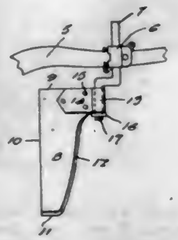
1,623,484. LUGGAGE CARRIER. JESSE LEE MCGAUGH, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 22, 1926. Serial No. 117,709. 4 Claims. (Cl. 224—29.)

1. A combined bench and luggage carrier comprising a seat structure having folding legs and a folded back hinged to the seat, bars having means to clamp same to the running board of an automobile, and means to secure the seat to said bars.



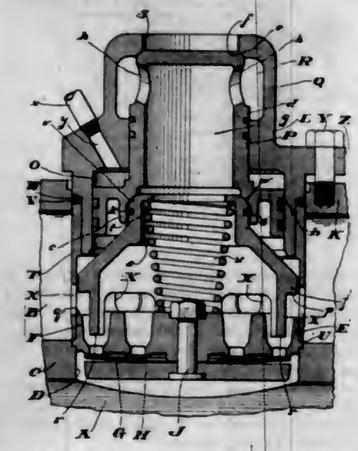
1,623,485. [WITHDRAWN.]

1,623,486. PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM PACKAGE. BERNARD H. MEYERING, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 24, 1924. Serial No. 728,035. 7 Claims. (Cl. 206—53.)



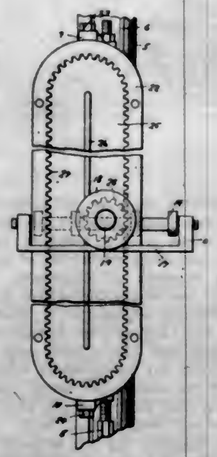
1. As an article of manufacture, a film package comprising a container, a reel therein having a fixed, definite position with respect thereto and nonrotatable with respect to the whole container, and a band wound on the reel and having one end fixedly held on the reel and the other end secured to the container.

1,623,487. GAS HEATER. ALBERT B. MILLER and WALTER H. KELLNER, Green Bay, Wis. Filed Apr. 14, 1926. Serial No. 102,014. 5 Claims. (Cl. 126—85.)



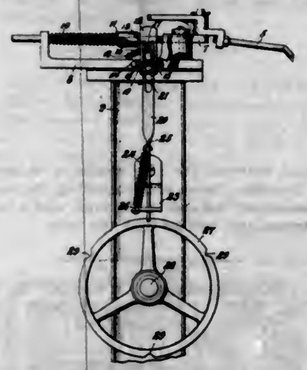
1. A heater of the character described, comprising a casing having integral bottom and side walls, an apertured cover resting upon the top edges of said side walls and covering said casing, a heater element within the lower portion of said casing, and an inverted substantially frusto-conical body secured to the under side of said cover and extending into said casing to and surrounding said heater at its inner end.

1,623,488. COLTER. EMIL MORBERG, Oslo, Minn. Filed Jan. 23, 1926. Serial No. 83,270. 1 Claim. (Cl. 97—208.)



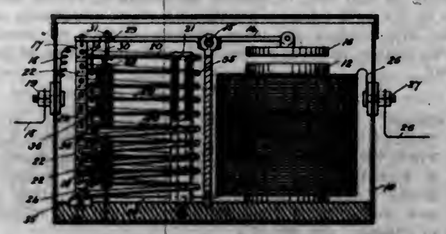
A colter of the class described designed for use on plows having a colter standard, comprising a blade body having an upper straight edge, a rear straight edge disposed at right angles to the upper straight edge, a bottom straight edge disposed at right angles to the rear straight edge and sharpened, and merging into a diagonally extending forward curved edge which is sharpened, and a strap merging from the upper forward portion of the blade body and bent to form a sleeve terminating in an extension riveted to the blade body, the upper edge of the strap being co-planer with the upper straight edge.

1,623,489. COMPRESSOR UNLOADER. JULIUS NAAB, Easton, Pa., assignor to Ingersoll-Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 14, 1926. Serial No. 154,714. 8 Claims. (Cl. 137—153.)



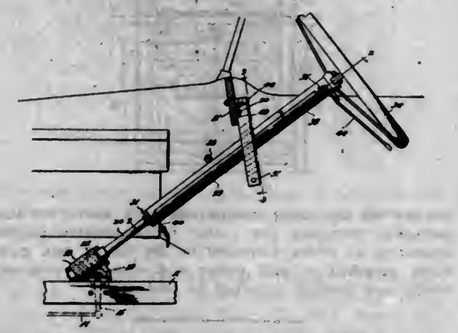
1. A compressor unloader comprising a valve plate and its seat adapted to lie in an aperture in the wall between a compressor cylinder and an inlet passage, an unloader cylinder over the plate valve, and means reciprocable in the unloader cylinder for preventing communication between the inlet passage and the compressor cylinder.

1,623,490. POWER-TRANSMISSION DEVICE FOR PUMPS. JOHN A. NITCHIE, Elm Creek, Nebr. Filed June 1, 1926. Serial No. 113,016. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—14.)



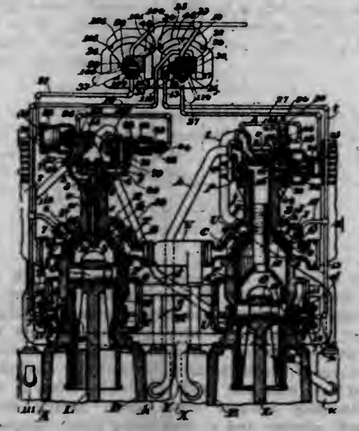
1. A power transmitting device including, in combination, a cylindrical casing having a longitudinal slot, a cylindrical slide member rockable and slidable in the casing, a pair of arms, one attached to each end of the slide member and projecting through the slot, a frame attached to the casing and extending laterally therefrom, a shaft journaled transversely in the frame, rollers on the shaft, a rack frame formed with a continuous internal rack and pivotally engaged at its ends with the arms and movable through the first mentioned frame, a plate secured to the rack frame and having a longitudinal rail extending in the rack frame and adapted to bear against the rollers, a pinion meshing with the rack and formed with a roller extension engaging the rail, a bearing on the first mentioned frame, a driving shaft journaled in the bearing and fixed to the pinion.

1,623,491. INTERMITTENT FEELER MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. ALPHONSE OUELLETTE, Fall River, Mass. Filed July 13, 1926. Serial No. 122,104. 4 Claims. (Cl. 139—270.)



1. In a feeler mechanism for looms, the combination of a feeler, a slide on which the feeler is mounted, a latch normally engaging the slide to hold the feeler in inoperative position, means for advancing the slide and feeler toward the bobbin when the latch is tripped, an ear projecting outwardly from the latch and having a slot therein, an upright bar with its upper end projecting through said slot and having an abutment thereon above the ear, and means for intermittently lowering the bar to cause the abutment to engage said ear and trip the latch, thereby permitting the feeler to be advanced toward the bobbin.

1,623,492. ELECTRIC-CURRENT REGULATOR. THEODORE P. PETERSON, Greeley, Nebr. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,293. 5 Claims. (Cl. 201—52.)

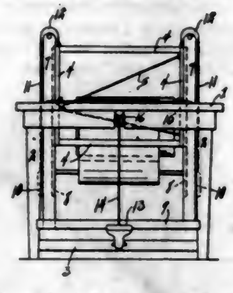


1. A variable resistor for an electric current regulator, comprising a helical coil, contact pieces secured one to each convolution of the coil and arranged one above another and normally short-circuiting the said convolutions, a stationary support arranged on the opposite side of the axis of the coil from the said contact pieces, insulated spring arms supporting the contact pieces from the said support, and means for separating the contact pieces one after another to constrain the current to pass around the convolutions pertaining to them.

1,623,493. ADJUSTABLE STEERING POST. COLUMBUS E. POSTLETHWAIT, Wallace, W. Va. Filed Dec. 28, 1926. Serial No. 157,589. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—80.)

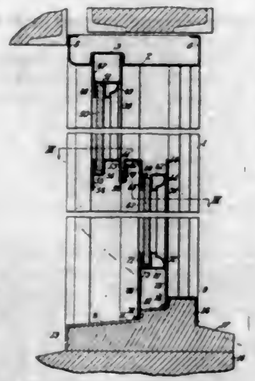
1. A steering post including a lineally adjustable shaft, means mounting said shaft for forward or rearward tilting adjustment, and a single means locking the shaft in lineally adjusted position as well as in tilted adjusted position.

1,623,494. CENTRALIZER INTERLOCKING CONTROL FOR MULTISTAGE COMPRESSORS. SNOWDEN B. REDFIELD, Easton, Pa., assignor to Ingersoll-Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 30, 1926. Serial No. 145,243. 9 Claims. (Cl. 230—32.)



1. In a multi-stage compressor, the combination of cylinders operating at different pressures, fluid actuated means for loading and unloading the cylinders, and means for selectively controlling the admission and exhaust of pressure fluid to and from said fluid actuated means.

1,623,495. PAPER CUTTER. WILLIAM B. REYNOLDS and WILLIAM ERNEST JACKSON, Fort Worth, Tex., assignors of one-tenth to Susanna Morgan, Greenville, Tex. Filed Apr. 2, 1925. Serial No. 20,063. 4 Claims. (Cl. 164—48.)



1. A paper cutter comprising a platform and a frame therefor, said platform having passage ways for a cutter, means for positioning paper to be drawn across said platform, a cutter movable vertically through said platform, a guide for said cutter in its vertical movements, a foot lever operatively connected to said cutter for moving the cutter downwardly, and means for automatically returning the cutter to inoperative position consisting of idlers journaled in the top of said guide, cords attached to said cutter and extended over said idlers, and weights attached to said cords.

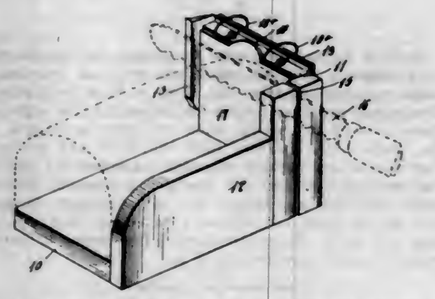
1,623,496. WINDOW FRAME. CHARLES RUPP, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to J. S. Thorn Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 20, 1922. Serial No. 562,325. 2 Claims. (Cl. 189—75.)

1. In a window frame, the combination with a jamb frame member formed of sheet metal including a hollow guide rail and a sash frame member including a resilient sheet metal member adapted to slide in said jamb member against said guide; of means constructed and arranged to substantially hermetically seal the joint between said sash and jamb members, including a laterally extending resilient sheet metal sealing flange on said sash member and a weathering strip, supported by said jamb member, having a laterally extending sealing flange, in inwardly spaced relation with said jamb and interengaged with said sealing flange on said sash member; said sealing flanges having surfaces in sliding contact in a plane transverse to the plane of said sash.



1,623,497. TREE-SHAKING DEVICE. WALTER F. RUBUP, Santa Ana, Calif. Filed Dec. 9, 1925. Serial No. 74,278. 1 Claim. (Cl. 56—328.)

A tree shaking device comprising in combination a rod, a socket formed of parallel curved side straps, the straps being spaced apart at their edges, the side straps having depending offset ends, the rod being secured to the said ends, leaving a wide space adjacent the offset part of the side straps, the socket having a web at the other end of the straps with an aperture therethrough, a hook having a straight stem extending through the aperture and between the side straps, a washer slidably engaging the side straps and encircling the stem, a nut screw threaded on the end of the stem and a compression spring between the washer and the web.

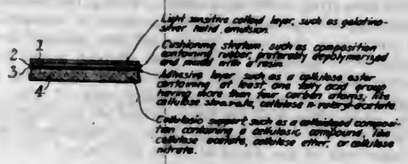
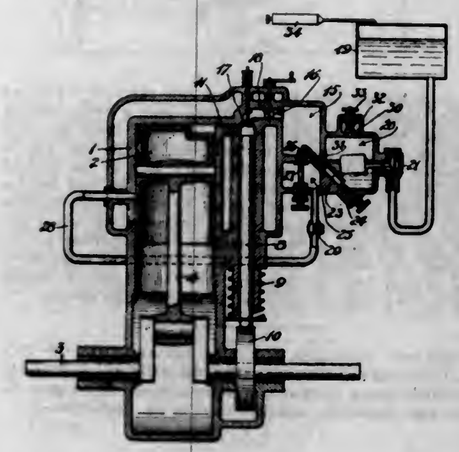
1,623,498. SLICING BOARD. GUSTAF E. SANDBECK, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 12, 1926. Serial No. 94,294. 3 Claims. (Cl. 146—150.)



1. A slicing appliance of the class described having a wall for abutment by the material to be cut, means to guide a knife in slicing the material, means operable relatively to said wall to control the thickness of the slice to be cut, said means constituting a plate, and means on the wall hinging the plate whereby it may be moved from against one side of the wall to the other side of the wall.

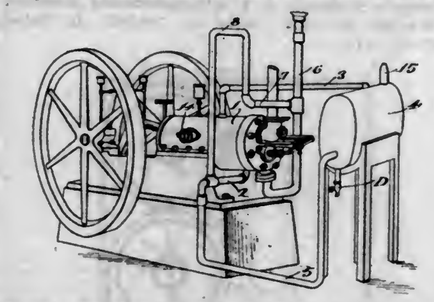
1,623,499. PHOTOGRAPHIC EMULSION AND MATERIAL AND PROCESS USED IN THE PREPARATION THEREOF. SAMUEL E. SHEPPARD and REUBEN F. PUNNETT, Rochester, N. Y., assignors to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 16, 1925. Serial No. 37,522. 11 Claims. (Cl. 95—7.)



1. A photographic emulsion comprising a colloid, particles of photographic silver salt suspended therein, and added sensitizing and reducing compounds upon which at least part of the light-sensitiveness of the emulsion depends, the sensitizing compound containing a divalent atom of the sulfur group directly joined by a double bond to a single metalloid atom, to which at least another group of atoms is attached.

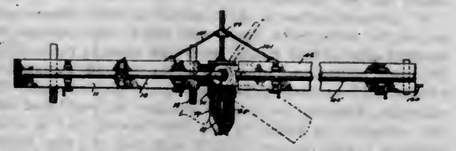
1,623,500. PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM AND BASE THEREFOR. SAMUEL E. SHEPPARD and STERLING S. SWEET, Rochester, N. Y., assignors to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 27, 1926. Serial No. 104,977. 34 Claims. (Cl. 95—9.)

1. A film comprising a photographic light-sensitive colloid layer, a flexible colloidized cellulosic supporting layer and a non-stripping elastic yieldable waterproof cushioning stratum between said layers and firmly attached to both of them.



1,623,501. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. BENJAMIN C. SMITH, Westfield, N. J., assignor to Standard Motor Construction Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 5, 1923. Serial No. 636,994. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—34.)

1. In an internal combustion engine, a working cylinder having an inlet and an exhaust outlet, said engine having a chamber alongside said cylinder for containing a quantity of liquid fuel in a finely divided state, a spraying device, a chamber adjacent thereto containing gas under pressure for operating the sprayer, said chamber being in communication with the interior of the working cylinder to derive pressure therefrom, a check valve for the passage providing said communication, a communicating passage between the first mentioned chamber and the interior of the working cylinder, and measuring and pressure feeding mechanism communicating with said communicating passage and operating to transfer a measured portion of the fuel supply in the first mentioned chamber from the latter into the working cylinder.



1,623,502. ENGINE. ELMER D. SMYSER, Fellows, Calif., assignor of one-half to Archie R. Fletcher, Breckenridge, Tex. Filed Oct. 19, 1923. Serial No. 669,550. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—175.)

1. The combination with an engine having a water circulating system comprising a water jacket, a water tank and water circulating piping between the water jacket and the tank, an engine exhaust pipe, a pipe to by-pass some of the exhaust gas into the water circulating system, and means in the exhaust pipe to introduce air into the exhaust pipe, the by-pass pipe and the water circulating system.

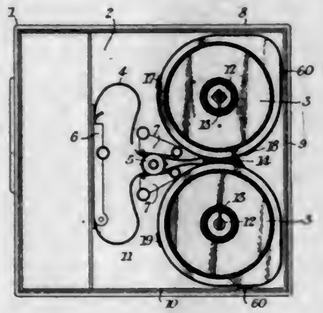
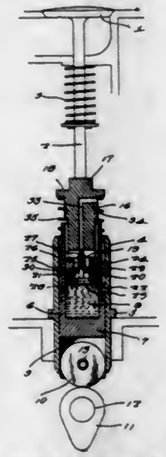
1,623,503. TORCH MECHANISM FOR WELDING MACHINES. CLIFTON L. STANCLIFF, Bakersfield, Calif. Original application filed May 17, 1923, Serial No. 639,685. Divided and this application filed Feb. 23, 1926. Serial No. 90,218. 3 Claims. (Cl. 263—2.)



1. In a device of the character described, a torch arrangement adapted to be introduced between two elements disposed in confronting relation, comprising an arm having a shaft supported therein, a disc supported at each end of the shaft and torch elements supported on the outside of the discs for heating the confronting faces of the first two elements.

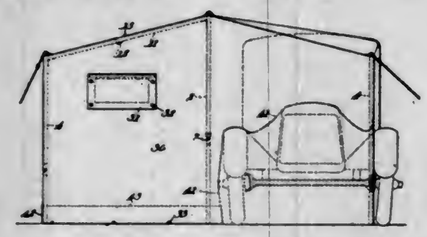
1,623,504. ATOMIZER. JACOB STRASS, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Larvex Corporation, Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 18, 1923. Serial No. 681,391. 7 Claims. (Cl. 103—188.)

1. In an atomizer, the combination of a tubular pump cylinder, a piston equipped with a flexible packing adapted to play in the cylinder and having a valve chamber, a tubular rod adapted to operate the piston, an inlet valve at the lower end of the cylinder, an outlet valve within the piston, and spreaders at each end of the cylinder for the flexible packing carried by the piston, all of said elements except the flexible packing being made of sheet metal.



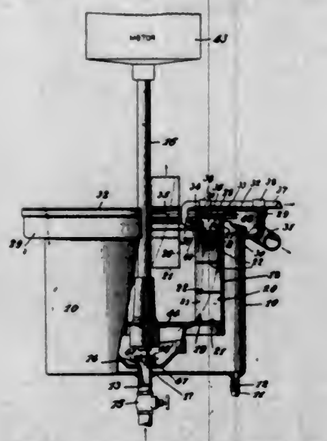
1,623,505. MOTION-PICTURE APPARATUS. JULIEN TESSIER, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 23, 1924. Serial No. 708,545. 12 Claims. (Cl. 88—17.)

1. A film magazine comprising a casing adapted to contain a roll of film and having a roller over which film may be led in either of two directions, and light trapped means on each side of said roller for guiding film between said roller and the exterior of the casing in either of two directions.



8. In combination with a motion picture camera comprising a casing with upper and lower rear corners, film feeding means, and means near said corners for supporting film magazines, film magazines having symmetrical extensions and each having symmetrically arranged film passages, whereby the magazines may be positioned with the extension in either of the two corners and in either position a film passage will be adjacent the film feeding means.

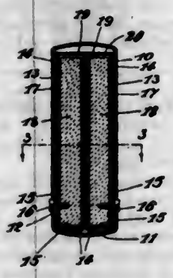
1,623,506. SELF-ADJUSTING VALVE LIFTER. BENJAMIN J. THOMAS, Shamokin, Pa. Filed Sept. 19, 1925. Serial No. 57,430. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—90.)



In combination, in a self-adjusting valve lifter with a spring pressed valve and its stem, and an actuating means, of a reciprocating cylinder interposed between the stem and said actuating means, a guide sleeve therefor, the lower portion of the cylinder being closed and providing a liquid receiving chamber, a reciprocatory plunger arranged in the upper portion of the cylinder, the upper end of the plunger having a head formed thereon adapted for engagement with the lower end of the valve stem, the lower portion of the plunger extending downwardly into the liquid contained in the chamber, said plunger having a vertical bore, the lower end thereof communicating with the chamber, the lower portion of said bore being enlarged and internally threaded, a flanged nut threaded in the threaded portion of said bore, said nut being provided with a central bore adapted for registry with the aforementioned bore, and the lower portion of the bore formed in said nut providing a valve seat, a valve cooperating with said bores, means for normally maintaining the valve in a closed position in engagement with said seat, the lower portion of the plunger being provided with openings in the sides thereof which communicate with the bore and a coil spring encircling the cylinder and the plunger, the upper end of the coil spring cooperating with the head formed on the upper end of the plunger for holding the latter in engagement with the lower end of the valve stem at all times.

1,623,507. FOLDING TENT. FRED E. THURTLE, Butte, Mont. Filed July 16, 1926. Serial No. 122,897. 2 Claims. (Cl. 135—1.)

1. A folding tent, for use as a side car tent for motor cars, comprising a folding frame, and a cover having a roof section, a side section extending from the roof section to the ground on one side of the car and a shorter side section extending part way to the ground for use on the other side of the car, an end section extending from the roof section to the ground, another end section partly covering and enclosing the other end of the car, and a floor attached to the bottom of the longer side section and the end sections and adapted to be carried over the running gear and hood or bonnet of the car and attached to the shorter side section.



1,623,508. PROCESS FOR THE SEPARATION OF LIQUID MIXTURES AND DEVICE SUITABLE THEREFOR. JOHN L. TUFTS, Westboro, Mass. Filed Apr. 25, 1923. Serial No. 634,508. 11 Claims. (Cl. 233—2.)

1. In a device for separating a mixture into specific gravity components, in combination, a stationary receptacle, a revoluble cage having imperforate sides within the stationary receptacle, means for revolving the cage, a plurality of removable collectors within the cage, means for introducing liquid mixtures into the lower portion of the cage during its revolution, liquid overflow means in the upper portion of the cage, an annular skimming ring carried within the cage positioned inwardly of the overflow means and a skimming member having an opening within the skimming ring, the skimming member extending outwardly of the cage.

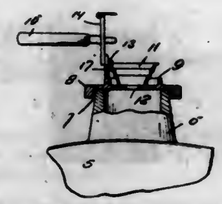
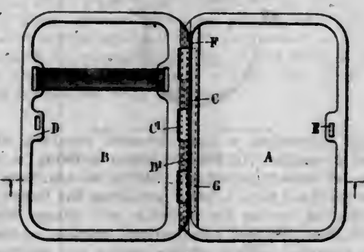
1,623,509. COSMETIC CONTAINER. VICTOR VIVAUDOU, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 6, 1923. Serial No. 630,274. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—56.)



In a cosmetic container, in combination, a casing having a plurality of longitudinal slots closed at the upper ends preventing the outward passage of pencil carriers, a plurality of pencil carriers in fixed position within the casing each carrier having a longitudinal slot in alignment with a casing slot, a longitudinally movable pencil base within each carrier, means carried by each base and passing through the aligned slots whereby the base may be moved longitudinally within the carrier, a cosmetic pencil fixedly attached to each base and a cover for the casing, the placement of which upon the casing will cause the pencils to be moved downwardly within the carriers.

1,623,510. FIRE EXTINGUISHER. ALBERT E. WAGGONER, Glenview, Ill., assignor to Geo. W. Diener Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 30, 1923. Serial No. 677,591. 2 Claims. (Cl. 116—114.)

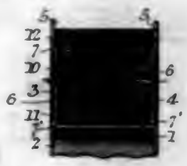


1. The combination with a chemical fire extinguisher adapted to become active upon inversion thereof, of a device for automatically indicating that the extinguisher has been tilted comprising an open top bottle containing a liquid, a cap for closing the top of said bottle, a one-piece substantially conical retainer having its upper margin held between the top of the bottle and the cap and forming with the latter a chamber, a solid soluble liquid coloring capsule in said chamber, said retainer having an opening formed in its apex and perforations adjacent its upper end, through which the liquid will pass when the extinguisher is inverted to circulate through the chamber and dissolve the capsule, and means for attaching said device to the extinguisher.

1,623,511. RADIATOR CAP. CLAUDE WEYANDT, Claysburg, Pa. Filed Oct. 20, 1925. Serial No. 63,649. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—86.)

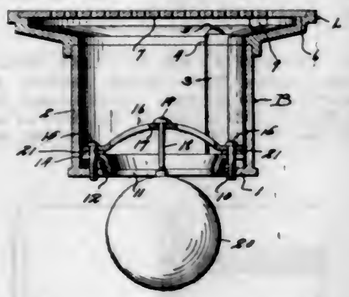
In a closure for radiator filling necks comprising a cap adapted for association with the filling neck, said cap having an opening in its top, a housing formed on the cap around said opening, an offset lug extending vertically from the rear intermediate portion of the housing, a collapsible funnel including a series of telescopic sections which are adapted for normal disposition within the housing around said opening, a cover for the housing, said cover being hingedly associated adjacent the rear edge of the intermediate portion thereof to the uppermost section of the collapsible funnel, the rear intermediate portion of the cover being adapted to rest on the upper edge of said lug when swung to an open position, and a weight carried by the cover and cooperating therewith for holding the collapsible funnel in its extended position.

1,623,512. CIGARETTE CASE AND LIKE CONTAINER. EDWARD CHARLES WEBB, London, England, assignor of one-half to George Henry Cowell, London, England. Filed May 14, 1924, Serial No. 713,321, and in Great Britain Jan. 21, 1924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 206—41.)



1. A cigarette case or like container comprising a body portion, a lid portion, a strip hinged to one of said portions, rod-like members fitting concentrically the one within the other with freedom of limited axial movement, one of said members being connected to one of said portions, and a web portion connecting the other member to the said strip.

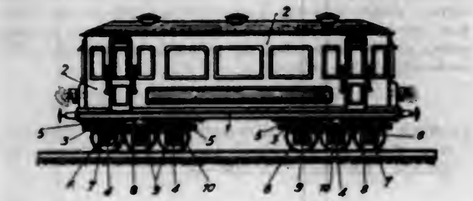
1,623,513. PROCESS FOR THE PREPARATION OF LITHIUM CARBONATE. HANS WEIDMANN, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Allied Process Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 12, 1926, Serial No. 108,691, and in Germany May 29, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 23—33.)



2. Process which comprises adding potassium chloride to a concentrated aqueous solution of lithium sulfate and potassium sulfate, and separating the potassium sulfate thereby precipitated from the solution.

1,623,514. PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM AND REEL THEREFOR. OTTO WITTEL, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 20, 1925. Serial No. 38,497. 10 Claims. (Cl. 95—9.)

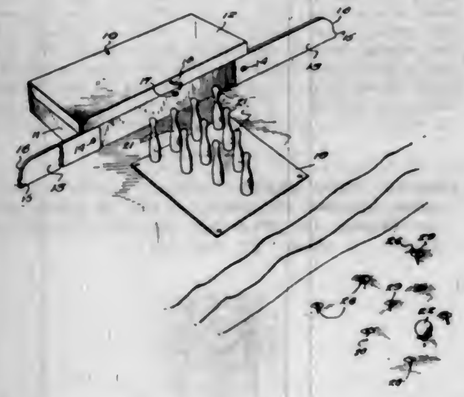
1. In combination, a reel having spaced flanges, there being an annular shoulder extending inward from each flange whereby the flanges near their periphery are spaced by a certain distance greater than the distance between the facing surfaces at the shoulders, and a strip of material at least part of which is light sensitive wound on said reel, that part of the strip which is wound outside of the shoulder being wider than the space between the shoulders, and that part of the strip that is wound inside of the shoulders being as narrow as the distance between the shoulders.



1,623,515. TRAP. JOHN ELMER WORKMAN, York, Pa. Filed Dec. 2, 1926. Serial No. 152,284. 1 Claim. (Cl. 182—25.)

A trap comprising a basin member provided with an inturned flange at its lower portion defining a central opening, a valve seat snugly fitting within such opening and provided with a flange overlying the flange of the basin member, means for securing said flanges together, a bridge piece disposed substantially radially across said central opening, certain of the means for securing the flanges together holding the end portions of the bridge piece to the flange of the valve seat, a rod freely disposed through said bridge piece and extending through the central opening of the basin member, said rod having an enlargement above the bridge piece to limit the downward movement of the bridge piece, a ball valve underlying the valve seat, the lower portion of the rod and the ball valve having coacting means for connecting the same one to the other, an annular lid of material diameter having its inner marginal portion resting upon the upper portion of the basin member, means for detachably securing the lid to the basin member, and a strainer supported by the outer marginal portion of the lid.

1,623,516. RAILWAY VEHICLE. HEINRICH ZOELLY, Zurich, Switzerland. Filed June 8, 1926, Serial No. 114,465, and in Switzerland June 17, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 105—182.)

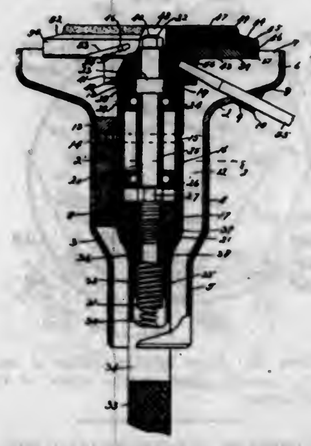


1. A railway vehicle, comprising in combination, a frame carrying the vehicle body, at least two bogies, springs between the bogies and said frame, at least three wheel axles for each bogie and means to permit the axles so far as depressions in the permanent way are concerned, to behave like rigidly journaled axles, while, in travelling over bumps on the permanent way they are adapted to yield resiliently in an upward direction.

1,623,517. PROCESS OF PREPARING RUBBER COMPOSITIONS. GEORGE WILSON ACHESON, Newark, N. J. Filed Apr. 21, 1923. Serial No. 633,786. 4 Claims. (Cl. 106—23.)

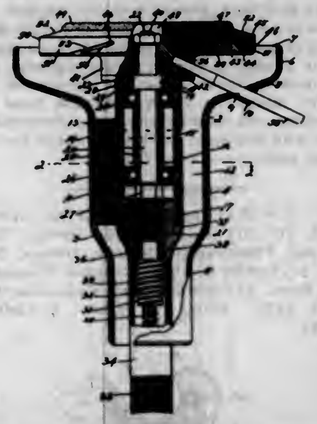
2. Process of preparing a rubber composition comprising commingling rubber latex with aqueous suspensions of a deflocculated rubber filler and sulfur, and simultaneously flocculating the filler and coagulating the rubber, whereby a curd-like precipitate containing rubber, filler and sulfur in intimate admixture is formed.

1,623,518. GOLF GAME. GEORGE B. ALLEN, Atlanta, Ga. Filed Oct. 28, 1926. Serial No. 144,873. 10 Claims. (Cl. 273—87.)



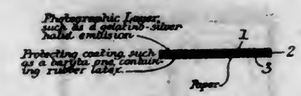
1. A game comprising a pin marker, a plurality of pins adapted to be arranged on said marker, and a plurality of spaced marking elements adapted to be arranged at points spaced from said pins, said marking elements being adapted to indicate points from which a ball is to be projected toward said pins.

1,623,519. PROCESS OF BLEACHING CELLULOSE ACETATE. RICHARD BAYBUTT and EDWARD S. FARROW, Jr., Rochester, N. Y., assignors to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 28, 1925. Serial No. 65,485. 4 Claims. (Cl. 8—2.)



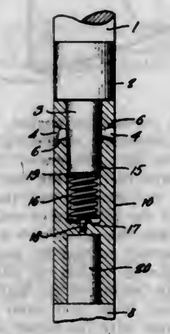
1. The process of bleaching cellulose acetate which comprises bringing the latter into active contact with gaseous ozone.

1,623,520. CLEANING HEAD FOR BLACKBOARD RENOVATORS. ALBERT P. BENNINGTON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 15, 1925. Serial No. 23,215. 2 Claims. (Cl. 51—273.)



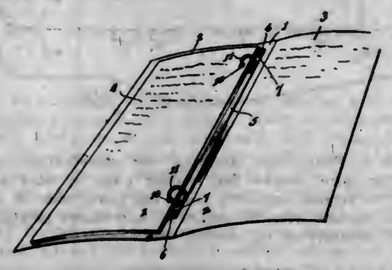
1. A blackboard renovator comprising a casing having a bell mouth and adapted to be connected to a suction device, inwardly extending ribs in the casing spaced apart to form passages, a barrel supported between the ribs and detachably connected with one rib, a shaft, bearings for the same in the barrel, a disk connected with the shaft, said disk projecting through the bell mouth of the casing, a cleaning medium carried by the disk and a flexible shaft connected with the first mentioned shaft.

1,623,521. CLEANING HEAD FOR BLACKBOARD RENOVATORS. ALBERT P. BENNINGTON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 15, 1925. Serial No. 23,216. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—197.)



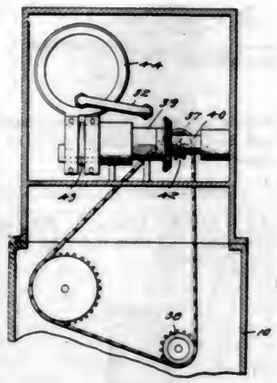
A cleaning head for blackboard renovators comprising a rotatable disk, a compressible backing member carried by said disk, a sheet of abrasive material covering the backing member and extending over a portion of the disk, pins projecting from the periphery of the disk and a ring for clamping the backing member and the abrasive material to the disk, said ring having inclined slots therein opening out through an edge of the ring, the bottom wall of each slot being corrugated so that when the pins enter the slots, they will engage the corrugated portions and thus hold the ring in adjusted position on the disk.

1,623,522. COATED PAPER. WALTER G. BENT, Harrow, England, assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 14, 1925, Serial No. 43,533, and in Great Britain Jan. 20, 1925. 8 Claims. (Cl. 95—8.)



1. As an article of manufacture, a coated paper, the coating thereof including at least a layer of pigment, binder and rubber emulsion.

1,623,523. GOLF CLUB. LESTER L. BOURKE, Lewbeach, N. Y. Filed June 18, 1926. Serial No. 116,952. 3 Claims. (Cl. 273—80.)



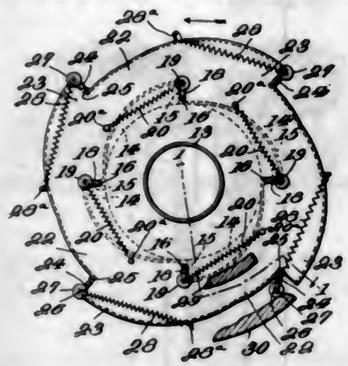
1. A golf club of the character described comprising a shaft, a sleeve secured to said shaft, a depending portion secured to said sleeve, studs extending from diametrically opposite sides of said depending portion and being provided with beveled walls, a head, and means on said head formed with bayonet slots having beveled walls to accommodate the walls of the stud whereby the head is detachably associated with the shaft.

1,623,524. LOOSE-LEAF BINDER. ALBERT L. BOYER, Marion, Ind. Filed Mar. 8, 1926. Serial No. 93,330. 3 Claims. (Cl. 129—1.)

1. In a loose leaf binder, a mounting strip adapted to be secured upon a carrier, a mounting strip extending longitudinally of said back and secured thereto, and leaf-engaging rings secured to said strip transversely thereof and each formed with a diagonally extending slit to provide the ring with separated end portions having diagonally disposed end faces, the said end portions being offset transversely of each other with their end faces only partially overlapped.

1,623,525. VALVE MECHANISM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. DANA B. BURNS, Asheville, N. C. Filed Apr. 8, 1926. Serial No. 100,625. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—188.)

1. In an internal combustion engine, a water jacketed head having a longitudinally extending bore and intake and exhaust ports for the cylinders of the engine, a combination manifold structure having an external wall of less diameter than the diameter of the bore supported from one end wall of the bore and extending thereinto, an intake manifold within the outer wall and having a portion of the wall thereof formed by said outer wall, an exhaust manifold likewise within the outer wall and supported from the intake manifold, the walls of said exhaust manifold being spaced from said outer wall, said space being in communication with the water jacket of the head, ports in said outer wall communicating with said intake and exhaust manifolds and opposing the ports of the engine, a sleeve valve surrounding the combination manifold and axially shiftable to align ports formed therein with the intake and exhaust ports of the head and manifold and means for shifting said sleeve valve.



1,623,526. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR MAKING PAPER. AUSTIN E. COFRIN, Green Bay, Wis. Filed Aug. 13, 1925, Serial No. 50,127. Renewed May 24, 1926. 6 Claims. (Cl. 92—44.)

1. In a Fourdrinier machine, the combination of a traveling wire, means for feeding pulp to said wire, means to remove moisture from the lower side of said wire by contact with the moisture, said means precipitating the moisture on the contact side thereof.

1,623,527. DISCHARGING DEVICE FOR ROTARY CYLINDERS. ATLEE CLYDE DEER, Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed Nov. 20, 1925. Serial No. 70,281. 4 Claims. (Cl. 214—18.)

1. In a drier, a rotary cylinder having a plurality of doors at its discharge end, each of said doors serving to establish when open a free communication from the inside to the outside of said cylinder, a casing surrounding the doors at the discharge end of the drier having a plurality of doors therein, each of said doors serving to establish when open a free communication from the inside to the outside of said casing, and means to successively open and close said doors so that a door of one of said pluralities is opened while all the doors of the other plurality are closed.

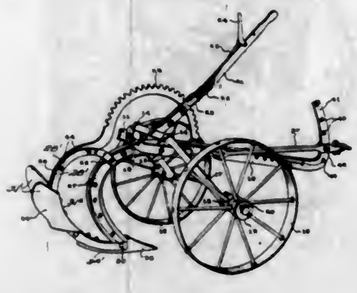
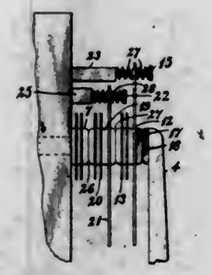
1,623,528. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR TREATING FILM. CHARLES DE MOOS, Fort Lee, N. J., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 3, 1923. Serial No. 622,690. 10 Claims. (Cl. 15—100.)

1. The process of treating motion picture film which consists in the following steps: first, passing the film band through aqueous baths; second, removing the surface moisture from the film and drying one side thereon; third, polishing the dry side of the film, and fourth, passing the film band through a drying chamber.



4. An apparatus for treating motion picture film bands, including a series of aqueous treating tanks through which the film is passed, a suction nozzle mounted above an aqueous treating tank, a movable mount for the suction nozzle, means for guiding the film band past the suction nozzle, and means including an eccentric adapted to contact with and move the suction nozzle for adjusting the suction nozzle to or from the film.

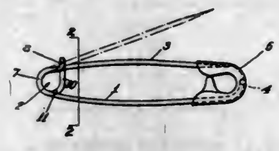
1,623,529. APPARATUS FOR APPLYING LINING MATERIAL TO COVERS. BRADLEY DEWEY, Cambridge, Mass., and THEODORE T. MILLER, Orange, N. J., assignors to Dewey & Almy Chemical Company, Cambridge, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Feb. 17, 1925. Serial No. 9,826. 2 Claims. (Cl. 113—80.)



1. In apparatus of the character described, a trough for holding liquid adhesive material, a rotating applying roll mounted to dip in said liquid, a regulating roll parallel with, close to but spaced from, and driven in the same rotational direction as the applying roll, said regulating roll wholly above the liquid level in said trough.

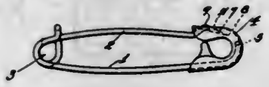
1,623,530. SUBSOIL DITCHER. THEODORE DOMINICK, Wenatchee, Wash. Filed May 27, 1925. Serial No. 33,282. 5 Claims. (Cl. 97—55.)

1. In a subsoil ditcher, the combination of a main frame including a beam provided with a downwardly and forwardly curved rear portion, a plow frame comprising a pair of arcuate spaced members disposed with their concave faces in the direction of travel of the ditcher and having their upper and lower ends secured to opposite sides of said rear portion of the beam, a plow comprising a double mouldboard and a central arcuate web joining same, said plow disposed on said plow frame with said web engaging the concave faces of the arcuate members thereof, bolts extending thru said web and between said arcuate members detachably and adjustably securing the plow to its frame, and a subsoil loosener at the lower end of the rear portion of said beam.



1,623,531. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR INTERRUPTING ELECTRICAL CIRCUITS. WILLIAM DUBILIER, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 23, 1922. Serial No. 602,798. 4 Claims. (Cl. 200—144.)

1. A circuit interrupter comprising cooperating contact members, operating mechanism therefor, and vibratory arc quenching means cooperating therewith.



1,623,532. SAFETY PIN. ANDREW DUDAS and ALBERT P. WASIL, Homestead, Pa. Filed Aug. 28, 1926. Serial No. 132,296. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—161.)

In a safety-pin, a bridge-bar; said bridge-bar having at one end a substantially semi-annular bend, a return-bend formed at the end of said first bend and having one end extended to form another bend paralleling said semi-annular bend and having a tangential and substantially straight extension adapted to form the pin-bar of said safety-pin, said extension engaging between the legs of said return-bend and being guided thereby.

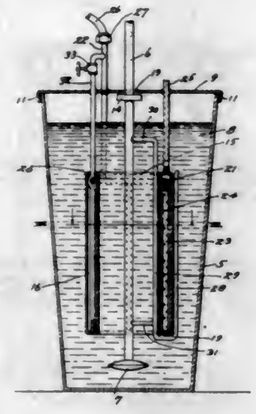
1,623,533. SAFETY PIN WITH BAYONET POINT. ANDREW DUDAS and ALBERT P. WASIL, Homestead, Pa. Filed Aug. 28, 1926. Serial No. 132,297. 4 Claims. (Cl. 24—156.)

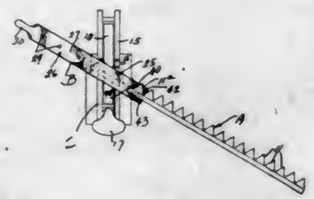
1. In a safety-pin of the character described, a pin-bar having a bayonet-shaped end comprising a heel-portion and a piercing element connected together by a bend, and a cap having an aperture adapted to be engaged by said bend.

1,623,534. CAMERA. FRANCOIS XAVIER ADRIEN DUHAMEL, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. Filed June 21, 1926. Serial No. 117,427. 5 Claims. (Cl. 95—11.)



1. In a camera, a wall having an opening with a slot arranged alongside of it and a series of apertures arranged alongside of the slot, said wall being further provided with a second opening with sinuous tunnels leading thereto, a closure hinged to the wall to close over the second opening, a plate, means for slidably mounting the plate inside the wall so that a strip of paper thereon may be accessible to the first opening and trained through the tunnels to extend across the second opening, a spring on the plate, a pin on the strip adapted to pierce the apertures, and means piercing the slot to bend the spring to disengage the pin from the apertures.

1,623,535. ATTACHMENT FOR BEVERAGE MIXERS. CHARLES FERGUSON, Spokane, Wash. Filed Feb. 24, 1925. Serial No. 11,317. 5 Claims. (Cl. 62—92.)



1. In a beverage dispensing apparatus, the combination of a receptacle for holding the beverage to be dispensed, of means extensible into the receptacle and immersible in the beverage for modifying the temperature thereof and including a tube, and means for circulating fluid under pressure through the tube and through the surrounding beverage.

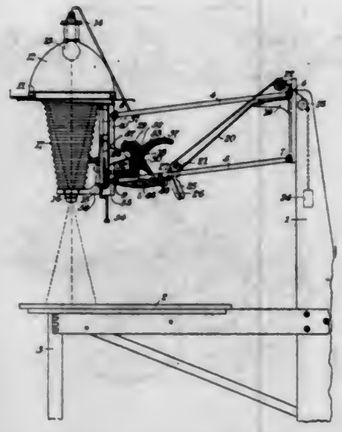
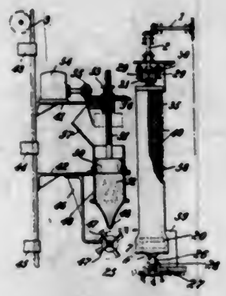
1,623,536. SICKLE HOLDER. CARL GUSTAV FRISTAD, Mandan, N. Dak. Filed Apr. 1, 1925. Serial No. 19,962. 5 Claims. (Cl. 51—222.)



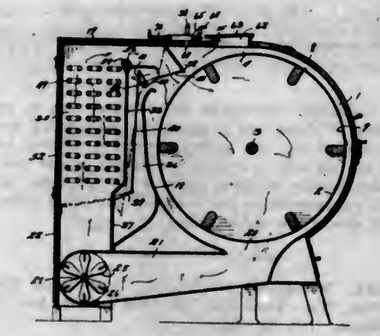
1. In a holder of the class described a body portion having a way extending inwardly from an end thereof to subdivide said end into a pair of shanks at opposite sides of the way, said body portion having a reduced recess contiguous with the way extending upwardly into the body portion beyond the inner edge of the way and also laterally into one of said shanks to provide a shoulder on said shank facing said recess.

1,623,537. APPARATUS FOR TREATING STEEL. WILLIAM W. HILL, Duquesne, Pa. Filed Feb. 6, 1926. Serial No. 86,582. 11 Claims. (Cl. 266—6.)



1. In an apparatus for treating metal, an elongated receptacle adapted to retain a quantity of water, a plurality of combined dam and guide members removably and adjustably mounted in said receptacle, openings in said dam and guide members adapted to permit the passage of the metal therethrough, and means for normally closing said openings.

1,623,538. AUTOMATICALLY-FOCUSING CAMERA. ROY S. HOPKINS, Parkersburg, W. Va. Filed Jan. 26, 1922. Serial No. 532,003. 10 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)

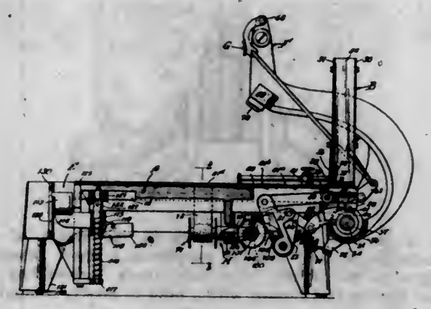


1. In an automatically focusing camera having a negative holder and a lens holder movable to and from a focusing plane and connected for relative movement so that when force is applied to move one of said holders, the other will be also moved relatively thereto so that the image of the negative is automatically focused at said plane, the connections being such that such force is not transmitted in a region near one of the limits of movement, a stop normally positioned to prevent movement of said holders into the said region, said stop being adjustable to permit movement of the holders into said region into positions such that the apparatus will be in focus.

1,623,539. APPARATUS FOR FORMING CONCRETE PIPES. ALPHONS HORTEN, Berlin-Wilmersdorf, Germany. Filed Jan. 22, 1925, Serial No. 4,015, and in Germany Jan. 23, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 25—30.)

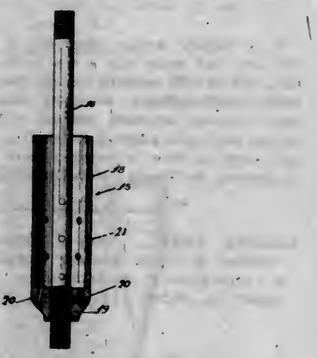
1. In an apparatus for producing concrete pipes, the combination with a vertically disposed revoluble core adapted to support a reinforcement, of a vertically movable concrete flinger-device comprising a cylindrical concrete container, a nozzle at one end of the container, a piston movable within said container for forcing soft concrete through said nozzle, and revolving blades disposed below said nozzle for flinging the concrete driven therethrough against the concrete reinforcement revoluble with said core.

1,623,540. DRYING APPARATUS. CHARLES J. HUNT, Barnsdall, Okla., assignor of thirty-five per cent to Earl G. Infield, Barnsdall, Okla. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 149,691. 9 Claims. (Cl. 34—51.)



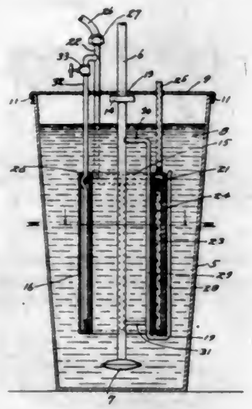
1. A device of the class described comprising a structure provided with a tumbler compartment, a tumbler working therein, means for drawing air from the opposite sides of the structure and discharging the same in the upper portion of the compartment, and an intermediate means for drawing the air from the lower portion of the compartment.

1,623,541. TOOL BRACE. ROY DOW HUTSON, Rosendale, Mo. Filed Nov. 29, 1924. Serial No. 752,908. 1 Claim. (Cl. 145—66.)



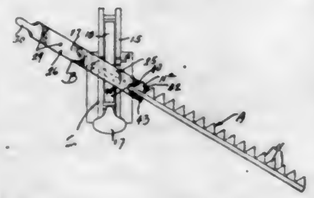
A device of the class described comprising a tubular stock, a crank in swiveled connection therewith, the connected portion of the crank being provided with a bearing, the connected portion of the stock extending within such bearing and constituting a toothed wheel, a pawl carried by the crank at either side of the bearing and engageable with the toothed wheel, a shank freely insertible within the stock and having movement lengthwise thereof, a chuck carried by the outer end portion of the shank, and coacting means carried by the shank and stock to rotate the shank and chuck independently of the stock after the shank has been projected and stress imposed upon the stock.

1,623,542. ADDRESSING MACHINE. JOHN E. JOHNSON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Speedaumatic Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 24, 1923. Serial No. 614,510. 21 Claims. (Cl. 101—65.)



1. In an address machine, a rack for receiving address plates as discharged from the machine, and means for rigidly supporting and progressively lowering said rack uniformly with the discharge of each address plate.

1,623,543. BALL CATCHER. WILLIAM H. JONES, Fellows, and ANTON EBERLE, Taft, Calif. Filed June 22, 1926. Serial No. 117,772. 1 Claim. (Cl. 103—202.)



In a deep well pump wherein there is a pump tube, a reciprocable plunger and a sucker rod for reciprocating the plunger, a device of the class described comprising a cylindrical cup having a relatively thick bottom, through which there are a plurality of inwardly and upwardly inclined apertures, the walls of the cup being perforated and extending parallel to the walls of the tube throughout the entire portion of their length, the bottom having a central aperture through which the sucker rod is screwed, the outside diameter of the cup being slightly less than the internal diameter of the pump tube so as to prevent the cup assembly from having frictional engagement with said pump tube, and the cup being located on the sucker rod a short distance above the plunger so as to catch articles falling in the pump tube, said cup being secured to the sucker rod only by its bottom so as to leave its top completely open about the sucker rod.

pensed, of means extensible into the receptacle and immersible in the beverage for modifying the temperature thereof and including a tube, and means for circulating fluid under pressure through the tube and through the surrounding beverage.

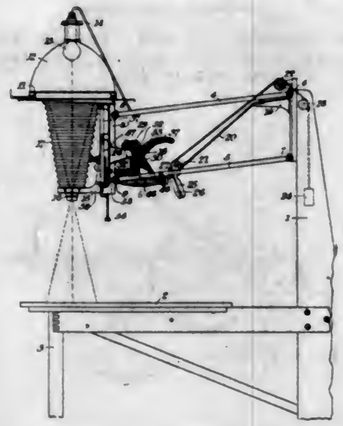
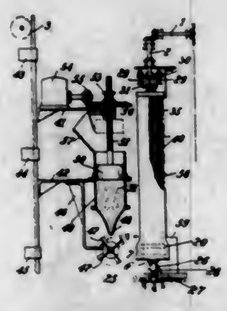
1,623,536. SICKLE HOLDER. CARL GUSTAV FRISTAD, Mandan, N. Dak. Filed Apr. 1, 1925. Serial No. 19,962. 5 Claims. (Cl. 51—222.)



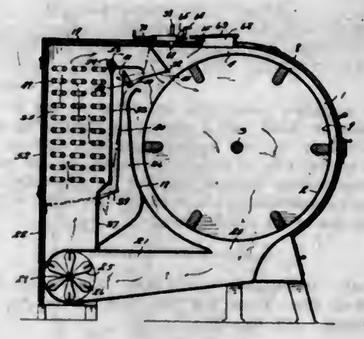
1. In a holder of the class described a body portion having a way extending inwardly from an end thereof to subdivide said end into a pair of shanks at opposite sides of the way, said body portion having a reduced recess contiguous with the way extending upwardly into the body portion beyond the inner edge of the way and also laterally into one of said shanks to provide a shoulder on said shank facing said recess.

1,623,537. APPARATUS FOR TREATING STEEL. WILLIAM W. HILL, Duquesne, Pa. Filed Feb. 6, 1926. Serial No. 86,582. 11 Claims. (Cl. 266—6.)



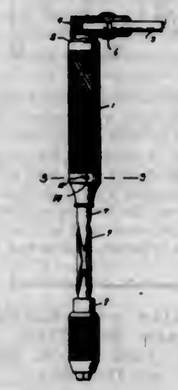
1. In an apparatus for treating metal, an elongated receptacle adapted to retain a quantity of water, a plurality of combined dam and guide members removably and adjustably mounted in said receptacle, openings in said dam and guide members adapted to permit the passage of the metal therethrough, and means for normally closing said openings.

1,623,538. AUTOMATICALLY-FOCUSING CAMERA. ROY S. HOPKINS, Parkersburg, W. Va. Filed Jan. 26, 1922. Serial No. 532,003. 10 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)



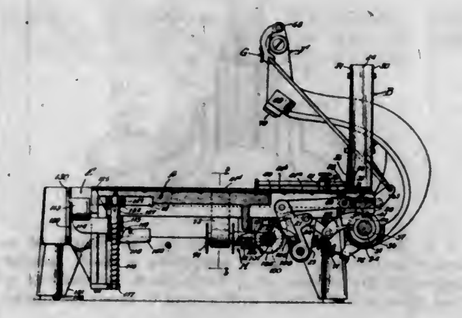
1. In an automatically focusing camera having a negative holder and a lens holder movable to and from a focusing plane and connected for relative movement so that when force is applied to move one of said holders, the other will be also moved relatively thereto so that the image of the negative is automatically focused at said plane, the connections being such that such force is not transmitted in a region near one of the limits of movement, a stop normally positioned to prevent movement of said holders into the said region, said stop being adjustable to permit movement of the holders into said region into positions such that the apparatus will be in focus.

1,623,539. APPARATUS FOR FORMING CONCRETE PIPES. ALPHONS HORTEN, Berlin-Wilmersdorf, Germany. Filed Jan. 22, 1925, Serial No. 4,015, and in Germany Jan. 23, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 25—30.)



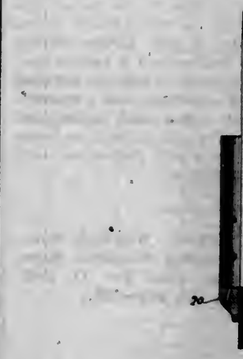
1. In an apparatus for producing concrete pipes, the combination with a vertically disposed revoluble core adapted to support a reinforcement, of a vertically movable concrete flinger-device comprising a cylindrical concrete container, a nozzle at one end of the container, a piston movable within said container for forcing soft concrete through said nozzle, and revolving blades disposed below said nozzle for flinging the concrete driven therethrough against the concrete reinforcement revoluble with said core.

1,623,540. DRYING APPARATUS. CHARLES J. HUNT, Barnsdall, Okla., assignor of thirty-five per cent to Earl G. Infield, Barnsdall, Okla. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 149,601. 9 Claims. (Cl. 34—51.)



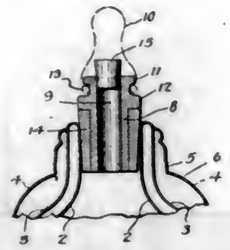
1. A device of the class described comprising a structure provided with a tumbler compartment, a tumbler working therein, means for drawing air from the opposite sides of the structure and discharging the same in the upper portion of the compartment, and an intermediate means for drawing the air from the lower portion of the compartment.

1,623,541. TOOL BRACE. ROY DOW HUTSON, Rosendale, Mo. Filed Nov. 29, 1924. Serial No. 752,908. 1 Claim. (Cl. 145—66.)



A device of the class described comprising a tubular stock, a crank in swiveled connection therewith, the connected portion of the crank being provided with a bearing, the connected portion of the stock extending within such bearing and constituting a toothed wheel, a pawl carried by the crank at either side of the bearing and engageable with the toothed wheel, a shank freely insertible within the stock and having movement lengthwise thereof, a chuck carried by the outer end portion of the shank, and coacting means carried by the shank and stock to rotate the shank and chuck independently of the stock after the shank has been projected and stress imposed upon the stock.

1,623,542. ADDRESSING MACHINE. JOHN E. JOHNSON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Speedaumatic Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 24, 1923. Serial No. 614,510. 21 Claims. (Cl. 101—65.)

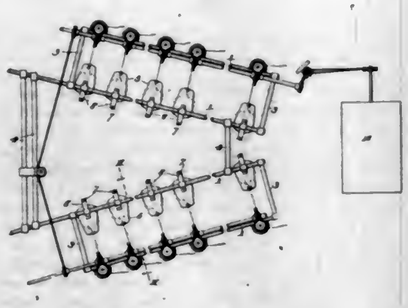


1. In an address machine, a rack for receiving address plates as discharged from the machine, and means for rigidly supporting and progressively lowering said rack uniformly with the discharge of each address plate.

1,623,543. BALL CATCHER. WILLIAM H. JONES, Fellows, and ANTON EBERLE, Taft, Calif. Filed June 22, 1926. Serial No. 117,772. 1 Claim. (Cl. 103—202.)

In a deep well pump wherein there is a pump tube, a reciprocable plunger and a sucker rod for reciprocating the plunger, a device of the class described comprising a cylindrical cup having a relatively thick bottom, through which there are a plurality of inwardly and upwardly inclined apertures, the walls of the cup being perforated and extending parallel to the walls of the tube throughout the entire portion of their length, the bottom having a central aperture through which the sucker rod is screwed, the outside diameter of the cup being slightly less than the internal diameter of the pump tube so as to prevent the cup assembly from having frictional engagement with said pump tube, and the cup being located on the sucker rod a short distance above the plunger so as to catch articles falling in the pump tube, said cup being secured to the sucker rod only by its bottom so as to leave its top completely open about the sucker rod.

1,623,544. ADAPTER FOR VACUUM BOTTLES. WILLIAM M. KUSHNER, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 15, 1925. Serial No. 30,406. 4 Claims. (Cl. 215—11.)

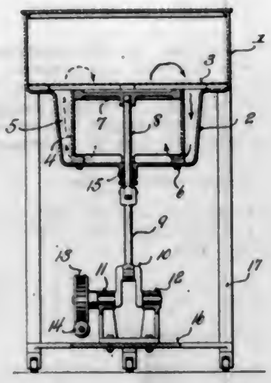


1. A nursing adapter insertible in the mouth of a vacuum bottle, said adapter comprising a short tubular thimble in the nature of a bottle neck surrounding a broad passage and formed with a head to receive a nipple.

1,623,545. SHOE-DISPLAY CARTON. ERWIN B. LOEWENBACH, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Feb. 16, 1925. Serial No. 9,578. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—37.)

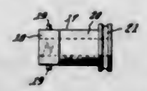
1. A display carton comprising a body portion having side and end walls and a top section and a bottom section, one of said sections having lines of cleavage defining projections adapted to be folded outwardly, and a foldable sheet member normally carried within said carton and having apertures adapted to receive said projections when said sheet member is removed from said carton and said projections have been outwardly folded.

1,623,546. CREEL. JOHN O. MCKEAN, Westfield, Mass., assignor to Foster Machine Company, Westfield, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Nov. 11, 1925. Serial No. 68,368. 16 Claims. (Cl. 242—131.)



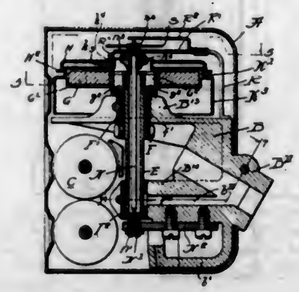
1. In a creel, a cop, and an outwardly projecting free ended cop holder therefor pivoted to rock on an axis extending through the cop between its ends, to reverse its position for doffing.

1,623,547. PAPER BOX FOR GOLF CLUBS AND THE LIKE. THEODORE L. NEUMANN, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Dayton Paper Novelty Company, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Dec. 3, 1925. Serial No. 72,907. 8 Claims. (Cl. 206—44.)



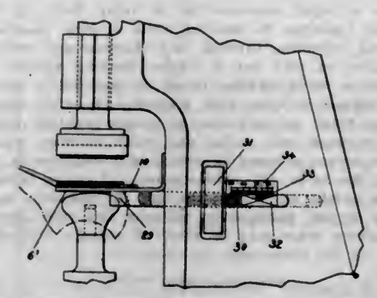
1. A container comprising an elongated box to receive a number of clubs, and a pyramidal positioning member in one end of the box having a flat top portion formed with a central hole to receive the handle of one club, and with downwardly inclined surfaces at the sides of said hole for engagement by the heads of two other clubs, one on each side of the middle club.

1,623,548. WASHING MACHINE. JOSEPH H. NIESEN, Grafton, Wis. Filed Mar. 16, 1925. Serial No. 15,896. 2 Claims. (Cl. 68—37.)



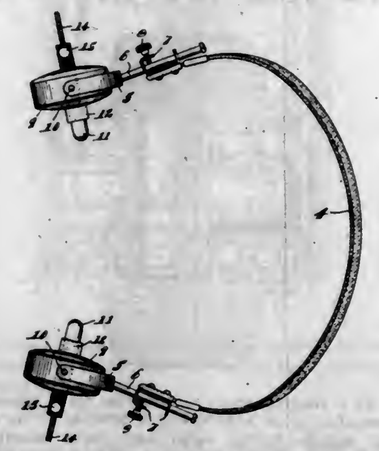
1. A washing machine comprising a main compartment adapted to receive clothes, a stationary screen positioned in the lower portion of said compartment and adapted to support the clothes, a downwardly extending auxiliary compartment communicating with said main compartment, a vertical cylinder carried within said auxiliary compartment and spaced from the bottom and side walls thereof and having its top adjacent said screen, a piston slidably mounted within said cylinder, and means for reciprocating said piston.

1,623,549. AIRCRAFT VARIABLE-PITCH PROPELLER AND BLADE MOUNTING. ANTON NOSAN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Feb. 8, 1926. Serial No. 86,883. 1 claim. (Cl. 170—163.)



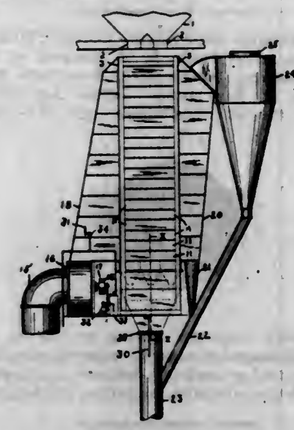
The combination of a shaft, a hub fixed thereto and having a central recess forming a guide and radial bearing recess communicating therewith, propeller blades having stems mounted to turn in said radial recesses, said stems having slotted enlargements at their inner ends, a tubular block thru which the shaft extends, shiftable axially and guided in the central recess and along the shaft and having eccentric pins engaging said slots, and means to shift the block, the central recess being partly circular and partly angular in cross-section and the block being shaped accordingly, the pins projecting from the angular part of the block and the circular part extending outside the hub for connection with the shifting means.

1,623,550. MAGNETIC SPEEDOMETER. JOHN K. OLSEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Sept. 1, 1922. Serial No. 585,628. 6 Claims. (Cl. 264—13.)



5. In a magnetic speedometer in combination with a support a magnet mounted thereon for rotation about an axis, a drag element and a field plate formed for nesting the magnet in the drag element and a drag element in the field plate, and a casing in which all said elements are nested, the field plate having a marginal transaxial annular portion, the drag element having for such nesting a par-axial annulus and a transaxial annulus encompassing it, the parts being dimensioned for locating the transaxial marginal annulus of the field plate adjacent the transaxial annulus of the drag element, the drag element having a flange extending from the periphery of its said transaxial annulus forming for carrying the speed graduations, a skirt flange positioned proximate to the case wall for approximating the reading aperture, whereby the diminution of drag due to the radial offsetting of the skirt flange for approximating the reading aperture is compensated by the co-operation of the transaxial annuli of the field plate and drag member respectively.

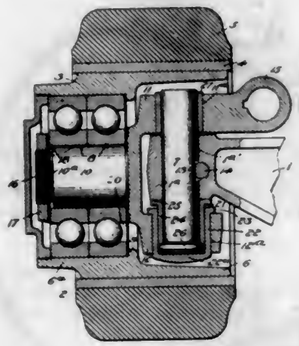
1,623,551. HEEL-SEAT-CUTTING MACHINE. BAPTISTE MARTIAL PERICAUD, Limoges, France. Filed Dec. 7, 1925, Serial No. 73,543, and in France Dec. 9, 1924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 12—17.)



1. In a heel seat fitting machine, a frame, a shoe support carried thereby, a press knife mounted in the frame for movement towards and from a shoe on said support, a bearing plate carried by the frame for supporting a flap on the rear portion of the sole of the supported shoe which has been previously cut in such a manner as to adapt it to be inserted between the shoe and a heel to be attached thereto, and a second plate secured to the bearing plate for supporting a second flap on the rear portion of said sole and having a hollowed out portion the side edges of which correspond to the side edges of the first mentioned previously cut flap.

1,623,552. DIATHERMY EAR APPLICATOR. JOHN D. POLLARD, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 14, 1925. Serial No. 15,426. 3 Claims. (Cl. 174—89.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a head frame; blocks of insulating material carried by said frame; electrodes mounted on said blocks and protruding inwardly therefrom, the protruding ends of said electrodes being rounded and of a size for insertion in the ears; and means for attaching conductor wires to said electrodes, substantially as described.



1,623,553. COAL DRYING. OLIVER W. RANDOLPH, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Dec. 24, 1923. Serial No. 682,489. 6 Claims. (Cl. 34—34.)

1. In the drying of coal, the alternate dividing and combining of a gravity flowing stream of the coal to form angle of repose determined surfaces of the coal, taking off air on one side of said stream, creating a higher pressure for the air on the other side of said stream isolated from said air takeoff by said angle of repose regions in thereby subjecting the stream divisions to fine particle removal, and drying by a draft of air into the angle of repose surface regions of said stream, taking draft from the stream at another angle of repose surface region of said stream, collecting said particles, and delivering the collected particles into the stream of the dried coal.

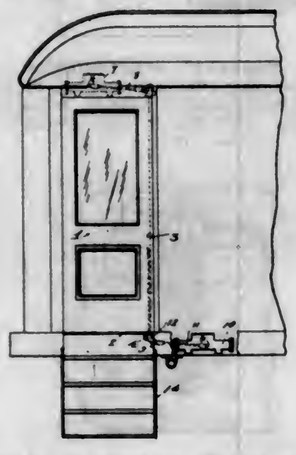
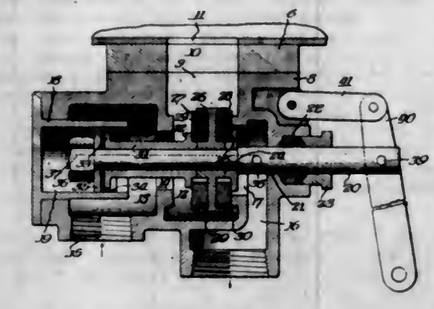
1,623,554. STEERABLE WHEEL CONSTRUCTION. EDWARD H. REMDE, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Baker-Raulang Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 15, 1922. Serial No. 601,098. 6 Claims. (Cl. 280—96.3.)

1. In a steering wheel construction for a vehicle, the combination of an axle having a knuckle at its end, a wheel spindle having upper and lower knuckles arranged to align with said axle knuckle, a pivot pin disposed in the openings in said knuckles, a cup shaped member supported in the opening in said lower spindle knuckle, a tubular member engaging the under side of said axle knuckle, sleeved on said pin and rotatably fitting said cup shaped member, and a thrust element interposed between the lower end of said tubular member and the bottom of said cup shaped member, whereby the weight of the vehicle frame is carried by said knuckles independently of said pivot pin, the under side of said thrust element being spherical to provide a point contact in line with the axis of said pivot pin.



1,623,555. LOADED SIGNALING CONDUCTOR. JOHN G. ROBERTS, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 16, 1921. Serial No. 492,743. 5 Claims. (Cl. 178—45.)

1. A signaling conductor having an uneven surface, and a layer of magnetic material wrapped spirally about the conductor and pressed into intimate mechanical contact therewith to conform to the surface of the conductor.



1,623,556. SYSTEM FOR OPERATING THE EXIT AND TRAP DOORS OF RAILROAD COACHES. HAROLD ROWNTREE, Scarsdale, N. Y., and ROSCOE D. CONKLIN, Rahway, N. J., assignors to National Pneumatic Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed May 23, 1925. Serial No. 32,313. 13 Claims. (Cl. 105—427.)

1. In a system of the character described, the combination with a car having an exit door, steps and a trap door for normally covering the steps, of agencies for operating the said doors in predetermined sequence, manually operable means for initiating the operation of said agencies, and means for rendering said agencies irresponsive to the manually operable means while a passenger is standing on the trap door.

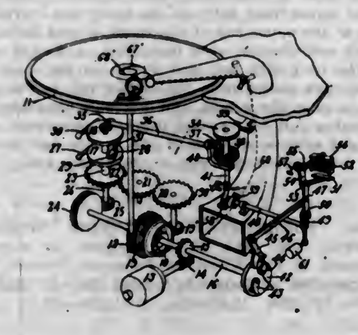
1,623,557. VALVE. ADOLPH W. RYBECK, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The T. L. Smith Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 21, 1923. Serial No. 626,471. 3 Claims. (Cl. 251—22.)

1. In a valve construction, a valve body, a valve chamber, openings in opposed walls of said chamber, a valve rod extending through said chamber and openings, a shoulder on said rod, a washer bearing against said shoulder, a valve member fitted on said rod, a packing ring retained between said washer and valve member, a collar fitted on said rod, a second packing ring retained between said collar and valve member, and removable means adapted to retain said members in position on the valve rod, said washer and collar being removable axially of the rod through the openings and an opening in the valve body whereby the valve member and packing rings may be removed radially after withdrawal of the valve rod.

1,623,558. SPEEDOMETER-MAGNET COMPENSATOR. FRED GEORGE SCHWEISTHAL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Feb. 12, 1925, Serial No. 8,669. Renewed Dec. 12, 1925. 6 Claims. (Cl. 264—15.)



1. In a tachometer a permanent magnet and a non-magnetic mounting member by which the magnet is

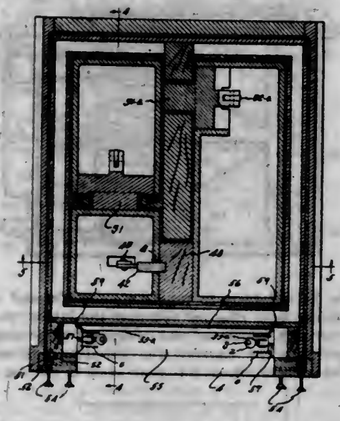
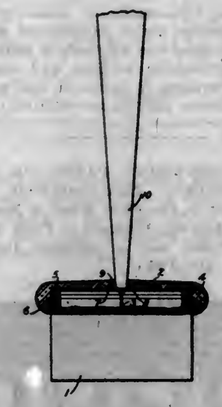
tively to said magnet poles, and means interposed between the mount and the shunt plate for spacing the shunt plate from the magnet pole, said means being adapted to move freely with the shunt plate at the side in contact therewith.



1,623,559. PHONOGRAPH. FRANK J. SEABOLT, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Phonograph Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 27, 1920. Serial No. 406,304. 12 Claims. (Cl. 274—10.)

1. The combination with a phonograph or the like for playing disc records of a magazine adjacent thereto for records of different diameters, means whereby when the end of a record of any size is reached it is automatically caused to slide off the table and a new record from the magazine of either the same or a different diameter is caused to slide into its place and means for returning the tone arm to the starting position of the records.



1,623,560. MOLDING APPARATUS. GEORGE B. SHERMAN, Flint, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Copeman Laboratories Company, Flint, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed July 11, 1925. Serial No. 42,880. 13 Claims. (Cl. 25—130.)

11. An apparatus for molding the shell structure of a refrigerator comprising the combination of a collapsible outer mold section, an inner mold section having cores for forming the several compartments of a refrigerator and a subcore adapted to be placed in a position to bridge the space between two of the first named cores in order that a passageway will be cast between two refrigerator compartments, this subcore being removable to permit the molded shell to be removed from the cores, and means for removing the subcore.

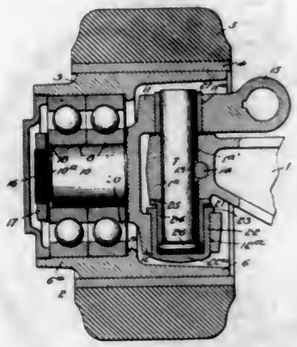
1,623,561. ACOUSTIC HORN. JOSEPH SLEPIAN and CLINTON R. HANNA, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignors to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 4, 1924. Serial No. 690,405. 23 Claims. (Cl. 181—27.)



1. An acoustic horn, having an exponential variation of cross-section with the length and an internal diameter at the small end less than a third of an inch.

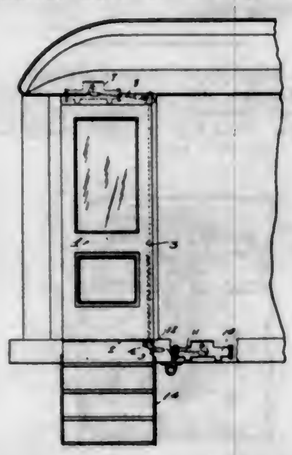
1,623,562. METER. MARVIN SMITHEY, Lawrenceville, Va. Filed May 23, 1916, Serial No. 99,344. Renewed May 25, 1922. Serial No. 563,675. 7 Claims. (Cl. 235—95.)

1. A meter comprising a casing having a reading opening, a shaft disposed within the casing, means for rotating the shaft, a support disposed within the casing and rotatable with respect to the axis of the shaft, a plu-

draft from the stream at another angle of repose surface region of said stream, collecting said particles, and delivering the collected particles into the stream of the dried coal.

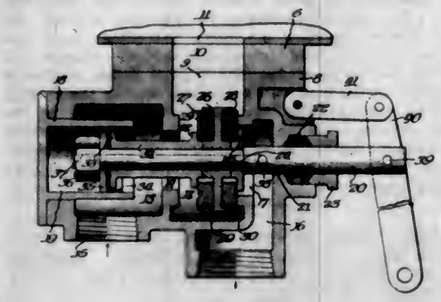
1,623,554. STEERABLE WHEEL CONSTRUCTION. EDWARD H. REMDE, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Baker-Raulang Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 15, 1922. Serial No. 601,098. 6 Claims. (Cl. 280—96.3.)

1. In a steering wheel construction for a vehicle, the combination of an axle having a knuckle at its end, a wheel spindle having upper and lower knuckles arranged to align with said axle knuckle, a pivot pin disposed in the openings in said knuckles, a cup shaped member supported in the opening in said lower spindle knuckle, a tubular member engaging the under side of said axle knuckle, sleeved on said pin and rotatably fitting said cup shaped member, and a thrust element interposed between the lower end of said tubular member and the bottom of said cup shaped member, whereby the weight of the vehicle frame is carried by said knuckles independently of said pivot pin, the under side of said thrust element being spherical to provide a point contact in line with the axis of said pivot pin.



1,623,555. LOADED SIGNALING CONDUCTOR. JOHN G. ROBERTS, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 16, 1921. Serial No. 492,743. 5 Claims. (Cl. 178—45.)

1. A signaling conductor having an uneven surface, and a layer of magnetic material wrapped spirally about the conductor and pressed into intimate mechanical contact therewith to conform to the surface of the conductor.



1,623,556. SYSTEM FOR OPERATING THE EXIT AND TRAP DOORS OF RAILROAD COACHES. HAROLD ROWNTREE, Scarsdale, N. Y., and ROSCOE D. CONKLIN, Rahway, N. J., assignors to National Pneumatic Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed May 23, 1925. Serial No. 32,313. 13 Claims. (Cl. 105—427.)

1. In a system of the character described, the combination with a car having an exit door, steps and a trap door for normally covering the steps, of agencies for operating the said doors in predetermined sequence, manually operable means for initiating the operation of said agencies, and means for rendering said agencies irresponsive to the manually operable means while a passenger is standing on the trap door.

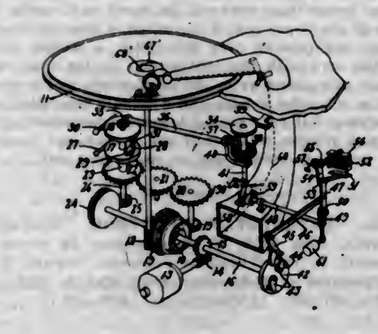
1,623,557. VALVE. ADOLPH W. RYBECK, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The T. L. Smith Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 21, 1923. Serial No. 626,471. 3 Claims. (Cl. 251—22.)

1. In a valve construction, a valve body, a valve chamber, openings in opposed walls of said chamber, a valve rod extending through said chamber and openings, a shoulder on said rod, a washer bearing against said shoulder, a valve member fitted on said rod, a packing ring retained between said washer and valve member, a collar fitted on said rod, a second packing ring retained between said collar and valve member, and removable means adapted to retain said members in position on the valve rod, said washer and collar being removable axially of the rod through the openings and an opening in the valve body whereby the valve member and packing rings may be removed radially after withdrawal of the valve rod.

1,623,558. SPEEDOMETER-MAGNET COMPENSATOR. FRED GEORGE SCHWEISTHAL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Feb. 12, 1925. Serial No. 8,669. Renewed Dec. 12, 1925. 6 Claims. (Cl. 264—15.)



1. In a tachometer a permanent magnet and a non-magnetic mounting member by which the magnet is

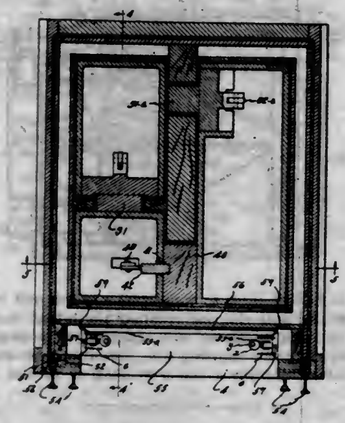
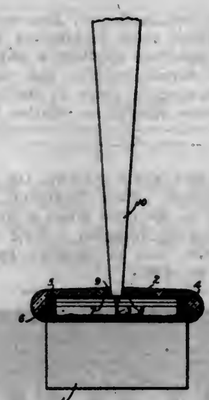
tively to said magnet poles, and means interposed between the mount and the shunt plate for spacing the shunt plate from the magnet pole, said means being adapted to move freely with the shunt plate at the side in contact therewith.



1,623,559. PHONOGRAPH. FRANK J. SEABOLT, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to The Phonograph Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 27, 1920. Serial No. 406,304. 12 Claims. (Cl. 274—10.)

1. The combination with a phonograph or the like for playing disc records of a magazine adjacent thereto for records of different diameters, means whereby when the end of a record of any size is reached it is automatically caused to slide off the table and a new record from the magazine of either the same or a different diameter is caused to slide into its place and means for returning the tone arm to the starting position of the records.



1,623,560. MOLDING APPARATUS. GEORGE B. SHERMAN, Flint, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Copeman Laboratories Company, Flint, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed July 11, 1925. Serial No. 42,880. 13 Claims. (Cl. 25—130.)

11. An apparatus for molding the shell structure of a refrigerator comprising the combination of a collapsible outer mold section, an inner mold section having cores for forming the several compartments of a refrigerator and a subcore adapted to be placed in a position to bridge the space between two of the first named cores in order that a passageway will be cast between two refrigerator compartments, this subcore being removable to permit the molded shell to be removed from the cores, and means for removing the subcore.

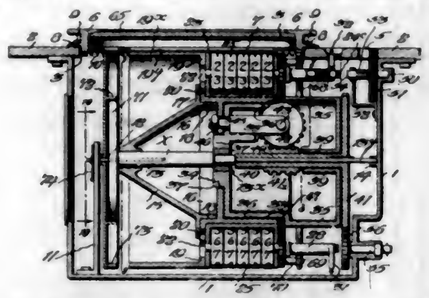
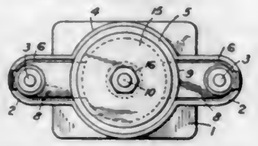
1,623,561. ACOUSTIC HORN. JOSEPH SLEPIAN and CLINTON R. HANNA, Wilkinsburg, Pa., assignors to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 4, 1924. Serial No. 690,405. 23 Claims. (Cl. 181—27.)



1. An acoustic horn, having an exponential variation of cross-section with the length and an internal diameter at the small end less than a third of an inch.

1,623,562. METER. MARVIN SMITHEY, Lawrenceville, Va. Filed May 28, 1916, Serial No. 99,344. Renewed May 25, 1922. Serial No. 563,675. 7 Claims. (Cl. 235—95.)



1. A meter comprising a casing having a reading opening, a shaft disposed within the casing, means for rotating the shaft, a support disposed within the casing and rotatable with respect to the axis of the shaft, a plurality of odometers carried by the support, a worm carried by the shaft, a worm wheel in mesh with said worm, a gear ring mounted on said support for rotation around its central axis, the teeth of the worm wheel being arranged in helical form to constitute a worm and arranged to engage the gear ring for rotating the latter, and means carried by each odometer and arranged to be engaged by said gear ring for causing the simultaneous movement of the odometers when the gear ring is turned.

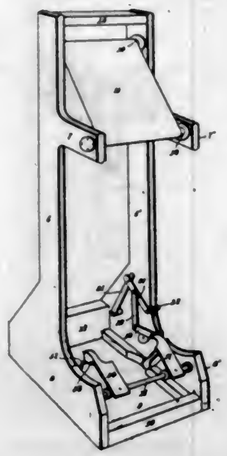
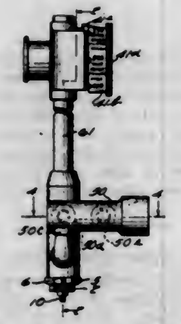
1,623,563. ELECTRICAL CONDENSER. GEORGE FREDERICK AMOS STONE, London, England. Filed July 15, 1925, Serial No. 43,682, and in Great Britain Aug. 1, 1924. 6 Claims. (Cl. 175—41.)



1. In an electrical condenser, the combination of a column of condenser plates interleaved with dielectrics and superposed upon one another, a body of insulating material having recesses therein, and lugs on each of said plates conforming in shape to the recesses in said body so as to center said plates relative to one another.

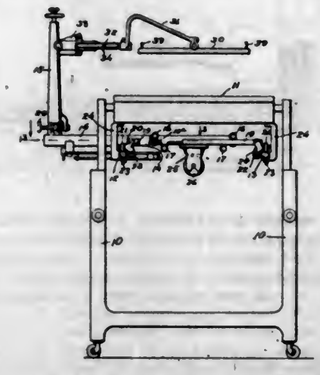
1,623,564. ADVERTISING PANEL OR DECORATIVE WALL COVERING. PAUL THEURICH, Dresden, Germany, assignor to the Firm Wezel & Naumann Aktiengesellschaft, Leipzig, Germany. Filed June 12, 1925. Serial No. 36,680, and in Germany Dec. 9, 1924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 40—136.)



1. A method of producing a decorative wall covering for advertising purposes, consisting in applying the design constituting the decorative or advertising matter in a distorted manner on a sheet having a flat surface, then corrugating said sheet and providing said corrugated sheet with a flexible flat background permanently secured thereto.

1,623,565. MUSIC STAND. EDWARD THIMGREN, Popotla, Mexico. Filed June 30, 1925. Serial No. 40,574. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—28.)

1. In a music stand of the type described, a music web carrier roll, a temporary web receiving roll journaled parallel thereto, a pinion loosely carried by the receiving roll, a pawl carried by the pinion, a ratchet wheel fastened to the receiving roll, a rack adapted to engage said pinion for rotating the receiving roll to wind the music web onto the latter roll, treadle means for actuating said rack, a spool journalled adjacent the carrier roll, gear connections between the spool and carrier roll, a pulley at the upper end of the stand, a cord fastened to the spool and passing over the pulley, a weight at the end of the cord with the cord wound on the spool when the music web passes from the carrier roll to the receiving roll to raise the weight, and a treadle associated with the receiving roll for causing lowering movement of the weight and reverse rotation of the carrier and receiving rolls to rewind the music web on the carrier roll.



1,623,566. THERMOSTATIC CONTROL. WILLARD I. TWOMBLY, New York, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Wilcolator Company, Newark, N. J., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 1, 1922. Serial No. 557,969. 17 Claims. (Cl. 236—15.)

1. In combination, a gas stove having a manifold, an oven burner having an inlet connection near the end of said manifold, a valve for controlling the supply of gas to such burner and an integral connection located at a distance from said valve and adapted to transmit gas from said manifold to a connection of said valve and to receive gas from a connection of said valve and carry it to the inlet of the oven burner.

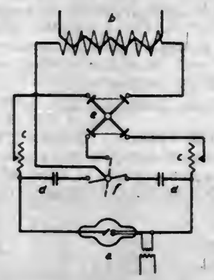
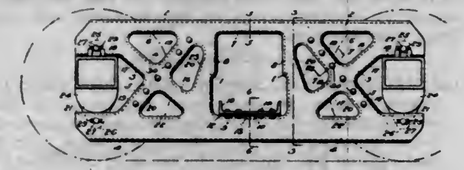
1,623,567. ATTACHMENT FOR X-RAY TABLES. FREDERICK H. WAPPLER, Elmhurst, and ARTHUR C. KOENITZ, New York, N. Y., assignors to Wappler Electric Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 31, 1922. Serial No. 585,467. 5 Claims. (Cl. 250—34.)



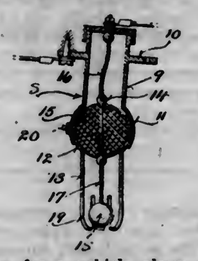
1. The combination, with an X-ray table, of a carriage supported by said table and movable relative thereto, said carriage being provided with a casing having an extending portion, an X-ray tube holder supported upon said carriage and movable therewith relatively to said X-ray table, shutter mechanism mounted within said casing and movable bodily therewith relatively to said X-ray table, connections extending from said shutter mechanism into the extending portion of said casing, a hollow post mounted upon said extending portion, mechanism mounted within said post and engaging said connections for the purpose of enabling the operator to actuate the connections and thereby operate said shutter mechanism, and a fluorescent screen holder supported by said post and extending out over said table, to enable said fluorescent screen holder to be shifted in position relatively to said table by bodily movements of said carriage.

1,623,568. THERMOSTATIC CIRCUIT CONTROL. ALBERT E. WHITTIER, Bristol, Conn. Filed Sept. 4, 1925. Serial No. 54,409. 5 Claims. (Cl. 200—139.)



1. A thermostatic circuit control comprising a casing containing a dial, a thermostatic strip, a pointer movable over the dial and controlled by said strip, normally stationary conductors, means for adjusting said conductors over the dial, a finger intermediate said conductors and adapted to be engaged and moved by the pointer in one direction from contact with one of the stationary conductors to contact with the other stationary conductor, means independent of said pointer for moving the finger in the opposite direction, and means for connecting circuit wires to said conductors and finger.

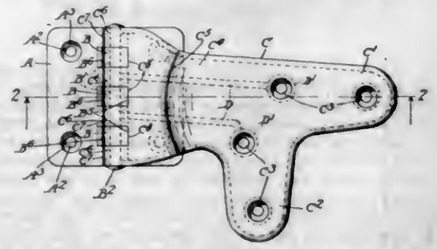
1,623,569. APPARATUS FOR SUPPLYING ELECTRIC CURRENT TO VACUUM TUBES. FRANZ ZACHER, Erlangen, Germany, assignor to the Firm Reiniger, Gebbert & Schall Aktiengesellschaft, Bavaria, Germany. Filed June 16, 1925, Serial No. 37,579, and in Germany June 17, 1924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 250—34.)



In a system for the operation of vacuum tubes, and particularly Röntgen tubes, a source of alternating current including a secondary winding, a rotary high tension rectifier having certain terminals connected to the poles of said winding, a vacuum tube, two or more condensers in parallel with the terminals of said tube and capable of being connected thereto and disconnected therefrom, and a switch in the circuit between one of the poles of said winding and one of the terminals of said rectifier and operable to alternately disconnect the rectifier from said pole and connect the latter in parallel to the terminals of said tube through said condensers.

1,623,570. TRUCK SIDE FRAME. GUSTAF A. ANDERSON, Baltimore, Md., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Symington Company, a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Oct. 17, 1922. Serial No. 595,098. 28 Claims. (Cl. 105—205.)

3. A car truck side frame formed from a unitary hollow metal member shaped to form inner and outer side walls each of which is provided with a bolster opening, and inwardly extending stiffening flanges adapted to border said bolster opening.



1,623,571. CIRCUIT-CLOSING DEVICE. EDWARD T. BELLMAN, Rockford, Ill., assignor of one-third to James J. Raney, Rockford, Ill. Filed July 6, 1925. Serial No. 41,751. 1 Claim. (Cl. 200—52.)

A circuit closer for a vehicle alarm system comprising a tubular body portion adapted for attachment to the vehicle body, a second tubular member having a universal connection with said first tubular member and being frictionally retained in any relative adjusted position with respect to said first mentioned member, said second mentioned tubular member being metallic, an insulator carried by said second member and having a conductor extending therethrough, an elongated metallic member pivotally carried by said conductor and adapted to swing with reference thereto, and a metallic weight carried at the end of said elongated metallic member and adapted to contact with said second mentioned tubular member when the entire device is displaced.

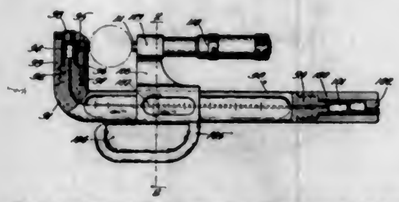
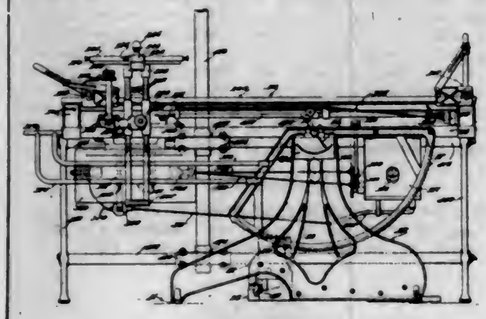
1,623,572. HINGE. OLLIE J. BERGER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Chicago Forging & Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 8, 1926. Serial No. 86,716. 1 Claim. (Cl. 16—128.)



In a hinge, a base plate, a plurality of abutment lugs upwardly projecting from the face thereof, a hinge body, the pivot end of which is slotted to penetrate between said abutments, the interpenetrating tongues and the abutments being apertured in line, the abutments being squared on their forward faces and rounded on their rear faces, the outer ends of the hinged tongues being formed to conform to the round portions of the abutments, the opposed parts being so shaped and proportioned that the portions of the hinge body between the tongues closely engage the squared corners of the abutments when the hinge is in closed position.

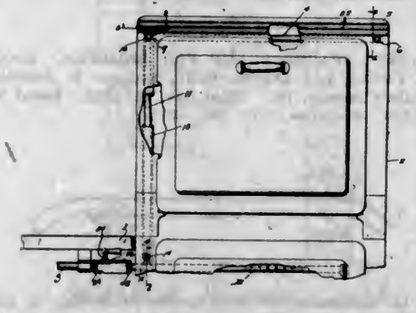
1,623,573. EXTERNALLY-OPERATED SAFETY SWITCH. TONJES A. BOTH, Stratford, Conn., assignor to The Connecticut Electric Manufacturing Company, Bridgeport, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed July 5, 1923. Serial No. 649,492. 7 Claims. (Cl. 200—67.)



1. In combination, a pivotally mounted switch blade, a compression spring, a movable support, means connecting the switch and the support with the ends of the spring respectively more remote from said elements comprising substantially U-shaped wire members connected to said elements at their closed ends and extending through and enclosed by the spring, said members being provided with hooks at the free ends of their side arms to engage the opposite ends of the spring, and means for moving the support to pass the spring through the axis of the switch blade to operate said blade.

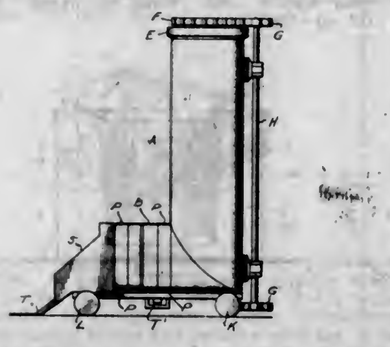
1,623,574. MICROMETER GAUGE. WILLIAM L. BRYANT, Springfield, Vt. Original application filed Nov. 18, 1922, Serial No. 601,731. Divided and this application filed July 6, 1925. Serial No. 41,553. 5 Claims. (Cl. 33—165.)

1. In a measuring instrument, a transparent graduated capillary tube, a bracket member slidable thereon, means to clamp said member in position, a micrometer screw carried by said member, a flexible walled liquid reservoir connected to one end of said tube and communicating with the bore thereof, an element movable to engage said reservoir with more or less pressure and between which and said screw an object to be measured may be placed, said reservoir being filled with a liquid extending as a liquid column in said tube, and a gas pressure reservoir at the opposite end of said tube communicating with the bore thereof.



1,623,575. X-RAY APPARATUS. CHARLES E. CAMPBELL, Lynn, Mass., assignor to Campbell Electric Company, Lynn, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed July 14, 1920. Serial No. 396,098. 8 Claims. (Cl. 250—34.)

1. An X-ray apparatus comprising a supporting member, a table pivotally connected with the supporting member at a point unequally distant from the opposite ends, a transformer supported by the table in a manner to counter-balance the latter, a source of X-ray supported by the table and movable with relation thereto, and means for counter-balancing the source of X-ray in any position of the latter with respect to the table.



1,623,576. OVEN HEAT-CONTROL DEVICE. EMIL L. CLAUS and WALTER E. CLAUS, Milwaukee, Wis., assignors, by direct and mesne assignments, to Milwaukee Gas Specialty Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Jan. 24, 1921. Serial No. 439,470. 12 Claims. (Cl. 236—15.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination of an oven having a burner, a valve for controlling the supply of fuel to said burner, said valve having a movable controlling element, a heat responsive device positioned within the oven, an arm connected with said device, an adjustable connection between the movable element of the valve and the arm whereby the valve is adjustable for a desired temperature, and said movable element moving upon the expansion and contraction of the heat responsive device under temperature changes to control the flow of fuel to the burner and maintain the temperature within the oven substantially at the desired degree.

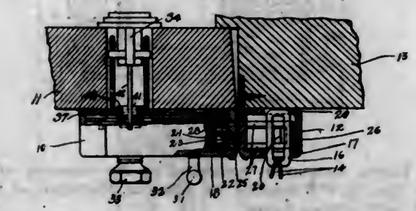
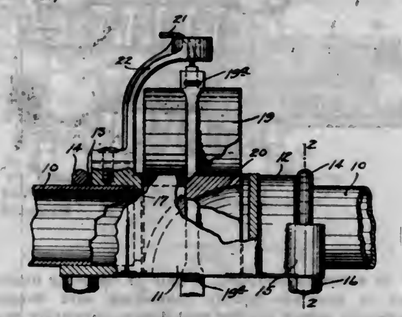
1,623,577. STRIPING MACHINE. SAMUEL COE, Jersey City, N. J. Filed Feb. 18, 1925. Serial No. 9,918. 3 Claims. (Cl. 91—12.)



1. In a paint striping machine, the combination of a cylinder, a piston in said cylinder, actuating geared means on the outside of said cylinder, said actuating means co-operating with the movement of said piston so as to force an even line of a tinctorial medium from the mouth of said cylinder.

1,623,578. COMBINATION CURTAIN AND SHADE HOLDER. JOSEPH DONAT, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed May 29, 1925. Serial No. 33,623. 2 Claims. (Cl. 156—24.)

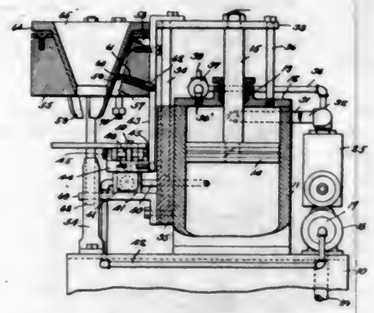


1. In a device of the class described, having a shade roller holder formed with a rear extension engageable with vertical corrugations between longitudinal guides, the combination of a base, an upper and lower flange depending from said base, and engageable beneath said longitudinal guides, forwardly extending cheeks projecting from said base, and formed with aligned apertures to pivotally hold said shade roller holder, and said base being formed with a slot to permit the said rear extension of said shade roller holder to engage the said vertical corrugations.

1,623,579. DOORLOCK. FRANCIS J. DOWLING, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 24, 1925. Serial No. 51,919. 24 Claims. (Cl. 292—140.)

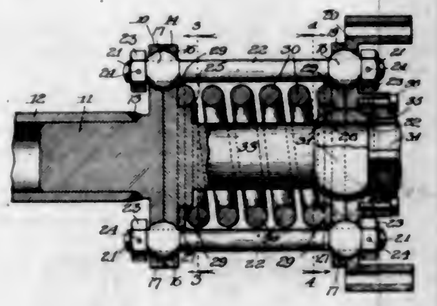
17. In a door lock, the combination with a casing and a strike, of movable means secured to a jamb and operative to hold the strike to the jamb, and anchor means on the door, said movable means being engageable likewise with said anchor means to limit the opening of the door.

1,623,580. EXHAUST CUT-OUT. EMIL R. DRAVER, Richmond, Ind. Original application filed Feb. 2, 1922, Serial No. 533,576. Divided and this application filed Apr. 23, 1923. Serial No. 633,878. 1 Claim. (Cl. 251—75.)



The combination with a valve casing having axially spaced and aligned sleeves with segmental portions, of exhaust pipe sections telescoped into said sleeves, nut-equipped U-bolts applied to the segmental portions of said sleeves and clamping said pipe sections, a valve working in said casing between said U-bolts and movable from one position in which the exhaust gases will be passed through both of said U-bolts to another position in which the exhaust gases will be directed from said casing at a point between said U-bolts, said sleeves having stops preventing said pipe sections from being telescoped completely through the same, and means located outward of said joints and cooperating with said U-bolts to form gas-tight joints between the pipe sections and sleeves.

1,623,581. APPARATUS FOR REMOVING WASTE GLASS FROM BLOWPIPES. JOHN L. DUNNOCK and CLARENCE R. NIXON, Baltimore, Md. Filed May 11, 1926. Serial No. 108,268. 13 Claims. (Cl. 49—14.)



1. In a moil removing machine, a knife head, a series of knives supported by said head and having cutting ends, said knives being mounted to contact with a blow pipe inserted between them, means to reciprocate said head and knives, and means controlled by the insertion of a blow pipe in the machine for effecting operation of the head reciprocating means.

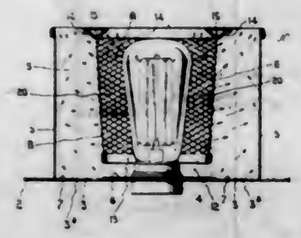
1,623,582. FLEXIBLE COUPLING. GEORGE F. ECKART, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to John M. Zane, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 13, 1922. Serial No. 600,600. 3 Claims. (Cl. 64—96.)

1. In a flexible coupling, a pair of opposing flanges, a series of members flexibly connecting said flanges, a compression spring holding said flanges outwardly against said members, a hollow spherical member mounted axially in one flange, and a shaft extending from the other flange and slidable in the hollow spherical member.

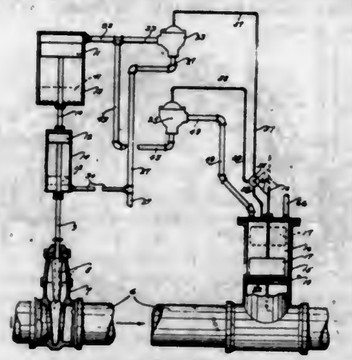
1,623,583. PARALLEL-BAR BUMPER. ROLLIE B. FAGEOL, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to American Chain Company, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 3, 1925. Serial No. 34,538. 5 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



1. In an automobile bumper, the combination with a pair of parallel front bars spaced in relation to each other, a back bar of greater vertical width than the space between the front bars and being disposed in overlapping relation to the ends of the front bars, means for holding said parallel bars in spaced relation to each other, means for positioning the back bar in overlapping relation to the ends of the parallel bars, and means whereby said front and back bars may be clamped in said assembled positions.

1,623,584. SPACER CLAMP FOR BUMPERS. ROLLIE B. FAGEOL, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to American Chain Company, Inc. Filed Nov. 11, 1925. Serial No. 68,310. 6 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

1. In a bumper, the combination of a pair of horizontally spaced flexible bumper bars, a plate engaging over the front surface of the intermediate portion of the front bar and having a rearwardly extending lug, a cooperating plate engaging over the rear surface of the rear bar, and means engaging the rear plate and lug to hold the bars in a fixed spaced relation.



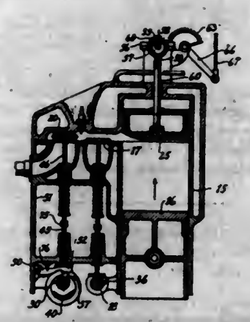
1,623,585. SIGN. CHARLES E. FAYLE, Montreal, Quebec, Canada, assignor to Joseph E. Ward, Montreal, Canada. Filed Sept. 8, 1925. Serial No. 54,885. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—130.)

1. An electric sign of channel form having a divisional unit detachably mounted within the channel and substantially conforming to the shape of the latter, said unit consisting of walls perforated throughout their entire area and supported in position with their inner edges spaced from the bottom of the channel and with their outer edges in transverse alignment with the outer edges of the channel, and a continuous bead mounted upon the outer edges of the said perforated walls, and brackets detachably supporting the unit.

1,623,586. BACKWATER VALVE. DONALD FORFAR, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Aug. 15, 1925. Serial No. 50,372. 12 Claims. (Cl. 137—68.)

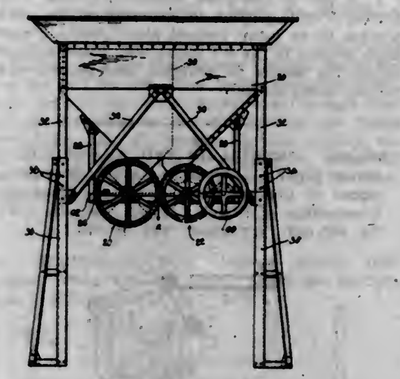
1. In a pipe line, the combination with a normally open gate valve for closing the pipe line, of a main water pipe leading from a source of supply under pressure, main and supplemental differential cylinders and pistons for opening and closing the gate valve, said main piston having a much larger area than the supplemental piston, said two cylinders being connected to the main water pipe, the water pressure in the supplemental cylinder being constant and normally holding the supplemental piston with the gate valve open, said main cylinder having a waste pipe, valves adapted to be closed by the water pressure in the main water pipe and normally closing the water supply to the main cylinder and opening the waste pipe therefrom, and automatic means for alternately releasing the water pressure in said valves to permit the same to open.

1,623,587. OUTLET BOX. OTTO A. FREDERICKSON, Wethersfield, Conn., assignor to The American Wiremold Company, Hartford, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Feb. 28, 1925. Serial No. 12,230. 5 Claims. (Cl. 247—15.)



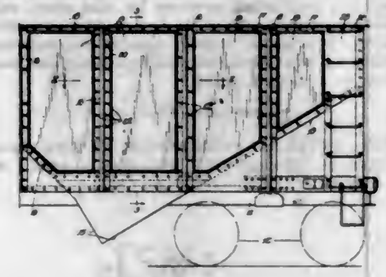
5. A cooperating conduit and outlet box, comprising, in combination, a conduit formed with opposite spaced grooves adapted to receive a tongue, an electric outlet box consisting of an open bottom casing for receiving differently shaped fittings and having a wall and an inwardly extending flange at its top face, a knock-out portion formed in the wall of the casing and removable to form a conduit receiving opening, a base plate constructed to fit within the open bottom of the casing and provided with a tongue adapted to engage the bottom of the knock-out portion when said portion is in place and constructed to enter the spaced grooves of the conduit when the conduit is inserted in the knock-out opening, and securing means extending from the inwardly extending flange to the base plate and adapted to force the base plate into clamping engagement with the conduit.

1,623,588. PROCESS OF MAKING FIBROUS COMPOSITION AND ARTICLES PRODUCED THEREFROM. EDWARD F. GERMAIN, Saginaw, Mich., assignor to Louis Germain, jr., Albert A. Germain, and Joseph Heidenkamp, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Edward F. Germain, Saginaw, Mich., trustees. Filed Feb. 8, 1926. Serial No. 86,941. 3 Claims. (Cl. 18—47.5.)



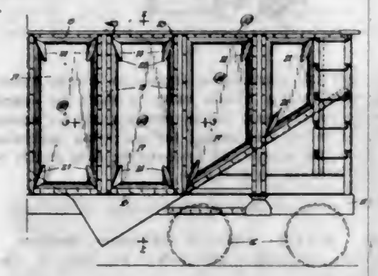
1. The process of making a plastic moldable material which consists in mixing dry acid-resistant fiber with dry pulverized material to such extent as to substantially fill the voids of the individual fibers with pulverized material and thereby cause the fibers to become carriers for said material, impregnating the filled fibers with a hot liquefied bituminous binder, kneading the resultant mass, rolling said mass into sheets, whereby to cause individual fibers therein to assume substantially parallel positions and serve as reinforcing members for said sheet, cutting said sheet into slabs adapted to fit a mold and subjecting said slabs to pressure, thereby causing the material of said slabs to flow outwardly and upwardly and assume the form of a molded article.

1,623,589. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. JOSEPH D. GRANATH, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 5, 1926. Serial No. 92,423. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—182.)



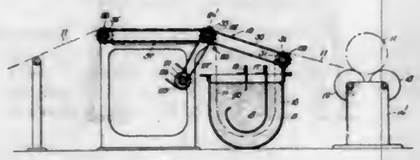
In an internal combustion engine an intake valve, an exhaust valve, and a release valve, a shaft for operating said intake and exhaust valves, and a shaft for operating said release valve, and means for operating continuously and at the same speed said two shafts, said shafts being positioned beneath said engine.

1,623,590. MIXER. JOHN H. GUNNISON, Madison, Wis. Filed July 8, 1922. Serial No. 573,710. 3 Claims. (Cl. 83—73.)



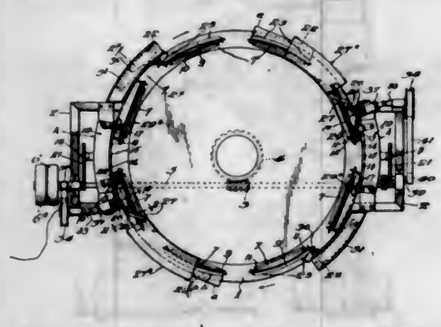
1. Measuring means comprising a container having a wall and a bottom opening, a drum covering said bottom opening and operable adjacent the edge of said wall, said drum receiving material directly from the container, walls defining buckets in said drum, said walls being cut away to provide a clearance between them and the edge of said container wall, and yieldable extension means carried by the drum and cooperable with said container wall to seal the clearance between it and the bucket wall.

1,623,591. CAR CONSTRUCTION. HARRY S. HART, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 29, 1926. Serial No. 112,479. 7 Claims. (Cl. 105—409.)



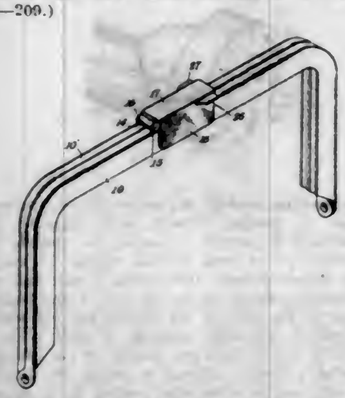
1. In a railway car, a wall construction comprising stakes, a wall portion between the stakes, said wall portion having its entire outer face substantially in the plane of the outer face of the stakes and being provided with inturned edges attached to the stakes.

1,623,592. CAR CONSTRUCTION. HARRY S. HART, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 7, 1926. Serial No. 139,983. 3 Claims. (Cl. 105—409.)



1. A car of the class described, having a wall comprising a main portion in an outer vertical plane and a portion in an inner vertical plane, means connecting the main portion to the car frame, and means reinforcing said connecting means to maintain said portion against distortion under stress.

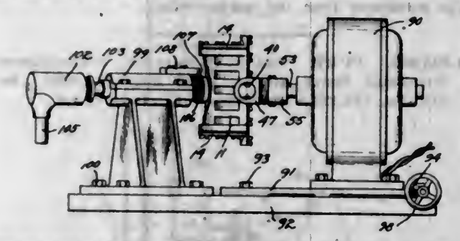
1,623,593. METHOD OF AND MEANS FOR COATING WIRE FABRIC. NOAH S. HARTER, Waukegan, Ill., assignor to Cyclone Fence Company, Waukegan, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 29, 1923. Serial No. 665,607. 4 Claims. (Cl. 91—70.2.)



2. A machine for coating metal fabric, having means to move the fabric through a coating bath; a rod extending across the fabric, normally out of contact therewith; a spring to hold the rod in normal position; a bracket movable by the spring and having an arm connected to the rod; another arm on the bracket; a wheel having spaced projections thereon to engage the latter arm and stress the spring whereby to strike the fabric with the rod when the arm is released.

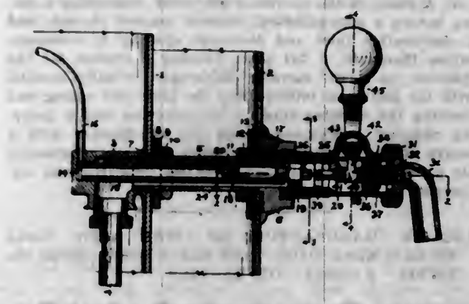
1,623,594. MACHINE FOR BEADING RADIATOR FINS. BERT H. HAWKINS, Royal Oak, and EDWARD R. HANSEN, Detroit, Mich., assignors to McCord Radiator & Mfg. Co., Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Dec. 16, 1924. Serial No. 756,181. 12 Claims. (Cl. 153—2.)

1. In a machine of the character described, the combination with a circular table, of means for holding a sheet-metal radiator fin strip on the table with the curved or rounded front edge of the strip along the outer curved edge of the table, and a set of rolls along said table edge for beading the curved edge of the strip while passing between the rolls.



1,623,595. COMBINED BAG CLASP AND CATCH. WILLIAM C. HERRING, Newark, N. J., assignor to J. B. Mergott Co., Newark, N. J., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 22, 1926. Serial No. 82,941. 3 Claims. (Cl. 292—209.)

1. The combination with a pair of frame members movable towards and from each other, of a clasp hinged to one of said members to embrace both members, a keeper on the other member, a pair of symmetric lateral extensions on said clasp, one of said extensions being rigid and the other yieldable, a spring in said clasp to normally project said yieldable extension outwardly, and a detent on said spring engageable with said keeper.



1,623,596. COMPRESSOR. FRANK E. HOLMES, Pasadena, Calif., assignor to Bloomfield-Holmes Corporation, Pasadena, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Sept. 17, 1925. Serial No. 56,861. 20 Claims. (Cl. 230—30.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination of: a housing forming a cavity of semi-cylindrical cross section; a piston swingably arranged in said cavity, said piston having a cylindrical exhaust valve chamber, an exhaust port connecting between said valve chamber and a radial face of said piston, and an exhaust passage connected to said valve chamber, there being a sector-shaped space between said radial face and a plane face of said housing, said sector-shaped space changing in size as said piston is swung; an intake valve through which fluid enters said space when same is enlarging; and a cylindrical exhaust valve engaging the cylindrical wall of said exhaust valve chamber and closing said exhaust port, said exhaust valve allowing fluid to pass through said exhaust port when said space is decreasing in size.

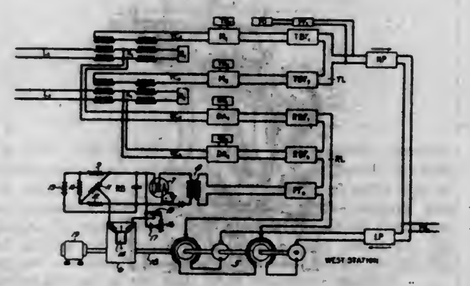
1,623,597. BEVERAGE-DISPENSING DEVICE. DAVID HUMPHREY, Cleveland, Ohio; H. J. Humphrey executor of said David Humphrey, deceased. Filed Aug. 19, 1922, Serial No. 583,012. Renewed Feb. 15, 1927. 10 Claims. (Cl. 225—21.)

1. A beverage dispensing faucet having a passage for the flow of beverage therethrough, a main valve for controlling said passage which when open will permit a continuous discharge of the beverage, and a gas connection extending into said passage having a valve seated reversely to said main valve and adapted to be opened thereby to permit carbonated gas to be injected into said passage and the flowing beverage at any desired interval and for any desired duration of time during the discharge of the beverage.



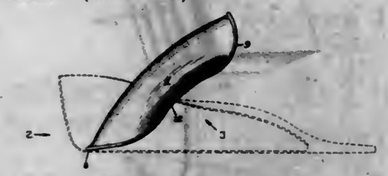
1,623,598. CARBON CATALYST AND PROCESS OF MAKING IT. CHARLES B. JACOBS, Wilmington, Del., assignor to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 27, 1920. Serial No. 426,864. 16 Claims. (Cl. 23—234.)

1. A chemical reagent comprising carbon obtainable by thermally decomposing the alkali-soluble constituents of wood at a temperature below 500° C., said carbon being more reactive chemically than carbon produced at a higher temperature.

1,623,599. METHOD OF REMOVING CYANIDES FROM MASSES CONTAINING THE SAME. CHARLES B. JACOBS, Wilmington, Del., assignor to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 10, 1921. Serial No. 451,094. 12 Claims. (Cl. 23—84.)

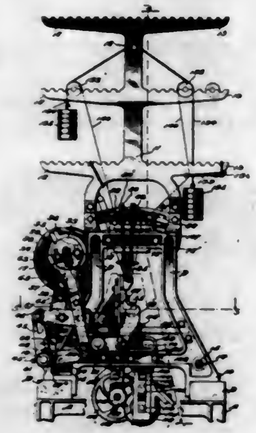
1. The method of removing alkali metal cyanide from cyanized furnace product containing the same which comprises digesting the same with substantially merely sufficient water, comprising mother liquor resulting from removing cyanide from a cyanide solution obtained by a previous operation, to give a substantially saturated solution, and subjecting the mass to directly applied relatively high pressure to expel cyanide solution.

1,623,600. TRANSMISSION REGULATION. JACOB S. JAMMER, New York, N. Y., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 26, 1924. Serial No. 752,319. 12 Claims. (Cl. 179—15.)



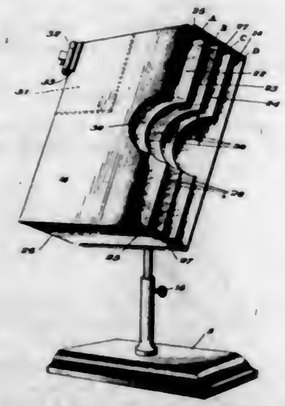
1. A line divided into sections, repeater stations including repeaters connected between respective line sections, means at each repeater station actuated by current incoming over the adjacent line section to vary the gain characteristics of the repeater at that station to compensate for line transmission variations within predetermined limits, and means actuated in response to transmission variations in a line section exceeding said predetermined limits for varying the gain characteristics of a repeater at a repeater station on said line remote from said line section.

1,623,601. PROCESS OF MAKING CAVIAR. DELOS H. SMITH, Port Washington, Wis., assignor to Smith Brothers, Port Washington, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Oct. 9, 1925. Serial No. 61,586. 4 Claims. (Cl. 99—8.)



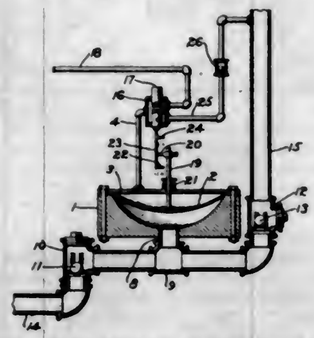
4. The process of manufacturing caviar comprising screening fish roe to allow the passage through the screen only of the roe and the juice from broken eggs, discarding the material left on the screen, separating the eggs from the liquid in the screened material heating the liquid to approximately 182° F., curing the roe, adding the liquid to the roe and intimately mixing to cause the roe to become fixed in a jelly-like matrix, sealing the mass in cans, and sterilising the cans.

1,623,602. BEDPAN SHIELD. DUDLEY SMITH, Oakland, Calif. Filed Nov. 24, 1924. Serial No. 751,793. 3 Claims. (Cl. 4—112.)



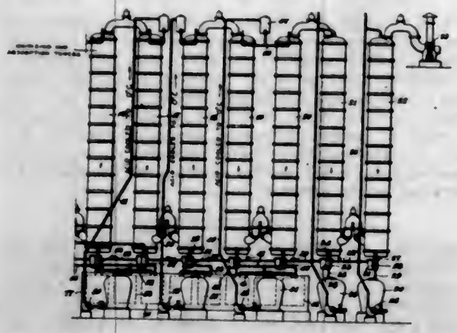
1. A bed pan shield comprising a toroidally curved shell, the lower edge of which is flared to provide a stable support, and the lateral edge of which are curved to provide an effective and comfortable contact with the body of the user.

1,623,603. WARP-KNITTING MACHINE. ISAAC SPRINGTHORPE, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Springthorpe Textile Machine Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 28, 1918. Serial No. 242,480. 3 Claims. (Cl. 66—86.)



1. In a knitting machine, the combination with a bodily displaceable needle bar, of means mounting the needle bar for lateral bodily shifting, brackets or carriers supporting the needle bar, a rock shaft, rockers on said shaft which have slots that slidably receive the brackets, whereby movement of the rockers positively pushes the needle bar upwardly and pulls it downwardly, a main shaft, an adjustable or settable timing operative connection between said main shaft and the rock shaft, and a second adjustable or settable timing operative connection between said main shaft and said means for mounting the needle bar, said needle bar being thereby subject to the action of two actuating means both of which are timed and operated by the main shaft, both actuating means being positive in action, whereby the cycle of movement of the needle bar may be exactly predetermined by individual and relative adjustment of the timing connections aforesaid.

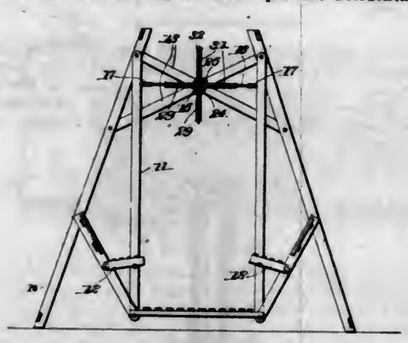
1,623,604. STATIONERY HOLDER. BETTY SUVAN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Elizabeth Sullivan, Detroit, Mich. Filed Mar. 15, 1926. Serial No. 94,802. 1 Claim. (Cl. 45—64.)



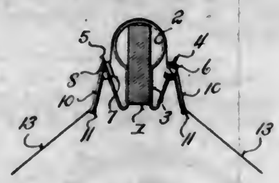
A stationery holder comprising a vertical standard, an obliquely disposed casing attached thereto and open at one side thereof, a plurality of partitions arranged in parallel relation in the casing and defining a plurality of stationery receiving compartments, each of the partitions and the front wall of the casing being provided with registering notches to facilitate grasping and removal of the stationery from the compartments.

1,623,605. PUMP. URLYN C. TAINTON, Johannesburg, Transvaal, South Africa. Filed Aug. 20, 1924. Serial No. 733,122. 4 Claims. (Cl. 103—44.)

1. A pump of the character described comprising a casing having a semi-spherical chamber formed therein, and a combination inlet and discharge opening in communication therewith, a flat plate forming a closure for the chamber, an elastic movable diaphragm normally parallel with the plate and intermediate the plate and casing and dividing the chamber into an air receiving and a pumping chamber, means connecting the air chamber with a source of air supply under pressure, and means whereby air under pressure will be alternately admitted and discharged.



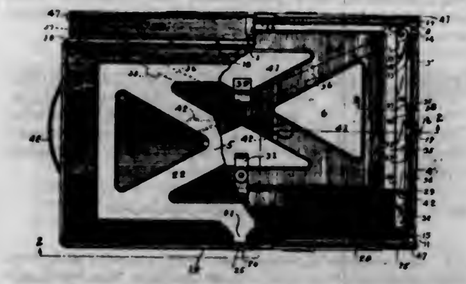
1,623,606. MANUFACTURE OF NITRIC ACID. CARLO TONIOLO, Milan, Italy. Filed Sept. 9, 1926. Serial No. 134,341. 5 Claims. (Cl. 23—161.)



1. The process of manufacturing nitric acid comprising passing gases including oxides of nitrogen through a series of towers, circulating acid through said towers in a direction opposite to the general direction of progress of said gases, and cooling the acid between a plurality of intermediate towers to approximately 0° C. so that said acid as it comes into contact with said gases in said towers is approximately 0° C. in temperature.

1,623,607. SWING-OPERATED FAN. JOHN WATKINS and WILLIAM E. WATKINS, Milmay, N. J. Filed Aug. 27, 1923. Serial No. 659,535. 1 Claim. (Cl. 230—7.)

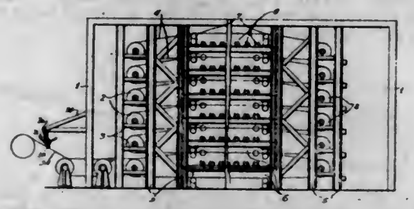
A fan device of the class described, in combination with a swing-driven shaft, collars on said shaft, rods radiating from said collars and removably secured thereto, fan wings of flexible material having sleeves at their ends applicable to said rods, means to prevent accidental detachment of the sleeves from the rods, said collars being adjustable on said shaft toward and away from each other, and means to secure the collars in adjusted positions rigidly to said shaft.



1,623,608. YARN-TENSIONING DEVICE. ARNO WETZEL, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Oct. 30, 1926. Serial No. 145,224. 4 Claims. (Cl. 242—147.)

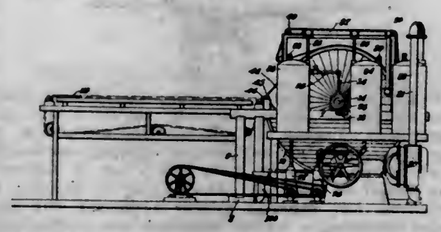
1. A yarn tensioning device comprising a pair of arms adapted for positioning on opposite sides of a support, said arms being connected by an upper portion over which the yarn is adapted to pass, said arms having outwardly extending parts provided with eyelets through which the thread is passed, and having weighting levers pivotally mounted on the outwardly extending portions and bearing against said thread to hold said thread against the upper portion with a predetermined amount of pressure.

1,623,609. COLLAPSIBLE BOX. HENRY H. YERK and WILLIAM J. BAUMBERGER, Davenport, Iowa, assignors to Micro Machine Company, Bettendorf, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed Mar. 3, 1924. Serial No. 696,435. 14 Claims. (Cl. 220—6.)



1. A folding box comprising front and rear walls, end walls each comprising a pair of sections hinged together and to the front and rear walls and disposed inwardly between the front and rear walls, a bottom member hinged to one of the side walls and swinging upwardly, and bridging members carried by certain of said end wall sections, said members being slidable to rigidly interlock with the adjacent end wall sections to hold them against inward swinging movement.

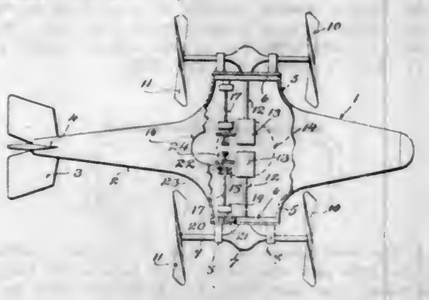
1,623,610. FASTENING DEVICE. ANTON ZEINDLHOFER, Sr., Vienna, Austria, assignor to Grove-Lock Co. Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 1, 1926, Serial No. 133,020, and in Austria Feb. 15, 1926. 5 Claims. (Cl. 292—207.)



4. The combination of a pair of members normally parallel with each other and adapted to be moved towards and away from each other, a slide located upon one of the members and longitudinally slidable thereon and adapted to engage the other member during its longitudinal sliding movement, to hold it closely adjacent, the engaged member having a portion adapted to permit the disengagement of the slide from the other member.

1,623,611. AUTOMATIC CIRCUIT BREAKER FOR DRYING MACHINES AND THE LIKE. JOHN E. ALEXANDER, Port Edwards, Wis., and STEPHEN A. STAEGE, Pittsburgh, Pa.; said Staege assignor to said John E. Alexander. Original application filed May 15, 1924, Serial No. 713,637. Divided and this application filed Sept. 2, 1925. Serial No. 53,979. 5 Claims. (Cl. 34—48.)

1. A drier unit comprising web conveying means, electrical heating means adjacent said conveying means and control means for disconnecting said heating means upon breakage of the web.



1,623,612. SHINGLE MACHINE. HARRY APPLIN, Ambler, Pa., assignor to Ambler Asbestos Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 16, 1926. Serial No. 116,291. 26 Claims. (Cl. 25—42.)

1. A mechanism for forming plastic material into plates, slabs and the like, comprising a member having a vacuum chamber forming said plastic material into a unitary mass of desired shape, cords associated therewith adapted to remove said mass as a unit while preserving its shape, and means whereby a vacuum in said chamber effects the holding of said plastic material to said cords.

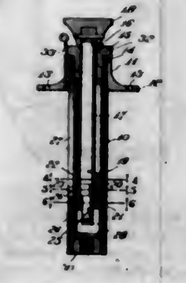
1,623,613. FLYING MACHINE. MAX M. ARNDT, Manitowoc, Wis. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,283. 2 Claims. (Cl. 244—14.)

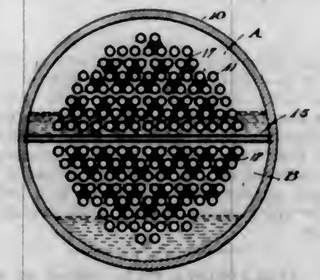
1. A flying machine comprising a body portion, a pair of revolubly mounted heads on opposite sides of the body portion, a relatively large gear carried by each head, a relatively small pinion meshing with each gear, manually operated means for rotating and locking said pinions, a pair of propellers located on each side of said body portion with their shafts carried by said heads, and a driving motor for each pair of propellers, said driving motors being located within the body portion, said propellers constituting the sole sustaining means for said flying machine and being adapted to be set at an angle to the horizontal to provide both a propelling and a lifting force.

1,623,614. BLOTTER DEVICE FOR PENS. PETER BECSI, Durand, Mich. Filed Feb. 8, 1926. Serial No. 86,947. 8 Claims. (Cl. 120—26.)



1. In a blotting device, a roller, a blotter tube removably mounted thereon, a carrier for the roller and a clip rotatably mounted on the carrier centrally thereof, and means for locking this clip and carrier.

1,623,615. ROPE CLAMP. STEPHEN BONA, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed Oct. 27, 1925. Serial No. 65,202. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—133.)

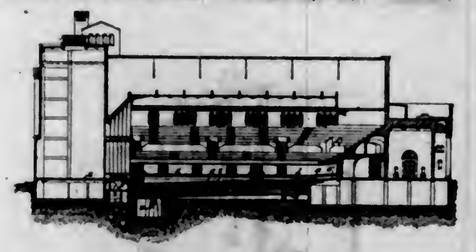


1. A clamp comprising, in combination, a frame structure including a longitudinal body portion, a rope engaging loop formed on the rear extremity of the body, a pair of oppositely disposed brackets extending downwardly at the forward portion of the body, a pair of U-shaped ears formed on the lower extremities of the brackets, a detachable rope engaging member associated with the frame embodying a tapered segmental cam, transversely directed teeth formed on the upper arcuate edge of the cam, an angular radially directed lever formed on the forward edge of the cam, a loop formed on the upper edge of the lever, the said rope engaging member being pivotally connected upon the bracket ears by a pair of transversely directed pins mounted on the sides of the said cam.

1,623,616. REGULATING DEVICE FOR CONTROLLING THE OPERATION OF VALVES OR THE LIKE. PHILIP C. P. BOOTY, Chicago, Ill., assignor to William M. Bansley, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 10, 1919, Serial No. 336,785. Renewed Sept. 27, 1926. 12 Claims. (Cl. 74—39.)

1. In a regulating device of the class described, the combination of a longitudinally reciprocable adjusting stem having an eccentric bearing portion, an elongated guide for said stem, and eccentric means mounted on said bearing portion and adapted upon a rotary movement of the stem to lock the stem relative to the guide at any point throughout its range of longitudinal movement relative to the guide.

1,623,617. CONDENSER, COOLER, AND ABSORBER. CARL F. BRAUN, Pasadena, Calif. Filed Feb. 7, 1923. Serial No. 617,493. 5 Claims. (Cl. 257—239.)

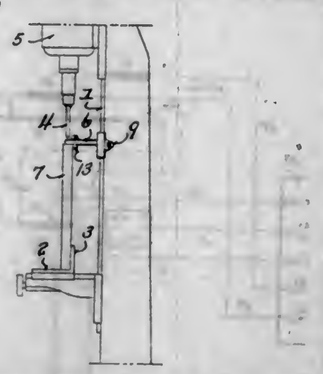


1. A condenser comprising an outer shell extending horizontally, a central longitudinally extending partition wall forming parallel passageways within said shell, a tube nest comprising two groups of tubes, one extending longitudinally of each passageway, and transverse baffle plates having imperforate portions for maintaining a direct ratio between the cooling and condensing surfaces.

1,623,618. METHOD OF PRODUCING GALVANIZED CORRUGATED METAL PIPE. WILLIAM J. COOK, Wheeling, W. Va., assignor to Wheeling Steel Corporation, Wheeling, W. Va., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 5, 1924. Serial No. 711,287. 4 Claims. (Cl. 113—33.)

1. The method of making galvanized corrugated sheet metal pipe, which consists in galvanizing the metal subsequent to the steps of corrugating the sheet and curving the same into tubular form and prior to closing the overlapping edges upon each other.

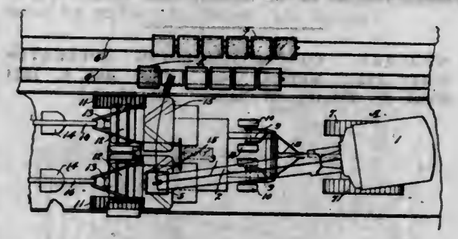
1,623,619. CONVERTIBLE AUDITORIUM. JAMES S. DEAN, Sacramento, Calif. Filed Nov. 9, 1925. Serial No. 67,762. 8 Claims. (Cl. 20—1,123.)



1. In an auditorium, a stage extending across said auditorium, a main floor pivoted on an axis spaced from and adjacent to the end of said floor remote from the stage, said floor when horizontal being in the plane of the stage, and means acting at a point spaced from and adjacent to the stage end of said floor for rotating said floor about said axis whereby when the stage end of said floor is lowered the remote end thereof is higher than said stage.

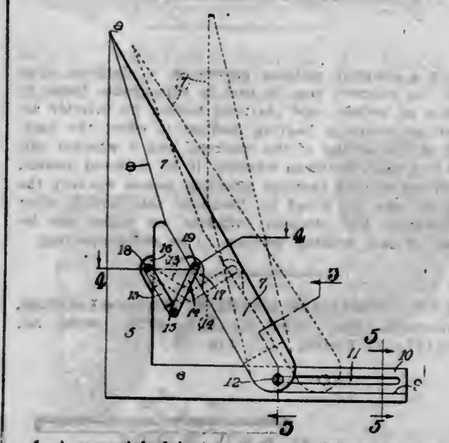
1,623,620. METHOD OF PREPARING WALL COVERING. ALFRED C. DODMAN, Jr., Summit, N. J. Filed Sept. 13, 1924. Serial No. 737,627. 5 Claims. (Cl. 92—40.)

1. The method of applying color to paper which comprises adding a carrier to a color, drying the carrier and color and adding the color and carrier in a finely divided state to the paper pulp while on the wires of a paper making machine.



1,623,621. GAUGE FOR MORTISING MACHINES. VICTOR HAYES KELLEY, Madison, Wis., assignor to Madison Tool and Stamping Works, Madison, Wis. Filed May 21, 1926. Serial No. 110,788. 4 Claims. (Cl. 144—84.)

2. A combined hold down and top back fence comprising a body portion having guide receiving slides, and having a transverse back fence adjustably mounted upon its lower side.



1,623,622. TWIN-MIXER CONCRETE-PAVING MACHINE. PHILIP A. KOEHRING, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Koehring Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation. Filed Mar. 27, 1926. Serial No. 97,932. 6 Claims. (Cl. 214—17.)

1. In a concrete mixing and distributing machine, a portable traction base adapted to progressively move along a road subgrade where concrete pavement is to be laid, a plurality of mixers carried by said traction base and arranged transversely of the direction of progressive movement of the same, a crane connected with the traction base to move therewith and comprising crane mechanism for loading the mixers aforesaid by alternately charging aggregates thereinto, means associated with the mixers for distributing concrete mixed therein and discharged therefrom and means for propelling the traction base and crane to cause advance of the machine progressively over the subgrade in the manner set forth.

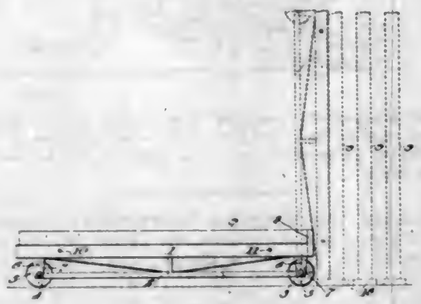
1,623,623. GEOMETRICAL INSTRUMENT. LOUIS P. KOLODGE, New Kensington, Pa. Filed Oct. 19, 1926. Serial No. 142,659. 4 Claims. (Cl. 33—94.)

1. A geometrical instrument comprising a square composed of rigidly connected arms extended at right angles to each other, a straight edge member, means connecting said straight edge member at one end to one of said arms for pivotal and sliding movement therealong, and an extensible connection between the intermediate portion of the straight edge member and the other arm of the square.



1,623,624. BEARING. HERMAN L. KUTTER, Hamilton, Ohio. Filed Dec. 26, 1923. Serial No. 682,685. 22 Claims. (Cl. 92—44.)

1. In a paper-making machine, comprising a side rail, and a plurality of table rolls supported thereby, a plurality of bearing members supported by said side rails and positioned to receive the said table rolls in rolling engagement, the construction being such that each bearing member as it rotates tends to cause corresponding rotation of one or more table rolls.

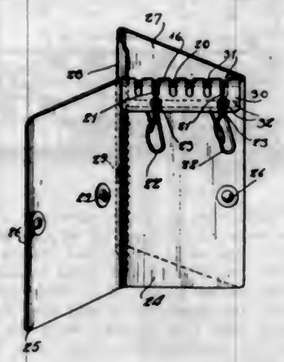
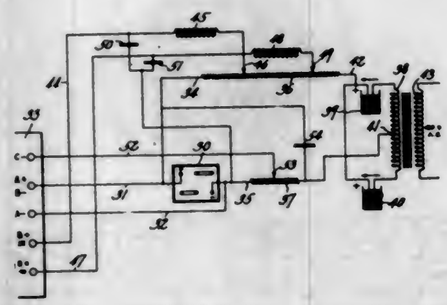
1,623,625. CONCRETE-MOLDING APPARATUS. SIMON LAKE, Milford, Conn. Filed May 6, 1924. Serial No. 711,418. 3 Claims. (Cl. 25—1.)



2. In a concrete molding apparatus, a platform upon which the concrete may be cast in appropriate forms to produce an article, said platform having its interior arranged to receive a heating medium to effect the hastening of the setting of the concrete, and a wheeled carriage for said platform whereby it is rendered mobile, the wheels of said carriage affording means whereby the platform may be tilted to discharge said article after the concrete has attained sufficient set under the influence of said heating medium to be self-supporting.

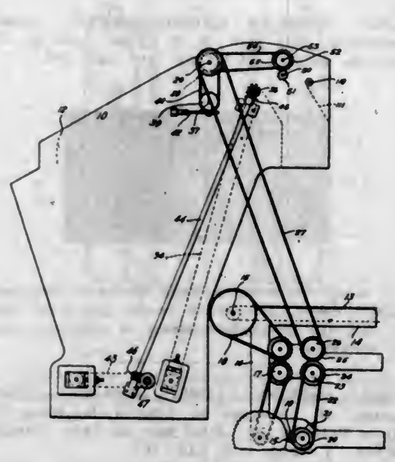
1,623,626. MORTISING MACHINE. WILLIAM LOEFFLER, Sheboygan, Wis. Filed Nov. 15, 1924. Serial No. 750,147. 13 Claims. (Cl. 144—69.)



1. An automatic mortising machine comprising means for holding the work stationary during the complete automatic operation of the machine, a cutter, means for operating said cutter and feeding it into the work to form a mortise, and means adapted to enter the mortise and square the ends thereof after the cutter has been withdrawn.

1,623,627. KEY CASE. CHARLES LORBER, Louisville, Ky. Filed Apr. 20, 1926. Serial No. 103,311. 7 Claims. (Cl. 150—40.)

7. A key purse including a body, a cover flap adapted to cover one side of the body, a second cover flap adapted to cover the remaining side of the body, and key holding means at one end arranged to permit movement of keys from position against one side of the body to lie against the other.



1,623,628. COMBINED A BATTERY TRICKLE CHARGER AND B SUPPLY. DIMMITT ROSS LOVEJOY, New York, N. Y., assignor to Lovejoy Development Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 16, 1926. Serial No. 141,930. 6 Claims. (Cl. 250—27.)

2. A power supply for audion circuits comprising a storage A-battery for supplying filament current, a charging line including a series resistance element in the positive lead for charging said storage A-battery at a low current rate, and a plate current supply line shunting a portion of said charging line between two points of suitable voltage difference.

1,623,629. FUR-WEIGHING MACHINE. FRITZ P. MANSBENDEL, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Sunfast Hats, Incorporated, Danbury, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Aug. 27, 1924. Serial No. 734,372. 34 Claims. (Cl. 249—4.)

1. In fur weighing and feeding apparatus for hat forming machines, in combination, a conveyor for fur, a weighing pan adapted to receive said fur from said conveyor, means adapted to drive said conveyor, means adapted upon movement of said weighing pan due to the weight of said fur thereon to interrupt said drive and lock said conveyor against further movement, and electrical means adapted at predetermined intervals of time to release said lock and re-establish said drive.

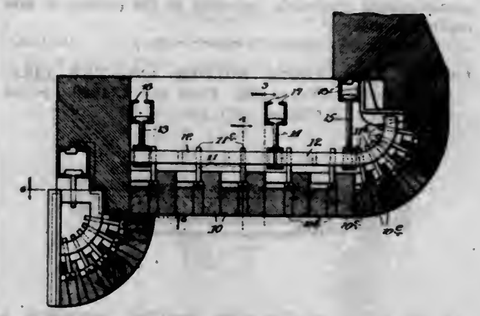
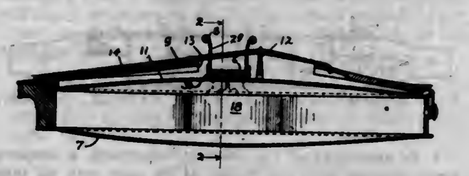
1,623,630. HAIRDRESSING APPLIANCE. THOMAS J. MARTIN and JEAN MULLER MARTIN, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 17, 1923. Serial No. 675,423. 5 Claims. (Cl. 219—24.)



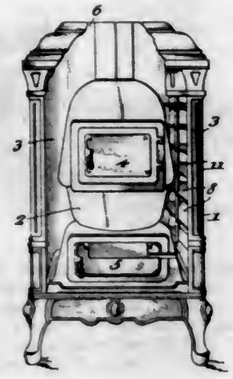
1. A hair dressing appliance having, a counterbored handle attachable to and registering with a chamber block, said block forming a spacing base between duel prongs and the said handle, the block aforesaid adapted to contain heat resisting material in which is embedded current conducting wires that pass from said handle and the prongs aforesaid.

1,623,631. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR PRODUCING PLASTIC ARTICLES. RICHARD V. MATTISON, Ambler, Pa., assignor to Ambler Asbestos Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 6, 1926. Serial No. 92,730. 24 Claims. (Cl. 25—42.)



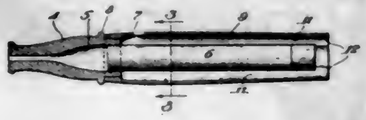
1. A mechanism for forming a plastic material, comprising a drum having an opening therein of a desired shape, vacuum controlled means for holding material to said opening, and means whereby varying thicknesses of material may be held to said opening by a substantially constant pressure at the source of said vacuum.

1,623,632. INSERTABLE FIRE BRICK. THOMAS E. MCCAIG, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 21, 1926. Serial No. 117,444. 2 Claims. (Cl. 110—99.)



1. A fire brick having a substantially central hole therethrough, a slot extending into said hole from one side, and a ledge associated with said slot adapted to receive the head of a hanger, whereby said hanger may be slid into said slot and turned by a tool inserted through said hole.

1,623,633. BOW GUIDE FOR VIOLINS AND THE LIKE. GEORGE M. MORRIS, Richmond, Calif. Filed Sept. 9, 1924. Serial No. 736,680. 8 Claims. (Cl. 84—283.)

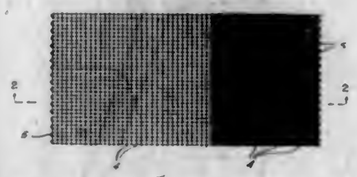


1. A bow-guide for a violin or the like comprising a supporting member, means for releasably mounting said member in spaced relation from and over the midportion of the belly of the violin between the bridge and finger board, and a guide member displaceably mounted on said supporting member.

1,623,634. AIR-CIRCULATION CONTROL FOR INCLOSED STOVES. EDWIN W. PAPE, St. Louis, Mo., assignor to Crescent Stove Works, Vanderburgh County, Ind., a Corporation. Filed Apr. 3, 1926. Serial No. 99,520. 10 Claims. (Cl. 126—67.)

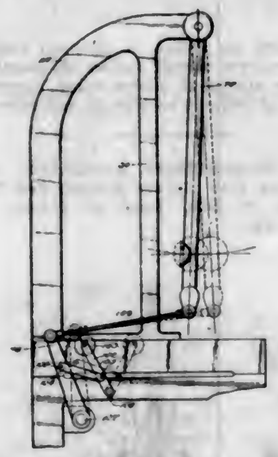
1. The combination with a stove or heater, of an inclosing shell or casing therefor, and regulable means carried by said shell whereby the heat within said shell may be radiated outwardly from the shell in different predetermined directions according to the setting of said regulation means.

1,623,635. CIGARETTE HOLDER AND THE LIKE. HELEN POTTS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 4, 1926. Serial No. 146,074. 3 Claims. (Cl. 131—51.)



1. An article of the class described comprising a mouth piece; and a hollow casing projecting therefrom and arranged to enclose a cigarette or the like, the sides of said casing being longitudinally recessed to receive the sides of said cigarette, there being air space in said casing above and below said cigarette, substantially as described.

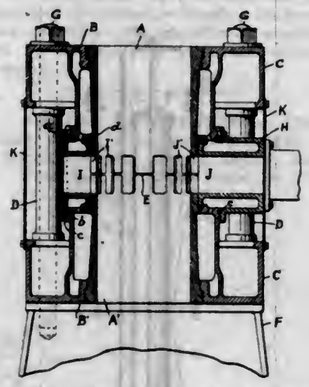
1,623,636. GAS-SEPARATING APPARATUS. MOORE M. REYNOLDS, Dawmont, W. Va. Filed Oct. 14, 1925. Serial No. 62,459. 4 Claims. (Cl. 183—75.)



1. In apparatus of the character described, a compartment provided adjacent to one of its ends with an inlet opening and adjacent to its opposite end with a screened outlet opening, the outlet opening being spaced from the top of the compartment, a screen covering the top of said compartment, a curved inclined deflector arranged within said compartment, adjacent to and in advance of the screened opening to cover the same, the top of the deflector being spaced laterally from the screened opening, said deflector serving to deposit the fine particles contained within the gases upon the bottom of said compartment, and means to pass gases through the compartment.

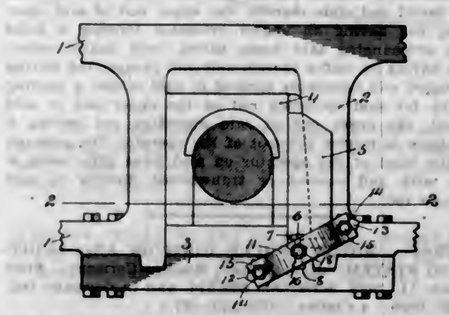
1,623,637. WOMAN'S UNDERGARMENT. ABRAHAM ROSENTHAL, New York, N. Y. Filed June 23, 1926. Serial No. 117,927. 4 Claims. (Cl. 139—383.)

1. A fabric for women's wear having a deep margin of closely woven material to render the same shadow proof, and the remainder thereof of relatively loosely woven material.



1,623,638. COPYING LATHE. HERMAN A. SCHULTZ, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Charles E. Reed, township of McHenry, Ill. Filed Mar. 29, 1924. Serial No. 702,812. 1 Claim. (Cl. 142—15.)

In a last lathe structure, the combination of a pattern-follower and cutting mechanism, a swing-frame supporting a pattern and the work for cooperation with said follower and cutting mechanism, respectively and grading mechanism with which the swing-frame and pattern-follower are connected, the axis upon which said frame swings being so located that said frame, in the cutting operation of the machine, swings to both sides of the vertical plane in which said axis is located.



1,623,639. CYLINDER STRUCTURE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. HANS R. SETZ, Upper Darby Township, Philadelphia County, Pa.; Bertha E. Setz administratrix of said Hans R. Setz, deceased. Filed Sept. 4, 1924. Serial No. 735,767. 14 Claims. (Cl. 123—173.)

1. In a cylinder structure for internal combustion engines, in combination, a cylinder comprising an inner liner and an outer jacket, upper and lower entablatures between which the cylinder extends, distance pieces connecting the entablatures and spaced from the outer jacket of the cylinder and the tie rods cooperating with the entablatures and distance pieces to form a rigid cylinder-supporting frame, the liner of the cylinder comprising two liner sections secured respectively at their upper and lower ends in rigid relation to the jacket and entablatures and free at their approximating ends to expand and contract longitudinally.

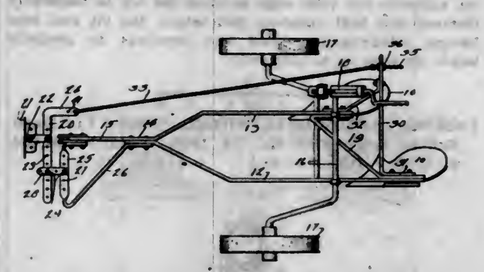
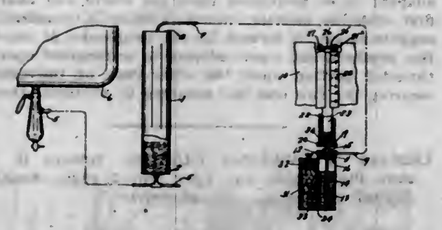
1,623,640. AXLE-BOX-WEDGE MECHANISM. RICHARD C. SHIPLEY and JAMES R. QUIGG, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Oct. 27, 1926. Serial No. 144,491. 6 Claims. (Cl. 105—81.)



3. In an axle box wedge mechanism, the combination with a frame having a horizontal groove transverse of the length of the frame, an axle box on said frame, and a vertically movable wedge engaging said frame and box and arranged when moved upwardly to tighten between the box and frame, of a second wedge longitudinally reciprocative in said groove and having an inclined upper side directly engaging the lower end of said first named wedge, and means including a spring for normally automatically forcing the second wedge in said groove in a direction such that the second wedge will lift the first named wedge.

1,623,641. STRUCTURE BUILDING CARD. EMIL C. SIXTA, La Habra, Calif. Filed June 22, 1926. Serial No. 117,818. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—35.)



4. Means for interlocking coordinate elements, comprising, in combination with said elements, gripping keepers clinched in predetermined, permanent position on respective faces of the elements and forming frictional gripping receivers, and plane-end key members to bridge the abutting junctures of meeting elements and fitting snugly in the clinched receivers substantially without side play therein.

1,623,642. PLOW HITCH. ANDREW E. SUTHERLAND, Madrid, Iowa. Filed Dec. 17, 1923. Serial No. 681,097. 1 Claim. (Cl. 278—96.3.)

A hitch adapted to be used with a plow having a plow bottom and draft beam, said hitch comprising a bar attached to the beam and extending laterally therefrom in a landslide direction, a draft bar, a link pivoted to the draft bar and the first mentioned bar, means for hitching to said draft bar substantially in line with said beam, said draft bar extending from said hitch means in the direction the soil is turned and having a pivotal connection positioned rearwardly relative to the hitch means, a frame connected to the plow bottom and extending laterally therefrom in the direction the soil is turned and an adjustable connecting rod between the outer end of said frame and said pivotal connection.

1,623,643. GAUGE. JOHN C. TAPP, Broomfield, Colo. Filed July 9, 1926. Serial No. 121,316. 2 Claims. (Cl. 73—54.)

1. Apparatus for indicating the amount of gasoline in the supply tank of an automobile, comprising a vessel the bottom of which is disposed a substantial distance below the bottom of the tank and the top of which is disposed a substantial distance above the bottom of the tank, a tube connection between the bottom of the tank and the bottom of the vessel, an indicating tube mounted on the dash board of the automobile, a liquid container adjacent the indicating tube, a reservoir positioned in juxtaposition to said liquid container, a tube connection from the bottom of said liquid container to the bottom of said indicating tube, a tube connection from near the top of said liquid container to the bottom of said reservoir, and a tube connection between said vessel and the top of the liquid container.

1,623,644. PLANE. THOMAS T. TVEDT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Dec. 5, 1922. Serial No. 605,010. 1 Claim. (Cl. 145—17.)

The combination of a bench plane iron, clamp plate and small thin bit or blade; the clamping plate having a bowed front clamping portion of such width relative to the bit or blade that when its front edge engages said bit near the cutting edge in the cutting position of the latter, the other side of the bowed portion engages the bit adjacent the rear edge so that the bit is resiliently clamped and held adjacent both edges, the bit and iron having inter-engaging pins and openings to properly locate its edge to be clamped.

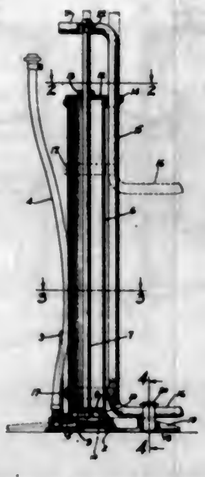
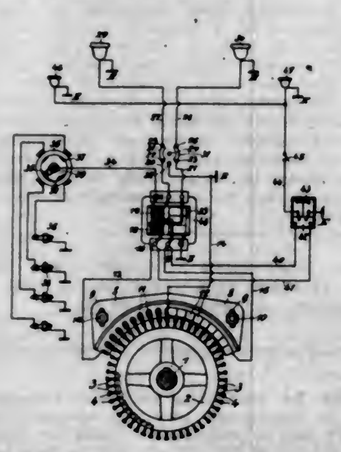
1,623,645. AUTOMOBILE WHEEL. GERRIT VAN DAAM, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Mar. 24, 1926. Serial No. 97,054. 4 Claims. (Cl. 301—63.)



1. In a vehicle wheel the combination of a hub on the axle spindle and a disk-like body member adapted to be secured upon the hub, a sleeve on the disk-like body member adapted to fit over the hub, a threaded portion upon the outer face of the hub, of a second disk-like member adapted to be positioned upon the sleeve and abut the first disk-like member, means whereby a complete tire supporting rim is formed by the peripheries of the disk-like members, and a nut adapted to be threaded upon the threaded portion upon the outer face of the hub for securing the two disk-like members in abutment thereon.

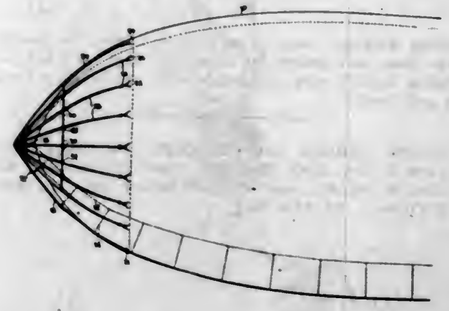
1,623,646. FLOWERPOT TRELLIS. HORACE H. VERBERY, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Sept. 7, 1926. Serial No. 133,847. 3 Claims. (Cl. 47—47.)



3. A flower-pot trellis embodying a cage consisting of a pair of crossed bottom-bars secured together at their intersection, the ends of said bottom-bars being bent upwardly and outwardly to form arms which together form a flaring receptacle for the pot, a trellis having posts, and means whereby these posts are attached to the exterior of a pair of said arms.

1,623,647. AIR PUMP. HENRY J. WEPPLO, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Feb. 27, 1925. Serial No. 12,085. 2 Claims. (Cl. 230—27.)

1. The combination with a pump barrel and a plunger and rod therefor, of an operating rod arranged outside of said barrel and having an extension adapted to encircle the barrel and slide thereon, the upper end of said operating rod having an angled extension forming a hand grip overhanging said pump barrel, said angled extension having an orifice therein and said plunger rod having its upper end removably secured in said orifice, a guiding means for said operating rod on the upper end of said barrel, the lower end of said operating rod having a footpiece to receive the foot of the operator, the pressure of the hand of the operator on said hand grip being in line with and exerted or transmitted directly to said plunger rod.



1,623,648. MOTOR-VEHICLE IGNITION AND LIGHTING SYSTEM. KARL WOLFF, Munich, Germany. Filed Jan. 11, 1922, Serial No. 528,524, and in Germany Oct. 29, 1920. 4 Claims. (Cl. 171—97.)

1. A system for ignition and illumination of motor driven vehicles, comprising, an alternating current generator driven by the vehicle motor and designed to supply medium frequency current at the cranking speed of the motor, reflector lamps, a rotary spark distributor, and a transformer having its primary winding connected both to the stator winding of the generator and to the reflector lamps, and its secondary winding connected to the rotary spark distributor, the transformer constituting the sole means for bringing the generator current up to ignition tension.

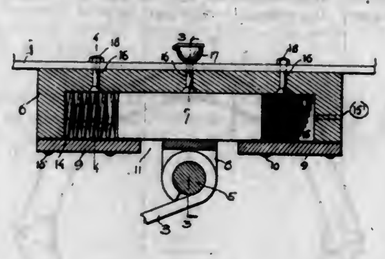
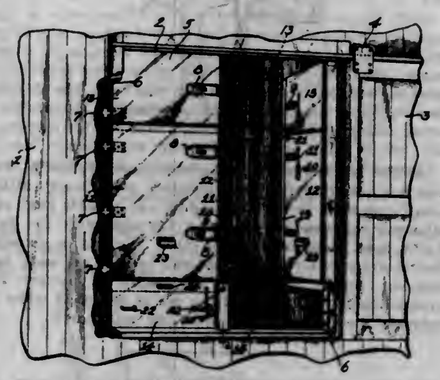
1,623,649. AIRSHIP NOSE BATTEN. CHARLES H. ZIMMERMAN, Akron, Ohio, assignor to The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Dec. 12, 1925. Serial No. 75,097. 14 Claims. (Cl. 244—3.)



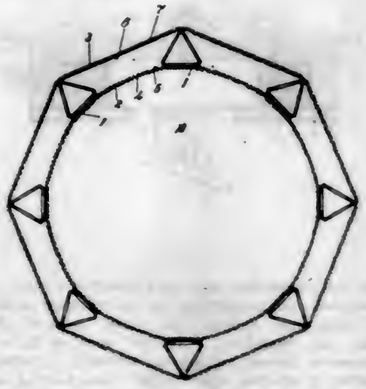
5. The combination with an airship envelope and keel projecting therefrom, of a plurality of nose battens pivotally connected to the keel and secured to the envelope outside the latter.

1,623,650. EXHAUST FAN OR BLOWER. ROBERT DUNBAR ANDERSON, Shreveport, La. Filed Sept. 19, 1923. Serial No. 663,570. 1 Claim. (Cl. 230—11.)



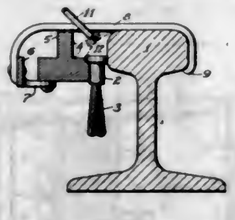
In an exhaust fan or blower, the combination with a casing, shafts journaled transversely said casing on either side thereof, and means for rotating said shafts in opposing directions, of fan blades mounted on said shafts, said fan blades being formed so as to converge to the axis of rotation of said shafts, for the purpose as described.

1,623,651. END CONNECTION AND SHOCK ABSORBER FOR VEHICLE SPRINGS. HARRY T. AYRES, Durango, Colo. Filed Oct. 1, 1924. Serial No. 741,047. 2 Claims. (Cl. 267—56.)



1. An end connection and shock absorber of the character described and comprising an open-bottom slide-block casing, removable bottom end plates secured thereto, providing end chambers, a central open space, a slide block mounted therein and having laterally extending and downwardly projecting spaced apart ears bearing against the bottom edges of said casing at said central space, the free end of the spring flexibly secured between said ears, a coiled spring within one of said end chambers interposed between said slide block and end of chamber, the opposite end of chamber having an opening to the atmosphere to admit freedom of movement of the slide block therein and permit movement of the free end of the vehicle spring.

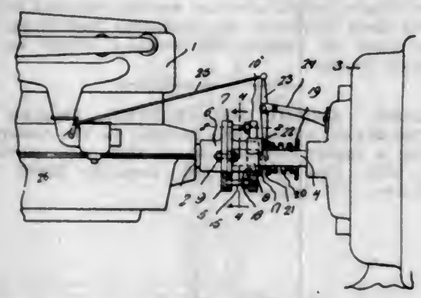
1,623,652. FREIGHT-CAR DOOR. HENRY BANG, Chicago, Ill., assignor of two-fifths to Theodore Carstensen, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 10, 1924. Serial No. 736,889. 3 Claims. (Cl. 20—27.)



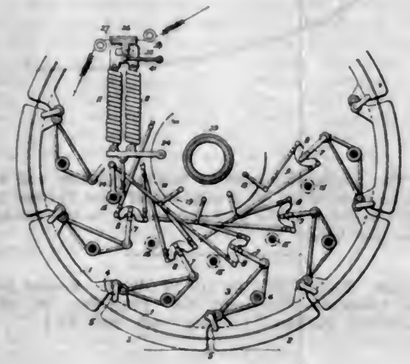
1. In a railway car a grain door formed and adapted to swing inward substantially and in effect as two sections hinged to the sides of the doorway respectively, each of said sections including a medial part and top and bottom parts each movable relative to the medial part, all of said sections being formed and arranged to overlap along their several mutually adjacent edges and the two bottom sections being slidable vertically for opening and closing.

1,623,653. GAS-INFLATED AIRSHIP. HANS BAUMMISTER, Stuttgart, and WILHELM E. DÖRR, Friedrichshafen, Bodensee, Germany, and KARL HÜTTLE, Akron, Ohio, assignors to Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Germany. Filed July 13, 1926, Serial No. 122,122, and in Germany Aug. 3, 1925. 10 Claims. (Cl. 244—3.)

1. An airship comprising a bag inflated with gas; the envelope of said bag having a brilliant inner surface adapted to reflect heat rays.



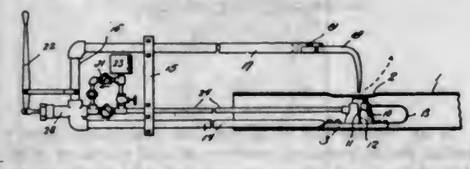
1,623,654. APPARATUS USED IN BONDING RAILS AND METHOD OF ITS APPLICATION. WILLIAM P. BOYARD, Mansfield, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Brass Company, Mansfield, Ohio, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 7, 1918. Serial No. 257,305. 14 Claims. (Cl. 219—10.)



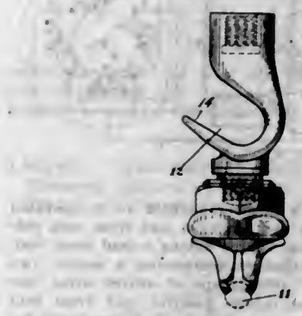
14. The method of securing rail bonds to rails comprising supporting the bond terminal in a closely fitting metallic member to rapidly conduct and radiate heat and adjusting the terminal adjacent the rail with the face of the bond terminal exposed, then applying a metallic electric arc to the terminal and rail to heat the same and applying molten metal to the parts to secure the terminal to the rail without the use of retaining walls to maintain the molten metal upon the said parts.

1,623,655. SPEED-GOVERNING DEVICE. EDGAR F. BROWN, Salisbury, Md. Filed Nov. 24, 1925. Serial No. 71,143. 1 Claim. (Cl. 264—11.)

In a speed governing device of the class described, a pair of discs disposed in meeting contact, one disk being adapted to be mounted upon a driving shaft and the other disk being adapted to be mounted upon a driven shaft, said last named disk being provided with a plurality of elongated slots, the other disk being equipped with circumferentially spaced bolts, certain ones of which extend through complemental slots to provide a driving connection between the disks, said driving connections permitting relative circumferential movement of the disks, certain of said bolts being provided with heads located in the remaining slots, said heads having bevelled faces, a body slidably mounted upon the driven shaft, a spring cooperating with said body to move it in a direction toward said disks, and projections carried by said body and including beveled ends engageable with the bevelled faces on said heads.

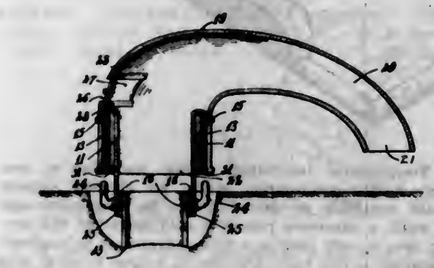


1,623,656. WHEEL FOR VEHICLES. FREDERICK WILLIAM BROWN, York, England. Filed Feb. 9, 1921, Serial No. 443,653, and in Great Britain Feb. 11, 1920. 9 Claims. (Cl. 152—30.)



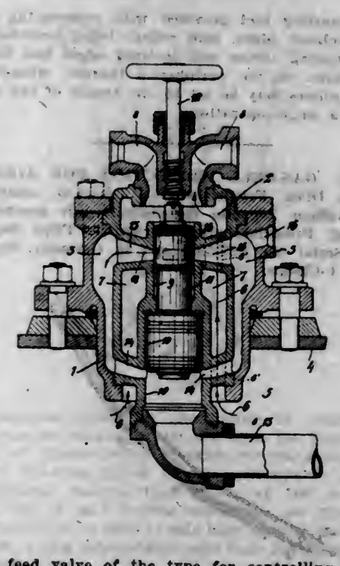
1. A spring wheel for motor cars and other wheeled vehicles having a contractible rim constructed in segments which are hinged to and supported on a series of crank levers pivoting within the wheel, their inner arms being connected to springs by equalizing levers and links so that equal pressure would cause equal radial movement at any part of the tread.

1,623,657. APPARATUS FOR ELIMINATING DENTS IN TUBES OR PIPES. LUTHER E. BROWN, Breckenridge, Tex., assignor of one-half to S. Caprito, Breckenridge, Tex. Filed Sept. 17, 1926. Serial No. 136,138. 9 Claims. (Cl. 153—48.)



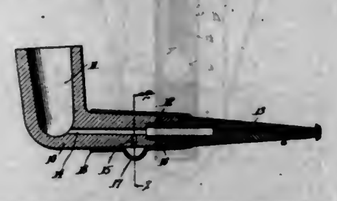
1. An apparatus for eliminating dents from tubes, pipes and the like comprising a shoe or runner having a pedestal, said pedestal being chambered, a plunger movable in the chamber of the pedestal, means for supplying fluid under pressure to the chamber below the plunger, and a pointer connected with the shoe or runner and adapted to operate exteriorly of a pipe, tube, or the like to indicate the position of the plunger within the pipe, tube, or the like.

1,623,658. CONDUCTOR SUPPORT. HOMER P. CHANDLER, Mansfield, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Brass Company, Mansfield, Ohio, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 13, 1925. Serial No. 29,933. 5 Claims. (Cl. 191—48.)



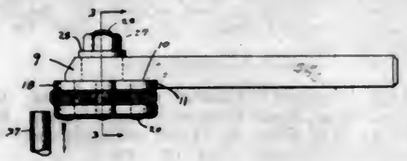
1. A conductor support comprising a primary support and a secondary support, the primary support comprising a supporting boss provided with means to secure the support to a hanger, an open groove to receive a feeder conductor, means to be formed about the feeder conductor to engage and secure the conductor in place, the secondary support comprising a pair of jaws to engage the conductor to be supported, means to move the jaws either into or out of engagement with the conductor and means to secure the jaws to the primary support and to conduct current from the feeder conductor to the conductor to be supported.

1,623,659. VENT CAP FOR SOIL PIPES. JOHN COMERFORD, New York, N. Y., assignor of one-third to Michael J. Martley, Bronxville, N. Y., and one-third to Harry Byrne, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 11, 1925. Serial No. 74,808. 1 Claim. (Cl. 98—122.)



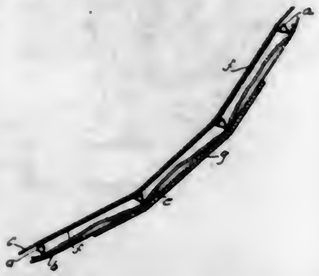
In a soil pipe the combination with a cylindrical ring member having diametrically opposite screw threaded openings therein, of detachable upright members having openings therein adapted to register with the openings of said ring, means comprising screw threaded studs adapted to be extended through the registering openings in said ring and in said upright members and to engage the sides of said soil pipe for clamping said ring thereon in an adjusted position and for securing said extensions to said ring, a thumb screw handle element on the outer end of said stud, and a detachable hood member secured to said extension at the upper end portions thereof disposed over and above the end of said soil pipe.

1,623,660. FEED VALVE FOR LOCOMOTIVES. GUSTAV DE GRAHL, Berlin-Zehlendorf-West, Germany. Filed Mar. 11, 1925, Serial No. 14,818, and in Germany Nov. 14, 1924. 5 Claims. (Cl. 137—153.)



1. A feed valve of the type for controlling the passage of superheated and wet steam respectively from a superheater and boiler to an injector comprising a casing having superposed chambers therein, the lower of which is provided with inlets for superheated and wet steam, each of said chambers being also provided with outlets, a differential cylinder in said casing arranged concentrically of both of said chambers, and a differential piston in said cylinder for controlling the passage of wet and superheated steam through said chambers and casing.

1,623,661. SMOKING APPLIANCE. WALDO C. DODGE, Winthrop, Mass. Filed Jan. 26, 1926. Serial No. 83,806. 4 Claims. (Cl. 131—12.)

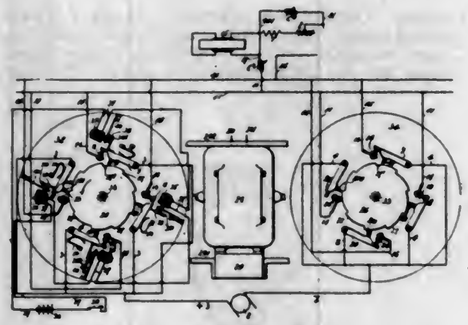


1. A smoking appliance comprising a stem having a longitudinal smoke passage therethrough and a transverse opening communicating therewith, and having on the stem a trap, an air duct leading from the atmosphere to said trap through the upperside wall thereof to ventilate it and permit the escape of gases therefrom.

1,623,662. KNURLING TOOL. GEORGE W. DOVER, Longmeadow, R. I., assignor to The Montgomery Tool and Machinery Company, a Corporation of Rhode Island. Filed Dec. 24, 1924. Serial No. 757,915. 5 Claims. (Cl. 80—5.1.)

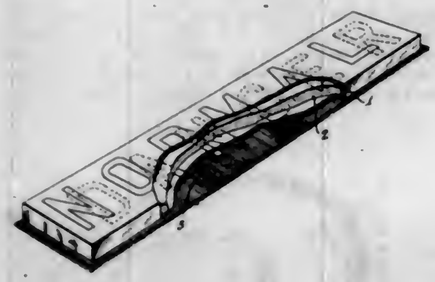
1. A knurling tool provided with cooperating rollers having inclined edges, said rollers being provided with teeth extending across said inclined edges and the central portions of the peripheries thereof, whereby the knurling rollers may be set to cut knurls of the desired depth at a single operation.

1,623,663. GAS-CELL PROTECTION FOR AIRSHIPS. LUDWIG DÜRR, Friedrichshafen, Germany, assignor to Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Germany. Filed Sept. 13, 1924, Serial No. 737,593, and in Germany Sept. 25, 1923. 4 Claims. (Cl. 244—3.)



1. An airship comprising an outer cover, a fragile part inside of said cover and spaced apart therefrom, a propeller outside of said cover and a protective layer of sheet-like material arranged between said outer cover and said fragile part and spaced from the latter.

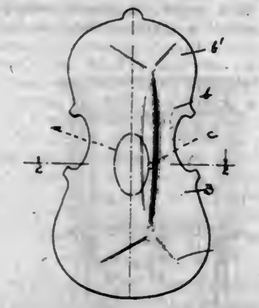
1,623,664. EXPLOSIVE CAP. WILHELM ESCHBACH, Trotsdorf, Germany. Filed Oct. 18, 1924, Serial No. 744,423, and in Germany Apr. 24, 1924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 102—9.)



An explosive cap consisting of a single metal tube provided with a narrow bore for receiving a retarding body, an intermediate conical bore for receiving the initial priming composition and a wide cylindrical bore for receiving the secondary charge, the dimensions of said bores being adapted to the quantities of the chargers contained within the cap.

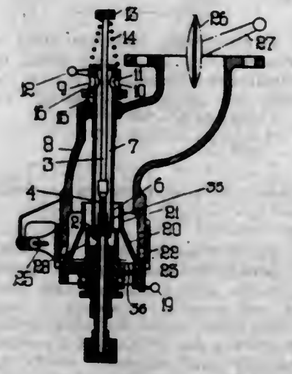
1,623,665. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR PRODUCING ALTERNATING CURRENTS. RICHARD D. FAY, Nahant, and EZEKIEL WOLF, Boston, Mass., assignors by mesne assignments, to Hammond V. Hayes, trustee, Boston, Mass. Filed Mar. 15, 1922. Serial No. 544,034. 6 Claims. (Cl. 175—364.)

1. In combination, a member adapted to be operated by alternating current and having a lead from each side thereof, a direct current source having a lead from each side thereof, a pole changer comprising a motor, two cams rotated thereby, two groups of switch arms, one group being connected to the positive lead from said source and the other to the negative lead, one group being located to be operated by each of said cams, and a series of contacts, each contact being adapted to be engaged by one of said switch arms, certain of said contacts being connected to one side of said member and the rest to the other side of said member, each cam being shaped to allow one switch arm of each group at a time to engage its contact and said cams being arranged whereby both cams will operate one switch arm of both groups simultaneously.



1,623,666. TEMPERATURE-INDICATING MEANS. KARL A. FERKEL, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 10, 1926. Serial No. 128,430. 6 Claims. (Cl. 116—114.)

4. Temperature indicating means, including a container, having transparent walls, an element outside of said container so placed as to be visible through said walls, a substance placed in said container and normally opaque, said substance being adapted to be rendered transparent under heat, whereby to expose to view said element.



1,623,667. STRING MUSICAL INSTRUMENT. HERMANN FISCHER, New York, N. Y. Filed July 28, 1925. Serial No. 46,549. 2 Claims. (Cl. 84—275.)

1. A string instrument comprising a back, a face, a string support, and connecting means for the said elements, the back having a thickened area disposed to one side only of its longitudinal axis, said area being relatively narrow and long, and extending parallel with said longitudinal axis both above and below the string support, as and for the purpose set forth.

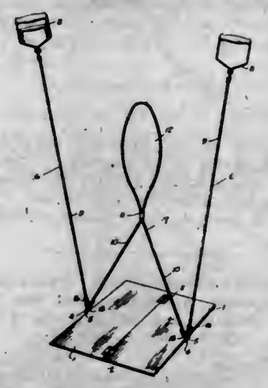
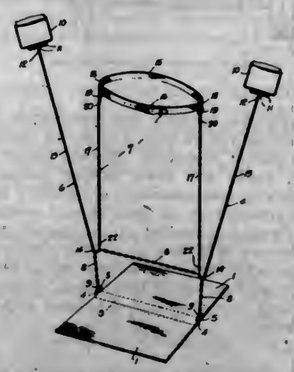
1,623,668. CARBURETOR. JOHN WILLIAM FISHER, Blackpool, England. Filed July 17, 1924. Serial No. 726,542. 3 Claims. (Cl. 261—63.)



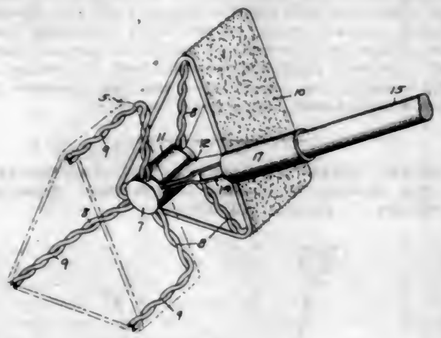
1. A carburetor for internal combustion engines comprising a fuel jet, a passage for an air supply moving in a diametrically opposite direction to the fuel supply, ports and a passage for a second air supply moving parallel with the fuel supply, and ports and a passage for a third supply of air substantially adjacent the ports for the second supply of air.

1,623,669. MAGNET-POWER-TRANSMISSION GEARING. JOHN G. FRANK, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Apr. 1, 1925. Serial No. 19,828. 4 Claims. (Cl. 172—239.)



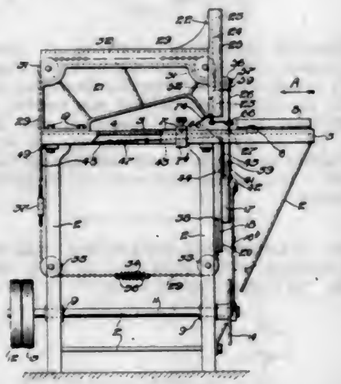
1. A magnetic driving mechanism comprising a main driving shaft, a main driven shaft, a magnetic coupling interposed between said driving and driven shafts including a field magnet operatively connected with said driving shaft and an armature operatively connected with said driven shaft, means for automatically controlling the picking up effect of said field magnet on said armature including a driving controller shaft operatively connected with the main driving shaft and a driven controller shaft operatively connected with said main driven shaft, a driving governor member mounted on said driving controller shaft and movable radially outward relatively thereto under centrifugal force, a driven governor member mounted on said driven controller shaft and movable radially outward relative thereto under centrifugal force and operatively connected with said driven governor member, a variable resistance, connected with the brushes of said armature, and means for varying said resistance by motion derived from said governor members.

1,623,670. EXERCISING APPARATUS. LEO FRANKENFELD, Hoboken, N. J. Filed May 25, 1923. Serial No. 641,301. 7 Claims. (Cl. 272—82.)



1. Exercising apparatus, comprising in combination, a base member adapted to lie flat upon the floor, and a plurality of independently extensible exercising devices attached at the ends thereof to said base member and having individual manipulating means at the free ends thereof, one of said devices comprising an elastic element attached at its ends to said base member and formed to provide a loop intermediate said ends for manipulating said element.

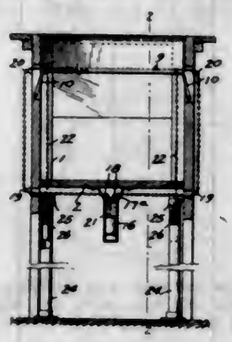
1,623,671. EXERCISING APPARATUS. LEO FRANKENFELD, Hoboken, N. J. Filed May 14, 1925. Serial No. 30,159. 12 Claims. (Cl. 272—80.)



3. Exercising apparatus, comprising in combination, a base member adapted to rest upon the floor, a flexible connecting element connected at opposite ends thereof to opposite sides of said base member, and of greater length than the width of said member, and a plurality of independent exercising devices connected to said flexible connecting element.

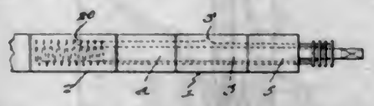
1,623,672. MOP. GEORGE GOULD, Olney, Ill. Filed Aug. 24, 1926. Serial No. 131,257. 2 Claims. (Cl. 15—228.)

1. In a mop of the character described, a central hub, frames having arms attached to the ends of the central hub and extending radially therefrom, fibrous absorbent material carried by said frames, a sleeve rotatably receiving the hub, and a handle carrying the sleeve.



1,623,673. JIG-SAW MACHINE. FRANK EDWIN GROSE, Coburg, Victoria, Australia. Filed Feb. 26, 1924, Serial No. 695,316, and in Australia Feb. 26, 1923. 5 Claims. (Cl. 29—74.)

1. In a jig saw machine, the combination of a framework supporting a work table and having upper and lower vertically aligned slideways disposed above and below said table, upper and lower sliding members adapted to reciprocate in said slideways, a vertically reciprocating saw blade attached at its ends to said sliding members, a flexible element connected at its opposite ends to said sliding members, said element passing over guide pulleys and moving with the reciprocating blade, and an apron extending over the top of said lower slideway to cover the same and connected to reciprocate with said lower sliding member.



1,623,674. CASHIER'S ROBBERY PROTECTOR. HENRY HAGENSTEDT, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 8, 1926. Serial No. 100,741. 2 Claims. (Cl. 268—2.)

1. A device of the character described comprising a frame, a closure carried thereby and consisting of a plurality of independent sections slidably mounted in said frame and having interlocking portions, a latch normally holding said closure in open position, flexible members connected to one of the closure sections adjacent the ends thereof, said flexible members having their lower ends provided with evenly balanced weights, separate barrels receiving said weights and portions of said flexible members, and springs in said barrels and adapted to urge said weights downwardly upon the release of said latch whereby to forcibly advance said closure to its closed position.

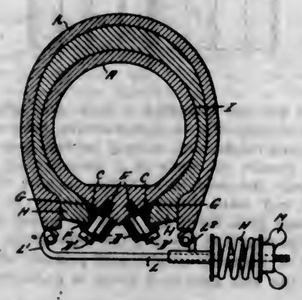
1,623,675. DEVICE FOR DETERMINING MOISTURE PERCENTAGE IN A WEB AND ROLL CONSTRUCTION THEREFOR. ARTHUR R. HARVEY, Middletown, Ohio. Filed Sept. 4, 1924. Serial No. 735,921. 10 Claims. (Cl. 73—51.)

1. In combination, an indicator, an operating means therefor comprising a rotatable element adapted for contact and rotation with a movable web, heating means mounted in said element for heating a portion of the web, heat responsive means mounted in said element for contact with the web at the heated portion and at an unheated portion and, responsive to the difference in temperature of the web at the points of contact, and means operatively connecting the heat responsive means with the indicator for operating said indicator to register the percentage of moisture in the web.



1,623,676. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR WORKING PAPER STOCK. ANTON J. HAUG, Nashua, N. H. Filed Aug. 18, 1924. Serial No. 732,842. 27 Claims. (Cl. 92—20.)

1. In a machine for working paper stock or the like, the combination with a cylindrical container having a stock inlet and a stock outlet, of means for advancing the stock from the inlet to the outlet, a plurality of rolls extending longitudinally through the cylinder and adapted to engage the material on the inner surface thereof, a main driving shaft extending through the cylinder, roll carrying devices at opposite ends of the cylinder comprising members secured to the shaft and rotatable therewith, roll carrying arms in which said rolls are journaled pivoted on said members in eccentric relation to the shaft whereby rotation thereof tends through swinging movement of the arms to move the rolls automatically toward the inner surface of the cylinder, and means for positively turning the rolls comprising a driven gear in each roll, an intermediate driving gear concentric with the axis of an arm, a sleeve rotatably mounted on the main driving shaft with means for driving the same, a driving gear carried by the sleeve, a driven gear mounted on the arm and meshing with said sleeve-carried driving gear and connected to turn the arm-carried driving gear, and means for varying the rate of rotation of the sleeve.

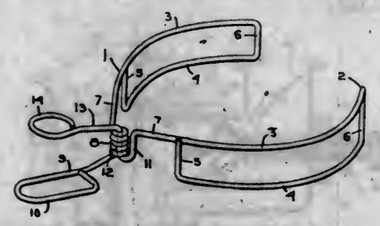
1,623,677. VULCANIZING APPARATUS. JAMES C. HEINTZ, Lakewood, Ohio. Filed July 13, 1925. Serial No. 43,141. 5 Claims. (Cl. 18—18.)

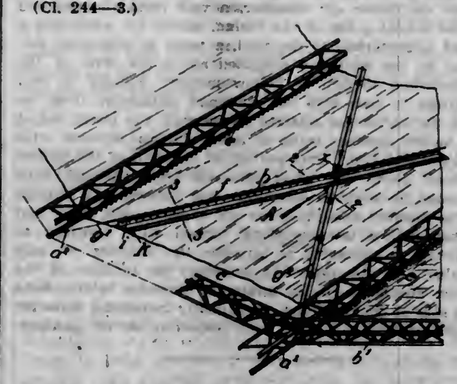
2. In a device of the kind described, a hollow arcuate shaped core having angularly disposed surfaces along its inner side and adjustable blocks connected to said surfaces, said blocks or shoes being shaped for engagement with the beads of a tire casing arranged upon the core.

1,623,678. PROCESS FOR PRODUCING 1.8-HYDROXYNAPHTHOIC ACID. RICHARD HERZ and FRITZ SCHULTE, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, assignors to Grasselli Dyestuff Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 12, 1926, Serial No. 122,029, and in Germany Nov. 29, 1924. 7 Claims. (Cl. 260—110.)



1. A new process for producing 1.8-hydroxynaphthoic acid which comprises treating 8-cyannaphthalene-1-sulfonic acid of the formula:

with an acid saponifying agent, treating the product thus obtained with a caustic alkali at an elevated temperature and isolating the formed 1.8-hydroxynaphthoic acid by acidifying the fusion mass.



1,623,679. HOT-DISH LIFTER. GRACE B. HOSLER, Reedsburg, Wis. Filed Apr. 9, 1925. Serial No. 21,831. 1 Claim. (Cl. 294—28.)

A hot dish holder comprising two jaws each having an upper lifting bar and a lower lifting bar, the lower lifting bar being connected at each end to the upper lifting bar, the upper bar of one jaw extending beyond the corresponding lower bar and being formed into a coil which extends at right angles to the upper bar, the lower turn of the coil having rigid therewith a loop handle and the upper bar of the other jaw being extended beyond the corresponding lower bar and the extended portion being bent downwardly at right angles to the upper bar and then being bent upwardly to form a U-shaped portion, said upwardly bent portion extending through the coil and having integral with the upper end thereof a horizontally-extending handle portion, said downwardly bent portion being outside of the coil.

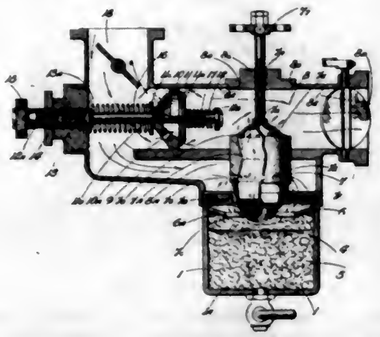
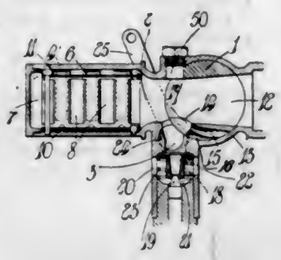
1,623,680. OUTER COVER ON RIGID AIRSHIPS. KARL HÜRTTLE, Akron, Ohio, assignor to Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschraenkter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Germany. Filed Aug. 12, 1925, Serial No. 49,712, and in Germany Sept. 25, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 244—3.)



1. A rigid airship comprising a hull; said hull comprising longitudinal members and transverse members; an outer cover stretched over said longitudinal members; said transverse members being distanced from said outer cover; and connecting means between said transverse members and said outer cover.

1,623,681. OUTER COVER OF RIGID AIRSHIPS. KARL HÜRTTLE, Akron, Ohio, assignor to Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschraenkter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Bodensee, Germany. Filed Sept. 12, 1925, Serial No. 55,904, and in Germany Sept. 18, 1924. 15 Claims. (Cl. 244—3.)

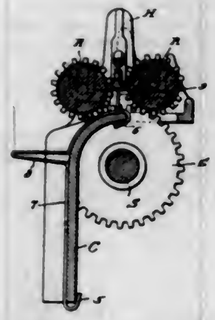


1. A piece of outer cover for a rigid airship comprising an inner main portion of light fabric and a stronger edge strip surrounding said main portion.

1,623,682. CARBURETOR. JOHN ALFRED JACKSON and PATRICK SWANSON, Invercargill, New Zealand. Filed Sept. 18, 1920. Serial No. 411,102. 2 Claims. (Cl. 261—107.)

2. A carburetor comprising a casing formed with an air inlet and with a partition dividing the casing into an upper and lower air chamber, a well removably secured at the lowest point of the casing, means for admitting a liquid hydrocarbon to the well, a mass of absorbent material in the well and extended above the level of the hydrocarbon therein, a hollow member slidable in said partition in line with the well and adjustable from beyond the carburetor relative to the well, the lower end of the hollow member being of mesh material covered with an absorbent layer, that portion of the wall of the hollow member above the mesh material being formed with openings to establish communication between the interior of the member and the lower air chamber, the upper end of the hollow member being formed with openings to establish communication between the interior of said member and the upper air chamber, the interior of the hollow member being of minimum diameter intermediate said sets of openings and of gradually increasing diameter in both directions toward each respective set of openings.

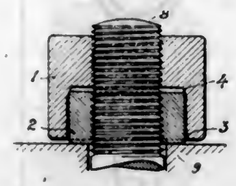
1,623,683. CARBURETOR. JOHN T. JENNINGS, Birmingham, England. Filed Dec. 4, 1922, Serial No. 604,903, and in Great Britain Mar. 17, 1922. 1 Claim. (Cl. 261—43.)



A carburetor for supplying an explosive mixture which varies in quality as the speed of the engine changes and also as the throttle restriction is altered, comprising a mixing chamber, said chamber having an opening for the entrance of secondary air, a loaded valve controlling the entrance of secondary air through said opening, a branch passage opening into the mixing chamber for the admission of primary mixture, said branch passage having openings for the admission of fuel and primary air, and throttle means for restricting the outlet of the mixing chamber and also the branch passage at a point between its fuel inlet and said mixing chamber simultaneously by a single controlling operation, there being no restriction between the junction of said branch passage with the mixing chamber and the loaded valve, whereby the loaded valve responds consistently to changes of engine speed at all working throttle positions to provide additional air with an increase of engine speed, and an increase in the proportion of fuel in the mixture admitted is provided by the opening of the throttle.

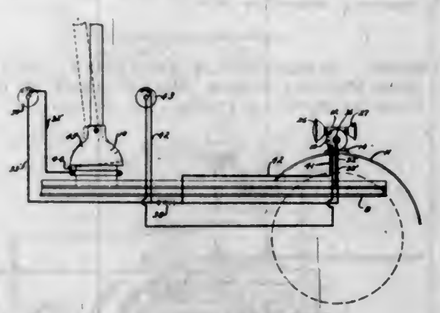
1,623,684. HAIRPIN BOX. VERNON A. JOY, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 2, 1924. Serial No. 683,852. 4 Claims. (Cl. 206—66.)

2. A hair pin box including a back, and side and end walls, and a plurality of substantially tubular pockets secured to said back, each of said pockets being of such size as to receive the ends of a plurality of hair pins and to engage the sides of said pins to hold the pins in place, said end walls being so spaced as to engage a group of hair pins when the same is moved lengthwise out of said pockets and prevent the sides of the pins from moving out of engagement with said pockets, whereby the removal of the hair pins as a group is prevented.



1,623,685. ATTACHMENT FOR SILK DOUBLING AND TWISTING MACHINES. MARTIN KIEFFER, Olean, N. Y. Filed June 16, 1926. Serial No. 116,429. 3 Claims. (Cl. 117—21.)

1. An attachment of the class described formed from a single strand of wire bent at its ends to provide hooks for engaging over the upper and lower edges of the gear casing of a silk doubling and twisting machine, and the intermediate portion thereof being bent outwardly to form a stop.



1,623,686. SELF-LOCKING NUT. HELGE GUSTAF LUDVIG KOLTHOFF, Vanersborg, Sweden. Filed June 6, 1925. Serial No. 35,379, and in Sweden Oct. 26, 1922. 1 Claim. (Cl. 151—19.)

A self-locking nut including in combination a threaded bolt, two undivided inner and outer nut members for engagement with the bolt, one of said members being provided with a recess for slidably accommodating the other member, a deformable bearing part on one of said members for holding the last mentioned member in such position that it normally extends a short distance outside the outer member, a projection on the engaging side wall of one of said members, the engaging side wall of the other of said members having a recess for normally accommodating the projection, said projection and the last mentioned recess together with the said deformable bearing part at the tightening of the nut causing the inner member to accompany the outer member until the inner member has been forced against the piece to be fastened and stopped while further tightening causes the projection to leave the recess and contact with the engaging wall of the adjacent member to lock the members to each other and the pressure between the members, resulting from the deformable part effects an increased pressure between the screw-threads of the members and those of the bolt.

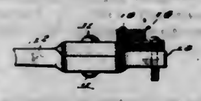
1,623,687. MOTOR-VEHICLE LAMP. GEORGE Y. LAUCHIN, Green Bay, Wis. Filed May 17, 1924. Serial No. 714,064. 5 Claims. (Cl. 240—8.2.)

5. A motor vehicle lamp, comprising a casing, oppositely extending lamp sockets tiltably connected to the casing, lamps carried by the sockets and one of said lamps being removable for use around the vehicle, a drum journaled in the casing and having an axial contact and a ring contact, yielding pin contacts carried by the casing which are engaged by the drum contacts, manual means for rotating the drum, means for locking the drum in adjusted position, electric circuit cord connected to the axial contact and the ring contact and wound on the drum and connected to the removable lamp to transmit current thereto, circuit wires for connection with the casing contacts and a shiftable portion of a vehicle, a switch controlling the circuit to one of the lamps, a switch controlling the circuit to the removable lamp, and means for securing the removable lamp in the socket member.



1,623,688. TOP-ROLL SADDLE. THOMAS W. LAWTON, Taunton, Mass. Filed Nov. 20, 1925. Serial No. 70,433. 8 Claims. (Cl. 19—137.)

1. In a top roll saddle, the combination with a rear saddle member adapted to rest on the rear and middle top rolls, of a front saddle member adapted to rest on the front top roll and on the rear saddle member, a weighted stirrup hung from the front saddle member and means operative while the weight is applied to the middle and rear top rolls to vary the distribution of the weight on said top rolls without changing the amount of weight distributed to the front top roll.

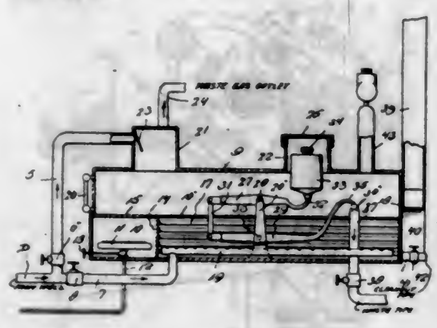
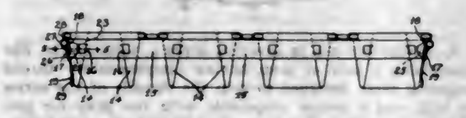
1,623,689. TOOL. SEBERT A. LIND, Alameda, Calif. Filed May 12, 1924. Serial No. 712,618. 2 Claims. (Cl. 81—5.1.)



1. A tool for use in severing screws, bolts or the like comprising a pair of jaws having complementary thread engaging faces designed to grip the threads of the screw or bolt, and a device cooperable with the jaws for preventing axial movement of the screw, bolt or the like, said device comprising a plurality of pivoted plates having openings designed to receive a screw, bolt or the like.

1,623,690. DISPENSING DEVICE. ROBERT H. LITTLE, Ritta, Fla. Filed Oct. 13, 1926. Serial No. 142,130. 4 Claims. (Cl. 221—79.)



1. A dispenser including an interiorly threaded hollow cylindrical shell open at both ends; a nozzle exteriorly threaded at its rear end, the threads upon said shell and nozzle meshing, the threads upon the shell being continued to enable the rear end of the nozzle to be moved toward the rear end of the shell; a clamping sleeve surrounding the shell and spaced apart therefrom to permit a wall of a container to be received between the shell and sleeve and formed, at its forward end, to engage a forward end portion of the shell and exteriorly threaded at its rear end; and an interiorly threaded cup whose threads mesh with the threads upon the clamping sleeve.

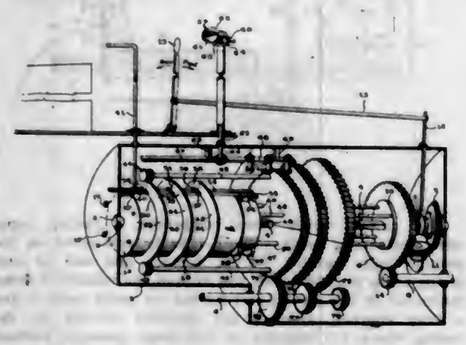
1,623,691. OIL-SEPARATING APPARATUS. WILLIAM M. LITTLE and JESSIE L. SHERMAN, Norphlet, Ark. Filed Dec. 5, 1925. Serial No. 73,493. 6 Claims. (Cl. 196—5.)

1. A heating and separating unit for an apparatus of the class described including, in combination, a boiler like casing, a fire box structure associated with the casing, flues leading from the fire box through the bottom portion of the casing, a perforated feed tube in the bottom of the casing between the flues, a perforated crown sheet over the flues, a standard rising in the casing, a waste pipe extending into the casing, a rocker pivoted on the standard and having a valve closable over the waste pipe, and float means for operating the rocker.

1,623,692. BAKING PAN. HARRY A. LOCKWOOD, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The Lockwood Manufacturing Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed May 29, 1925. Serial No. 33,814. 7 Claims. (Cl. 53—6.)

1. In a device of the class described, the combination with a baker's bread baking pan comprising a side having a lip at the upper edge thereof, of a protecting shield comprising a body portion having an upper and lower edge, a shock absorber formed at the upper edge of the body portion and adjacent the lip, the shock absorber extending beyond the edge of the lip formed on the pan, an apron integral with the shock absorber, a resilient bead formed at the lower edge of the body portion, and means for mounting the protecting shield on the side of the pan.

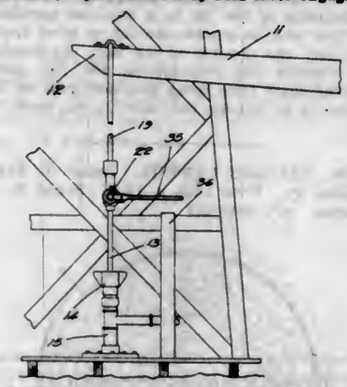
1,623,693. INTERCHANGEABLE EMBLEM. HARRY C. LOGAN, Portland, Oreg. Filed Mar. 19, 1926. Serial No. 95,965. 5 Claims. (Cl. 40—1.6.)



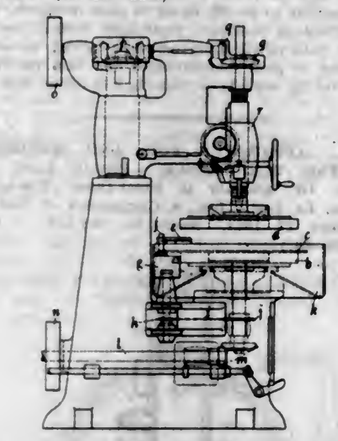
1. An interchangeable emblem comprising a body member having anchoring elements upon its opposite sides, and emblem members interchangeably connectable with said elements.

1,623,694. CONDUCTOR SUPPORT. SAMUEL S. MATTHEWS, Mansfield, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Brass Company, Mansfield, Ohio, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 23, 1924. Serial No. 757,641. 3 Claims. (Cl. 191—40.)

1. A trolley wire support comprising a pair of clamping jaws to grip a trolley wire, a support for the jaws and means to hold the jaws in clamping engagement with the wire, the said means comprising a transversely applied bolt and nut having the engaging faces of the bolt and nut contact with a curved surface on the clamping jaws to permit the jaws to be adjusted to different sizes of trolley wire without materially affecting the contact between the holding means and the jaws, and supporting means for the jaws comprising a member having a loop interlocked with the transverse holding means and a straight portion interlocked with the jaws and a loop to engage a supporting wire.



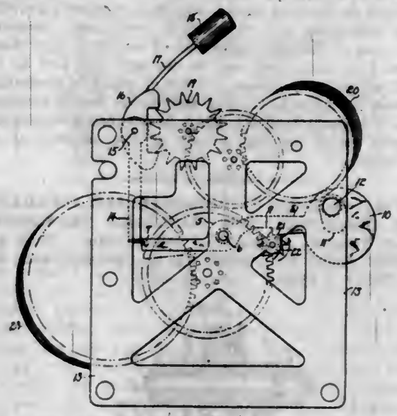
1,623,695. SPEED-CHANGE MECHANISM. WILLIAM MINOR MITCHELL, Grenada, Miss. Filed Sept. 17, 1925. Serial No. 56,971. 12 Claims. (Cl. 74—58.)



3. Speed change mechanism comprising a continuously driven countershaft, a transmission shaft with pinions to be driven, split gears constituting blocks carried by the countershaft, supports carrying rollers extending from each of the blocks, and tracks upon which the rollers run thereby to hold the gear blocks in predetermined relationship with said pinions.

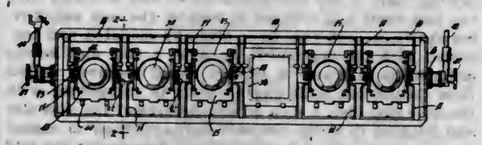
1,623,696. SUCKER-ROD TWISTER. BENNIE CLAUD NUGENT, Taft, Calif. Filed May 22, 1924. Serial No. 715,243. 2 Claims. (Cl. 255—14.)

1. A sucker rod rotor comprising: a polish rod; a bearing on which said polish rod is suspended and retained against longitudinal movement relative to the bearing; means for suspending said bearing from the walking beam of a derrick; a bevel gear fixed to said polish rod; a bevel pinion supported on said bearing and meshing with said bevel gear; a lever turning about the same axis as said pinion; a pawl carried by said lever engaging said pinion; and a post so fixed as to be struck by said lever as said bearing, is reciprocated and thus actuate said lever, said post being adapted to engage and swing said lever at the lower end of reciprocation of said bearing.



1,623,697. LAPPING MACHINE. WILLIAM ARTHUR OUSBRIDGE, Coventry, England. Filed Aug. 31, 1925, Serial No. 53,679, and in Great Britain Sept. 9, 1924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—111.)

In lapping machines of the character described, the combination of a pair of rotary laps, a tank surrounding the spindle of the lower lap and projecting above the lower lap, a plate-like work holder located between the laps, a pair of vertical shafts journalled exteriorly of the tank, adjustable cranks on the upper ends of the shafts and operably connected with the work holder so as to support the same, and means operating about the spindle of the lower lap and the shafts for rotating the shafts to consequently effect orbital movement of the work holder.



1,623,698. INTERMITTENT-ALARM CLOCK. WILSON E. PORTER, New Haven, Conn., assignor to The New Haven Clock Co., New Haven, Conn., a Corporation. Filed Dec. 26, 1925. Serial No. 77,745. 1 Claim. (Cl. 58—18.)

In an intermittent alarm clock, the combination with the front and rear movement-plates thereof, of a time-train installed in the said plates and having a continuously-rotated intermittent alarm-wheel located between the said plates, an alarm-train also installed in the said plates and having a vibrating stop-member, and a horizontally-arranged oscillating intermittent alarm-lever located between the said plates, pivoted between its ends, and formed on one side of its pivot with a stop-arm co-acting with the vibrating stop-member of the alarm-train and provided on the other side of its pivot and in its lower edge with a clearance-notch co-acting with the teeth of the said intermittent alarm-wheel and also provided with a counterweight having a clearance-opening through which one of the pillars of the movement passes.

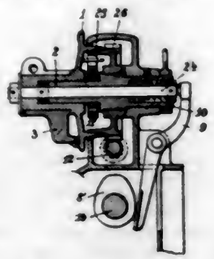
1,623,699. LANTERN. WILLIAM E. PRICE, Hartsdale, N. Y. Filed Oct. 31, 1922. Serial No. 598,082. 4 Claims. (Cl. 240—8.)

1. A rectangular main frame for supporting a series of illuminating lanterns, a rectangular secondary frame for each lantern fitted into the main frame and pivoted for adjustment about a vertical axis, indented portions on opposite sides of said secondary frame for allowing the adjustment of said lantern about a horizontal axis therebetween, and set screws passing through the indented portions removably engaging the sides of said lanterns and pivotally supporting same.



1,623,700. ELECTRIC LIGHTING APPARATUS FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. HARRY CUMPSTY PROCTER, Manchester, England. Filed Sept. 16, 1926, Serial No. 135,905, and in Great Britain May 26, 1925. 1 Claim. (Cl. 177—311.)

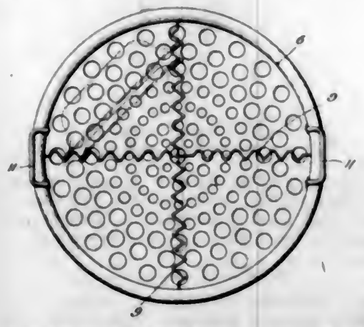
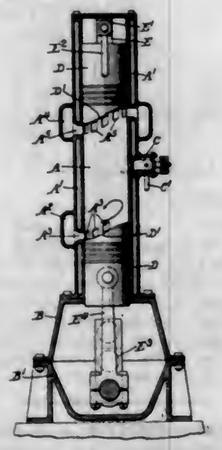
and mounted on the said projection, a coil wound on a bobbin and attached to the said base, a core in the said bobbin, an armature mounted on a spring arranged in direct electric contact with the exterior of the lamp holder, a bracket mounted on the base and carrying a contact screw against which the armature bears under the action of the said spring, and four terminals provided on the said base, one of which is electrically connected to one end of the coil, a second of which is electrically connected to the other end of the said coil and to one contact of the lamp holder, a third of which is electrically connected to the said bracket and to the fourth terminal, the second contact of the lamp holder being electrically connected to or forming a part of the exterior of the lamp holder.

1,623,701. FEEDING AND DISCHARGING APPARATUS FOR MACHINES FOR MATERIAL TREATMENT. JOSEF PROKOP, Pardubice, Czechoslovakia. Filed Apr. 3, 1925, Serial No. 20,496, and in Czechoslovakia Apr. 17, 1924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 83—30.)



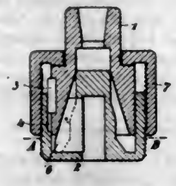
1. For machines for material treatment, feeding and discharging apparatus comprising an inlet and an outlet for the material, a cam shaft, cams on the said shaft adapted to open and close the said inlet and outlet, a driving shaft, a dog clutch slidable on and rotatable with the cam shaft and adapted to connect the cam and driving shafts, a bent arm lever pivotally mounted and connected with the dog clutch, an axle, a stop disc loosely mounted on said axle, a friction clutch positively driven from the driving shaft and normally in engagement with the said stop disc, a stop adjustable around the said disc and adapted to strike the said bent arm lever to engage the dog clutch means for periodically disengaging the said stop disc and friction clutch, a spring acting on the stop disc in a direction opposite to the drive of the said friction clutch, a stop fixed on the said stop disc, a buffer on a fixed part of the machine against which the said fixed stop impacts, and means for periodically disengaging the cam and driving shafts.

1,623,702. SPRAYING MACHINE. PHILIP W. RAMER, River Falls, Wis. Filed Nov. 9, 1922. Serial No. 599,856. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—57.)



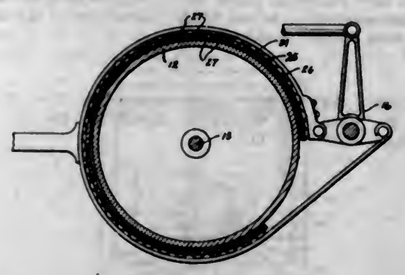
In a device of the class described, a tank comprising a head carrying a ring provided with a flange, hook-shaped bearings on the head in close relation to the ring, a lid within the ring, spaced bearings rigidly mounted on the lid, a shaft having its ends mounted removably for rocking movement in the hook-shaped bearings of the head, the intermediate portion of the shaft being permanently retained for rocking movement in the bearings of the lid, a cam on the shaft, a handle on the shaft and constituting means for rocking the shaft to cause the cam to bear directly on the lid and to move the lid toward the flange, the shaft having a slight movement in the bearings of the lid, in a direction parallel to the axis of the tank, to permit the lid to move toward the flange, under the impulse of the cam, the handle being located between the bearings on the lid, thereby to prevent the shaft from being detached from the bearings on the lid, by an endwise movement of the shaft.

1,623,703. KITCHEN UTENSIL. ISRAEL P. RUFF, Connellsville, Pa. Filed June 2, 1925. Serial No. 34,368. 2 Claims. (Cl. 141—9.)



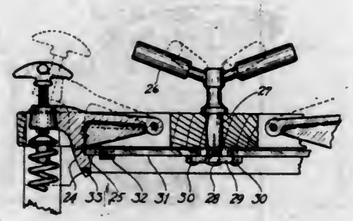
1. In a device of the character described, an outer receptacle and an inner receptacle said inner receptacle having openings to permit fluids to pass thereinto, removable partitioning members positioned within the inner receptacle, said partitioning members having openings to permit fluid to pass therethrough, and said partitioning members having vertical corrugations to define dish racks.

1,623,704. APPARATUS FOR AND METHOD OF CREATING TURBULENCE. PHILIP LANE SCOTT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Super-Diesel Tractor Corporation, La Porte, Ind., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 17, 1921. Serial No. 501,498. 7 Claims. (Cl. 123—51.)



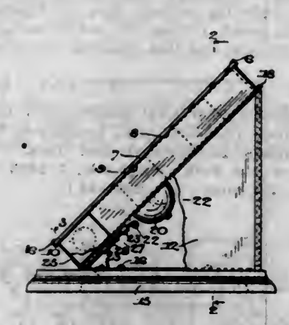
1. In a double piston internal combustion engine a cylinder and means for setting up within the cylinder of such engine a current of air to cause turbulence of the contents of the cylinder, said means including a pair of oppositely reciprocating, similarly shaped, curved piston heads, said heads free from obstructions and being curved across their entire inner face, one of said pistons, with regard to the form of the head, being rotated through an angle of 180° with relation to the other.

1,623,705. CHUCK. HARRY SAUVEUR, Berlin-Lankwitz, Germany, assignor to the Firm: Flexo-Industrie-Gesellschaft m. b. H., Vienna, Austria. Filed May 7, 1925, Serial No. 28,656, and in Germany May 19, 1924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 279—59.)



In a bore chuck, the combination of a chuck body, said body being provided with an upwardly tapering axial bore, and with an external shoulder adjacent the upper end of said bore, a central part projecting upwardly into said bore and capable of longitudinal movement therein, said central part being provided at its lower end with an upturned flange, the same surrounding and fitting the lower part of the chuck body, means for preventing the central part from revolving relative to the chuck body, said central part being provided with a central bore and with radial slots opening through the wall thereof into said central bore, said slots being closed at top and bottom, a plurality of jaws each snugly and slidably fitting said slots, and being guided for radial movement therein, the outer edge of said jaws being inclined to the axis of the bore chuck at the same angle as the inner wall of the upwardly tapering axial bore of the chuck body, a cap nut open at the bottom screwable upon the flange of said central part, said nut having an upturned flange at its upper end surrounding said chuck body and engaging the external shoulder thereupon, whereby, by rotation of said cap nut said central portion may be caused to reciprocate within said chuck body for actuating said jaws.

1,623,706. BRAKE OR CLUTCH. CHARLES D. SCHMIDT, Jamaica, N. Y. Original application filed May 16, 1922, Serial No. 561,350. Divided and this application filed Apr. 10, 1924. Serial No. 705,479. 8 Claims. (Cl. 188—264.)

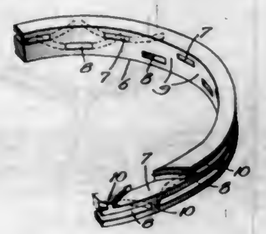


4. In a brake or clutch having braking surfaces of generally circular form the combination with a lining, of a supporting means therefor concentrating the supporting pressure at intervals while preserving the arcuate form of the braking surface of the lining so that the lining will adapt itself more readily to the circular formation of the drum, said supporting means comprising a supporting member and a corrugated strip of metal between the supporting member and the lining and in contact with said lining.

1,623,707. SAFETY-WRINGER MECHANISM. SIMON E. SCHROEDER, Oak Park, Ill. Filed July 24, 1922. Serial No. 576,973. 5 Claims. (Cl. 68—32.)

4. In a wringer, in combination, a frame, stationary and movable wringer rolls therein, spring members for pressing the movable roll against the stationary roll, members pivoted to the frame, each provided with a hooked portion, screw members positioned to engage the spring members and supported in the pivoted members, locking arms slidably supported on the frame and engageable with the hooked portions of the pivoted members, and means for shifting the locking arms into engagement with or disengagement from the pivoted members.

1,623,708. DISPENSING DEVICE. JOHN J. SEELMAN, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Sept. 12, 1923. Serial No. 662,264. 3 Claims. (Cl. 211—8.)

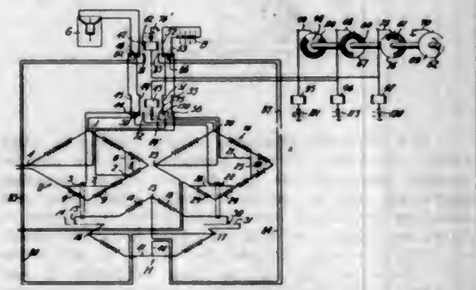


1. In a dispensing apparatus having a holder in which articles are urged towards dispensing position and removable therefrom one by one, an audible signalling mechanism, and a movable member controlling said signalling mechanism and engageable by the article in dispensing position to hold said member against signal-operating movement, whereby the removal of said article will release said member to cause actuation of said signalling mechanism and the movement of the succeeding article to dispensing position will reset said movable member.

1,623,709. METHOD OF DYEING TEXTILE MATERIALS. HARRY B. SMITH, Albany, N. Y. Filed Aug. 29, 1923. Serial No. 660,046. 20 Claims. (Cl. 8—5.)

1. The process of producing a variegated effect in cotton having portions of varying hardness which comprises treating the cotton in a bath to which have been added a cotton dye and an assistant to accelerate the deposition of the color on the soft parts of the cotton and to substantially exhaust the bath before substantial deposition of the color on the hard parts of the cotton can take place.

1,623,710. PISTON RING. DANIEL C. TRENTON, Tipton, Ind. Filed Feb. 25, 1926. Serial No. 90,560. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—109.)

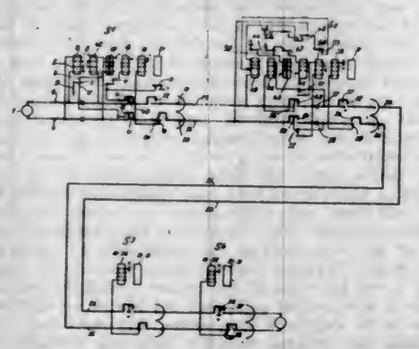


A piston ring having two parallel series of contiguous and disconnected channels that are elongated and distributed circumferentially of and pass through the ring, the channels of each set being in staggered relation to the channels of the other, the end walls of each channel of one set converging inwardly and crossing the adjacent end walls of two contiguous channels in the other set, thereby to provide a plurality of spaced solid bridge portions extending from end to end of the ring parallel to the axis of the latter.

1,623,711. METHOD OF TREATING REFLECTORS FOR HEADLIGHTS, ETC. JOHN W. TRIMMER, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Dec. 24, 1925. Serial No. 77,514. 2 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.2.)

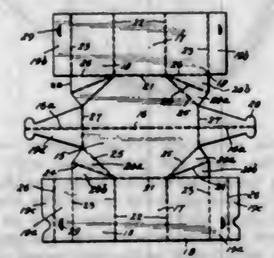
1. The method of treating reflectors comprising polishing the entire reflecting surface, then sandblasting the lower half, then nickel plating the entire surface, then silver plating the same and then polishing the upper half.

1,623,712. REGULATING AND RECORDING DEVICE. ERNEST B. WOOD, Chatham, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 3, 1923. Serial No. 672,454. 5 Claims. (Cl. 236—44.)



1. A system for regulating the temperature of the air within an enclosure comprising an air conditioning chamber, means for circulating air from said enclosure through said chamber, means for heating the air as it passes through said chamber, means for cooling the air as it passes through said chamber, and means responsive to the temperature in said enclosure to set in operation said cooling means when the temperature in said enclosure is above a predetermined value and to set in operation said heating means when the temperature in said enclosure is below a predetermined value, said means responsive to the temperature being dependent for its operation upon an element having an electrical characteristic variable with temperature.

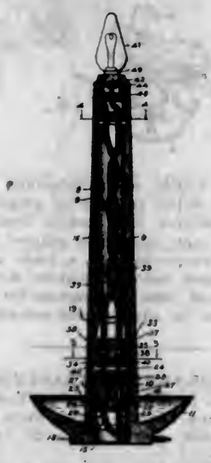
1,623,713. GUARD-RAIL STRUCTURE. CHARLES D. YOUNG, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Q & C Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Maine. Filed May 15, 1924. Serial No. 713,392. 3 Claims. (Cl. 238—19.)



1. As a new article of manufacture a rolled steel guard rail section having head, web and base portions, said base portion having a horizontal flange extension bent inwardly into horizontal position to underlie the guard rail section and at its outer end to provide a base support for the track rail, substantially as described.

1,623,714. SYSTEM FOR TRANSMITTING ELECTRICAL IMPULSES. ANTOINE BARNAY, Paris, France. Filed June 4, 1925, Serial No. 34,992, and in France June 11, 1924. 23 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)

1. In an automatic telephone system, a calling line, an impulse sending device in the circuit of the said line, a line relay, serially related selector switches connected by two conductor trunk lines, a magnet in each selector for controlling the setting of the said selector the circuit of the magnet including a section of one of the conductors of the trunk line, an interrupter actuated by the line relay, and means, including the second conductor of the trunk line, for connecting the said section of the first conductor either to the said interrupter during the selection or to one of the conductors of the calling line at the end of the selection.



1,623,715. HAT BOX. AARON BERKOWITZ, New York, N. Y. Filed July 22, 1926. Serial No. 124,127. 6 Claims. (Cl. 229—41.)

1. The herein described collapsible box comprising a bottom and side wall portions united to one another, the bottom being of polygonal form, the side walls including two members hinged directly to the bottom, and other two members of composite nature each including a flap hinged directly to the bottom and swingable from one side of the plane of the bottom in one condition of the box, past the plane of the bottom, and into a position at an angle to the plane aforesaid in another condition of the box, said bottom being foldable upward along its longitudinal center when the box is collapsed and the flaps being at such time folded between the two parts of the bottom.

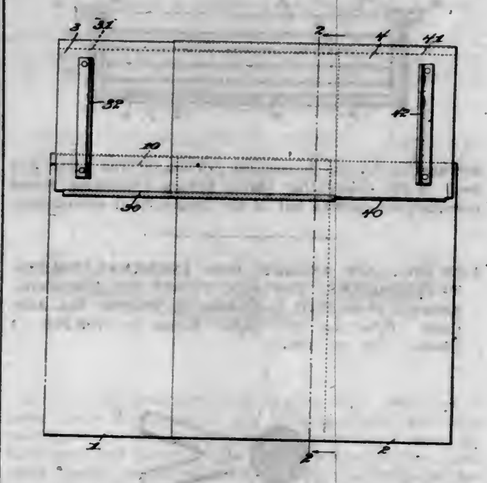
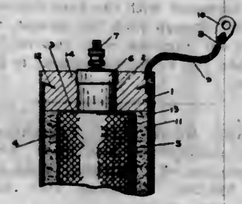
1,623,716. ELECTRIC CANDLE. FRANK N. BOSS, Cranston, R. I. Filed Apr. 11, 1925. Serial No. 22,282. 1 Claim. (Cl. 173—358.)



In an article of the character described, a supporting tray having a tubular section rising therefrom, a second tubular section resting upon and supported by the first-named section, an electric light on the upper section, sleeves in the adjacent ends of the sections, a socket member of insulating material engaging the sleeve in the lower section, vertical tubular contacts enclosed in the socket member, an entrant member of insulating material engaging the sleeve in the upper section, depending metallic posts in the entrant member adapted to register in the tubular contacts, and electrically connected with the lamp.

1,623,717. ENGINE PISTON. JOHN H. BURPEE and DAVID B. LAIN, Bellingham, Wash. Filed Sept. 12, 1922. Serial No. 587,695. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)



1. In an engine piston in combination, a hollow cylindrical piston body and a piston head hermetically joined to said body between the ends thereof and abutting one of the ends of said body in a slip joint transversely of said body with an annular chamber between the opposite walls of said head and body between said hermetical joint and said slip joint adapted to permit the approach of said walls near said slip joint and said slip joint adapted to transmit heat from said head to said body and permit the movement of said head on said body at said slip joint.

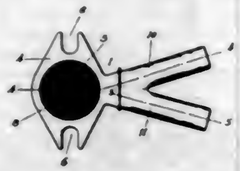
1,623,718. GLASS COVER FOR AUTOMOBILES. LAWRENCE W. COLBY, Methuen, Mass., assignor of one-half to John Norman Anderson, Methuen, Mass. Filed Dec. 1, 1925. Serial No. 72,545. 3 Claims. (Cl. 91—65.)

1. A glass cover for automobiles consisting of a plurality of pieces of sheet metal arranged to overlap each other and cover the glass, having provision for holding them in place on the glass comprising hooks on the upper edges of the upper sheets to hook over the top edge of the glass.

1,623,719. DRY CELL. HAROLD DE OLANETA, New Haven, Conn., assignor to Winchester Repeating Arms Company, New Haven, Conn. Filed Aug. 18, 1920. Serial No. 404,381. 5 Claims. (Cl. 136—132.)

1. In combination, a dry cell including a containing cup of conducting material, and an outer container in which the cell is enclosed, said containers being completely insulated from each other by a cylindrical wrapper of non-conducting material, the lower end of said wrapper being folded over the bottom of the cup to completely cover the same, and the upper end thereof being folded inwardly over the upper edge of the cup, and means to seal the cup and the container and hold the insulating wrapper in place.

1,623,720. IRRIGATED AND VENTILATED FLOWER BOX. STUART ELLIS, Fredericksburg, Va. Filed Apr. 9, 1926. Serial No. 100,931. 8 Claims. (Cl. 47—38.)



4. In a self-irrigated flower box, the combination of an approximately rectangular metal box, a pair of L-shaped ventilating plates seating in the bottom of the box and having each a vertical side plate resting against an end of the box, each of said side plates having a vertical corrugation in the upstanding portion of the plate said corrugations being widest at the top, each of the ventilating plates having a longitudinal raised corrugation in the horizontal portion of the plate and each of the ventilating plates having transverse raised corrugations opening out of the longitudinal corrugation.

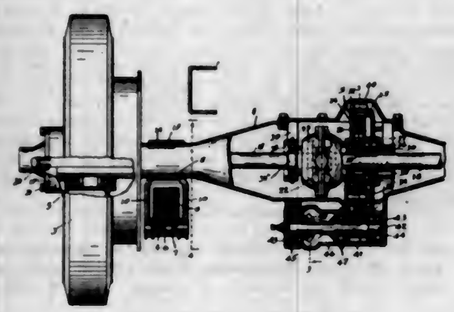
1,623,721. AIR INTAKE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. EDWARD C. FLOREY, San Jose, Calif., assignor of one-half to Charles E. Sturges, San Jose, Calif. Filed Apr. 29, 1924. Serial No. 709,768. 1 Claim. (Cl. 48—180.)

An air intake of the character described, comprising a flat plate adapted for insertion between the carburetor and the intake manifold of an internal combustion engine and formed with an opening registering with that of the intake manifold, flat screens supported in the opening in spaced relation and between the upper and lower planes of the plate, an embossment extending laterally from the plate having two ports extending therethrough connecting the space between the screens with the outer end thereof and a Y shaped element fitting against the embossment with the base thereof and having a port extending through each leg thereof, the two ports being arranged for registry with the two ports in the embossment when the Y shaped element is placed against the embossment.

1,623,722. CASH REGISTER. FREDERICK L. FULLER, Ilion, N. Y., assignor to Remington Arms Company, Inc., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 13, 1922. Serial No. 594,296. Renewed July 28, 1926. 18 Claims. (Cl. 101—96.)

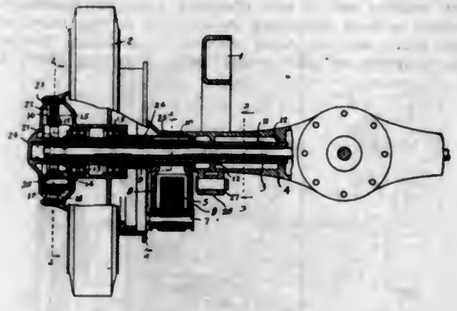


1. In a machine of the class described, the combination with a plurality of operating keys, type carriers, printing hammers for effecting printing impressions, manipulative means for conditioning the machine for either check or slip printing, and means for obliterating an impression made upon the check when the machine is in the slip printing position without a slip inserted, said check being issued upon a subsequent operation of the machine when conditioned for check printing.

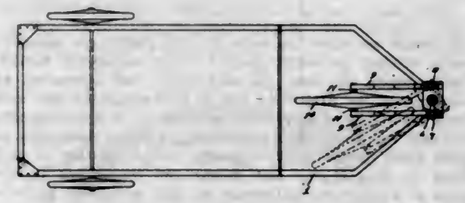
1,623,723. APPARATUS FOR CLEANING CYLINDERS OF OFFSET AND OTHER PRESSES. WILLIAM GEGENHEIMER, Baldwin, and ERNEST E. BARNEY, Port Washington, N. Y. Filed Jan. 20, 1926. Serial No. 82,427. 3 Claims. (Cl. 101—425.)

1. As a new article of manufacture, a device for cleaning the ink rollers in printing presses which comprises opposed hangers, each hanger comprising a left hand unit and a right hand unit adapted to be clamped together upon a supporting rod, a blade mounted in inclined position upon one of the units, a receptacle carried by the second unit and means for swinging the hangers in unison to advance and retract the blade.

1,623,724. MOTOR-VEHICLE TRANSMISSION MECHANISM. EARL L. HARRY, Pontiac, Mich., assignor to Edward S. Evans, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 28, 1924. Serial No. 695,632. Renewed Dec. 27, 1926. 9 Claims. (Cl. 180—10.)



1. In a drive mechanism for motor vehicles, a live axle, a housing for said axle, a ground wheel carrying said housing and having driven engagement with said live axle, a member fast upon said housing and depending therefrom, means for supporting the vehicle load upon said depending member at a point normally below the housing, and drive mechanism for said axle within and reacting upon said housing rotatively, whereby said housing may rock under a predetermined driving stress to rotatively advance and elevate said load supporting member.



1,623,725. TRANSMISSION MECHANISM FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. EARL L. HARRY, Pontiac, Mich., assignor to Edward S. Evans, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 28, 1924, Serial No. 695,633. Renewed Dec. 27, 1926. 11 Claims. (Cl. 180—10.)

1. In a motor vehicle transmission mechanism, a live axle, a ground wheel journaled co-axially with said axle, a tubular member enclosing said axle, a load support, an arm rigidly depending from the tubular member and carrying said load support, and gearing establishing a drive from said live axle to said wheel and rotatively reacting upon said tubular member to rock the same in a direction reverse to that of the wheel.

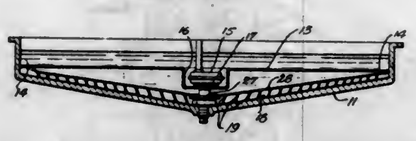
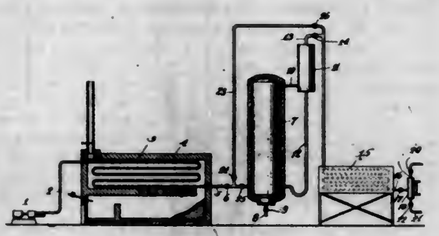
1,623,726. MOTOR VEHICLE. EDVIN HERDS, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 1, 1923. Serial No. 622,123. 5 Claims. (Cl. 280—92.)



1. In a vehicle having a single front wheel, in combination, a flexible substantially horizontally disposed fork-like member securely fastened by its crown to the front of the vehicle and thence extending rearwardly to a wheel axle, a wheel axle, equalizing elements connected to said fork-like member and a steering device adapted to swing said fork-like member laterally for steering and stabilizing purposes.

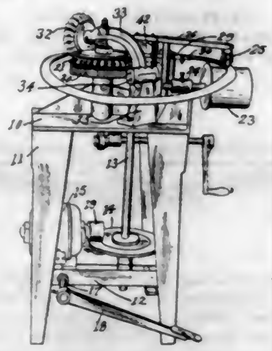
1,623,727. DRAIN DEVICE FOR LIFEBOATS. HARRY B. HILLS, New York, N. Y., assignor to Steward Davit & Equipment Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 15, 1925. Serial No. 50,378. 1 Claim. (Cl. 114—197.)



A drain plug for life boats consisting of a flat base member adapted to be secured to the bottom wall of a boat hull so as to be substantially flush therewith and having an upwardly projecting open top cup-like member being formed with an opening at its base and a side wall opening, a lateral projection extending within the cup-like member and bounding the top of its side wall opening, said projection merging into the side wall, a flap valve having a pivotal mounting within the cup-like member above the inwardly projecting wall and adapted to contact with said wall and the base, and a cap adapted to enclose the upwardly projecting portion of the device and movable to expose its side wall opening.

1,623,728. OIL-PURIFYING SYSTEM. GORDON B. HOOTON, Grand Rapids, Mich. Filed Aug. 13, 1925. Serial No. 50,087. 5 Claims. (Cl. 184—6.)

1. In a lubricating system of the class described a baffle plate positioned in the reservoir below the normal fluid level therein, a pump positioned in a recess in said plate and drawing fluid from below said plate, said plate having restricted fluid passages therethrough positioned at a distance from the pump intake, and sediment traps arranged in the bottom of said reservoir in the path of fluid flow from said fluid passages to said pump intake.



1,623,729. TREATING HYDROCARBON OILS. RALPH C. HOLMES, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Texas Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Texas. Filed Aug. 17, 1921. Serial No. 492,891. 2 Claims. (Cl. 196—58.)

1. The process of producing low boiling hydrocarbon oils by the conversion of higher boiling hydrocarbon oils, which comprises passing the high boiling oil to be treated once only through a confined passage of substantially uniform cross-section without substantial enlargements, said passage being heated to impart to the oil a temperature of about 700 to 900° F., completing the entire desired conversion in said passage, maintaining upon the oil in the passage a pressure of upwards of 500 pounds, the pressure employed being such that the entire oil is maintained in continuous liquid phase during the entire conversion, whereby the entire conversion is effected without substantial production of coke, discharging the completely converted oil into an enlarged chamber to which no additional heat is imparted, said chamber being at substantially reduced pressure whereby vaporization of the desired low boiling products together with higher boiling products is effected, removing such vapors, separating therefrom by condensation the products of higher boiling point than the desired low boiling point products, returning separated higher boiling point products to the unvaporized liquid in the chamber, thereby modifying its characteristics and withdrawing completely from the system unvaporized liquid with admixed condensed products from the vapors.

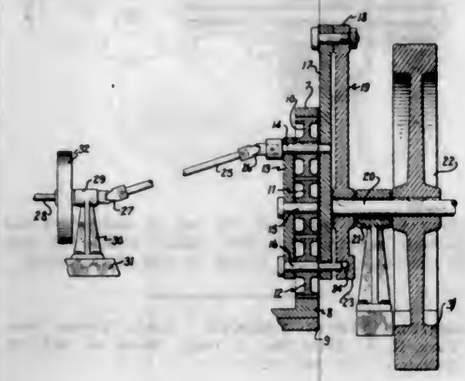
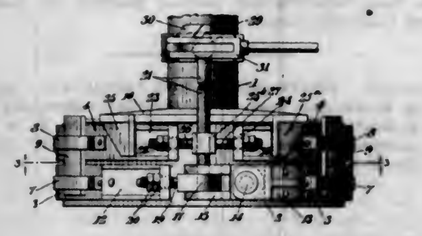
1,623,730. HORIZONTAL BEAD FLIPPER. EDWARD HUTCHENS, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Utility Manufacturing Co., Cudahy, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Apr. 2, 1924. Serial No. 703,617. 4 Claims. (Cl. 154—9.)

1. A bead flipping machine comprising a pair of rollers adapted to cause initial contact between the bead and fabric on one side of the bead, means for folding the fabric into contact with the other sides of said beads and a pair of fluted wheels adapted to stretch the outstanding edges of the fabric into a smooth surface.



1,623,731. PULP-FORMING PRESS. EDWARD HUTCHENS, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Apr. 2, 1926. Serial No. 99,216. 3 Claims. (Cl. 92—59.)

1. In combination with a hydraulic press a cylinder a form therein, a piston adapted to enter the cylinder, a series of connected grooves in the top surface of said piston, a slotted filter plate secured above said grooves, and a connection from said grooves to a source of subatmospheric pressure.



1,623,732. MECHANICAL MOVEMENT. RICHARD D. JACOBS, Detroit, Mich. Filed Dec. 14, 1921. Serial No. 522,290. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—169.)

1. In combination an internal gear; a plurality of planetary gears co-operating therewith, each of said planetary gears being in mesh with an adjacent planetary gear; a bar connecting said planetary gears positioned on one side thereof to permit free rotation of said gears about their centers and the free travel of said gears around said internal gear; an elongated bar positioned on the opposite side of said planetary gears and connected thereto without disturbing the rotation or free travel of said gears, said bar being adapted for projecting beyond the periphery of said internal gear; a driving shaft; a fly wheel mounted on said driving shaft; an axle for each of said planetary gears; a bar connected fixedly, intermediate its ends, on said shaft, and connected at one end to the projecting end of said elongated bar, said bars projecting radially from said shaft; a counterweight on said fly wheel, said counterweight being, relatively to said shaft, diametrically opposite to the relation of said bars to said shaft; and means for connecting to the axle of one of the outermost of said planetary gears a driven shaft.

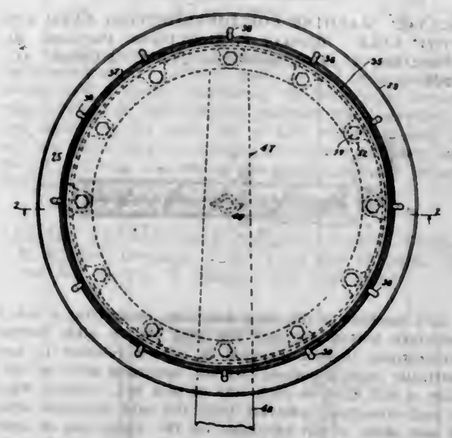
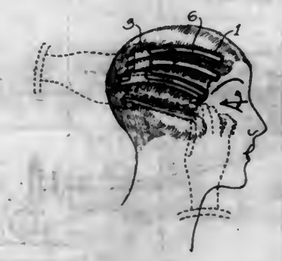
1,623,733. BRAKE. JOHN W. JEPSON, Elizabeth, N. J. Filed Apr. 5, 1922. Serial No. 549,715. 4 Claims. (Cl. 188—140.)



1. A brake comprising a moving element to be braked, two braking elements cooperating therewith, and means whereby the drag on one of the braking elements by the moving element causes a braking action by the other braking element, said means comprising a shaft, rotation of which shaft about its axis causes a braking action by one braking element and movement of the shaft laterally by the drag of said braking action causes braking action of the other braking element.

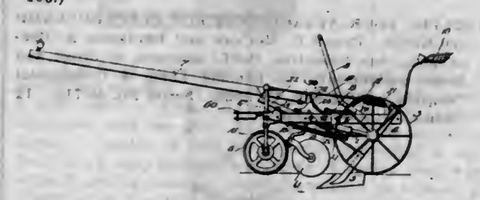
1,623,734. TELEPHONE SYSTEM. RALPH E. KING, East Orange, and WILLIAM M. BEAUMONT, Summit, N. J., assignors to Bell Telephone Laboratories, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 30, 1926. Serial No. 105,704. 6 Claims. (Cl. 179—27.)

2. A telephone system comprising a line, a dialing circuit, a signal associated with said line, another signal associated with the dialing circuit, means for connecting said line and dialing circuit together, another line, means for connecting said lines together, and means responsive to said connections for actuating said signals.



1,623,735. BANJO. WILLIAM L. LANGE, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 19, 1923. Serial No. 669,533. 34 Claims. (Cl. 84—271.)

30. In a sound instrument, a rim; a metal tone band having downwardly and inwardly slanting lugs secured on said rim; the upper part of the band comprising a main portion spaced from said rim; an outer casing having a vertical outer portion spaced from said band and rim, an inwardly disposed ledge, and an inwardly disposed lower horizontal portion secured to and spaced from the rim; a velium disposed over said band; a tension ring engaging said velium; hooks on the tension ring and passing through said ledge; and nuts on the lower ends of the hooks.



1,623,736. HAIR-WAVING DEVICE. LILLIAN LAZNOVSKY, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 2, 1926. Serial No. 139,109. 14 Claims. (Cl. 132—32.)

1. A finger attachment for use in hair waving comprising a former having means adjacent one end thereof for securing it to a finger, the other end of said former being adapted to extend beyond the finger to provide an extension thereof which is adapted to substantially conform to the portion of the subject's head against which it is pressed.

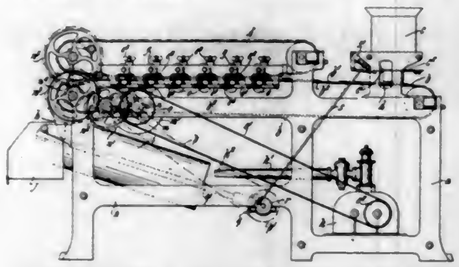
1,623,737. BEET PULLER. HUGO T. LINDGREN, Moline, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Moline Implement Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 13, 1922. Serial No. 536,100. 13 Claims. (Cl. 55—106.)

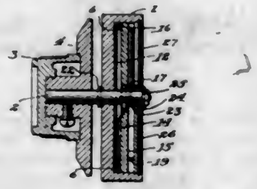


1. A beet puller having beet pulling devices, means for lowering the beet puller to move the pulling devices to working position in the grond and for raising it to raise the pulling devices to transport position above the ground, a guiding pole connected to the beet puller to be movable laterally relative to it, and means acting automatically in response to movements of the beet puller by the raising and lowering means to lock the pole rigidly to the beet puller as it is raised by the raising means to lift the pulling devices out of the ground and to automatically free the pole to permit it to move laterally relative to the beet puller as the beet puller is lowered to cause the pulling devices to enter the ground to working position.

1,623,738. VEHICLE VENTILATOR. WILLIAM LINTERN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 8, 1925. Serial No. 48,948. 15 Claims. (Cl. 98—20.)

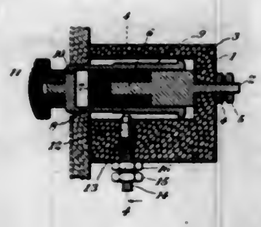
1. In combination with a vehicle body wall having a ventilator opening therein, a movable cap member exteriorly of the opening having a roof portion and down turned edges, such edges being normally in contact with the body wall, said cap having a plurality of apertures in said roof portion leading directly to the open air, whereby ventilation of the interior of the body is afforded when the cap is closed, and means for raising the cap for additional ventilation.

1,623,739. MACHINE FOR HUSKING ALMONDS AND OTHER KERNELS OR THE LIKE. ROBERT FRENCH MACFARLANE, London, England. Filed Apr. 8, 1925. Serial No. 21,460, and in England May 9, 1924. 7 Claims. (Cl. 83—35.)



1. A machine for husking nut kernels comprising a plurality of parallelly extending abrasive members arranged in spaced relation and between which the kernels are adapted to pass under the influence of one of said members, means for driving said members, and means for subjecting one of said members to yielding pressure.

1,623,740. LOCK ATTACHMENT FOR ELECTRIC-LAMP SOCKETS. CLYDE F. MCCANN and REINHOLD A. BERENBERG, San Francisco, Calif., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Panama Lamp & Commercial Company. Filed Aug. 17, 1925. Serial No. 50,716. 12 Claims. (Cl. 173—356.)



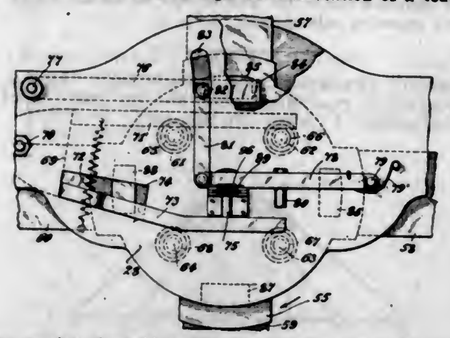
1. A locking device for incandescent lamps comprising an annular hollow casing adapted to fit over a lamp base, means for securing the device to a lamp socket concealed wholly within the socket, an annular member mounted in the casing, locking means for engaging the lamp base mounted upon the annular member, and another annular member within the casing for actuating the locking means.

1,623,741. VARIABLE ELECTRICAL CONDENSER. LESLIE R. MCDONALD, Westmount, Quebec, Canadn. Filed Nov. 10, 1922. Serial No. 600,095. 12 Claims. (Cl. 175—41.5.)

1. In a variable electrical condenser, the combination of a broad, flat electrical conductor, a superimposed dielectric parallel thereto, a second boad, flat and flexible conductor normally superimposed on the dielectric, and means, movable relative to the second conductor, engaging against it to hold it in its normal position and also engaging between it and the dielectric to progressively release and shift portions of the conductor laterally from its normal position.

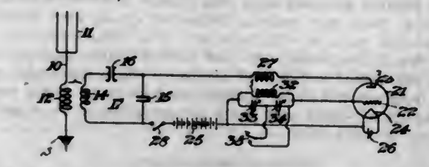
1,623,742. VARIABLE ELECTRICAL CONDENSER. LESLIE R. MCDONALD, Westmount, Quebec, Canada. Filed Mar. 7, 1924. Serial No. 697,433. 6 Claims. (Cl. 175—41.5.)

1. In a variable electrical condenser, the combination of relatively telescopicable and rotatable conducting elements, an interposed dielectric, and connecting means maintaining an unbroken contact with one of said elements for causing rotation of such element to produce longitudinal adjustment thereof, and also automatically permitting free longitudinal adjustment of such elements.



1,623,743. MACHINE FOR DISTRIBUTING SAND AND THE LIKE. THOMAS F. MCGUINESS, Portland, Me. Filed May 1, 1925. Serial No. 27,312. 1 Claim. (Cl. 275—2.)

In a machine of the class described, comprising a box, a perforate bottom member for said box, a slide having perforations therein disposed in spaced relation to and vertically of said bottom member, upturned sides on said slide, a rail fixed to each side of said box, hangers fixed to and extending upwardly from the said upturned sides of said slide, a roll revoluble on the upper end of each of said hangers, said rolls adapted to traverse said rails and to support said slide suspended from a position a spaced distance form said bottom, partitions in said box running longitudinally thereof and separating the main interior portion from the space in which said rails and said rolls are operable, and means to actuate said slide.



1,623,744. TURNSTILE. JOHN J. MCLAUGHLIN, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Harold L. Warner, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Oct. 21, 1925. Serial No. 63,812. 9 Claims. (Cl. 194—61.)

1. In a turnstile, a plurality of spaced revoluble arms, a locking lever for normally preventing the said arms from being turned in one direction but permitting the said arms to be turned in the other direction, a positioning lever for normally maintaining the said arms in a predetermined position, and devices actuated by the positioning lever upon the initial movement of the said arms in one direction and through the intervention of a token for moving the said locking lever to free the said arms thereby permitting the said arms to be turned a predetermined portion of a revolution in one direction.

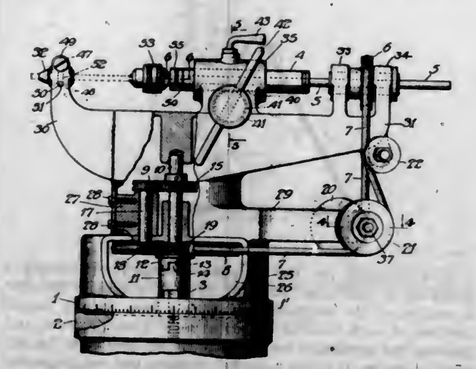
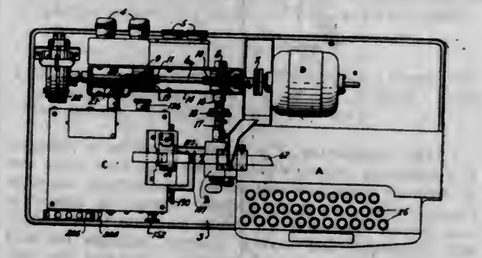
1,623,745. TRANSMITTING SYSTEM FOR RADIANT ENERGY. ALBERT F. MURRAY, Boston, Mass., assignor to John Hays Hammond, jr., Gloucester, Mass. Filed Jan. 14, 1921. Serial No. 437,354. 5 Claims. (Cl. 250—17.)



1. In a transmitter of radiant energy, a circuit including a spark gap arranged to generate and radiate damped waves and a single, oscillating, three-electrode vacuum tube having its plate circuit conductively connected to and broken by the spark gap of said first-mentioned circuit for controlling the amount of power supplied to said circuit and also controlling the group frequency of said damped waves.

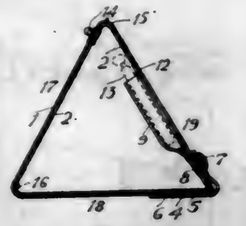
1,623,746. FURNACE AND COOLING DEVICE. THOMAS E. MURRAY, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 21, 1925. Serial No. 31,857. 3 Claims. (Cl. 122—235.)



1. A furnace having a combustion chamber with a water wall consisting of tubes exposed to the direct radiant heat of the burning fuel in said chamber in combination with fans therein for causing currents of the burning gases in a direction transverse to that of their natural flow so as to distribute them uniformly in the combustion chamber.

1,623,747. SWIVEL-HEAD DRILL HOLDER. JOHN VICTOR NELSON, Maywood, Ill., assignor to Franz K. Krag, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 23, 1921. Serial No. 479,838. 2 Claims. (Cl. 77—5.)

1. A drilling attachment comprising a head adapted to be tiltably mounted on a part of a machine frame having a drive shaft, a driven shaft journalled in said head in alignment with the drive shaft and operatively connected thereto, a pulley on said driven shaft journalled in said head which head includes a plurality of spaced arms with aligned bearing openings therein, arranged in a plane at a right angle to said drive and driven shafts, a feed sleeve mounted in one of said arms, a drill spindle journalled in said sleeve and in one of said other arms, a pulley on said drill spindle for driving the same, a belt operatively connecting said pulleys together, two idle pulleys journalled on said head and about which said belt is trained for changing the direction thereof, a movable spring pressed block slidably mounted in said head and upon which one of said idle pulleys is mounted for imposing a tension on said belt, and a third pulley journalled in the head for engaging the belt between said pulley on the spindle shaft and said pulley on the block for holding straight that portion of the belt leading to the spindle pulley irrespective of the location of the pulley on said spring pressed block.



1,623,748. PRINTING TELEGRAPHS. HARRY PFANNENSTIEHL, Maplewood, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 21, 1923. Serial No. 681,921. 12 Claims. (Cl. 178—17.)

1. In combination, a plurality of selecting elements, transmitting means, tape controlled means for selectively positioning said selecting elements, manually operated means also capable of selectively positioning said elements, and means effective following the positioning of said elements for operating said transmitting means in accordance with their positions.

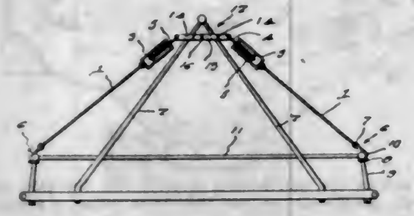
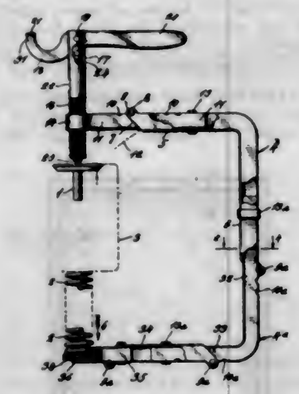
1,623,749. SUPPORT. OLIVER E. PELKEY, Springfield, Mass. Filed July 27, 1926. Serial No. 125,183. 3 Claims. (Cl. 58—56.)



3. A support for the purpose described comprising a plurality of layers of material forming a flexible member, a portion of the member serving as a base part, a second portion of such member constituting a front surface and having an opening therein, a member attached to the front surface to form a pocket behind the said opening for holding an article to be displayed, a strap secured to the base part and provided with a snap fastener, and a cooperating snap fastener extending through the pocket forming member and the front surface to hold these parts secured together.

,623,750. APPARATUS FOR SUPPLYING FUEL TO INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. SAMUEL J. PINGREE, St. Louis, Mo., assignor to Pingree Patents, Incorporated, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed Feb. 19, 1921. Serial No. 446,333. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—127.)



1. The combination of a carbureter having a plurality of carbureting chambers coextensive with each other and of different cross sectional areas, independently operable throttle valves arranged therein, means for admitting fuel to said carbureter, an intake manifold leading from said carbureter and having separate passages for said carbureting chambers, said passages extending the full length of said intake manifold and being proportioned to the desired velocity of the mixture passing therethrough, means for yieldingly bringing one of said valves into a closed position and positively opening the same, means for yieldingly moving the other one of said valves into an open position and positively closing the same, and operating means for both of said means for sequentially operating said valves.

1,623,751. STEERING-GEAR ATTACHMENT. AMIE G. PROULX, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Mar. 23, 1926. Serial No. 96,830. 1 Claim. (Cl. 280—94.)

An automobile steering gear attachment of the class described comprising a pair of hooks adapted to be detachably associated with the spindle arms and spindle connecting rods, a pair of rearwardly diverging rods pivotally connected with said hooks, frames to which the rear ends of said rods are connected, spring pressed bolts slidably mounted upon said frames, said bolts having hooks at their rear ends, a radius rod clamp with which the hooked ends of said bolts are detachably connected, said clamp comprising top and bottom plates associated with the radius rod, the plates being connected together by a single bolt and the opposite end portions of the top plates being formed with seats for reception of the upper portion of the radius rod.

1,623,752. VALVE LIFTER. EDWARD E. RAINEY, Denver, Colo. Filed Mar. 1, 1926. Serial No. 91,425. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—86.3.)

1. A valve spring compressor comprising a frame having two parts, each of which has two arms extending at right angles to each other, one of said parts having a channel along its outer surface, which is adapted to receive the other part, the ends of the channeled part, to which the other part is attached being cut diagonally so that the closed side is shorter than the open side, the tips of each of the end portions of said channeled parts being connected by a rivet, the other part having a width substantially equal to the depth of the channel and having its outer edge provided with notches adapted to be engaged by the rivet when the parts are in aligned position and from which the rivets become disengaged when the parts are moved angularly with respect to each other.

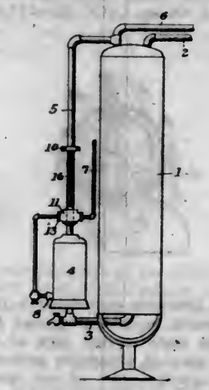
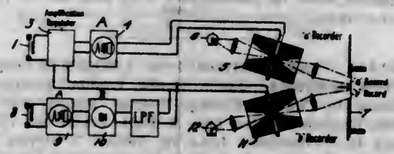
1,623,753. CHILD'S SLEEPING GARMENT. JAMES H. RAMBO, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to Minneapolis Knitting Works, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed Sept. 8, 1925. Serial No. 55,117. 4 Claims. (Cl. 2—83.)

1. A garment of the class described including legs, and a foot portion for each leg, each foot portion comprising an upper formed by the lower portion of the leg, a sole, and a stretchable counter extending forwardly to a point adjacent the toe, and stitched to upper and sole.



1,623,754. FOOD-PRESERVING JAR. HEINRICH RITTER, Esslingen, Germany, assignor to the Firm Dr. Finckh Apparate-Gesellschaft m. b. H., Stuttgart, Germany. Filed Oct. 20, 1923, Serial No. 669,759, and in Switzerland Aug. 21, 1922. 2 Claims. (Cl. 250—122.)



1. Preserving jar comprising a perforated cover, a stop cock in the perforation of said cover, an air filter on said cover above and in communication with said cock, and a stirring device removably inserted in said filter and extending through said cock into the jar.

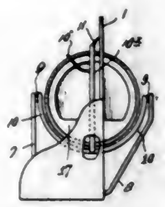
1,623,755. THERMOSTAT. GEORGE A. ROBERTSHAW, Greensburg, Pa. Filed Sept. 6, 1921. Serial No. 498,795. 11 Claims. (Cl. 236—103.)

1. A thermostatic system, comprising a heat-conducting expansible container constituting a required operating part of a standard heat exchange system, and a device secured as a unit to said container and comprising the combination of an adjustable relatively non-expansible element with a self-closing valve cooperating therewith, said valve being adapted to be operated by the contraction and expansion of the container, substantially as described.

1,623,756. RECORDING AND REPRODUCING OF SOUNDS. CHARLES F. SACIA, New York, N. Y., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 5, 1924. Serial No. 711,033. 25 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.1.)

1. The method of recording waves which comprises producing a record of the variations in the amplitude of the waves and producing another record of the structure of said waves modified as to amplitude.

1,623,757. MANUFACTURE OF CHROMIUM-IRON ALLOYS. BYRAMJI D. SAKLATWALLA, Crafton, Pa. Filed June 5, 1926. Serial No. 114,019. 4 Claims. (Cl. 75—45.)



1. The process of making low-carbon chrome steel, comprising forming a bath of molten steel having a metal layer in which is incorporated a reducing agent and a slag layer in which is incorporated chrome ore and an oxidizing agent having a reaction with the reducing agent which is more strongly exothermic than that of the chrome ore in an amount sufficient to render the reducing reaction self-propagating at the temperature of the molten bath.

1,623,758. HAIR-CURLING APPARATUS. PETER SANTURELLO, Columbus, Ohio. Filed May 7, 1926. Serial No. 107,489. 17 Claims. (Cl. 132—33.)

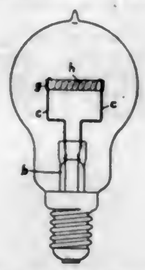
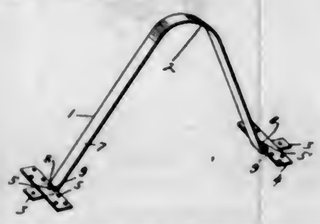
1,623,759. INCLINATION INDICATOR. LUTHER G. SHINN, Holdenville, Okla. Filed May 29, 1926. Serial No. 112,645. 1 Claim. (Cl. 33—215.)

An inclination indicator comprising a frame having a plate and an opening in said plate and also having an arcuate graduated scale on the face of the plate concentric with said opening, standards carried by the frame and disposed at opposite sides of and spaced from said plate, a ring swingable edgewise in a plane parallel to the plate and having arcuate arms terminating in trunnions journaled in said standards and also having a pointer arranged to cooperate with said arcuate scale, a second pointer carried by said ring, said pointer being in the form of a hair line connected at its ends to spaced points of the ring, and a wheel disposed in said ring and having trunnions journaled at opposite points therein and also having a proportionately heavy portion; the said wheel being disposed and movable at right angles to the ring and being provided at its periphery with a graduated scale for cooperation with said second pointer on the ring.



1,623,760. CARBURETOR FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. JACOB SIEBER, London, England, assignor to Charles Thomas Everist, Forest Hill, London, England. Filed June 2, 1924, Serial No. 717,434, and in Switzerland June 12, 1923. 7 Claims. (Cl. 261—18.)

1. A carburetor comprising in combination a mixing chamber, a rotary mixer located within said mixing chamber, an air inlet in said mixing chamber adapted to direct air onto said rotary mixer, a fuel inlet on said mixing chamber adapted to direct fuel unobstructedly onto said rotary mixer, a water inlet adapted to direct water unobstructedly onto said rotary mixer and a mixture outlet, said air, fuel and water inlets being adapted to direct air, fuel and water simultaneously onto said rotary mixer.



1,623,761. ELECTRIC LAMP. FRANZ SKAUPY, Berlin, Germany, assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 11, 1922, Serial No. 606,173, and in Germany Dec. 21, 1921. 3 Claims. (Cl. 176—16.)

1. In an electric glow lamp, in combination, a support, a heating element and a light emitting element on said support, said heating element adapted to be heated to incandescence by current from a suitable source whereby the support may be heated, said support serving in turn as a heating element for the light emitting element to cause the latter to glow, said support being transparent and having a macrocrystalline structure.

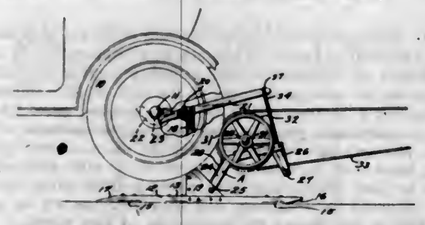
1,623,762. HOLD-DOWN DEVICE. HARRY S. STERNBERGH, Detroit, Mich., assignor to W. W. Blakely, Detroit, Mich. Filed Dec. 7, 1925. Serial No. 73,789. 3 Claims. (Cl. 188—32.)

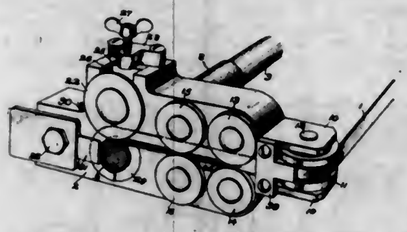
1. A device of the class described comprising a tie member having a leg portion, a substantially flat foot portion projecting from the lower end of said leg portion, and a substantially flat anchorage member crossing and welded to said foot portion adjacent to the junction of said foot and leg portions, the welded point being located at the inner edge of said anchorage member and at the inner end of said foot portion, and said anchorage member having lateral extensions projecting beyond opposite sides of said foot portions and provided with apertures for receiving securing elements.

1,623,763. THERMOGLUE VESSEL. ANGEL TOVALIN, Monterey, Mexico. Filed Apr. 22, 1926. Serial No. 103,672. 3 Claims. (Cl. 220—9.)



1. In a device of the class described, an outer container comprising an inwardly directed upper flange, said flange being provided with spaced openings, substantially vertical screw threaded rods journaled in said spaced openings comprising screw threaded lower portions, a support disposed in said container and screw threaded on the lower portions of said rods, knobs on the upper ends of said rods, above said container for rotating the former to adjustably position said support, and a removable container disposed in said outer container having side portions in engagement with the edge of said flange adapted to be raised and lowered by adjustment of said support.

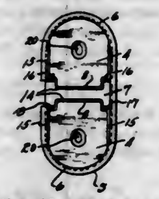
1,623,764. PROCESS FOR BRIQUETTING BITUMINOUS COAL. SRINIVAS RAM WAGEL, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 16, 1924. Serial No. 720,451. Renewed July 31, 1926. 10 Claims. (Cl. 44—16.)



1. In the manufacture of coal briquettes, the process which comprises mixing bituminous coal with clay and a binder of sulphite liquor, clay and asphalt; and in passing the mixture through regions of increasing temperature, with alternate cooling thereof.

1,623,765. POWER TAKE-OFF DEVICE. ALVAH H. WARREN, Jr., St. Paul, Minn. Filed Apr. 2, 1925. Serial No. 20,081. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—106.)

1. A power take off device comprising a main frame having automobile wheel receiving platforms, means for engaging and supporting the rear axle of an automobile in position with the wheels above the ground, a swinging frame pivoted to said main frame and having pulleys thereon for engagement with the wheels of the automobile and means for connecting said first means with the swinging frame whereby the weight of the auto will maintain said pulleys in contact with the wheels on the auto and rotation of said wheels will impart rotation to the pulleys on said swinging frame.



1,623,766. COIL FORMER. ALVA O. WAY, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 11, 1922. Serial No. 581,117. 5 Claims. (Cl. 153—64.5.)

1. A former for producing flanged edge-wound coils from metal ribbon comprising pairs of rolls for supporting and flanging the metal ribbon, and rolling contact means for guiding and staying the flanged ribbon on both sides during winding thereof.

1,623,767. DOOR BUFFER. CLIFFORD J. WILLIAMS, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Briggs Manufacturing Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Nov. 17, 1924. Serial No. 750,408. 1 Claim. (Cl. 16—86.)

In a door buffer, the combination with a pair of spaced buffer blocks, of a casing adapted to be stamped from a single sheet of metal having substantially parallel side walls and rounded end walls connecting into said side walls, wear plates positioned within said casing having the opposed faces thereof extending across end embracing the opposed faces of said blocks and having shoulders adjacent the sides of the casing, and arms projecting from said wear plates beyond the shoulders embracing the sides of said blocks, an elongated cover plate secured to the casing, and headed elements extending through the cover plate, buffer blocks and casing for securing said parts to a support as a unit.

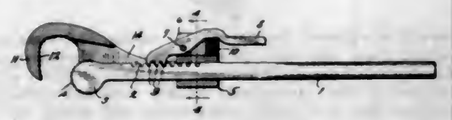
1,623,768. FISHERMAN'S HAT. JOHN I. WILLIAMS, Dubois, Pa. Filed Mar. 8, 1926. Serial No. 93,288. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—185.)

A fisherman's hat comprising in combination a hat body, a series of spaced, substantially parallel flexible members each having spaced portions thereof extending through said body, spaced portions thereof arranged against one face of said body and spaced portions thereof extended from the other face of said body to form loops, the loops of one member arranged in alinement with the loops of an adjacent member to provide a series of spaced sets of spaced, parallel loops, each set providing means for detachably connecting a fly or leader to the hat body, and means at the ends of each of said members for securing the member to the hat body.



1,623,769. TELEPHONE-EXCHANGE SYSTEM. SAMUEL B. WILLIAMS, Brooklyn, N. Y., and EARL S. GIBSON, Ridgewood, N. J., assignors to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 29, 1924. Serial No. 702,732. 34 Claims. (Cl. 179—6.3.)

1. In a telephone exchange system, calling subscribers' lines equipped with charging mechanisms, other calling subscribers' lines not equipped with charging mechanism, means for extending a connection from any of said calling lines to a called line, controlling means commonly available to any of said calling lines normally arranged for controlling the extension of said connection on a no charge operating basis, and discriminating means associated with said charge lines for causing said controlling means to control the establishment of a connection on a charge operating basis when said controlling means is associated with one of said charge lines.

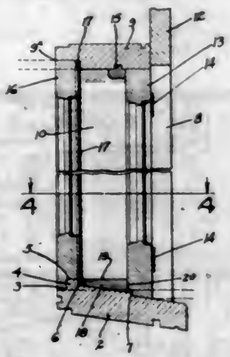
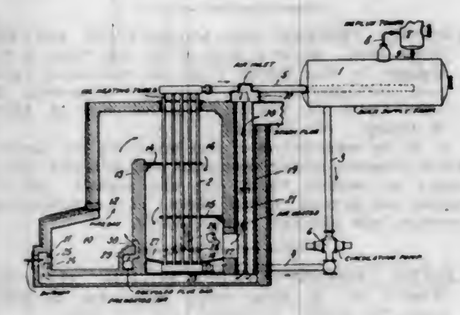
1,623,770. PIPE WRENCH. OSCAR H. ADAMS, Keokuk, Iowa. Filed Mar. 24, 1926. Serial No. 97,062. 1 Claim. (Cl. 81—106.)



In a device of the class described, a handle having a rack and provided at one end with an enlarged approximately cylindrical head, a rider mounted to reciprocate on the handle, a hook-shaped jaw cooperating with the head and provided with spaced arms between which the rider is located, means for pivotally connecting the arms with the sides of the rider, a latch mounted intermediate its ends on the rider and adapted to cooperate with the rack at a point between the arms of the jaw to hold the rider in adjusted positions, and spring means for maintaining the latch yieldably engaged with the rack.

1,623,771. METHOD OF PAINTING ON VELVET OR OTHER CUT PILE FABRIC. ROBERT ALEXANDER, Oakland, Calif. Filed May 20, 1925. Serial No. 31,694. 2 Claims. (Cl. 41—26.)



1. The method of applying color effects of varying hues to cut pile fabric of the character described which consists in brushing paint into the material in the direction of the lay of the pile and against the lay of the pile in separate steps.

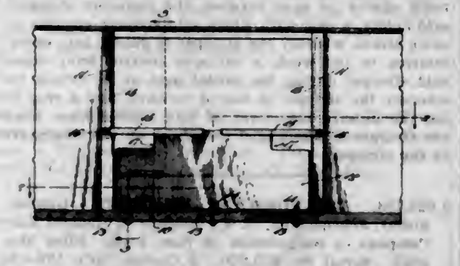
1,623,772. CASEMENT SASH FRAME. FRED C. ANDERSEN and ERNEST C. MADSON, Bayport, and GEORGE A. CHAPMAN, Minneapolis, Minn., assignors to Andersen Lumber Company, Bayport, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed Dec. 26, 1925. Serial No. 77,780. 10 Claims. (Cl. 20—53.)

1. A sash frame comprising a sill and side and head jambs, the inner and outer portion of said sill and jambs being adapted respectively for mounting an inswinging or outswinging casement sash of substantially the same dimensions therein.

1,623,773. OIL STILL. JOHN E. BELL, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Sinclair Refining Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Aug. 10, 1923. Serial No. 656,671. 17 Claims. (Cl. 196—116.)

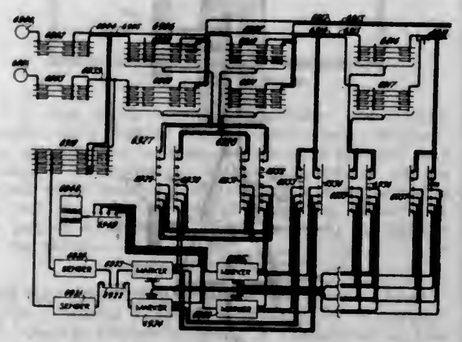
1. The improvement in the heating of oil cracking stills in which oil is heated to the cracking temperature by hot products of combustion from a firebox passing externally over the oil heating surfaces of the still, which comprises admixing a portion of the hot waste heating gases which have previously passed over the heating surfaces with the products of combustion from the firebox before passing them over the heating surfaces of the still, preheating air by heat interchange with waste heating gases not to be returned as a diluent, and supplying the air so preheated to the firebox for combustion of fuel therein.

1,623,774. HOLDING DEVICE FOR WILD ANIMALS. PAUL BELL, Mexico City, Mexico. Filed June 24, 1926. Serial No. 118,205. 2 Claims. (Cl. 119—153.)



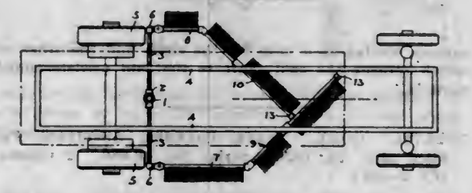
1. In a device of the class described, a jointed rod, means to secure the members thereof in straight and rigid alignment, a looped cable secured to one end of the said rod and passing through suitable guides thereon and having a perforated metallic strap affixed in elongation of the said cable and passing through the channel of a retracting element, where it is engaged by the teeth of a sprocket wheel which is mounted within the said element and is provided with a ratchet and pawl check mechanism for the control thereof.

1,623,775. LUBRICATING DEVICE. FREDERICK C. BLANCHARD, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 14, 1921. Serial No. 461,219. 30 Claims. (Cl. 221—47.4.)



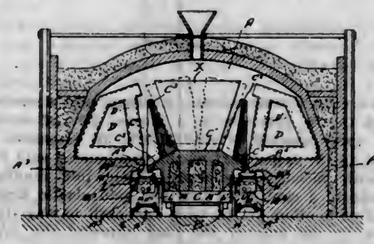
2. Lubricating apparatus comprising a lubricant receptacle, a handle presenting a reservoir, and means operated by rectilinear movement of said reservoir relatively to said receptacle, first to open said receptacle and subsequently to cause the introduction of lubricant thereinto.

1,623,776. INSIDE-DOOR PROTECTOR AND GANG BOARD. CHARLES E. CANNADAY, Washington, D. C. Filed Sept. 15, 1923. Serial No. 662,874. 2 Claims. (Cl. 20—21.)



1. The combination with spaced door posts and a plate hinged to stand substantially vertically between the posts, said plate having its upper corners cut out of a latching means for the plate comprising channels pivoted to the posts to swing toward each other to span the cut out spaces and engage over and embrace the upper edge of the plate.

1,623,777. TELEPHONE-EXCHANGE SYSTEM. WARREN WESLEY CARPENTER, Queens, N. Y., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 14, 1925. Serial No. 43,476. 32 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)

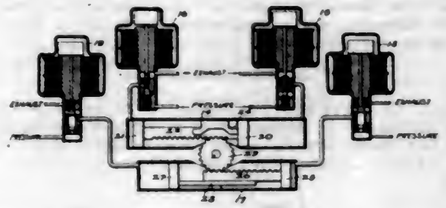


1. The combination in a telephone system of a selective switch, a controlling mechanism, a plurality of connectors for successively connecting said mechanism to and disconnecting the same from said switch to selectively operate the switch to extend a connection, means for using a particular one of said connectors whenever the mechanism is connected to said switch the first time for extending a connection, and means effective whenever the mechanism is to be connected to said switch a second time during the extension of the same connection to use a different one of said connectors.

1,623,778. STREET FLUSHER. WILLIAM H. COOKE, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Convertible Wagon-Trailers Inc., Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Mar. 6, 1925. Serial No. 13,553. 3 Claims. (Cl. 299—36.)

1. In a street flusher, the combination with a water tank mounted on a conveyance and having a water outlet, of perforated pipes connected with said outlet horizontally disposed and arranged in angular relation the one to the other and with their outer ends overlapping and extending beyond the centre line of travel of said conveyance.

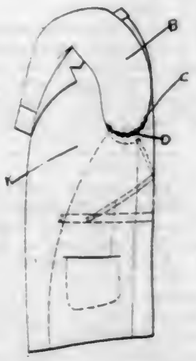
1,623,779. KILN FOR GLASS MELTING AND LIKE PURPOSES. GEORGE E. CRAWFORD, Trenton, N. J., assignor to American Dressler Tunnel Kilns, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 19, 1923. Serial No. 669,565. 8 Claims. (Cl. 49—59.)



1. In a kiln comprising an elongated kiln chamber and a movable hearth separated from a portion of the kiln structure at one side of the hearth by a clearance space, the improvements which consist in a conveyor beneath and running longitudinally of said space and adapted to receive material passing downwardly through said space.

4. In a tunnel kiln comprising an elongated kiln chamber and a movable hearth separated from a portion of the kiln structure at the side of the hearth by a clearance space, the improvement which consists in mechanism comprising movable material engaging parts located in the kiln chamber below said space for collecting and removing material passing downwardly through said space.

1,623,780. FLUID-PRESSURE-OPERATED DEVICE. CLARENCE T. CROCKER, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 17, 1921. Serial No. 515,996. 9 Claims. (Cl. 121—38.)



7. The combination with a controller having a shaft, of a pneumatic motor having a piston directly connected to the said shaft for operating the same each way from a predetermined position to other definite positions, and a second pneumatic motor having a plurality of pistons operatively connected to the said shaft, one of said pistons serving as a stop for the shaft and the other of which returns the said shaft to the said predetermined position.

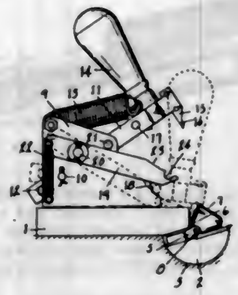
1,623,781. COAT. FRANK DALKNER, Allentown, Pa. Filed Mar. 23, 1926. Serial No. 96,686. 2 Claims. (Cl. 2—93.)

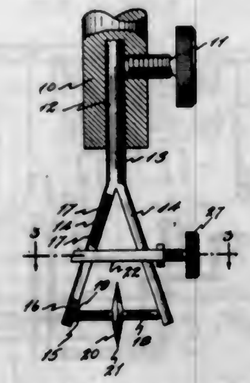


1. In a coat, a body portion, a sleeve, said sleeve being attached to the arm-hole by a normal line of stitching on the upper portion of said sleeve, an extensible fold attached to the lower part of the arm-hole of said sleeve and elastic members attached to said fold tending to keep same in a contracted position, said elastic members crossing each other at the back and each having its end attached to the side of the coat opposite the fold to which its other end is attached.

1,623,782. GOLF TEE. LEONARD MAURICE EDWARD DENT and ALECK MACKENZIE, London, and JOHN WHITE, Sunningdale, England. Filed Sept. 9, 1924, Serial No. 736,697, and in Great Britain Aug. 21, 1924. 7 Claims. (Cl. 273—33.)

1. An aluminum golf tee comprising a cup-shaped head to receive the ball, a stem sharpened to a point to be pressed into the ground and a barb upon said stem, for the purpose specified.

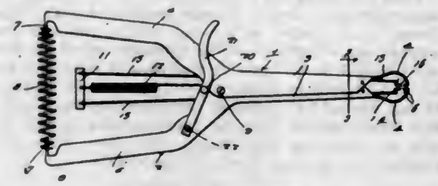
1,623,783. FASTENER-SETTING MACHINE. JAMES K. DIAMOND, Grand Rapids, Mich., assignor to Clipper Belt Lacer Company, Grand Rapids, Mich. Filed Dec. 1, 1926. Serial No. 152,009. 11 Claims. (Cl. 1—49.4.)



6. In a structure of the class described, the combination of coacting jaws, a fastener holder adapted to receive a plurality of fasteners operatively associated with said jaws, a stripper supported for reciprocating and swinging movement and provided with notched work engaging teeth spaced to pass between the fasteners mounted in said holder, a cam with which said stripper engages on its down stroke whereby the stripper is guided into operative relation to the work, a stripper control lever engaging said stripper during the initial part of its return stroke whereby the stripper is moved forward, and a stop limiting the upward movement of said control lever whereby the stripper is disengaged therefrom on the return stroke of the stripper.

1,623,784. INCANDESCENT FILAMENT. GORTON R. FONDA, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed May 1, 1923. Serial No. 635,970. 5 Claims. (Cl. 176—132.)

1. A composition consisting of tungsten in preponderating amount and containing fractional percentages of thorium and copper.



1,623,785. SOUND-REPRODUCER MOUNTING. GEORGE A. GILLEN, Jersey City, N. J., assignor to Gillen Laboratories Corporation, Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 18, 1926. Serial No. 136,938. 7 Claims. (Cl. 274—38.)

7. As a new article of manufacture, a stylus for sound reproduction comprising a shank adapted to fit the stylus arm of a sound reproducer, divergent arms formed at one end of the shank, a shaft rotatable adjacent the free ends of the arms, a stylus disc mounted on the shaft, the arms being provided at spaced intervals with horizontally aligning recesses, a yoke, a boss carried by the yoke and adapted to enter certain of the recesses, and a screw carried by the yoke for entrance into the recess opposite the boss.

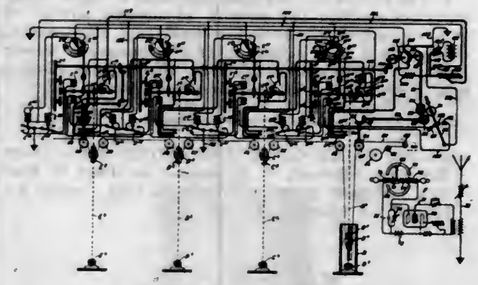
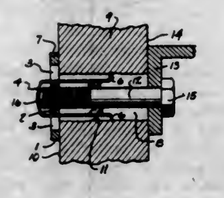
1,623,786. AUTOMOTIVE TOOL. HENRY A. GIRARD, Hartford, Conn. Filed May 17, 1926. Serial No. 109,665. 4 Claims. (Cl. 29—86.2.)

1. In a tool of the class described, a pair of pivotally connected handles provided with arms having jaws formed at their outer ends, a plunger-like device including gripping elements associated with said jaws, and a pivotally mounted operating lever connected with said plunger like device for moving it in one direction.



1,623,787. ELECTRIC SWITCH. JOHN D. HILLIARD, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 17, 1922. Serial No. 601,636. 2 Claims. (Cl. 200—150.)

1. A fluid switch comprising stationary and movable contacts, and a bridging member interconnecting said movable contacts, said bridging member being provided with insulation to localize at the switch contacts an arc formed by the opening of the switch and being formed to intensify the magnetic field at the switch contacts for the purpose of disrupting an arc formed by the opening of the switch.



1,623,788. PHOTOGRAPHIC-DEVELOPING APPARATUS. CHARLES A. HOXIE, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 29, 1920. Serial No. 420,491. 12 Claims. (Cl. 95—94.)

1. The combination of a compartment within which a sheet is to be treated, means for feeding a sheet therethrough at a constant rate, said means comprising a pulley located within the compartment and means operable by the feeding means for adjusting the position of said pulley to vary the length of path of said sheet through the compartment.

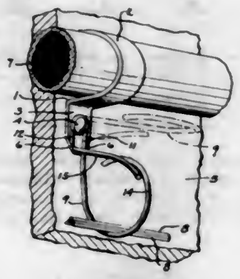
1,623,789. TOGGLE AND METHOD. WILLIAM A. HUBENER, New York, N. Y., assignor to Diamond Expansion Bolt Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 10, 1925. Serial No. 8,181. 9 Claims. (Cl. 85—3.)

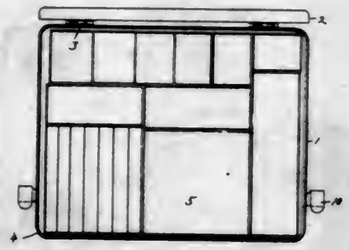
3. A new article of manufacture comprising a toggle head nut provided with spring arms substantially at right angles to the toggle head nut and arranged to hold the toggle head nut adjacent to an inaccessible surface of a support and in position to be engaged by a bolt.

1,623,790. CONDENSATION OF HYDROCARBONS. EDWARD W. ISOM, Winnetka, Ill., and JOHN E. BELL, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Sinclair Refining Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Sept. 10, 1923. Serial No. 661,750. 7 Claims. (Cl. 196—93.)



2. The improvement in the condensation of hot hydrocarbon vapors which comprises injecting the hot vapors into a body of liquid condensate thereof, cooling said body of condensate and maintaining circulation of the cooled condensate by the injection of the vapors.

1,623,791. METHOD OF RENOVATING CLOTHING. KALIL KARA-JOSEPH, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Apr. 26, 1926. Serial No. 104,844. 6 Claims. (Cl. 8—8.)

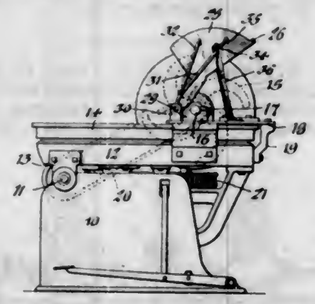


1. The method or process of renovating clothing, which comprises washing the same in an aqueous solution of soap to remove stains and dirt, dipping such washed clothing in a bath consisting of a hydrocarbon solvent to remove grease spots, and finally treating such clothing with a non-aqueous solution containing lanolin.

1,623,792. CABLE CLAMP AND BRIDLE RING. JOHN KARITZKY, Garwood, N. J., assignor to Henry B. Newhall, Plainfield, N. J. Filed Oct. 1, 1924. Serial No. 740,963. 2 Claims. (Cl. 248—36.)

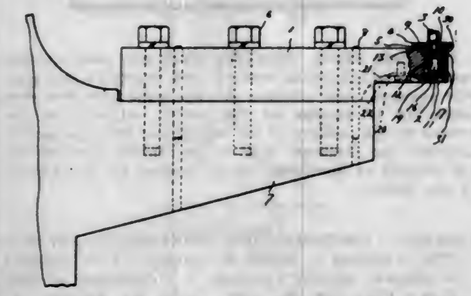
2. The combination of a conduit or cable clamp having a hook and a heel or base portion provided with an opening for a securing member and with two spaced ears located at the end of the heel or base removed from the hook and extending substantially vertically, one of the ears adapted to assist in supporting a vertically mounted bridle ring, and a wire bridle ring having two spaced arms forming an open shank to fit beneath a securing member, the shank extending towards and in line with the hook, one of the arms being bent to form a shoulder to rest on one of the ears to assist in transmitting the strains from the bridle ring to the cable clamp, both ears preventing accidental swinging or swaying of the bridle ring on the cable clamp, and a securing member to cooperate with the cable clamp and bridle ring.

1,623,793. DENTAL CASE. ROBERT M. KERR, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Detroit Dental Manufacturing Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Apr. 21, 1924. Serial No. 708,050. 6 Claims. (Cl. 206—16.)



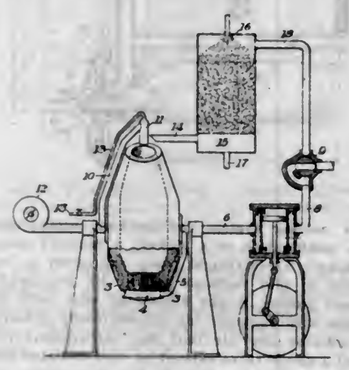
1. An instrument case comprising a body section, a cover section having a wall connected to the body section, separately removable trays in the body section for holding the instruments, and a pad secured to the cover section, said pad being saturated with a germicidal solution for sterilizing the instruments in the trays.

1,623,794. RUNNING-BOARD LUGGAGE CARRIER FOR VEHICLES. WILFRIED KLAMROTH, New York, N. Y. Filed July 25, 1923. Serial No. 653,625. 4 Claims. (Cl. 280—164.)



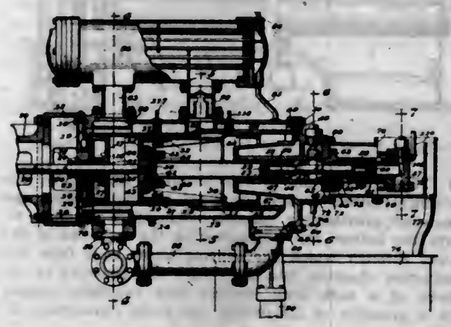
1. In a vehicle, a frame, front and rear fenders carried thereby, a frame member secured to the vehicle frame, wings hinged to the end portions of said frame member and adapted to swing upwardly therefrom and a cover hinged to the outer or free edge of the frame member and adapted to swing upwardly therefrom, said cover having flanges for enclosing the inner edge and ends of said frame member, and the frame member having channels for receiving said flanges, the cover when closed forming the running board of the vehicle.

1,623,795. ATTACHMENT FOR MEAT-CUTTING MACHINES. EUGENE W. KNOWLTON, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to John E. Smith's Sons Co., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 29, 1925. Serial No. 5,493. 5 Claims. (Cl. 146—67.)



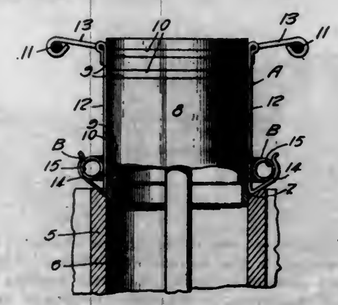
1. In a meat cutting machine, the combination of a rotary bowl, a support for the bowl tiltable from a horizontal to a substantially upright position to dump the bowl-contents, a scraper movable into and out of the bowl, and means for driving the bowl in its tilted position.

1,623,796. FIXTURE FOR RIVETING MACHINES. WALTER J. LEHMAN, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Briggs Manufacturing Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Apr. 27, 1925. Serial No. 26,221. 6 Claims. (Cl. 218—1.)



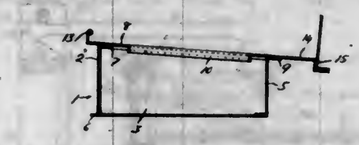
1. In a device of the class described, the combination with a piston having a projection for engagement with a rivet, of a block having a bore receiving the piston, a passage for supplying air under pressure to the bore to actuate the piston, and a radial passage, a bushing within said bore surrounding said piston and having a head constituting an anvil provided with an aperture for receiving the projection of the piston, said bushing also having a radial passage registering with the radial passage aforesaid for discharging air laterally so that it will not affect the rivet.

1,623,797. METHOD OF CONVERTING NICKEL-CONTAINING MATTE. OTTO LELLEP, Egypt, Pa., assignor to The International Nickel Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 22, 1926, Serial No. 96,443, and in Canada July 7, 1926. 7 Claims. (Cl. 75—66.)



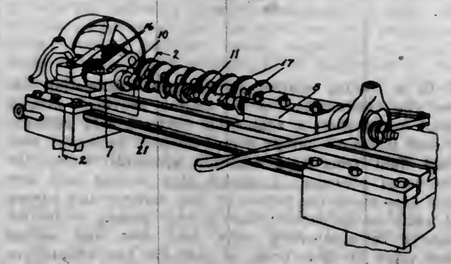
1. In the converting of nickel-containing matte, the steps consisting of forcing oxygen-containing gases through the molten matte and reducing the content of free oxygen in the blast during the later stage of blowing.

1,623,798. MULTISTAGE FLUID COMPRESSOR. ALEXANDER W. LIMONT, Jr., Bridgeport, Conn., assignor to The Norwalk Company, South Norwalk, Conn., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 26, 1926. Serial No. 118,624. 22 Claims. (Cl. 230—32.)



1. In a multi-stage compressor, a cylinder having a stepped bore, a cylinder-head closing the small end, a first stage piston engaging the smaller bore and acting towards said cylinder-head, said first stage piston having a skirt entering the larger bore during the piston's stroke to form therewith an annular space, a second stage piston connected to the skirt of said first stage piston engaging the larger bore and acting towards the step between said bores, the annular space between the larger diameter second stage cylinder and the skirt of said smaller diameter first stage piston constituting the second stage compressing chamber.

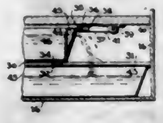
1,623,799. PISTON-RING TOOL. JOSEPH P. MCCARTHY, Utica, N. Y., assignor of one-third to William Cleveland and one-third to Peter Sawick, Utica, N. Y. Filed May 15, 1926. Serial No. 109,369. 7 Claims. (Cl. 29—86.4.)



2. In a piston ring tool, the combination of a sleeve formed by a ring, a plurality of links pivotally connected to said ring, a plurality of longitudinally extending sections respectively pivoted at their upper ends to said links, and expansible means surrounding the lower ends of said sections.

1,623,800. FRONT-SEAT SUPPORT. LAMONT A. MCDOWELL, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Hupp Motor Car Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed June 14, 1926. Serial No. 115,983. 4 Claims. (Cl. 155—194.)

1. A sheet metal seat structure comprising a base, a seat plate supported upon said base and having its rear portion overhanging said base exteriorly thereof and terminating in a stepped support spaced from the rear wall of said base, and a back having the lower edges thereof flanged to seat in said stepped support.



1,623,801. MILLING MACHINE. HERMAN W. MELLING, Jackson, Mich. Filed Sept. 28, 1923. Serial No. 665,348. 8 Claims. (Cl. 90—20.)

1. The combination in a machine for machining work having a portion concentric to the axis of the work and a portion non-concentric therewith, of work supporting and driving means, a cutter of non-circular contour complementary to the work to be machined, said cutter having a portion concentric with its axis and a portion non-concentric therewith, and having inserted teeth between its concentric and non-concentric portions, and means for driving said cutter and work in synchronism.

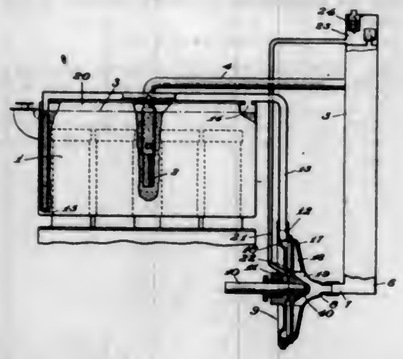
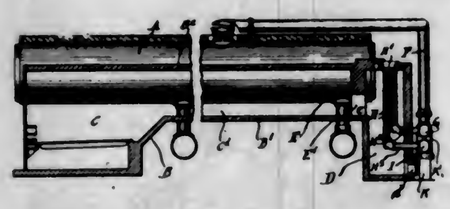
1,623,802. REFRIGERATOR. THEODORE S. MORTON, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Apr. 22, 1926. Serial No. 103,688. 4 Claims. (Cl. 137—21.)



4. A refrigerator comprising an ice chamber having a drain opening in the bottom wall thereof, a stationary receiver positioned below said drain opening to receive water therefrom, a removable receptacle disposed below said receiver, and means for controlling the flow of water from said receiver to said removable receptacle.

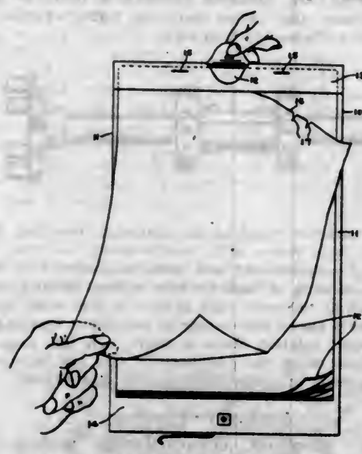
1,623,803. COOLING SYSTEM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. WELLINGTON W. MUIR, Lockport, N. Y. Filed Aug. 16, 1922, Serial No. 582,213. Renewed Nov. 12, 1924. 12 Claims. (Cl. 123—175.)



1. In a cooling system for internal combustion engines, the combination of an engine provided with a jacket; a radiator; a connection between said radiator and said jacket; a pump; a pipe adapted to convey condensed fluid from said radiator upwardly under the influence of pressure; a second pipe joining said first named pipe above the bottom of said radiator and joining said pump on its suction side; a vent leading to the atmosphere communicating with said first and second named pipes at their point of juncture and adapted to carry air out of the system; and a valved connection between the force side of said pump and said jacket, substantially as described.

1,623,804. COOLING SYSTEM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. WELLINGTON W. MUIR, Lockport, N. Y. Filed Dec. 9, 1922, Serial No. 606,013. Renewed Sept. 18, 1925. 11 Claims. (Cl. 123—174.)

3. In a cooling system for internal combustion engines, the combination of a jacket; a radiator connected to said jacket; a centrifugal pump connected at its central portion to said radiator and at its peripheral portion to said jacket; means associated with said central portion and said radiator for automatically drawing off to said radiator any air that may accumulate in said pump; and a check valve carried by said radiator adapted to permit said air to escape to the atmosphere and to prevent air from entering the system.



1,623,805. SUPERHEATER BOILER. JOSEPH JOHN NELIS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Power Specialty Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 29, 1925. Serial No. 5,420. 4 Claims. (Cl. 122—170.)

1. The combination with a plurality of side by side horizontal boilers with internal return flue passages and a housing providing a common combustion chamber beneath the boilers and a chamber at the rear end of the boilers through which the heating gases pass from the combustion chamber into the return flue passages of the boilers, of a baffle wall between said chambers formed with a plurality of distributed gas ports connecting the chambers.

1,623,806. TISSUE-PAPER PACKAGE. BERNARD A NIENHAUSER, St. Paul, Minn., assignor to Minnesota Wax Paper & Envelope Co., St. Paul, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed July 9, 1924. Serial No. 725,026. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—57.)

A package for individual sheets including a protecting back adapted to be rolled about said sheets, and having one edge turned over on said sheets, fastening means for holding together back, turned over edge and sheets, said turned over edge having a tab cut therefrom and connected to the back to rear of the fastening means whereby to provide a holding means.

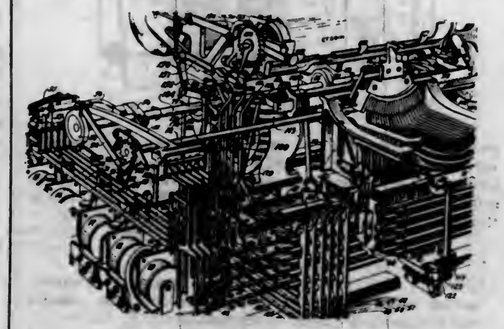
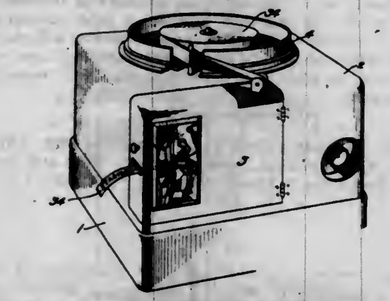
1,623,807. METHOD OF MAKING FLASH-LIGHT CASINGS. ERASTUS G. OAKLEY, Southport, Conn., assignor to Bridgeport Brass Company, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed Aug. 12, 1924. Serial No. 731,590. 18 Claims. (Cl. 153—70.)



1. The method of making a fluted casing which comprises drawing from a suitable blank a tubular shell having a reduced end portion and drawing said shell reduced end first through a fluted die to impress flutes upon the unreduced portion of the shell.

1,623,808. OUTTURNED-EDGE CAN CLOSURE. FRANK J. O'BRIEN, Baltimore, Md., assignor to Southern Can Company, Baltimore, Md., a Corporation of Maryland. Filed Feb. 12, 1923. Serial No. 618,663. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—46.)

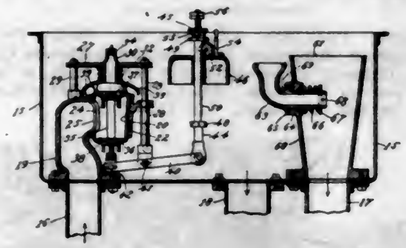


A can seam including a container having an annular indentation on the inside producing an exterior ridge forming a shoulder near the mouth of the container, an outturned stiffening rolled edge on the container, a gasket engaging said container between the rolled edge and the ridge, a cover frictionally engaging the container between said rolled edge and said indentation and extending beyond the wall of the container parallel to the plane of the mouth and then turned downward to form a channel, the outer wall of the channel being indented to compress the gasket against the can body and a stiffening rolled edge on said cover.

1,623,809. PRINTING TELEGRAPHS. HARRY PFANNENSTIEHL, Maplewood, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 21, 1920. Serial No. 397,903. 39 Claims. (Cl. 178—27.)

1. In a printing telegraph receiver, a plurality of selecting members capable of being moved simultaneously to either of two positions, and selecting mechanism for positively and simultaneously moving said members individually to either of the two positions to form various characteristic selecting combinations.

1,623,810. PRINTING TELEGRAPHY. HARRY PFANNENSTIEHL, Maplewood, N. J., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 24, 1922. Serial No. 531,337. 21 Claims. (Cl. 178—34.)



1. In combination, a type wheel having a solid rim with characters arranged on one side thereof, a plurality of rotatable selecting members arranged to occupy either of two positions, means for retaining said members in their actuated position, means responsive to selecting units to permit said members to be positioned in predetermined combination with respect to said retaining means, a source of power normally disconnected from said type wheel, and means controlled by said selecting members for connecting said source of power to the type wheel to position said type wheel in a printing position.

1,623,811. LIQUID-LEVEL REGULATING AND CONTROLLING APPARATUS. HENRY D. POWNALL, Canton, Ohio. Filed Oct. 10, 1924. Serial No. 742,949. 4 Claims. (Cl. 137—68.)

container, a valve casing connected to the exit end of said supply conduit, a chambered valve seated in said valve casing and manually operable to open and close a port from said supply conduit to the interior of said valve, a pair of connected valves operable to open and close ports from opposite ends of said manually operable valve to the interior of said liquid container, and a float located in said container and operatively connected to said connected valves to actuate said connected valves through changes in the liquid level in said container.

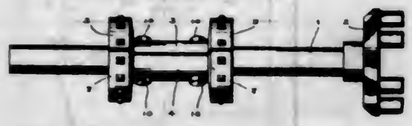
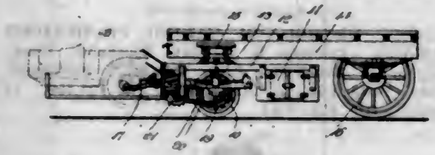
1,623,812. GAS SAFETY PLATE. HARRY F. PREFONTAINE, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 30, 1926. Serial No. 119,638. 1 Claim. (Cl. 126—42.)



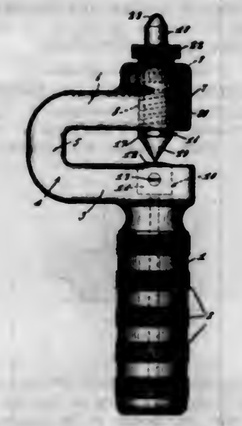
In an attachment for stoves, the combination of a support, a plate having integral pintles formed therein whereby the plate is hinged with respect to the support; said plate having a flat upper wall and an integral forwardly and downwardly extending front wall with apertures arranged therein to accommodate the gas keys of the stove when in partial or full open position, a latch pivotally secured on one end wall of the plate and having a hooked forward portion adapted to engage the main feed pipe of a stove when the plate is in a plane parallel with respect to the support.

1,623,813. COMBINATION FIXTURE SUPPORT AND BASE. DAVID SCHELL, Myerstown, Pa. Filed Oct. 14, 1924. Serial No. 743,580. 5 Claims. (Cl. 247—1.)



1. A device of the class described comprising a reversible plate, means for effecting securing of either side of the plate against a wall or ceiling, means for securing current conductors to the plate when the latter is mounted in either of its relatively reversed positions, said plate being apertured to receive the conductors, and means at one side of said plate for securing an electrical illuminating fixture thereto when said side is exposed, said plate having means to facilitate the attachment thereto of other electrical contrivances when the other side of said plate is exposed.

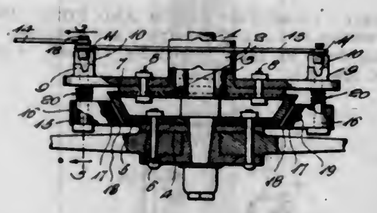
1,623,814. SPLIT SPROCKET. NELSON HOWELL SCOTT, La Fayette, Ga., assignor of one-half to L. B. Day, La Fayette, Ga. Filed July 16, 1926. Serial No. 122,939. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—31.)



A film sprocket wheel of the character described, comprising a hub sleeve split longitudinally to form two sections, a semi-circular web extending outwardly from each end of each of said sections, a semi-circular wheel rim formed at the outer edge of each of said webs, means whereby said sleeve halves may be secured in longitudinal edge opposed relation about a shaft, and film engaging studs formed upon the periphery of said rim halves for the engagement of a rim passing over said halves.

1,623,815. TRACTOR ATTACHMENT. BENJAMIN F. BROOKE SEWELL, Chula, Va. Filed Apr. 1, 1925. Serial No. 19,901. 3 Claims. (Cl. 180—14.)

1. A tractor attachment for motor vehicles, comprising a traction unit embodying a pair of wheels, a lever mounted upon said wheels as a fulcrum, the front of said lever supporting and raising the rear of an automotive vehicle from the ground, the rear of said lever supporting a counter-weight for lifting and supporting said vehicle, and means for transmitting power from the suspended vehicle to drive said traction unit.



1,623,816. SAW-CRACK PUNCH. JOHN R. SPENCER, Kingsford, Mich. Filed Nov. 6, 1925. Serial No. 67,404. 1 Claim. (Cl. 81—3.)

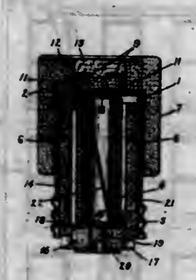
of, screw threads formed in the outer end of the bore of said head, a handle extending from the other leg of said member in alignment with said bored head, said handle having a longitudinally extending passage therethrough terminating in a recess, a punch comprising a head adapted to fit and move snugly in said bore and a shank carried by the head and extending beyond the outer end of the bore, a coiled spring surrounding said shank and bearing against the back of said head, a sleeve threaded into the bore and bearing at the inner end against said spring, an anvil positioned in said recess, and a securing element extended into the side of the recessed leg into said recess to engage said anvil.

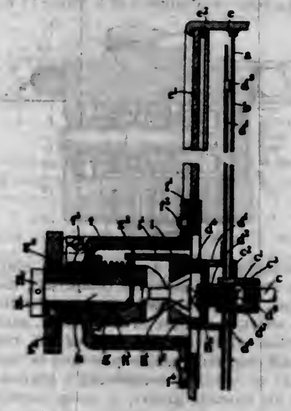
1,623,817. BRAKE. NILES P. SWARTZ, Dalton, Pa. Filed Oct. 16, 1924. Serial No. 744,067. 1 Claim. (Cl. 188—71.)

In brake mechanism, the combination of an axle having a casing and roller bearings as well as a wheel secured thereon, a cone-shaped plate secured on the hub of the wheel, an integral portion formed on the casing and providing a flange that rests on the cone-shaped plate, a bar secured to the flange; said bar adapted to extend around the axle, notched lugs formed on the bar, arms having noses adapted to seat in the notches of the lugs, bolts adapted to pass through the arms, a connector rod extending from the arms, a pull rod secured to one of the bolts and adapted to turn the arms, a brake plate adapted to exert pressure on the cone-shaped plate and having ears thereon, bolts adapted to pass through the ears and through the inner ends of the arms, linings arranged in the brake and springs surrounding the last named bolts and interposed between the ears of the brake and the ends of the first named bar.



1,623,818. ADJUSTABLE SEAT. AUGUST TICHOTA, Dodge, Nebr. Filed Oct. 8, 1926. Serial No. 140,320. 4 Claims. (Cl. 155—115.)

1. A seat including pivotally connected sections oppositely disposed, a cover plate upon the sections, means upon the plate and adjustably connected to the respective sections for holding said sections at predetermined distances apart, and means for clamping the plate and sections together.



1,623,819. FUSE PLUG. OTTO H. VAN AMBURG, Bridgeport, Conn., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 19, 1923. Serial No. 681,606. 3 Claims. (Cl. 200—128.)

1. A fuse plug comprising an insulated threaded side contact shell, a lower shell of insulation provided with a center contact and adapted to be telescopically assembled detachably within said side contact shell, a longitudinal bridge on said contact shell adapted to frictionally retain said lower shell therein, and a fusible element support adapted to be assembled detachably within said lower shell and to support the ends of the fusible element in engagement with said side contact shell and said center contact.

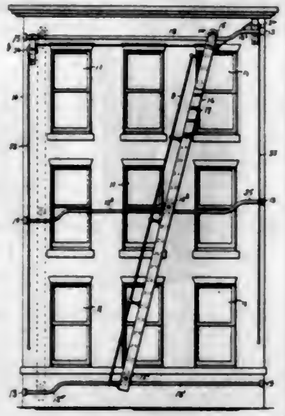
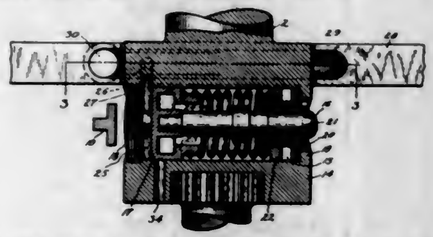
1,623,820. AUTOMATIC WEIGHING MACHINE. ROGER ROLLESTON WEST, Norwood, London, England. Filed Jan. 3, 1927, Serial No. 158,759, and in Great Britain July 28, 1925. 8 Claims. (Cl. 265—28.)



1. An automatic weighing machine adapted to indicate tare and net weights, comprising a stationary scale, a movable indicating member connected to the weighing mechanism and co-operating with the said stationary scale to give indications of the weight applied, a freely mounted indicating member also co-operating with the said stationary scale, means for maintaining the said freely mounted member in the zero position while the tare weight is being registered, and means for causing the said freely mounted member to be moved with the said movable member connected to the weighing mechanism to indicate the net weight, substantially as described.

1,623,821. FIRE ESCAPE. WILLIAM P. WESTFIELD, Park City, Utah. Filed Dec. 17, 1925. Serial No. 76,001. 2 Claims. (Cl. 228—52.)



1. In a fire escape, the combination with a plurality of horizontal supporting rails, of a set of steps having rollers attached thereto in engagement with the said rails, the said rollers being attached to the said steps at greater distances apart than the perpendicular distance between the said rails whereby the said steps are held inclined to the said rails, and one of the said rails having a raised horizontal end portion whereby the steps may be raised from engagement with the lower rail and suspended vertically.

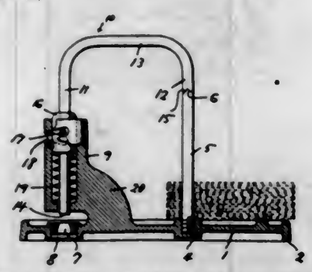
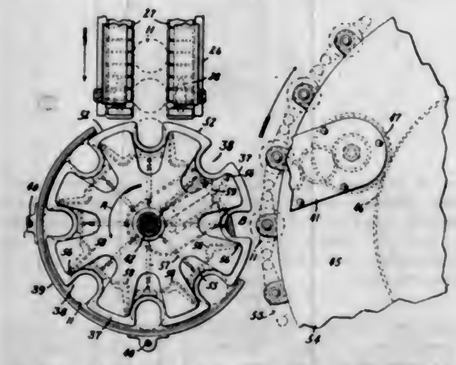
1,623,822. EMERGENCY GOVERNOR. JAMES WILKINSON, Lynnfield, Mass., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 5, 1925. Serial No. 60,368. 6 Claims. (Cl. 264—17.)



1. The combination with a shaft of an elastic fluid turbine, of an emergency governor comprising means carried by the shaft which provides a recess extending transversely of the shaft, a plunger in said recess, said plunger having a portion which fits the bore of the recess, and means for supplying fluid under pressure to said recess while the shaft is rotating, comprising a stationary wall which defines an annular groove, a scoop carried by the shaft which scoop moves in said groove as the shaft rotates, a conduit which connects the scoop to said recess, and means for supplying fluid to said groove.

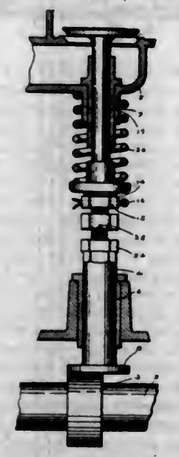
1,623,823. MANUALLY-CARRIED TRANSPORTING DEVICE FOR ELECTRICAL CONDUCTORS. HALTON A. BITTICK, Taylor, Tex. Filed July 11, 1925. Serial No. 43,051. 3 Claims. (Cl. 173—367.)



1. A manually carried transporting device for an electrical conductor comprising a revoluble shaft manually operated in one direction for winding an electrical conductor having its outer end anchored to a source of electrical supply, a pair of spaced disks fixed to said shaft and one provided with an opening adjacent the axis thereof, a lengthwise split, cylindrical supporting member for receiving the windings of the conductor, said member secured to the inner faces of said disks, surrounding and spaced from said shaft and having the edges of the split thereof spaced a substantial distance from each other to provide a passage for the inner end terminal portion of the electrical conductor wound on said member, a circuit closing means mounted in said opening and extending inwardly therefrom into said passage and adapted to have the inner end terminal portion of said conductor electrically connected thereto, and said means adapted to have its outer end electrically connected with a device to receive the current from the conductor when the latter is wound off of said member.

1,623,824. COMBINED PUNCH AND FILE. JOHN A. BONDESON and ALLAN F. HUNT, San Francisco, Calif. Filed June 10, 1926. Serial No. 114,996. 8 Claims. (Cl. 129—7.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a base, vertical guide pins arranged on the base forming a file for receiving apertured cards, a closure for the upper end of the pin to prevent the accidental displacement of the cards from said pins, said closure comprising a rod having one end adapted for engagement with the upper end of each pin, a mounting for said closures, the other end of each rod providing a punch for facilitating the formation of holes in the cards to be filed on said pins.



1,623,825. BULB-FEEDING APPARATUS. CARL A. BROWN, East Cleveland, and FRANK B. VAN SICKLE, Wickliffe, Ohio, assignors to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 24, 1925. Serial No. 18,044. 7 Claims. (Cl. 198—103.)

1. In an apparatus for feeding glass bulbs and similar articles which comprise a bowl portion and a neck portion, the combination of a conveyor comprising a slot of such width that the neck portion of said article may swing therethrough by gravity and allow the article to be suspended by the bowl portion, means for moving said conveyor, a substantially horizontally disposed rotary member mounted below the discharge end of said conveyor and comprising peripheral pockets adapted to receive said articles as they are discharged from said conveyor and means for continuously rotating said member.

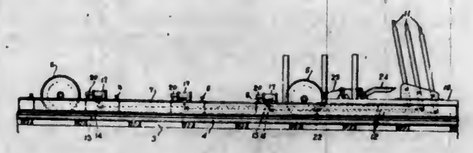
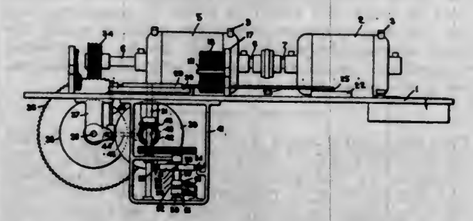
1,623,826. POPPET VALVE. JOSEPH F. BURLESON, Scottsdale, Ariz. Filed June 7, 1926. Serial No. 114,370. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—90.)



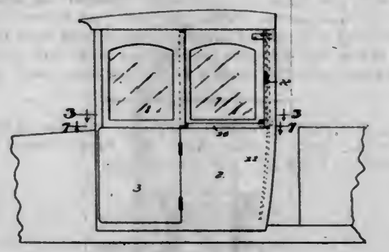
1. In a valvular means for internal combustion motors a spring controlled poppet valve having the lower portion of its stem of polygonal contour, and means for intermittently lifting the valve, said means provided with a polygonal shaped socket receiving said polygonal shaped end of the stem to provide for turning or movement of the valve on the lift thereof.

1,623,827. MILK BOX. CLAUD CALLISON, Loyal, Okla. Filed Sept. 6, 1924. Serial No. 736,312. 2 Claims. (Cl. 232—41.)



1. A device of the class described comprising a box, a closure therefor, a lock member connected with said closure, a lock bar slidably associated with the box, a latch on said bar, a keeper within the box having a slot in which said latch is movable, said latch being associated with said lock member, a tube extending from the keeper to the remote wall of the box to constitute a guide, and a key operable in said tube having a bit coacting with said latch.

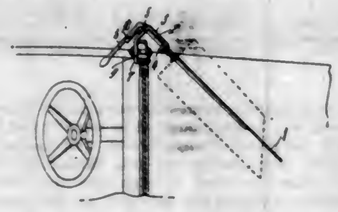
1,623,828. TRANSFER CAR. SHERWOOD M. CHASE, Columbus, Ohio, assignor to The Chase Foundry and Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 3, 1926. Serial No. 146,051. 6 Claims. (Cl. 104—48.)



3. In combination in a stop mechanism, a rail, a reciprocating stop member adapted to have its end projected over said rail transversely thereof, and means to positively guide and position the stop throughout its movement to insure its exact location over the rail in stopping position without the necessity of the operator adjusting its elevation.

1,623,829. ELECTRICAL APPARATUS COMPRISING A SLOW-WAVE GENERATOR. JOSEPH E. CLAPP, Auburndale, Mass. Filed Mar. 20, 1924. Serial No. 700,524. 17 Claims. (Cl. 171—252.)

1. A machine of the class described comprising means for supplying a basic electric current, a circuit for said electric current, means in said circuit for varying the voltage of the current in said circuit to create waves and means operable in synchronism with said wave-creating means for producing rest periods intermediate of predetermined waves created in said circuit.



1,623,830. VEHICLE CAB. CLAUDE J. CROPP, Detroit, Mich. Filed May 5, 1924. Serial No. 711,179. 2 Claims. (Cl. 296—45.)

1. A cab for vehicles comprising a side wall embodying a panel and a corresponding entrance door, an upstanding abutment flange on the panel, a foldable storm window consisting of hingedly connected elements, one being hingedly connected at the read corner of the cab and adapted to assume a position on one side of the abutment flange, the other element, when folded, adapted to assume a position on the opposite side of the abutment flange, and latch means carried by the cab for operative connection with the folding element, whereby the abutment flange prevents pivotal movement of the two elements toward the back of the cab.

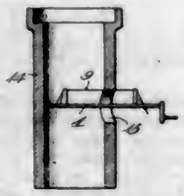
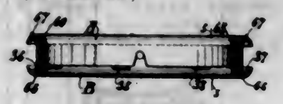
1,623,831. HEADLIGHT GLARESHIELD. THURMAN L. DAY, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed Apr. 29, 1925. Serial No. 26,723. 1 Claim. (Cl. 296—97.)



A device for the purpose indicated comprising a bracket for attachment to the windshield frame of an auto vehicle, a rod journaled in said bracket and provided with an angular extremity serving as an actuating handle to impart turning movement to said rod, and a shield extending in the direction of the length of the rod and secured to the latter at the longitudinal central line of the shield, the bracket being provided with a toothed sector with the teeth of which said actuating handle is engageable, and the rod being provided with a compression spring disposed between the shield and the bracket and tending to move the rod longitudinally to effect engagement between the sector teeth and the handle.

1,623,832. INDICATOR FOR FUEL SUPPLY TANKS AND THE LIKE. JOHN D. DURANT, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Schaap-Durant Control Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 3, 1924. Serial No. 753,603. 12 Claims. (Cl. 73—54.)



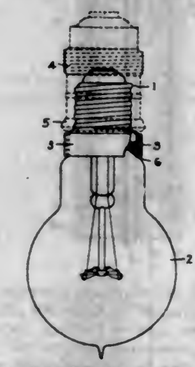
1. In apparatus of the character disclosed, a liquid containing tank, a pressure gauge, a conduit extending from said gauge into the liquid in the tank and in communication with the liquid at a pressure transmitting level in the tank and means within the tank for automatically maintaining a supply of pressure transmitting fluid in the tank below said pressure transmitting level and in communication with the conduit at a point above such level.

1,623,833. PIPE-CUTTING DEVICE. WALTER A. GEIS, Midvale, Ohio. Filed Aug. 20, 1926. Serial No. 130,537. 4 Claims. (Cl. 25—105.)

1. The combination of a shaft pointed at one end and having a handle at the opposite end, standards mounted on the shaft and secured thereto, a cutting edge formed in one of the standards and a wire anchored in the shaft and adapted to rest in the standards and means for taking up the slack of the wire between the standards.

1,623,834. DEMOUNTABLE INTERLOCKING RIM FOR VEHICLE TIRES. JOHN HENRY GILDERSLEEVE, Corona, N. Y. Filed Aug. 15, 1924. Serial No. 732,328. 1 Claim. (Cl. 301—35.)

In a demountable rim for a vehicle wheel the combination of an inner annular member having a continuous inner smooth face of a width to extend across the full width of the felly of the wheel, a flange at one side of said inner annular member, interlocking projections each approximately comprising a quadrant of the said inner member integral with and extending from the outer face of the member and forming recesses between them, each recess approximately constituting a quadrant in the outer face of said inner member, an outer annular member for the demountable rim, a flange at one side of said outer member, oppositely positioned to the flange of the inner member, said outer member having a smooth outer face extending from its flange, to the flange of the inner member when in operative position therewith, said outer member adapted to be coaxially superposed over the inner member and projections integral with and extending from the inner face of said outer member, the latter projections each approximately comprising a quadrant of the member and forming recesses on the inner face of said outer member, the projections of each of said members adapted to lock with the recesses of the other member.



1,623,835. SPRING ROLLER FOR BLINDS AND SCREENS. ANNIE GLENISTER, Epsom, England. Filed June 1, 1925, Serial No. 34,141, and in Great Britain Oct. 28, 1924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 156—36.)

1. A spring roller for blinds and screens comprising a roller having a recess at one end, a pin at the other end of said roller, a sleeve secured to the recessed end of said roller and forming an extension of said roller, a bearing plate fixedly secured inside said sleeve, a spindle revolubly mounted in said bearing plate and in the recessed end of said roller, a spring coiled around said spindle, one end of said spring being secured to the spindle whilst the other end thereof is secured to the bearing plate, pins passing through said spindle and being arranged on opposite sides of said bearing plate so as to prevent axial movement of said spindle, inwardly directed stops secured to said sleeve, a catch pivotally mounted on said spindle, said catch being adapted to pivot in a plane parallel to the longitudinal axis of said spindle, the cooperation between the catch and the stops being such that when the roller is moved from a horizontal into an inclined position the catch falls by gravity into engagement with one of the stops and remains in engagement therewith even after the roller has been returned to a horizontal position, but when the blind is slightly unwound the said catch falls by gravity into a position in which it is disengaged from the stop, a hook shaped extension formed at the free end of said spindle, and a slotted plate, the slot in said plate being adapted to receive the hook shaped extension, said slot being of such a size that the hook shaped extension can only be engaged and disengaged from the said slot when the roller is in an inclined position, thus ensuring the catch being brought into engagement with one of the said stops.

1,623,836. METAL CAP FOR ELECTRIC INCANDESCENT LAMPS AND ITS MANUFACTURE. LADISLAUS PETER GRÄNER, New York, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Original application filed Nov. 17, 1923. Serial No. 675,400, and in the Netherlands Jan. 1, 1923. Divided and this application filed Nov. 3, 1924. Serial No. 747,446. 3 Claims. (Cl. 176—37.)

1. The process of applying a metal ring to the outside cap terminal of an electric device having a sealed envelope which consists in coating the part of the cap over which the ring is to be applied with a layer of an insulating medium, heating the ring and pressing it in place over the layer of insulation.

1,623,837. MOVABLE-SIGN EXHIBITOR. ALPHONSO J. GUTIERREZ, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 25, 1925. Serial No. 25,829. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—42.)
